PREFACE.

It is with feelings of much satisfaction and thankfulness that I now present to its Subscribers and the public the Second Volume of THE GENEALOGIST.

The mass of original matter which I have been the means of laying before them, matter rather for reference than reading, but no less valuable on that account, is due to the indulgent support and consideration which throughout the past year I have received from many of our most industrious and able genealogists. I can only, in expressing my thanks to those who have aided me in bringing out the Second Volume, assure them that no effort on my part will be wanting to render the third, and I hope subsequent Volumes, as good and better than the first and second.

NOTES RELATING TO THE FAMILY OF TYNDALE, OF
STINCHCOMBE AND NIBLEY, IN GLOUCESTERSHIRE.
THE RESULT OF AN ATTEMPT TO DISCOVER THE PARENTAGE OF WILLIAM TYNDALE alias HUCHYNS
THE MARTYR.

BY B. W. GREENFIELD, BARR. AT LAW.

PREFATORY NOTICE.

PRIOR to the seventeenth century there flourished, at various periods, several distinct families bearing the name of Tyndale, or Tindale, unconnected with each other, so far as historical evidence can shew.

1st. The family of Tindale, feudal Barons of Langley, in the Chapelry of Haydon and parish of Warden. This was one of the lesser Baronies of Northumberland, in which the Tindale family was enfeoffed by Hen. II. This family ended in a female, Philippa de Tindale, who conveyed the Barony of Langley, temp. Hen. III., to her husband Nicholas de Bolteby. His grand-daughter and coheir, Isabella de Bolteby, carried it temp. Edw. I. to her husband Thomas de Multon, who—being heir, by his mother, to the Barony of Cockermouth—took her family name of de Lucy. The de Lucys, temp. Edw. III. and Ric. II., carried it by an heir female to the Percys.

2nd. The family of Tyndale of Corbrigg, and Dyvelston alias Dilston, temp. Hen. III. and Edw. I., which ended in females temp. Ric. II. On their decease without issue the Barony of Dilston passed in 1416, by right of succession, to their kinsman, Sir William Claxton, Kt. The Claxtons ended in a female, who carried Dilston to the Cartingtons, temp. Hen. VI. The heiress of Cartington carried Dilston, temp. Hen. VII., to Sir Edward Radclyffe, and so to his lineal descendant the Earl of Derwentwater and Baron Tyndale, who was attainted and beheaded in February 1715-6.

3rd. The family of Tyndale, of Burgham, in Westmoreland, temp. Edw. III. which ended in an heiress, Joan de Tyndale.

2 NOTES RELATING TO THE FAMILY OF TYNDALE.

She married John Tessedale, of Walton, in Tyndale, and in 16 Hen. VI. Burgham passed with her daughter and coheir, Joan Tessedale, in marriage, to Henry Bird.

4th. The family of Tyndall, of Brotherton, in Yorkshire, which flourished through two centuries, and ended in Bradwardine Tyndall, in 1686, whose only surviving daughter and heiress, Lucy Tyndall, was grandmother of the renowned General James Wolfe.

5th. The family which flourished through more than four centuries, first at Dene and Tansover, in Northamptonshire, from 16 Edw. I. 1288 to 2 Hen. VII. 1487; then at Hockwold, in Norfolk, for the period of a hundred years; and lastly at Great Maplestead, Essex, and ended in an heiress, Elizabeth Tyndale, who married Jasper Blythman, of the Middle Temple.

6th. The family of Tyndale alias Huchyns, found in Gloucestershire in the time of King Edw. IV., which subsequently divided itself into the several branches settled at Stinchcombe, Nibley, and Thornbury in that county. From the latter—before its settlement at Thornbury—sprang the Martyr, as will be shewn below. An account of this branch down to its present representative, John Warre Tyndale, Esq. of Perridge House, near Shepton Mallet, is given in Burke's 'Landed Gentry.' The Nibley branch is now extinct. That of Stinchcombe is at present represented by Henry Witton Tyndall, Esq. of Birmingham.

WILLIAM TYNDALE alias HUCHYNS, THE MARTYR.

The assertion of modern writers that the Martyr's family was derived from an ancient Baronial family of the same name in Northumberland, takes its origin from—and has no better authority than—a vague observation in the 'Life of Tyndale,' printed in the sixth volume of the 'Biographia Britannica,' 1763, viz.: "in what county" he was born "is not mentioned; but the family seems to have sprung from Robert Tyndale," etc.; and for this conjecture 'Mr. Jekyll's Genealogies MS.' are referred to in the margin. In the reigns of James and Charles I., Thomas Jekyll, as Secondary of the Court of King's Bench, and one of the Clerks of the Papers, made use of the uncommon opportunities he possessed of examining and making copious extracts from what are now termed the Public Records, and more especially with reference to his native county, Essex. We learn from Morant, the Historian of that county in 1768, that the most valuable of Mr. Jekyll's Collections were copies of the Inquisitiones post mortem from Hen. III. to 14 Car. I.; pedigrees of the Gentry of Essex in four volumes, and abstracts of Letters Patent from

1 Rie. III. to 15 Jae. I.; and that these three most valuable articles were, in 1769, at Colchester, in either Mr. Morant's, or Mr. Holman's, hands. In Mr. Jekyll's time the family of Tyndall—formerly seated in Northamptonshire, and afterwards in Norfolk—was settled in Essex, and was then represented by Sir John Tyndall, Kt., a Master in Chancery, and his son Deane Tyndall. The pedigree of this family is recorded in the Heralds' Visitations of Norfolk in 1563, and Essex in 1634. Whatever materials the Jekyll papers afford respecting this family, they were known to and made use of by Morant, in his account of it under 'New Chelmsloo House,' in Great Maplestead. Neither Morant, nor Blomefield in his 'History of Norfolk,' nor Bridges in his 'History of Northamptonshire'—each of whom gives an account and pedigree of this family—makes any allusion to the Gloucestershire family. All the sources of information to which, by favour of his position, Mr. Jekyll had access, are now open to the public. The Records of the Courts of King's Bench and Common Pleas, including the Pedes Finium; the Decrees, Bills, and Proceedings in Chancery; the Rolls of Fines; the Patent and Close Rolls; the Records in Exchequer and the dissolved Courts of Augmentations and Star Chamber; the ancient Wills registered in London and in local Courts of Probate, and the Heralds' Visitations, have been searched and examined in vain to discover a connection between the families, or to trace the Gloucestershire stock higher than the reign of King Edw. IV. The only authorities for tracing a connection between the Gloucestershire and Norfolk Tyndalls are Robert Dale, Richmond Herald temp. William III. and the late Francis Townsend. This has been already noticed in Burke's 'Dictionary of the Landed Gentry, 1847,' article, TYNDALE OF HAYLING. But what these two heralds state upon this point remains entirely without corroboration, saving the fact that Thomas Tyndale of Eastwood Park, in Thornbury (2nd of the name) in the reigns of Elizabeth and James I., sealed with the same arms as Sir John Tyndall, of Great Maplestead, viz.: quarterly, 1 Deene, 2 Felbrigge, 3 Scales, 4 Moundford; of which seal two impressions are extant: one, in the Lansdown Collection in the British Museum, attached to a letter, dated 10 Feb. 1602-3, from this Thomas Tyndale to his cousin Michael Hiekes, formerly private secretary to Lord Burghley; the other, in the possession of Mr. Tyndale of Perridge, attached to a deed, dated 9 March, 13 Jac. I. (1616), of surrender of lease of a tenement and lands within the demesne of Eastwood Park, from Thomas Baylie to this Thomas Tyndale. This use, however, was not recognized by the authorities; for, according to the Funeral Certificates registered in Heralds' College, the banners served by the College at the funerals of this Thomas Tyndale in 1619, and of Thomas Tyndale, his father, in 1571, bore their shield of arms marshalled thus, viz: Argent, on a fess Gules, between the three garbs Sable, a martlet Or.

From an observation of Bishop Stokesley we gain the information that the Martyr was brother of Edward Tyndale, the Receiver of the Lordship of Berkeley. John Stokesley was consecrated Bishop of London 27 November 1530, and died 8 September 1539. Sir Robert Atkyns states that he became, in 1509, Rector of Slimbridge: a parish adjoining to those of Berkeley and Stinchcombe. We may reasonably assume, therefore, that Stokesley's knowledge of the Martyr's family and connections was derived from local sources, and not merely from common report.

The Bishop was desirous of obtaining from the Crown a grant of a farm in Gloucestershire for one of his servants. In the Public Record Office two of his letters upon this subject are preserved among the 'Miscellaneous Letters, temp. Hen. VIII.' (formerly in the Chapter House), Second Series, vol. xxiii. The person to whom they were addressed is not named, most probably he was Cromwell, the Secretary of State. The following is the full text of these letters. The words are unchanged, but clothed in modern spelling:—

No. 50. "Right worshipful, in my most hearty wise I commend me unto you with as hearty thanks as I can possibly think for your benevolent and friendly mind and favour, effectually shewn in all my business and affairs, whereby you have assuredly bound and shall so find me to be all yours unfeignedly. And for as much as the king's General Surveyor at my suit and intercession hath already granted to this bringer (bearer) mine old servant, the farm of Greenhampster, in Gloucestershire, and the Indentures already made, and one part thereof sealed, which farm lieth adjoining by my said servant's house, and therefore near, and should be to him commodious always; and if he should be by any other, now contrary to right, put from it it should be not only to his loss but also great reproach as well to me as to him—such as I had lever (rather) have spent double the valor. Therefore, in my most hearty-wise I beseech you to be content that my said servitor may enjoy the said grant and farm according to right as my very trust is in your both favour and justice, and to promote, or commend, no other to put him from his right, especially considering that it is seldom and peradventure shall never chance to be in me thus to succour and aid my said servitor so nigh home; and that other that sueth unto you hath a kinsman called Edward Tyndall, brother to Tyndall the arch-heretic, and under receiver of the Lordship of Berkeley, which (who) may and daily doth promote his kinfolk there by the king's farms. In consideration whereof I eftsoons beseech you to be moved with pity upon this my poor servitor. And I dare undertake that he shall be to you not only a daily beadsman but also a true and ready servant with his poor kinsfolks and friends at all hours, God pleased, who have you in His blessed and favorable governance. Scribbled at Fulham the xxvjth of January with the rude hand of all your own, Jo. LONDON."

No. 49. "Right Worshipful, In my most hearty-wise I commend me unto you with like thanks for your benevolent mind and favour in all my requests heretofore, praying you to take no displeasure with this my return to the pursuing of my last suit to you for your favour towards my servitor, Riehard Griff[e[n] to whom Sir John Dauney—at my suit—had granted that little farm of Greenhampter in the presence of divers honest gentlemen before you sent to him therefore, which after was notified and published to divers (persons) to be done at my suit, and so is now bruited among mine old friends and acquaintance in the parts where the thing (farm) lieth: Whereby it should redound to my great reproach if Edward Tyndale—by his suit—should put my servant, my heed, from that grant; whereby my friends there would think that Edward Tyndall might do more with you and was preferred in your favour before me: which thing would grieve me right sore, besides the common reproach and avaunt (boast) that Tyndall and others of his sect would make upon this triumph; which my trust is that you would also be very loath to ensue. Wherefore, I eftsoons as heartily as I can think, I beseech you to be content that Sir John Dauney may perform his said grant to me; and this bringer for your favour herein shall deliver unto you xx nobles for a pleasure. And you shall be assured of me to do for any of yours any like, or greater, pleasure at your motion, if it may chance to be in my little power—God willing: Who send you as prosperous life and long as I would to myself. Scribbled hastily at my house in London this xxixth of January, with the rude hand of all your own bound and assured

JOANNES LONDON."

Thus we are at once informed to what branch of the Gloucestershire family the Martyr belonged. The personal history of Edward Tyndale, as Receiver-General of the Crown revenues of Berkeley's Lands, in the counties of Gloucester, Somerset, Warwick, and Essex, Keeper of Whiteliff and Okeley parks, Woodward and Warrener of the whole Lordship of Berkeley, Lessee of the manor of Hurst, in the parish of Slimbridge, Steward and Auditor of the Abbey of Tewkesbury, and Lessee of the abbey manor of Pull, or Pull Court, in Worcestershire, is well known; and his descendants to the present time have been traced out.*

In the absence of direct proof, the kinship between this Edward Tyndale and the family at Stincheombe may be assumed from the contiguity of their properties, and from the evidences that remain of their frequent intercourse. I have, in my possession, abstracts, in the handwriting of George Tyndale, of Bathford, made in the year 1762, of the Rev. William Tyndale's, of Charfield, deeds of title to lands in Nibley and elsewhere in Gloucestershire. One of these is of the deed referred to in Rudder's 'Gloucestershire,' 696; which reference is quoted by Anderson and other biographers of the Martyr. The complete abstract appears further on. The original deed was a settlement, in strict entail, by Alice Tyndale, widow, of her estate in Nibley and Wotton, upon her sons and their heirs—in succession—by conveyance to feoffees to uses. One of the feoffees therein named is this Edward Tyndale. His son, Thomas Tyndale, of Eastwood Park, in Thornbury, became, in 1568, a party in a deed of settlement of the Hunt's Court estate, made by Richard Tyndale, eldest son of this Alice. An abstract of this deed is also given below. The giving the name of 'Orianna' to one of the daughters of Richard Tyndale, of Melkshams Court, grandson of Alice, after her namesake Oriane Le Bon, the French heiress, wife of the second Thomas Tyndale, of Eastwood, is significative of a nearer connection than friendly intercourse. To these circumstances there is to be added the positive statement of the third Thomas Tyndale, of Eastwood, son of Oriane Le Bon, of the kinship of the two families, in a letter—a copy of which, taken from the original, is now (1877) in the possession of his descendant, Mr. Tyndale, of Perridge—dated 3 February 1663, to Thomas Tyndale, of Stinchcombe, in which he addresses him as "cousin," and concludes, "I rest your loving kinsman." This letter is given entire in Rudder's 'Gloucestershire,' 756-7. It is from a passage in this letter that the modern story takes its origin, viz., of the ancestor of the Stinchcombe family coming out of the north in the time of the wars between the houses of York and Lancaster, settling in Gloucestershire and changing his name to Hutchins. This, however, is an erroneous assertion, for the family at Stinchcombe did not change their surname, but adopted a double name or alias; and—in the absence of precise knowledge as to the parents of the Martyr—the fact that he called himself "Tyndale otherwise Hychyn" becomes the more curious and important, as it is the same double name by which the members of the family at Stinchcombe were called and known in the reigns of Edw. IV., Hen. VII., and Hen. VIII.

The origin of the alias of "Huchyns," beyond the tradition for the first time divulged in the seventeenth century in the letter above noticed, is buried in impenetrable obscurity. The name, under its various examples of Hechens, Hechyns, Hewchyns, Hichens, Hichyns, Hitchins, Hochin, Hochins, Hochyns, Hotchens, Howchyn, Huchen, Huchens, Huchons, Huchyn, Huchyns, Hutchens, Hutchin, Hutchins, Hutchyn, Hutchyns, Hychens, Hychins, Hychowns, Hychyn, Hychyns and Hytchins, is recorded as existing in Berkeley and its neighbourhood during the fifteenth and early part of the sixteenth centuries.

In the 'Ministers' Accounts,' in the Public Record Office, of the revenues of "Berkeley's Lands," whilst in the possession of the Crown, I have found, during the early part of the reign of Hen. VIII., the following particulars relative to persons of this name. In 23 Hen. VII. it is recorded, that on the Court Rolls of the Lordship of Berkeley in 2 Hen. V. (1414) Walter Huchyns is entered as holding five acres of land in Odicroft, in the parish of Cam, at a rent of 10s. per annum; that they were afterwards let to John Sheparde for life; and, in the reign of Hen. VI. were held by John Nelme. In 1 Hen. VIII. (1509) it is recorded that there was then a deficit of rent on two acres of meadow in Charlemede, in the manor of Hurst, lately held by William Huchyn, at an annual rent of 5s.; and in 2 and 3 Hen. VIII. (1510-11) one Thomas Huchyn held a tenement in the town of Berkeley.

NOTES ON THE FAMILY OF YOUNGHUSBAND, OF NORTHUMBERLAND.

By R. W. TWIGGE, Esq.

THE family of Younghusband by tradition derives its name and descent from Oswald, the tenth son of Ida, the Flame-bearer. The prefix "Young" having been assumed at an early period by the descendants of the Saxon Oswalds, Oswys, and Osbans, for the sake of distinction, the name gradually became corrupted—"Young-Oswin," "Young-Osban," "Younghosban,"—to the present form of spelling it.

From the fifteenth century downwards numerous Young-husbands appear to have been settled in Bamburghshire, and their ancestral property of Budle,—at which place, the late Sir Wm. Watson, one of the Barons of the Exchequer, once stated to a member of the family that he "knew the Younghusbands were located before the Conquest,"—adjoins Bamburgh,

"King Ida's castle huge and square," —facts perhaps worthy of note in reference to their alleged descent.

Few records relating to the family before the middle of the sixteenth century exist; and the Northern Registers near the Border, owing to the troublous times of that period, are in a sadly imperfect condition, many of them not even commencing until a hundred years later.

It is probable that some members of the family were copyholders of the Manor of Bamburgh, but as access to the Manor Rolls is refused, it is impossible to speak with certainty. From about 1650 to 1842 a family of the same name in humble circumstances flourished in Bamburgh, where they held some small freehold property. In the Northumberland Poll Book for the year 1747 (Lans. MS. 524) "Bartholomew Younghusband—freeholder—houses and lands at Balmbrough;" but their connection, if any, with the main branches in that neighbourhood cannot be traced, and they are now extinct.

Many members of the Budle branch in their wills give directions for their burial in Bamburgh Church, where they had a vault; but later the Younghusbands of Budle and Tuggall Hall were invariably buried at Tuggall. Raine, in his 'History of North Durham,' 1852, p. 72, says:—The chapel of Tughall (built soon after the translation of the body of S. Cuthbert from Durham to Lindisfarne in 1069, on the spot where a halt was made, and probably the oldest ecclesiastical structure in Northumberland which survives) "is at present in ruins, but when it stood it constituted a chapel-of-ease to Bamborough. It was last presented to in 1630, but the Younghusbands of Tuggall Hall and Budle made it their burying-place within the memory of persons still alive." The only tombstone now decipherable is to the memory of Anne Carr (died 1786) the wife of Thomas Younghusband of Tuggall Hall.

From 1455 to 1474 a William Younghusband was Vicar of Ellingham. In the year 1492 Bartram Yonghosband was Sheriff of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Mayor of that town in 1501, and again in 1507.* In an indenture made in 1521 at Newcastle there is mention of "a tenement late of Bartram Yonghusbandes" ('Arch. Æliana,' N.S., vol. i.), and from an old paper in the vestry of the church at Gateshead:—"Anno D'ni m.cccc^{mo} nonagesimo—Expens. It'm for a nald nobill to Bartrom Yonghosban, viii^s x^d." (Surtees' 'History of Durham,' vol. ii., p. 125.)†

The following entries appear in the Muster Rolls of Northumberland in 1538.

* In some of the Histories of Newcastle the name is abbreviated, but the Carr MS. gives it in full throughout.

† "These gold coins were probably melted 'for the gylton of y^e Crose,' the old gold being esteemed the purest."

In 1547, April 7, John Yonghosband the elder (? the son of Bartram Yonghosband mentioned above) was a witness to the will of his son John, who requests to be buried at Bamburgh, and mentions—“my wife Margaret, and my son Thomas.”

The latter appears as a witness in 1570 to the will of (? his brother) George Yonghousband (see below) and again in 1606, together with (? his son) Cuthbert, to that of Richard Yonghusband of Budle.

The following will extracted from the District Registry at Durham is interesting.

“In the name of God. Amen. The yeare of Our Lord God. 1570 the xxiiij day of June I George Yonghousband seike in my body yett holl and perfite of memory do makes this my Testament and laste Wyll in maner & forme as foloweth. The other sons referred to therein were probably Richard of Budle, Cuthbert of Edderstone, and John Yonghusband.

In 1589, 4 April, Edward Yonghusband and Richard Yonghusband of Budle witnessed the will of Thomas Forster of Edderston.

Matthew Forster of Bamburgh, in his will dated 7 May 1589, directs payment of a debt he owed to Oswald Yonghusband.

1597. April 14.—The Ecclesiastical Court at Durham granted letters of administration of the effects of Cuthbert Yonghusband of the parish of Embleton, to Alicia his wife. His children, Agnes, Richard, Alexander, and Elizabeth, were then infants.

* i.e. “juratus.”

1603. May 18.—The same court granted letters of administration of the effects of John Yonghusband, of the parish of Embleton, to Marianne, his wife, Alexander his son being under age.

Richard Yonghusband of Budle held one messuage and one carucate of land and certain other lands of the King in capite by service of a fortieth part of one knight's fee. He died 11 May 5 James I. Oswald, his son and heir, being then aged fifteen years. This Oswald fought a duel with Roger de Swynhoe, a neighbour, and killed him. Thereupon the Earl of Northumberland, who was guardian at the time to the Younghusbands of Budle, seized upon that property as an escheat, and before restoring it to the family took a large slice of it lying towards Bamburgh, which is now called Dukesfield.

In 1696, Thomas Younghusband, the younger, of Budle, gentleman, bought of Richard Forster of Newham Hall, Esquire, what is called the Budle estate, (vide Title Deeds of Budle), which extended as far as the Friar's Ground, situated on the west side of Bamburgh.

In 1808 all the lands in Budle township were intermixed and undivided,

The Younghusband family having	13—30
Wm. Watson	11—30
The Duke of Northumberland	6—30

That portion belonging to the Younghusbands seems to have invariably passed from father to eldest son, until Thomas Younghusband, the last male representative of the elder branch of the family, by his will dated 22 June, 1749, left the Budle estates to his cousin William, youngest son of his uncle Samuel Younghusband of Tuggall, by his wife Anne Clavering.

In the following month he was drowned in Budle Bay. "On Wednesday last as Thomas Younghusband, Esq., his gardener, Mr Errington and a cobleman were returning from Fern Island (where they had been a-pleasuring) to Budle, the coble unfortunately overset and they all perished, except Mr. Errington, who used all possible means to save Mr. Younghusband but to no purpose." ('Newcastle Courant' Newspaper, 15 July, 1749.)

"Last Wednesday morning Thomas Younghusband, Esq., of Budle, being on the sea a-fishing, with a servant and some others, the boat overset by a sudden squall of wind, by which Mr Younghusband his servant and another person were drown'd. Two coblemen got to land. The body of Mr Younghusband being dragged for was found soon after, and that of the servant on Thursday morning." ('Newcastle Journal' Newspaper, 15 July, 1749.)

As soon as he came of age he mortgaged Budle, and dying the following year in much debt, his creditors took proceedings in Chancery, and ultimately a sufficient amount was raised by mortgage to satisfy their claims. He was the last gentleman in that part of the county who kept a family piper, and was accompanied by him on his last and fatal sporting expedition. After the boat capsized all the bodies were recovered, except that of the piper, and as he had been a very wild fellow, it was generally reported among the villagers that he was the Devil in person who had come for "the wicked squire," and had now got him!

The ghost of his unfortunate master was said to haunt Budle, and there are several "authentic" accounts of his appearance in the old house shortly before it was pulled down at the beginning of this century.

William Younghusband devised Budle to Thomas Forster, eldest son of Robert Forster, of Brunton, but his heirs-at-law, the daughters of his brother Thomas, disputed the validity of the will on the ground of the weakness of mind and incapacity of the testator. A compromise was, however, ultimately effected, and Thomas Forster conveyed Budle to Barbara-Carr, Elizabeth, Anne, and Maria-Frances Younghusband, who, in 1809, sold it to Grieve Smith, Esq., when it passed entirely out of the possession of the family (vide Mackenzie's 'View of Northumberland,' vol. i., p. 412, and Wallis's 'History of Northumberland, 1769,' vol. ii., p. 410).

There is an amusing story, which has reference to Budle, in a letter from Robert Surtees to Sir Walter Scott, dated 9 Nov. 1809. Referring to the late date (the end of the eighteenth century) of levying black-mail in the North of England, he writes:—

"One Adamson, an apothecary of Belford, seems notwithstanding his peaceful profession to have inherited a portion of his ancestors' spirit (for freebooting), for he is said frequently to have made a visit to a patient and a night-raid at the same time. His apprentices could either wield the mortar or drive off cattle with equal dexterity. Adamson was one night supping with Mrs. Younghusband of Budle, and whilst he sat at her table, three of his retainers were plundering the dove-cote. One was in the cote and threw the birds to the other, while a third kept watch. On returning home the booty seemed very inconsiderable, which the receiver accounted for by saying, half the birds flew away when thrown out, and called the watch to witness. 'The devil's in them if they did,' said the other, 'for here's all their heads in my breeches.'"

Tuggall.—The exact date when this property was acquired by the Younghusbands is uncertain. In 1663 Mr. Grace Foster was the proprietor of "Tuggall Hall" (Book of Rates for Northumberland), and it was probably purchased soon after this date, for in 1672 Thomas Younghusband the younger, of Budle, is described as "of Tugghill." These lands reached from the old chapel down to the sea at Monk's House, and included Shank Hall and adjoining properties. After his death they passed to his son Thomas, and in 1765 Tuggall Hall was the residence of the widow of the latter (Barbara, the daughter of Robert Lambton), to whom he left it for her life with remainder to his youngest son, Samuel, whose eldest son, Thomas Younghusband, sold it in 1801 to John Robinson (vide Mackenzie's 'View of Northumberland,' vol. i., p. 417).

Bowsden.—The date when this property was acquired by the Younghusbands is also uncertain. In 1726 Thomas Younghusband of Budle by his will devised his freehold estate at Bowsden to his son Thomas. Upon the division of the Common in 1733 the latter was found to be the owner of lands there, but he must have sold them very soon afterwards, as W^m Carr of Hetton, Esq., in his will dated 15 March 1737, disposes of "my lands at Bowsden which I lately purchased of Thomas Younghusband Esquire."

Berrington.—A full account of this property will be found in Raine's 'North Durham,' pp. 207-215. "The first dismemberment of the estate was made by the Claverings to the Younghusbands of Budle." Of this severment, the southern part of the township was purchased by either Samuel Younghusband of Tuggall Hall, who had married Anne Clavering, or their son, William Younghusband of Budle, who in his will (1798) devised "all my freehold lands, leases of tithes, etc., at Berrington" to his trustees "in trust to pay my debts, legacies, &c., remainder to my brother Thomas and his heirs." In 1806 his nieces, the four co-heiresses of his brother Thomas, sold it to Henry Morton and Thomas Morton, gentlemen.

Elwick, etc.—A younger branch of the family occupied Elwick for some time. For an account of this estate, see Raine's 'North Durham,' p. 198. "Elwick is like Ross in the parish of Belford, and its northern half only is in the county of Durham. The farm-house is said to stand on the very line of demarcation, so that one half of its inhabitants live in Northumberland and the other in the Palatinate, and all under the selfsame roof. The Younghusbands, an old and respectable family in that neighbourhood, have been farmers of Elwick for four or five generations, and as cadets of the house of Budle are connected with the best blood of Northumberland and Durham."

Thomas Younghusband of Elwick became the proprietor of Marden from his uncle, William Graham, who joined the Jacobite rising in 1745. By his will (1793) he left "Marden Demesne and my cottages in Crookham parish of Ford," etc., to his wife absolutely.

The Younghusbands of Budle leased the tithes of Kylvoe from the Chapter of Durham, conjointly with the Crasters of Craster and the Woods of Beadnel.

Numerous references to Budle, Tuggall, Bowsden, Berrington, Elwick, Ross, etc., and their owners are to be found in the 'Calendarium Inquisitionum post Mortem sive Escaetorum,' the 'Testa de Nevill,' or 'Liber Feodorum,' 'Placitorium in Domo Capitulari Westmonasteriensi Asservatorum Abbreviatio,' 'Notarum Inquisitiones,' 1340 (see Hodgson's 'History of Northumberland,' part iii., vol. iii.), 'Calendarium Patentium in Turri Londiniensi,' 'Rotulorum Originalium in Curia Scaccarii Abbreviatio,' 'Calendarium Inquisitionum ad quod Damnum,' 'Calendarium Rotulorum Chartarum,' 'Magnus Rotulus Pipæ,' 'Liber Feodarii,' for 1568—a MS. at Newcastle-on-Tyne, etc., etc.

In Mackenzie's 'View of Northumberland,' vol. i., p. 483, is given an account of "a most unprecedented act of self-destruction" committed at Heckley Grange, in the parish of Alnwick, on November 10, 1818, by two brothers, John and Lancelot Younghusband, "the one verging on seventy years of age, and the other not less than sixty." It is probable that they were the sons of John Younghusband of Newham and Grange, near Alnwick. "The bodies were buried on Saturday (Nov. 14) in the cross road near the church. By the verdict of felo de se a large property is forfeited to the Lord of the Manor, as the deceased had become very opulent. One of them has left a widow and daughter; the other was a bachelor" ('Newcastle Courant' Newspaper, 21 Nov. 1818).

Arms. The Younghusbands of Budle and Elwick have invariably borne the following coat, which is the same as that assigned to Bartrom Yonghusband in 1492 in the Carr MS., "written by William Robinson, who was Deputy Herald under Norroy King at Arms"* before the year 1640, viz., Argent, on a bend sable three griffins' heads erased or, on a chief azure three plates. Crest, a griffin's head erased or.

The Berwick branch of the family have for several generations assumed an entirely different coat of arms, for which there seems to be no authority, viz. :—Azure, on a chevron or, three mullets pierced of the field. Crest, a dexter arm couped at the shoulder, erect and embowed, vambraced or. This coat appears on their monuments in the parish church of Berwick-on-Tweed.

The inscriptions on some of the tombstones in Bamburgh Church-yard, other than those referred to in the pedigree, are illegible, and several entries in the registers relating to the family cannot be deciphered.

HISTORY OF THE BEAUTIFUL ELIZABETH BLOUNT.

THE following pages are taken from an original MS. written by the Rev. Mark Noble, the well-known Historian of the College of Arms, now in possession of the Editor. Mr. Noble gives a title and short preface, which explain fully the objects of, and authorities for, his work :—

“An History of the Beautiful Elizabeth Blount, Mistress to King Henry VIII. Her marriages and her children, especially Henry Fitzroy, Duke of Richmond, K.G. The whole forming many circumstances relative to several illustrious characters at a period peculiarly interesting. Collected from the most approved authorities. By the Rev. Mark Noble, F.A.S. of L. and E., Rector of Barming, in Kent, and Domestic Chaplain to George, Earl of Leicester. Written in the year 1803.”

PREFACE.

The Rev. William Gordon having asked me whether there were any descendants of the Blounts from whom Lady Talbois the mistress of Henry VIII. sprung I examined a great variety of books to satisfy him. The history of frail Beauty, the importance of her husbands and children all became interesting, and I laboured some days to collect materials, to arrange and transcribe them. The result is this little tract.

The authorities for what is written are ‘Sandford’s Genealogical History of the Kings of England,’ ‘Speed’s History of Great Britain,’ ‘Stow’s Chronicle,’ ‘Lodge’s Illustrations of British History,’ ‘Sidney’s State Papers,’ ‘Camden’s Life of Queen Elizabeth,’ ‘Martin’s History of England,’ ‘Lord Herbert’s Life of Henry VIII.,’ ‘Archæologia,’ ‘Antiq. Repertory,’ ‘Lloyd’s Lives,’ ‘Gough’s edition of Camden’s Britannia,’ ‘Leland’s Itinerary,’ ‘Martin’s History of Thetford,’ ‘Collins’ Proceedings, etc., respecting Baronies,’ ‘Titles of Honour by Glover,’ ‘Brooke, York, and Collins’ Peerages,’ ‘Compendium,’ ‘Bolton’s Extinct Peerage,’ ‘Heylin’s Help to History,’ ‘Duglas’ Scotch Peerage,’ and a few other inferior works.

MARK NOBLE.

Barming Parsonage, July 2nd, 1803.

Since writing the above I have purchased Hawes’ ‘History of Framlingham,’ published by Loder, very curious work.

THIS celebrated lady was descended from a very illustrious family. Some think the Blounts were originally an Italian house. It is more probable that they were not. The le Blounts, or le Blond, were lords of Guisnes in France. They came hither at the Norman conquest. Sir Robert le Blound was created Baron of Ickworth in Suffolk, and obtained Orford Castle and many other lordships. The title became forfeited by treason in Henry III.'s reign.

The family was again ennobled by Edward IV. creating Sir Walter Blount to the title of Baron Montjoy of Thurveston, in Derbyshire,—he being maternally descended from the Montjoys. His Majesty also honoured him with the Order of the Garter. His son, Sir William, being slain in his life-time at the battle of Barnet, he was succeeded by his grandson Edward, in whom the title became extinct.

William Blount, created by Henry VIII. Baron Montjoy, was elected Knight of the Garter. The title becoming again lost for want of issue, Elizabeth gave the title of Montjoy to Charles Blount, Lord Deputy of Ireland, and elected him K.G. James I. created him Earl of Devonshire. He died in 1606, leaving no legitimate issue, but by Penelope, wife of Robert Riche, Lord Riche, sister to the turbulent Robert Devereux, Earl of Essex, K.G., whom he even married in her husband's lifetime, he had five children. S^r John Montjoy or Blount, the second of them, was raised to the title of Baron Montjoy in Ireland, and also Baron Montjoy of Thurveston and Earl of Newport, in the Isle of Wight, in England, which titles expired in the fourth nobleman, his descendant. Charles I., who gave these titles, also raised the Blounts of Sodington in Worcestershire to the honour of the Baronetage, as did Charles II. those of Tittenhanger in Herts, and George I. those of London, now of Clecroy (?) in Hants.* All these Blounts bore with due difference the arms Barry nebulé of six, Or and Sable. The stem from which Henry VIII.'s favourite descended was a branch of those of Sodington, maternally representing the Barons Beauchamp of Hache, in Somersetshire, the de Sodingtons of Worcestershire, the ancient Barons Montjoy, Lord Montjoy, and the Cornwalls of Kinlet in Shropshire.

Kinlet coming into the Blount family, became the seat of the immediate ancestor of Sir John Blount, Knt., father of the lady I am going to notice. Camden in his 'Britannia' says, Kinlet is where the Blounts flourished, an ancient, illustrious, and numerous family in these parts, who have extended their branches a great way, and who certainly have their name from their yellow hair,—Blond being Norman for yellow hair. Kinlet, a place I well know, is near Bridgenorth. The Childe family now own it, as did their ancestor Sir William Childe, Knt., one of the Masters in Chancery in the reign of Charles II. Such was the descent of Elizabeth Blount, or as she is usually called, Blunt.

* John, son of Tho. Blount of Rochester, cr. Bart. by Geo. I. 17 June, 1720.—

Her marriage was suitable to her birth. The gentleman her father, Sir John Blunt, gave her hand to was Sir Gilbert Talbois, son and heir of Sir Gilbert Talbois of Kime in Lincolnshire, Knt., descended from Ivo de Talbois, a noble adventurer from Anjou, who came into England under the banner of William the Norman, and maternally the Umfranvilles and Kimes.*

The charming, beautiful, accomplished wife of Sir Gilbert Talbois entirely won the heart of her gallant sovereign. She was the only female to whom he was entirely attached. He had some promiscuous amours, but none of a lasting nature.

We are not informed when her connection with HENRY commenced, but we learn that the King was boundlessly fond of her, and he appears to have taken her from the protection of her husband, whom in 1529, being the twenty-first year of his reign, he raised to the dignity of Baron Talbois of Kime, a title he seemed by descent to almost claim. I do not see him mentioned as a statesman or warrior. I presume his lady's charms were greater recommendations than his services or even his great descent.

Lord Herbert of Cherbury, in his 'Reign of Henry VIII.,' remarks that one of the liberties which our King took at his spare time was to love. For as all commendable parts concurred in his person, and they again were exalted in his high dignity and valour, so it must seem less strange if amid the many fair ladies which lived in his court he both gave and received temptation. Among whom, because Mistress Elizabeth Blunt, daughter of Sir John Blount, Knight, was thought, for her rare ornaments of nature and education, to be the beauty and Mistress-piece of her time, that entire affection past between them, so as at least she bore him a son.

Of Lady Talbois' beauty there can be no doubt, nor of her accomplishments. It is probable she was learned, for learning after many ages of darkness, like the sun hid by thick clouds, broke forth in the fullest splendour. A few ladies of England partook of its genial rays. Extraordinary as it may appear, the

* The descendants of Sir Robert de Umfranville, lord of Tours and Vian in Normandy, who came from thence with his relation William the Conqueror, were long Earls of Angus in Scotland, one of them having married an heiress of Malcolm, Earl of Angus. The Umfranvilles were equally beloved in both kingdoms. Robert de Umfranville, the third Earl of Angus of this family, having married Lucy, sister and heir of Will. de Kime, a great English Baron, had also the title given him of Earl of Kime. He left three sons and one daughter—1. Gilbert, the last Earl of Angus and Kime; 2. Sir Rob. de Umfranville, K.G.; 3. Thomas, and, 4. Eleanor. She married to Sir Gilbert Borrowdon, Knt., whose only child Eleanor Barrowden was found heir to the English estates; she was then, 9 Henry V., aged forty, and wife of Henry Talbois. From this alliance the Talbois became representatives of the two families who were successively Earls of Angus, and the Kimes, and on that account entitled to quarter their arms. Ivo de Taylebois, the founder of one branch in England, married Lucia, sister of Alghitha, Harold II.'s Queen, and of the Earls Edwin and Morcar.

languages of Greece and Rome were studied and critically understood by illustrious females, whose mothers could not even read! I presume from Lord Herbert's words Lady Talbois was one of these learned women. She would therefore appear exquisitely pleasing in the eyes of a learned prince; and a young, handsome, graceful, puissant, magnificent, brave, and liberal monarch, excelling in the literature of the age, we may suppose would not long plead in vain at the feet of beauty.

Had she been unmarried, she might have perhaps worn the crown taken from the head of a virtuous but peculiarly disagreeable queen. She, more fortunate, saw many of Henry's sanguinary violences to his wives. No doubt she was happy that she had rather shared his affection without the risk of marriage,—a connection which death only could terminate, and to obtain which he scrupled not to use the axe.

Lord Talbois seems fitted for his situation. Like Roger Palmer, Earl of Castlemaine in Charles II.'s reign, he chose rather to lose his reputation than his safety. To offend, to oppose an Henry would have been to seek death. Charles II., enraged to lose even a Miss Stuart to a Duke of Richmond, only vented his anger in violent words. Henry would have added to wrath, vengeance. It is most probable, therefore, that Lord Talbois resigned his beautiful, accomplished wife entirely to the royal embraces.

Being advanced in pregnancy, Henry avowed himself the parent of the fruits of their passion. She did not go to the seat of her husband to be eased of her burden, but his Majesty sent her to the Priory of St. Laurence of Blackmore, in Essex. The Augustine Canons Regular received her, and there she was delivered of a son, whom the King educated as a prince, more than the child of an unlawful passion—indeed of a double adultery.*

Lady Talbois retained as fickle an heart as ever lodged in a human breast. Martin, the historian, says, the King for a long time wantonly conversed with a beautiful and a lascivious gentlewoman of the court, named Elizabeth Blunt.

In 1530 she became a widow, her husband was buried at Kyme. On a marble slab is this inscription in brass, still to be seen in the church:—

Gilbert Lord Tailboys, Lord of Kime, married Elizabeth the daughter of Sir John Blount, knt. of Kinlet in Shropshire, and died 15 April 1530.

She must have had great influence at one time in this reign; it is much to her fame that no historian has insinuated any other crime than inconstancy to her charge.

* Was it not extraordinary that Lady Talbois, if it was necessary to go to a religious house to lie in, should not have been sent to a nunnery?

As she is not called her father's heir, or even coheir, it cannot be doubted but that she had brothers. There were several gentlemen of the surname of Blunt or Blount in the court of her admirer and his successor. They might be her brothers, or other near relations; but the family was numerous and spread into many branches. Sir Thomas Blount, who greatly distinguishing himself by his valour at the capture of Thevoveine and Tournay in 1513, was made a Knight Banneret. William Blunt, a gentleman pensioner, receiving a salary of £46. 13s. 4d., and Richard Blunt £20 as one of the gentleman ushers in daily waiting, being a man of abilities he was knighted, and has left a rule of conduct for the gentlemen ushers of the Privy Chamber.

How long she continued the royal paramour is not said, whether it was to the death of her husband or not I cannot find; but in her widowhood the youthful and gallant Edward Clinton, Lord Clinton and Say, won her heart. Probably Majesty did not oppose the union, for few, even when under the influence of the most powerful of passions, ever dared to withstand Henry's pleasure.

Lord Clinton being born in 1512 must have been younger than her, but she was probably still possessed of great beauty, her accomplishments and grace would be even improved. She was no inconsiderable alliance in point of fortune we may presume. She had beside her jointure, we must suppose, wealth and valuables to a great amount, the gifts of a rich and liberal prince. His lordship was made to gain the love of the fair, to promote his way at court, and to acquire an extane equal to the honours he obtained. His gallantry shone conspicuous at justs and tournaments; more in the field of battle; his prowess at Musselborough gained him knight-hood, but most in the naval line, having jointly with Dudley scoured the seas. In the reign of Edward VI. he was appointed Lord High Admiral of England for life. Philip and Mary extended it to Ireland and Wales, and gave him the Garter. Elizabeth created him Earl of Lincoln.

This lady did not, however, see all these honours come to him. I have not found the time of her death or the place of her burial. The Earl of Lincoln, her second husband, long survived her, and had two subsequent wives, Ursula, daughter of William Lord Stourton, and Elizabeth, daughter of Gerald, Earl of Kildare, in Ireland. Dying Jan. 16, 1584-5, he was buried in a most honourable manner on the east side of St. George's Chapel, at Windsor, under a stately monument of alabaster with pillars of porphyry, erected by his widow. It is singular that this great statesman, soldier, and sailor, was the most extensive farmer in the kingdom, which enabled him to live in a most hospitable manner, and yet save, not only the emoluments of his offices, but add greatly to them. He grazed 11,000 acres of land. The issue of his by Lady Talbois will be noticed hereafter. From the second marriage descend the Dukes of Newcastle under Line. He had no child by his last alliance.

The fair subject of these pages lived long enough, however, to see great and extraordinary changes in the political world, and probably blessed herself that Henry rather chose her for a mistress than a wife, she remaining safe whilst his queens experienced all the miseries which despotic power could accumulate or vengeance urge, when lodged in the hands of an unfeeling relentless tyrant.

There are no memorials of the beautiful, but frail Lady Talbois' influence at court. Had she lived a century later all her history would have been known. Hers was not an age of anecdote. In the pedigrees of the Blounts given in the Baronetages she is not so much as noticed, not because she was unchaste, but from ignorance of her descent; for Collins, in the Peerage, in express words, calls her Mistress of Henry VIII. These particulars, few and inconsiderable as they are, have been all that I could collect of the once captivating Elizabeth Blount, of whom we have no engraved, nor, as far as I know, no painted portrait.

CONFIRMATION OF ARMS TO THOMAS PENYSTON (Vol. I., p. 2).—As I understand that you are thinking of reserving a few pages in your publication for notes and correspondence, allow me to make a note on the above reference, where what appears to me to be a distinct error on the part of Robert Cooke, Esq. alias Clarencieux, etc., occurs; line 20 runs as follows:—"which Sir Richard Peniston was sonne & heire of Sir John Peniston Kt. Lord of Haurudge & of Elianor his wife daughter & heire to John Chesham Esq. Lord of Chesham in the County of Buck, by Alice his wife daughter & heire of Sir John Brewes kt.

Lord of Wedonhill in the County of Buck." I differ from this latter assertion altogether, for Sir John Brewes, or rather as it should be Braose, Lord of Wedonhill, etc., died undoubtedly without any issue, as his inquisition p.m. 5 Hen. VI., No. 42, proves, and his sister Elizabeth, wife of Ralph Shirley, was his heir by blood; he however left a widow Margaret, daughter of Thomas Poynings Lord St. John, who re-married . . . Wickham. She died seized of Wiston, etc. in Sussex, and the above Wedonhill, and her heir to them was found to be Ralph Shirley, aged 30, son of Ralph, son of Beatrice, sister to John Brewys, kt. who died without heir of the body of the aforesaid Margaret, Inq. p.m. 27 Hen. VI., No. 25. Finding in a reputed confirmation of arms by a herald an undoubted error, creates suspicion as to the trustworthiness of the whole document.

DANIEL (Le Neve's 'Knights,' p. 157).—Ingleby Daniel, Esq., was buried at Berwick, 28 February 1710–11. In 1677 he is styled 'Captain.' He had Thomas, bapt. at St. Giles's-in-the-Fields, London, 13 January 1676–7. Diana, baptized there 24 August 1678. Dorothy, baptized there 10 August 1689. Ingleby, baptized 22 July 1681, buried 5 June 1682, at Berwick. Elizabeth, bapt. 27 January 1684–5, at Berwick. Anne Daniell, eldest daughter, born about 1675, and married in 1694, died 13 October 1757, aged 83, and was buried 17 October, at Kilnwick, where she has a M.I. Her husband is said to have broken his neck out hunting. He died 18 August 1740, aged 75, and is buried at Market Weighton. A very curious copper-plate of him is in the possession of Sir Tatton Sykes, Bart. They had issue nine sons and five daughters, all baptized at Berwick; viz.:—Daniel, bapt. 10 July 1696, voted in 1741 for lands in Beverley. Ingleby, bp. 3 Aug. 1697, bur. 22 Oct. at Kilnwick. William Henry, bp. 24 Sept. 1698, voted in 1741 for Berwick. John bp. 20 Oct. 1699. Edward, bp. 18 May 1700 (? A.B. St. John's Coll. Camb. 1717). Charles, bp. 2 Feb. 1704–5, was a Captain in the army, Captain of the Company of Invalids at Hull, 1754, and had a son Charles, bp. at Berwick 20 Aug. 1751, buried 19 April 1753, at Kilnwick. James, bp. 25 March 1706, Searcher of the Customs at Hull, married 26 Sept. 1746, at Dunnington, Ann Ingram of York. Thomas, bp. 7 Nov. 1709, bur. 15 Feb. 1707–8, at Beswick. Marmaduke, bp. 22 January 1712–13, Rector of Thuring, Yorkshire, 1748–1750.

Mr. and Mrs. Draper had also five daughters, viz.:—(1) Dorothy, bp. 12 July 1695, first child, who married Hugh Bethell, Esq. of Swindon, who died s.p. 4 Feb. 1747, and was buried at Kilnwick 29 March 1777. (2) Ann, bp. 28 Sept. 1702, buried 18 Oct. 1776, at Market Weighton. (3) Elizabeth, bp. 16 Nov. 1703. (4) Lucy, bp. 6 Jan. bur. 16 January 1708–9, at Beswick. (5) Diana, bp. 20 July 1715, as famous a horsewoman as Miss Diana Vernon in 'Rob Roy'; buried 10 April 1772, at Market Weighton.

C. B. NORCLIFFE.

BALTHAZAR REGIS, D.D.—Canon of Windsor (1751); Rector of Adisham (Kent), and Chaplain to the King. Died 1757. From his will it appears that he was descended from a Huguenot family, and entitled to paternal estates in France (Dauphiné). Information is requested respecting his birth and parentage; all known at present is that he came over as a child with his parents, to escape the religious persecutions in France.

REV. MR. LEANE.—An old snuff-box, with the following inscription, has recently come into my possession:—"The Rev^d Mr Leane to Mr John Lee." The character of the engraving indicates the middle of the seventeenth century. Can any one refer me to a parish in Cornwall, Somerset, or Wilts, of which this "Rev^d Mr Leane" was the clergyman?

OGLE PEDIGREE AND NOTES (Vol. I., 321).—In Potterspury Church, Northants, is, or was, a mural monument set up 24 June 1634, at the cost and charge of Beatris his widow, to Cuthbert Ogle, Esq. Lieut. of Whittlewood Forest forty-two years, who departed out of this life, aged seventy-six the 25 of August 1633. The arms at the top are Arg. a fesse betw. three crescents Gu. quartering, Or, within a bordure Az. an escutcheon of pretence of the field; Crest, out of a ducal coronet Gu., a boar's head per fesse Arg. and Or. Under this monument was a brass of a lady habited in the dress of the time, and these Arms: within a border engr. a dexter hand, quartering a bend Erm., in fesse a crescent for diff. Crest, a man's head full faced coupé at the shoulders. Underneath is an inscription to the memory of Anne Ogle wife of Cuthbert Ogle, Lieut. of the Forest of Whittlewood, who died 29 of May 1616, and beareth the arms of the Maudsleys, out of which house she was descended.

In my notes from the parish registers of All Saints, Stamford, I have the following relative to the Lockton family: "1624-5, Elizabeth Stutt, s'vant to Francis Lockton, esq., bur. Feb. 9; William, soun of Francis Lorlton, esq. bur. 29 ib."

WALPOLE PEDIGREE, p. 7. In my notes from All Saints, Stamford, par. reg. and Tinwell, Rutland, I have the two following: "1616, William Castell & Dorothy Walpoole were maryed Aprill viij. 1624-5 Richard Walpole, s'vant to Robert Barker was bur. Jan. 17. Tinwell, 1601-2 Emma Walpoole, wife of Thomas Walpoole, was buried the xvj of March." At this period a Thomas Barker was parson of All Saints, as on Aug. 31, 1619, is recorded the burial of Anne wife of Thomas Barker, parson, of Allsaints, dau^r of the right worshipfull doctor humphre Dockeston? of denistry? Those words that have this (?) mark after them are so badly written that it is impossible to decipher them; the scribe seems to have written the entry in so cramped a hand with a view to baffle future readers of it, and has admirably succeeded.

PEDIGREE OF RASBYE (Vol. I., p. 94).—"John Rasby of Kirk Smeaton married Anne dau. of Adam Everingham of Birkin Kt. (Argent a fess Az. a label of 5 points Gules)."

This should be, Gules, a lion rampant Vaire. The arms given, viz., Arg. a fess Az. a label of five points Gu. were those of the family of De Birkin, whose heiress married an Everingham.

I am interested in the families of Birkin and Everingham, and have always found the arms as I state.

FELL. (Notes on the Surname of Bowdler, Vol. I., p. 281).—Mr. Gyll, in his paper on this subject, mentions that Jane Fell, the daughter of Samuel Fell, Dean of Christ Church, Oxon, married Wm. Bowdler. Do any of your correspondents know anything of the pedigree of this Samuel Fell? Is it certain that his family is different to that of Judge Fell? Are there any descendants in the male line of the Judge or Dean still living? Who was John Fell (a London merchant of considerable property), buried in Poplar churchyard 1754, aged 97? His daughter Sarah married (1718) Joseph Croucher (ob. 1752); he was buried at St. George's in the East:—"This church was consecrated July 19, 1729. Churchwarden Joseph Croucher,"—Inscription on organ gallery of St. George's in East London. Arms—Arg. on a pale invected Sa. 2 crosses patée Or, with a martlet for difference. Mrs. Courtant Fell ob. 1724, was the wife of the above John Fell (commonly called Captain Fell), what was her surname? I am acquainted with the articles in 'Notes and Queries' on Fell.

UPPER SAPEY.—The following church notes from Upper Sapey, co. Hereford, may interest some of the readers of the 'Genealogist.'

On brass plate on wall under an arch, on south side of the Church:—

“Here lieth the bodie of Hvghe Lea, gent. late of Lea, who departed this life the 26 of Aprill An^o D'ni 1622.”

This is the Hugh Lee mentioned in the 'Genealogist,' vol. i., p. 205.

There are some old ledgers to the Addenbrookes, now under the tower, two are for the Rector and his wife. Arms, A fess wavy between three crescents, impaling, a chevron between three greyhounds courant.

A monument on the north wall has the coat of Walker impaling Cooke, Or a fess betw. 2 lions G.

The Addenbrookes, who still hold the Lea farm, descend from John Addenbrooke, Rector, who was buried 25 Jan. 1724. The Register begins in the year 1679. The only names I find of persons described as gent. are the following:—

“Elizabetha Kinge filia Edwardi Kinge gen' et Damaris uxoris ejus baptizata fuit Aug. 1st” 1692. Damaris dau'r of same bapt. 17 Decr 1693. Edward son of same bapt. 11 Octr 1696.

A very fine Norman arch, which separated the nave from the chancel, was, when the church was restored a few years since, removed from its proper place, and put at the west end, to which has been added a miserable tower, with spire; there is only one bell. A few old open benches remain at the bottom of the nave, curious from being of Jacobean date.

RECORDS OF THE ENGLISH PROVINCE OF THE SOCIETY OF JESUS.

MR. HENRY FOLEY has in the press the fifth series of this work, which we noticed in our Number for October last; this new part is the history of the College of St. Ignatius, or the London district, which includes the counties of Middlesex, Surrey, Kent, Berks, and Herts.

AN ACCOUNT OF THE FAMILY OF RYE. By WALTER RYE. Privately Printed, 1876. 8vo, pp. 108.

THE first portion of Mr. Rye's history of his surname is reprinted from the 'Herald and Genealogist,' and the 'Genealogist;' the second comprises a very interesting collection of notes on various families of Rye, accumulated during Mr. Rye's researches into the Norfolk family. The most noteworthy person whose deeds are here chronicled is Hubert de Rye, Lord of Rye, near Falaise, who some twenty years previous to the Norman Conquest saved the life of William the Conqueror, who consequently greatly favoured him and his family. From this Hubert de Rye to the present time as much as it is possible to learn of persons bearing the surname of Rye has been hunted up by Mr. Rye, and is recorded with an amount of straightforward simplicity and truthfulness, which we regret to say are rarely, though they always ought to be, the distinguishing characteristics of a genealogist's labours. Mr. Rye says, in his preface, "in no case have I assumed any relationships or connections for which I have not actual evidence, preferring to leave an admitted gap of a generation or two, here and there, to confusing and misleading others by assumptions which might, or might not, be correct."

We heartily commend this account of the Ryes to the attention of all our readers, and especially to those who contemplate publishing their researches relative to any particular family.

UDNY OF THAT ILK.

THE barony of Udney in the parish of Udney, co. Aberdeen, has been the property of a family of the same name certainly for five centuries; probably for a longer period, as although the records do not enable us to trace the line farther back, neither do they shew any other owners of Udney.

The Castle, 46 feet by 35, and above 100 feet in height, is a remarkable example of the old quadrangular tower so common in Scotland, converted into a more comfortable residence by the addition of an ornate top story, but not merged, as is so often the case, in a mass of additional building of lower elevation and various dates. The great hall, the whole size of the building, is twenty feet in height.

Udney has been described and views of it engraved in Leith-Hay's 'Castellated Architecture of Aberdeenshire' and Billing's 'Baronial and Ecclesiastical Antiquities of Scotland.'

Mr. Udney is also owner of the remains of the old castle of Knockhall in the parish of Foveran, which was accidentally burnt in 1734 and has not been repaired. In 1639 it was taken and spoiled by the Covenanting party, to whose principles its owner was opposed. The family burial-place adjoins the ruins of the Rood Chapel of Foveran.

The Udnys, who were patrons of the Church of Udney, are said to have been the last family in Scotland who kept a fool as part of their establishment, and the latest occupant of the post, James Fleming, who died about 1760, was considered worthy of a biography, of which 34,000 copies have been sold, and is also noticed in a series of articles (1831-32) in the 'Aberdeen Magazine.'

I. Patrick Udney of that Ilk was father of

II. Ranald Udney of that Ilk; Charter 11 Nov. 1406 by Ranald de Vldeny dominus ejusdem of certain lands and annual rents to support a chaplain in the chapel of the Holy Trinity at Udney to pray for the soul of his father Patrick.

III. Patrick Udney of that Ilk. 1417, Nov. 22 there was a perambulation made of the boundaries then in dispute between the lands of Tarwas belonging to the Abbey of Arbroath and the lands of the Lord of Wldny.

IV. William Udney of that Ilk in 1457 presents a chaplain to Udney, and the same year resigns his claim to the lands in dispute to Malcolm Abbot of Arbroath, who 22 September 1469 grants "Nostro armigero Wilhelmo de Vldny domino ejusdem," a feu charter of the lands of the Abbey in Tarves.

William married Christina Kintore, and was dead 1st October 1498, when his son

V. William, styled the Lord of Owdeni, was infeft; he married Janet Seton, probably a daughter of his neighbour Seton of Meldrum, and no notice of him after 1507 has been found. Richard Udney, of Minnas, whose daughter married William Leslie, of Balcairn, may have been his younger son and father also of Henry Udney, of Myness, 1538.

VI. Ranald Udney of that Ilk was served heir of his father 8 Jan. 1509, had a Crown Charter 10th August 1511. Married in 1510 Isabella Pantoun, probably a daughter of the Pitmedden family. Alexander, son and heir apparent of John Pantoun of Pitmedden, witnesses a charter by Ranald 9 Aug. 1511. On the 8th January 1511 he granted a Bond of Manrent "to ane rycht nobill and potent lord Wyllyam Erll of Eroll Lord Hay and Constabill of Scotland to become his man and servant all the days of his life and do him service with his kinsmen and frinds," signing "Ranald Oudne of that Ilk."

He had issue :—

William.

Andrew, of Tillery, married Janet Lyell, and had a son William.

Jane, married Michael, 3d son of George Leslie of New Leslie.

VII. William Udney of that Ilk married a daughter of Duncan Forbes, first of Monymusk, and left three sons :—

William.

Hercules.

Before the middle of the 16th century a family of Udney appear as citizens of Brechin and continued for several generations, some of them owners of the estate of Keithock.

VIII. William Udney of that Ilk was served heir of his father 19th June 1574 in the lands of the lordship of Udney; married Matilda Gordon, said to be of the family of William Bishop of Aberdeen, who died 1577, by whom he had :—

1. William.

2. Robert of Tilliecorrhie, burgess of Aberdeen, acquired some right to the Udney estate by contract of sale 20th Nov. 1634, and d. s. p. 1636.

3. Mr. Alexander of Auchterellon and Hillbrae in Aberdeenshire, clergyman at Haukines, co. Kent, was fined 1000 merks by the Covenanting party. It is noted in the Parish records of Ellon that he gave £20 yearly to the poor, and in 1632 made a gift of his land of Croft Modlie for charitable uses; in 1615 got a conveyance in security of Udney from his brother William, but in 1622 reconveyed it to William Seton, by whom, with consent of the other brothers, it was disposed in 1634 to Robert Udney.

He was served heir general of the said Robert 22d March 1637 and d. s. p., when his niece inherited Hillbrae.

4. John, mentioned as being "in the South" in Nov. 1625.

1. Helen.

2. Elizabeth, married Peter, 2d son of John Leith of Harthill, in or before 1605.

Spalding mentions that in 1630 the house of Mr. Robert Undy of Straloch near Udney was attacked at night by the Grants and 8000 merks stolen. Robert graduated at the University of Aberdeen 1612, and was probably a near relative of the laird of Udney.

In 1634 Peter Udney, styled of Auchterellon, went to Sweden, was a corporal in the noble Standard Corps, had recognition of nobility in 1647; his descendants are extinct.

IX. William Udney of that Ilk acquired the fee of the estate by resignation, executed by his father 27 May 1606, and in 1615 entered on the first of a series of complicated transactions with his brothers and William Seyton. He married Helen Cheyne, who was in all probability daughter of Cheyne of Esslemont, not far from Udney, and had:—

Jean Udney of Hillbrae, who married Mr. James Clerk of Tilliecorstie, and had issue.

X. John Udney of that Ilk, first styled of Belhelvie, had a charter of Newburgh or Knockhall 21 June 1634; was served heir of his brother Robert in the barony of Udney 26th April 1636, and on 13th March following had a Crown Charter in favour of himself in liferent, his son and heir apparent Alexander in fee, &c. In May 1639 he was at the successful surprise of the Covenanting committee known as the Trot of Turriff, and in January 1644 accompanied Irvine of Drum, Sheriff of the county, on an abortive attempt to arrest Gordon of Haddo at Kelly. He had previously fought for Charles I. in England, but on his return was compelled to subscribe the Covenant.

In 1664 he was one of the Visitors of the University of Aberdeen, having in 1658 subscribed £60 towards new buildings there, to which Udney of Auchterellon was also a subscriber. John was a Member of the Committee of Estates 1648-51. He married Isobel Fraser and was dead in 1665, leaving four sons, and probably a daughter Anne, who married Sir Samuel Forbes of Foveran, co. Aberdeen, baronet, and had issue:—

1. Alexander.

2. Robert of Auchterellon.

3. John of Cultercallen and Newtyle, who registered arms about 1680 with a mullet for difference as a third son of Udney. It was probably this John who sat in Parliament 1681-86 for the burgh of Kintore.

He was alive in 1696 with a wife and six children, one of whom was John Udney of Newtyle 1704.

4. Arthur, a graduate of the University of Aberdeen 1662, merchant burgess of Edinburgh, registered arms at the same time as his brothers, his difference as fourth son being a martlet. He had a life appointment, through the influence of the Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Chancellor, along with Mr. John Vaus, as joint keepers of the Tolbooth Prison of Edinburgh, but they were deprived of this office by the Privy Council 1 November 1686, being held blameable for the escape of Mr. Alexander Shiell, a Presbyterian minister and preacher at conventicles, disguised in women's clothes.

Arthur married Isabella, daughter of John Douglas, merchant burgess of Aberdeen; she was 1683 October 3d served heir of her mother Margaret Jack or Douglas widow, in a right of fishing in the River Dee.

In 1683 a Mr. John Udney was one of the heirs of his Uncle William Downie, one of the clerks of Council and Session.

XI. Alexander Udney of that Ilk was served heir of his father 20 August 1669 in various lands in Aberdeenshire and annual rents in the county of Berwick, payable out of the estates of the Renton family. He married Anna Renton, probably of the Rentons of Billy, co. Berwick, and they and their eldest son John had a Crown Charter 1671 May 24, on his resignation, of the lands and barony of Udney, &c., with the privilege of a market or fair called Christ's fair, the barony of Fiddes, right of patronage of the chaplaincy of St. Mary, and of the church and chaplaincy of Udney, the lands and barony of Newburgh or Knockhall, with patronage of the chaplaincy of Newburgh, right of fishing in the Ythan, &c., all united into the barony of Udney.

The arms of the family, like the spelling of their surname, had up to this period undergone many variations, and have always presented more of the pictorial character than is usual in Scottish coats. We find them in old MSS. given as Gules, two hounds climbing to a hart mounted on a tree proper; next, Gules, a fess Argent between two garbs Or and a greyhound courant of the second; afterwards, Gules, three fleurs-de-lis Or and two greyhounds leaping at a hart's head Argent; again, Gules, a fleur-de-lis held up by two greyhounds séjant Argent. Another form is Argent, a tree proper growing out of the base between two greyhounds countersalient Azure, which is the nearest approach to the arms of Wood, and seems to suggest a belief in a common origin of the Udnys or Woodneys (as the name is sometimes spelt) with the Woods.

On the 21 June 1665 Alexander Udny of that Ilk obtained a warrant from Sir Alexander Erskine, Lord Lyon, to bear the arms as follows, with supporters as chief of his name, representer of a family of Free Barons holding direct of the Crown; Gules, a stag's head coupéd and cabossed Or, in honour point two greyhounds Argent, countersalient collared of the first and second, with three fleurs-de-lis, two in chief and one in base. Crest, a fleur-de-lis, Gules; supporters, two naked savages wreathed about the head and middle with green branches, resting their interior hands on the shield and supporting in the other hand a gigantic baton proper. This rather confused blazon was modified when the new Register was formed under authority of Act of Parliament 1672, when Alexander and his three brothers all matriculated. Gules, two greyhounds countersalient argent collared of the field, in the honour point a stag's head coupéd attyred with ten tynes all betwixt three fleurs-de-lis, Or; the motto is added "All my hope is in God."

In 1685 he obtained an Act of Parliament granting him the privilege of a weekly market and three fairs annually, to be held in Kirktoon of Udny.

Alexander Udny, who was alive in 1690, had issue:—

1. John.
2. Alexander, living 1696.
 1. Magdalene, married Robert Grahame of Creigie.
 2. Elizabeth, living 1696.
3. Anne, married John Sandilands of Countess wells, and had a son John, who took the name of Udny.
4. Christina, living, 1696.

NOTES RELATING TO THE FAMILY OF TYNDALE, OF
STINCHCOMBE AND NIBLEY IN GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

BY B. W. GREENFIELD, BARR. AT LAW.

I have in vain searched the Registers of the Bishops of Lincoln, Ely, Worcester, and Hereford for the ordination of William Tyndale-alias-Huchyns. The nearest approach to the subject of inquiry was the discovery in the Act Book of Bishop Alcock at Worcester, that, on 25 April 1483, Letters-dimissory were granted to William Huchyns, Scholar, a native of the Diocese, enabling him to be admitted by any other Bishop into the lesser and sacred orders. By virtue of these letters, at a General Ordination, celebrated on 20 May 1486, in the Cathedral of Hereford, William Huchyns, of the diocese of Worcester, was ordained Deacon-secular on the title given him by the Abbey of St. Augustine, Bristol. (Register, MYLLYNG).

Prior to 33 Hen. VIII., 1541, the whole of Gloucestershire was in the diocese of Worcester, and formed an Archdeaconry, called the Archdeaconry of Gloucester.

Query: Is this William Huchyns identical with William Tyndale alias Huchyns, the Martyr? If he is, then the Martyr's birth and ordination must be set back to earlier dates than have been assigned to them. Assuming that he was eighteen years old when these letters-dimissory were granted in 1483, he was verging on seventy years of age at the time of his death, in 1536. No reliable inference can be drawn from the absence of the double name, or alias, as the insertion of both does not invariably occur: more frequently he is called by one name, sometimes "Tyndale" and sometimes Huchyns. In the articles ministered against Humfrey Munmouth he is styled both, "Hochin otherwise Tyndall," and "Tyndal or Hochen." Munmouth, in his answer, calls him, "Tyndal otherwise called Hotchens." Sir Thomas More, in his controversial attacks against Tyndale, not unfrequently calls him simply "Hychens," or "Hychins," as well as "Tyndale." Herman Rinck, of Cologne, in his reply to Cardinal Wolsey, simply calls him "Hutchyns;" and Robert Ridley, one of Bishop Tonstal's chaplains, and uncle of Nicholas Ridley, the Martyr, calls him "William Hichyns otherwise Tyndale."

Reverting to the William Huchyns, who was admitted to Deacon's Orders, at Hereford, in 1486: I have met with an incident which most probably relates to him. In the Register of Bishop Silvestro Gigli, called in monkish Latin "de Gigliis," or "de Liliis," who occupied the See of Worcester from 1498 to 1521, there is a certificate, dated 10 August 1513, of the benefices throughout the diocese, the names of the resident clergy, and the sums charged on their respective stipends, for the purpose of levying and collecting the first of four entire Tenths conceded by the clergy, in the convocation held at St. Paul's Cathedral from 6 February to 17 December 1512, in respect of the subsidy granted to the king by Parliament, in 3 and 4 Hen. VIII. In this account, which is in Latin, there is an entry to the effect that William Huchyns, chaplain, officiating minister of the parish church of Little Comberton, in the deanery of Pershore, is charged with the sum of 6s. 8d. in respect of his stipend, in the absence of Roger Brereton, the rector, who is exempt from the payment because he is pursuing his studies at the University of Oxford. Little Comberton is in the vale of Evesham, and about eight miles north-east from Tewkesbury.

THE TYNDALES OF STINCHCOMBE AND NIBLEY.

THE following particulars have been compiled—during 30 years and upwards—from the Public Records; Wills and Administrations; Original Deeds; Abstract of Title; Parish-church Registers; MSS. in the Brit. Museum and Heralds' College; the Smyth MSS. at Berkeley Castle and other authentic sources.

The earliest and most reliable account of the family is that of John Smyth of Nibley, the antiquary and historian—who, as steward of the lordship of Berkeley—having free access to, made extracts from the Court Rolls and other muniments at Berkeley

Castle ; and who, with untiring industry, compiled several works relative to the county of Gloucester, and more especially to the Berkeley family and Hundred of Berkeley, that fill many folio MS. volumes which are described by Sir Robert Atkyns. Some, if not the greater part, of these MSS. are at Berkeley Castle. One of them, entitled 'Description of the Hundred of Berkeley,'—a large thick folio, the compiling of which extended through forty years and was finished in December 1639, only a few months before the author's death,—contains an elaborate account of the several parishes, manors and tenures, and a pedigree of almost every tenant—whether free or copyhold—within the Barony, or Hundred, of Berkeley.

In this work, under the head of "North Nibley," Smyth describes Hunt's Court as an ancient capital messuage with fifty-eight acres of land, taking its name from that of its ancient owners, who made their abode there from the beginning of the reign of Edward I. : being held of the lord of Berkeley as of the manor of Wotton-Forren by Knight's service, suit to the Hundred Court of Berkeley, and by the yearly rent of 15s.

After giving the descent of the property in the family of Hunt, he states that it came to the family of Tyndale thus:—"Lastly, another John Hunt, towards the end of King Edward IV., left issue a daughter married to

Hugh Tyndall, alias Hutchens, father of John Tyndall, alias Hutchens, father of Thomas, father of

Richard Tyndall, who died 19 Eliz., father of Richard, who died in 18 Jacobi, father of

Thomas Tyndall, father of Thomas Tyndall that now is A^o 1639, ward to the king for other land holden by knight service in capite, as the office, or inquisition, found after his death sheweth."

The deed of entail, in 1542, of Alice Tyndale, widow,—of which an abstract is given below—proves that Thomas Tyndale—(grandson, according to the above extract, of Hugh by the above heiress of Hunt's Court)—married Alice Hunt, sister and sole heir of Thomas Hunt, cousin and heir of John Hunt, and that she possessed messuages and lands within the Lordship of Nibley and Wotton, which descended to her after the death of her brother. Assuming that Smyth, from the remarkable accuracy accorded to his compilations, is correct in this instance, we may conclude that two members of the Tyndale family, a grandfather and grandson, matched with heiresses of the name of Hunt, and that they were of the same kin, as the lands of both were situated in Nibley and within the manor of Wotton. If, on the contrary, there was only one match with an heiress of Hunt,—as there is proof of that between Thomas Tyndale and Alice, sister and sole heir of Thomas

Hunt,—Smyth must have erred in marrying her to Hugh the grandfather. At the same time it is due to him to say that, in accordance with his proverbial accuracy, his account of the Tyndale descent from the first Thomas is proved to be correct. He is, however, inaccurate in stating that John Tyndale, alias Hutchens (son of Hugh) was father of Thomas : for—according to an original deed of lease, dated 5 April 2 Hen. VIII., of which a complete abstract is given below—Thomas Tyndale, alias Huchyns, who became lessee of Melksham's Court, was son of Richard. Probably this Richard and John were brothers. On this assumption, Smyth's error is reduced to small dimensions : for we learn from Foxe that the Martyr had a brother, John Tyndale, a merchant, who was living in 1530.

The use of the same alias by the Martyr and the family at Stinchcombe; the fact of the Martyr having brothers named Edward and John, and the statements of Stokesley and Smyth conduce to the belief that there were four brothers, viz., Richard of Melksham's Court, the progenitor of the Stinchcombe and Nibley line and its various branches; Edward of Hurst in Slimbridge and Pull Court, progenitor of the Thornbury line; William the Martyr, and John the merchant. The Martyr cannot be placed lower down in the pedigree, nor be identified with William the brother of Thomas, of whose history I am able to give an outline.

Upon the attainder and execution of Sir Adrian Fortescue, knight banneret, a knight, also, of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, in 31 Hen. VIII. 1539, and the consequent seizure of all his possessions by the Crown, the title-deeds and other records affecting his lands passed into the Court of Augmentations.

The manors of Bradston and Stinchcombe—being the inheritance of his first wife—were not subject to forfeiture under the attainder. This lady was Anne, daughter of Sir William Stonor of Stonor, co. Oxford, knt. and sister and sole heir of John Stonor, Esq. She died on 14 June 1518, leaving issue, by Sir Adrian, two daughters. Frances, the second daughter, married Thomas Fitzgerald, 10th Earl of Kildare, and died without issue.

Margaret Fortescue, the eldest daughter, who thus became sole surviving child and heir of her mother, married Thomas, 1st Lord Wentworth of Nettlested. By Patent, dated 28 May 33 Hen. VIII., 1541, Lord Wentworth had special livery of all the lands which descended to his wife on the death of her mother, whereby he became possessed of these and other manors in Gloucestershire, whilst the records relating to them were retained by the Crown.

Thus several records, entitled 'Fortescue's Lands,' ranging over a period of 73 years from 2 Edw. IV., 1462, to 27 Hen. VIII., 1535, comprising original deeds, bailiffs' accounts, and court-rolls of the manors of Bradston and Stinchcombe, are found preserved among the Public Records.

A minute search through these records has been rewarded by the accession of additional data and by the discovery that members of the Martyr's family were settled in the parish of Stinchcombe—(which adjoins that of Nibley)—before the year 1478.

Abstract of Title Deeds of the Rev. William Tyndale, Rector of Charfield, (1749 to Feby. 1763) made by George Tyndale, Esq., of Bathford, about Nov. 1762: which abstract is now in possession of B. W. Greenfield 1877.

JOHN HUNT, by deed poll dated Saturday next, after the feast of St. Bartholomew (26 August) 2 Hen. VI. (1424), gives and grants to Robert Stanshaw and John Skey, senior, all his tenements, pastures, rents, and reversions, with all their appurts., in NORTH NIBLEY, within the MANOR OF WOTTON UNDER EGGE to Hold to the said Robert Stanshaw and John Skey and their heirs for ever of the chief Lord of the fee by the Rents and Services accustomed.

"TEBETA HOCHYNS" holds as a FREE TENANT within the manor of STINCHCOMBE (with two others) a messuage and half a virgate of land with a wood at an annual rent of 13s. 4d., due to the lord of the manor at Michaelmas 18 E. IV. (1478).

The same as next above.

"TEBOTA HOCHYNS"—as Farmer of the lord's demesne lands,—in May 18 E. IV. (1478)—holds by Indenture, THE MANOR, with the meadows and pastures and appurtenances thereto belonging called "LE MILSH'MSCOURT" in STINCHCOMBE at a yearly rent of £4 13s. 4d.

"TIBOT HUCHONS," or "TIBET HUCHENS," farmer of "MILKES-H'MSCOURTE," is by Richard Stede bailiff of Sir William Norreis Kt. lord of the MANOR OF STYNCHCOMBE, presented at a manor court, held there on 18 Oct. 1 H. VII. (1485), for leaving the Dove-cote and Cowhouse in a ruinous state: sufficient time is given her to repair them before the next court under penalty.

She was succeeded—as TENANT FARMER OF MELKSHAM'S COURT—by RICHARD TYNDALE.

In what relationship Tebota Huchyns and Richard Tyndale (father of Thomas Tyndale alias Huchyns) stood to each other—whether of husband and wife, or mother and son—does not appear. Their names and juxtaposition, as to time and place, and the fact that their respective tenements were, after the death of Tebota Huchyns, held by Richard Tyndale and his descendants, and were leased together to the same tenant ever afterwards until they were purchased in perpetuity, suggest the idea that—in this as in many other instances—THE DOUBLE NAME, or ALIAS, might have originated in marriage.

HISTORY OF THE BEAUTIFUL ELIZABETH BLOUNT.

THE ISSUE OF HER BY LORD TALBOIS.

3. Elizabeth Talbois, married to Thomas Wymbish, Esq. After her brothers' deaths she claimed the title of Baroness Talbois, as did her husband in her right. The claim was solemnly argued before Henry VIII., who summoned for that purpose the two chief justices, Dr. Gardiner, Bishop of Winchester, and Barker, Garter King at Arms. His Majesty proposed this question to the two chief justices. Whether by law Mr. Wymbish ought to have the name (title) of Lord Talbois, in right of his wife or not. They answered, the common law dealt little with the titles and customs of chivalry, such questions having been always decided before the Constables and Marshals of England. The King then asked Dr. Gardiner, who replied that by the law he professed (the civil law) dignity was denied both to women and Jews. The Monarch objected to putting Christian women and Jews in one predicament. The law, continued Gardiner, as I take it, is to be intended of dignity whereunto public office is annexed, for in France women succeed as it were to their ancestors in dignities, as patrimonies. Therefore the custom of every region is to rule those things. Then the King asked Garter of the custom of England, who answered: That it had been always used so in England, as in France, that the husband of a Baroness by birth should use the stile of her barony so long as she liveth, and if he be tenant by courtesy, then that he might use it for term of his life. The Chief Justice confessed that custom concerning the tenant by courtesy to be consonant to the common law, for the common law admitted him to all his wife's inheritances of which he was seized during the coverture, and that might descend to their issue, and the dignity is a parcel of the inheritance. Which Dr. Gardiner confessed, adding that the law granting the more, which is the possession of the barony, cannot be intended to deny the less, which is the dignity, a thing incident to it. As it stood in the law, said the King, that tenants by courtesy should have the dignity, so it stood with reason, but I like not that a man should be this day a lord, and to-morrow none without crime committed, and it must so fall out in the husband of a Baroness, if she die never having had by him any children. The Chief Justice confirmed, that in that point the common law dissented not much from the King's reason, for the husband that never had issue is thought to have no interest in law in his wife's inheritance, more than in respect only that he is a husband; but having a child, then he has acquired a state in law, and is admitted to do homage, and not before.

* Kersley and Debrett say the title of Talbois became extinct in 1550.

Then the King moved this question. If the crown of England should descend to his daughter, whether her husband should use the stile of England? The Chief Justice answered. Not by right but by grace, because the crown of England is out of the law of courtesy, but if it were subject thereto, then it was clear. The King for resolution said: That forasmuch as by their speeches he understood there was no force of reason nor law to give the name to him that had no issue by his wife, that neither Mr. Wymbish, nor none other from thenceforth should use the stile of his wife's dignity but such as by courtesy of England hath also right to her possessions for term of his life. The which opinions the persons aforementioned applauding, so the sentence stood.

This most curious business deserves to be fully transcribed. The custom was different in distant ages of the monarchy, but it was not an improper decision. What relates to the question respecting the crown matrimonial has been always acted upon, it was given by Parliament to Philip of Spain, it was denied to Prince George of Denmark. The wise Gardiner thought of this dialogue, no doubt, when he became Mary's prime minister, and had the ordering of the settlement of his royal mistress. We may presume this decision was made after 1536, as Barker, Garter, had not his appointment until that year. No doubt Mr. Wymbish's wife continued to be Baroness Talbois. Leland, speaking of Mr. Wymbish, says in his 'Itinerary,' Wimbishe hath Nokton Park Priory, and ys besides a man of great possessions, and auncient. He married the Lord Taylbois sister. This was St. Mary Magdalen's Priory, at Nocton in Lincolnshire, for Augustine Canons, valued at the Dissolution, according to Speed, at £52. 19s. 2½d., but by Tanner only at £44. Mr. Wymbish obtaining the Priory made it his residence. Being left a widow, this lady, named Elizabeth Talbois, married to Lord Ambrose Dudley, third, but at length eldest surviving son of John Dudley, the Great Duke of Northumberland, K.G. Lord Ambrose was afterward created Earl of Warwick, Vicount Lisle, K.G. She was the second wife of this good Earl of Warwick. Like his first lady, she did not live with him but a little time, dying before he obtained his honours. She is usually called Elizabeth daughter of Sir Gilbert Taylboys, Knt., sister and sole heir of George lord Taylboys. She is thus designated on the tomb of her husband in St. Mary Chapel in the church of Warwick church, in the Sidney Papers, and by Glover in the 'Titles of Honour,' published by his nephew Milles. It appears evident that she survived her sister, or at least had for her perparty Kime, and its dependencies, which at her death went by descent to the Dimocks of Scrivelsby.*

THE CHILD OF LADY TALBOIS BY HENRY VIII.

Henry, only child of this connection, proving, says Lord Herbert, so equally like to both parents, that he became the best emblem of their mutual affection, was call'd Henry Fitz Roy by the King, and so much avowed by him, that having attained the age of six years he was made knight publicly, i.e. Knight of the Garter, June 18, 1525, then advanced to the dignity of the Earl of Nottingham, and on the same day created Duke of Richmond and Somerset, the titles being limited to his heirs male, £40 per annum being settled upon him. The whole of the ceremony was performed at the then royal palace of Bridewell, in London. He had an appointment of Lieutenant General of the East, West, and Middle Marches of Scotland given him on the following day, and on the 26th of the same month was constituted Lord High Admiral of England, Ireland, Normandy, etc.

Thus recognized as the King's son, and raised to the highest honours an illegitimate prince could be, Henry placed him under the tuition of Dr. Cook, with Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey, the heir apparent of the Duke of Norfolk.

The noble youths studied at Windsor together in perfect love and friendship, a circumstance elegantly described by the Earl in a sonnet preserved in his works. From whence they both went to study at Paris. Their stay there could not have been long. They left England in November, 1532. Prior to this, in 1530, he had the Lieutenancy of Ireland given him, but being too young to go thither, Sir William Shetlington, Knt., was constituted his deputy.

He soon withered, and died at St. James's Palace, near Charing Cross, July 24, 1536, being then about seventeen years of age. His body was sent to the Church of the Monastery of Thetford, and a tomb erected over him, but at the dissolution of religious houses his remains were removed to Framlingham, also in Norfolk, as was his monument, which now stands there on the north side of the altar. It has neither inscription nor effigies, but at each corner is a figure holding a shield, and the instruments of the Passion, the cornice is charged with compartments containing histories taken from the Old Testament. On the north side twice, and once on the south, are his wife's arms in a lozenge. At the east and west end, and twice on the south side his arms, England with a baton sinister and Talbois on a scutcheon of pretence impaling Howard, also England with Talbois in a Garter ducally crowned. Such is Martin's description of it given in the History of Thetford.

Sandford describes him as a Prince early in martial activities, of good literature and knowledge in the tongues, as may be collected from an hexasticon of the learned antiquary Leland, to be found among his written Epigrams.*

Lord Herbert, that he was personable and of great expectation, in so much that he was thought, not only for ability of body and mind, to be one of the rarest of his time, for which reason also he was much cherished by the King, as because he had no male issue by the Queen, nor did, perchance, expect any.

There cannot be a doubt but that he was very dear to Henry, who took uncommon pains in educating him, perhaps too much, for it is not improbable that he exhausted nature by teaching him, as Edward VI., his other son, too much for his years. The Duke of Richmond like him, became a man when a youth, the violence of martial and field exercises without, and profound attention to literature within doors, were too much for their years and strength, beside the Duke became a husband when he ought to have been a stranger to the other sex.

Sandford says, the King mourned him a long time after his death. It is not unlikely he had serious thoughts of procuring him the succession to the crown if he should have no male issue, in imitation of the plans which had been adopted in Castile and Portugal. It is undoubted he had as much legitimate claim as his grandfather Henry VII., and that was none at all. His death was certainly a great misfortune: he would perhaps have tended to soften his father's violence, he might have saved his friend the gallant Surrey, he might have been a check to the ambition and rapacity of Edward VI.'s courtiers.

There was something peculiarly amiable in the friendship of Richmond and Surrey. They determined to be brothers. The former to make them so married Mary his sister; little did either think that this lady would have been so base as to join with the other females, his relatives, to obtain his death by the axe.

Sandford says the Duke has these arms depicted with his wife's in a Book in the College of Arms marked I. 2, Standards, etc. France and England quarterly within a border also quarterly; the 1st Ermine, 2nd and 3rd compony Or and Azure, the 4th gobony Argent and Azure; over all a Baton Sinister Argent. An Esccheon of Pretence quarterly Gules and verry Or and Vert, charged with a Lion rampant Argent, on a chief Azure, a castle between 2 Bucks' heads caboshed Argent. His wife's arms are also—1. Howard, with the Augmentation, 2. Brotherton, 3. Mowbray, and 4. Warren. This Banner is supported by an Antelope Argent bezanty, acorned, hooped, gorged, with a ducal coronet, and chained all Or. The same arms here emblazoned for this Duke are also upon his stall in St. George's Chapel in Windsor Castle. Glover, Brook, Somerset, and York heralds give the same arms, as does York in his Union of Honour.

It is impossible to know why Henry, his father, gave him the particular Border and Coat of Pretence. This monarch was very particular in granting arms and augmentations, but he was apt to put too much in a shield, as is the case with this. Mr. Martin seems to mistake the arms upon his monument; he calls the arms in the escocheon of pretence Talbois, and he says the arms England impaling Talbois are also within a garter. I presume he means England and France quarterly. He had no right to impale any other arms than Howard, and he could not do that within a Garter, it being expressly forbidden for knights of that order to impale their wife's arms within the Garter, but it is to surround their own paternal or granted ones only; their wife's arms is borne in a separate one. The Duke had no claim to bear the Talbois arms, not descending from them, he being the King's son by Lady Talbois; the coat of pretence is not the Talbois arms, which were, says Heylin, Argent, a saltier Gules, on a chief of the 2nd three escallop shells of the 1st.

In Loder's 'History of Framlingham' is an engraving of the Duke's monument, which he thus describes as a Spacious Tomb of Freestone; the lower part of the 4 sides are adorned with 16 fluted pilasters of the Ionic Order; the upper part are History carvings concerning the most material transactions that happened in the first ages of the world, all cut in Basso Relievo, between the same number Caryatides. On the Top thereof, which is plain, are 4 images standing erect, at the 4 angles, but anciently 12, each supporting a Trophy of the Passion. At the West end are his Arms within a Garter, viz. France and England within a Border quarterly Ermine and Checky, or Compony, Pearl and Sapphire, a Batune Siniste of the 2nd, over all an Inescutcheon also quarterly, Ruby and Varrey, Topaz and Emerald, charged with a Lyon rampant Pearl, on a chief Sapphire, a castle between 2 Bucks' heads cabossed Topaz. This Scutcheon is in some places by itself, and in other places impaled with Howard quite round the pedestal; this, and the 3 last monuments, the author notices are enclosed by a wooden fence or screen of blue colour, having red iron spikes on the top thereof.

Unto him did that learned Antiquary Leland dedicate a Book of Copies, to instruct him to write the great and small Roman Letters; as appears by the following Hexasticon to be found among Leland's Epigrams.

*Ad illustrissimum Henricum Ducem Richmontanum.
Quo Romana modo majuscula Litera pingi,*

*Pingi quo possit Litera parva modo :
 Hic Liber ecce tibi signis monstravit apertis,
 Princeps, Anoiꝝ Spes et Alumne Gregis ;
 Qui tibi si placeat (quod certo spero futurum)
 Maxima pro parvo Munera Dona dabis.*

At Strawberry hill is a miniature of the Duke in his shirt and nightcap, which is embroidered with black.*

Hall says that the mother was a fair damsel who kept Henry in the chains of love as much by her accomplishments as by her beauty. The child partook of both their beauties.

We hear of two very opposite sights to which he was introduced,—the most splendid interview between Henry VIII. and Francis I., and the decapitation of that elegant, accomplished, beautiful, unfortunate Queen Ann Boleyn ; he was upon the scaffold with the Duke of Suffolk, Cromwell Earl of Essex, Vicar-General, K.G., and Sir Thomas Audley, afterwards Lord Audley, Chancellor. Sure the young Duke might have been excused such a horrid sight ! What a savage period ! We think when we read of the reign of the 8th Henry that we are in Turkey under the dominion of Solyman the Magnificent. Their characters bear some resemblance, but the Mahometan is more of a Christian, and the Christian more like the Mussulman.

Richmond had for one of his sponsors Cardinal Wolsey, to whom he wrote the following letter, which I copy from my friend Mr. Ellis's interesting work :—

“PLEAS yt youre Grace to bee advertised that at thys tyme I do write unto the same not oonly to make a demonstracion off thys my proceeding in writinge, but also in my right humble and lowly wise to beseeche youre Grace off youre dayly blissynge and pardone for that I have soo longe tyme delayed and forborne to write unto youre Grace to whos favoure and goodnes no creature living ys more bounde thane I am. And like as it hathe pleased Almightye God, and the Kings Highness moche parte by the meanes and good favoure off youre Grace, to preferre and advance me in honor, so shal I (God willinge) endeavor my selffe and applie my tyme for the attaynyng and encreas off lernynge, vertue, and cunninge, correspondent to the same, wherby I may be more able to do unto the King's highnes such service hereafter as shal consist with his mooste generous pleasure, wiche off all thyng under God, is and shalbe my oonly myende, entent and purposes ; as Maistir Magnus thys berer, Director off my Counsaill shall make relacion unto youre Grace, whome Almightye God evermore have in his mooste hoolie and blissid tuycion and governance. At Shireff Hutton the fourthe day off Marche by youre mooste humble Godsonne, H. RYCHEMOND."

This is no bad sample of the writing of this period. It is not so well spelt according to our present orthography as Sir Thomas More and some other learned men, but far better than others.

Here I must remark that I observe a vast improvement in the style and spelling from the beginning of the reign of Henry VIII. He was a very learned Prince. His subjects copied his example, even the ladies of his court were not only taught to read and write but understood the learned languages. Richmond had the best of educations, and the advantage of the society of Surrey, Wyatt, and other men of genius, and probably had he lived he would have distinguished himself in arms and letters.*

John gave his illegitimate son Geoffrey the surname of Fitzroy, which Henry copied, and Charles II. also adopted.

Henry VIII. always treated this son as a Prince. His Majesty and Cardinal Wolsey established for him a Council, as was done for the Princess Lady Mary, the King's legitimate, and then only legitimate child, according to his fickle will, for he for some time regarded the Lady Elizabeth not so, and then affected to own neither such when Prince Edward was born.

CHILDREN OF LADY TALBOIS BY HER LAST HUSBAND, LORD CLINTON, AFTERWARD EARL OF LINCOLN, K.G., ETC.

1. Bridget, married to Robert Dimmock of Scrivelsby, Esq. His descendants are champions to the Kings of England.

2. Catherine, who became the wife of William Lord Borough, father of Thomas Lord Borough, Lord Deputy of Ireland.†

3. Margaret, second wife of Charles Willoughby, the 2nd Lord Willoughby of Parham, descended from the Talbois family maternally.‡

* It has been thought that orthography was established by the translation of the Scriptures; it greatly assisted, but it began some years before. It commenced with Henry VIII.'s reign.

† Lady Borough's portrait by Holbein forms one of the superb collection lately engraved. How much is there one wanting of her beautiful mother!

‡ Collins and the accurate compendium under the article Lord Willoughby of Parham says, Christopher Willoughby of Parham, brother to William Lord Willoughby of Eresby, married Elizabeth, sister and heir of Gilbert Lord Talbois. This statement cannot be just, for she could not be his heir because he had children. This mistake might arise because ultimately, i.e. by Lord Willoughby's marriage, the Willoughby family became, in part, heirs to the Talbois. I suspect that Elizabeth was not sister, but aunt to Gilbert Lord Talbois, from this sketch:—

Christopher Willoughby of Parham. = Margaret Talbois.

William Willoughby 1st Lord W. of Parham. = Eliz. d'r & heir of Sir Tho. Heneage.

(²). Called Earl of Kyme in the annals of William of Worcester (Hearne's 'Lib. Nig. Scaccarii,' p. 498.) He probably was by another wife, as according to Dugdale's account of the Staffords of Hooke, and Hutchins, in his 'History of Dorset,' it appears that Alianor married to Strangwish, or Strangeways, was the daughter and heir of Walter Talboys by Alice Stafford his wife.

(³). From him descended the Lords Willoughby of Parham.

(⁴). From this marriage, as also the other here mentioned, is derived the present family of Dymoke of Scrivelsby, in com. Lincoln.

(⁵). Ambrose Earl of Warwick had 3 wives; the 1st was Ann, daughter and coheir of Will. Whorwood, Esq., Attorney General to Henry VIII.; 2, the above lady; and 3. Ann, eldest daughter of Francis Russell, Earl of Bedford, K.G. His 2nd, on his tomb in St. Mary's Chapel, in the Collegiate Church of Warwick, is called Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Gilbert Talboys, knight, sister and sole heir of George Lord Talboys. It is singular that her father is not called by his baronial title, nor her first husband noticed. This however would lead us to suppose that her brother Robert died before the eldest brother George Lord Talboys.

I have taken this Pedigree from Banks' 'Dormant and Extinct Peerage,' copying his orthography of Talboys, but I have added to it Lady Talboys' child by HENRY VIII., and her issue by Lord Clinton and Say, afterward Earl of Lincoln, K.G. The last note too is my own. I too have thrown it into a somewhat different form.

ALLIANCES.

It is impossible to trace the surnames of the wives of the earlier members of the family owing to the lack of registration of their marriages, but full particulars of the alliances contracted at a later period can, with two or three exceptions, be found.

1. For the pedigree of Barbara and Anne Lambton, the wives of Thomas Younghusband of Budle and John Younghusband of Newcastle-on-Tyne, see Surtees' 'History of Durham,' vol. ii., pp. 397, 174. As co-heiresses to their father, they were entitled to bear the following coat of arms:—Lambton; Sable, a fesse between three lambs passant argent, quartering—(a) Lumley; Argent, a fesse gules between three parrots vert, each gorged with a plain collar of the second. (b) Lumley (ancient), Gules, six martlets argent, 3, 2, and 1. (c) Audré; Sable, three covered cups argent. (d) Morewic; Gules, a saltire vairé argent and sable. (e) Thwenge; Or, a fesse gules between three parrots vert, collared of the second. (f) Darrell; Azure, a lion rampant or, ducally crowned argent. (g) Brus; Argent a lion rampant azure. (h) De Arches; Gules two single arches in chief and a double one in base argent, capitals and pedestals or. (i) Fitz-Roger; Argent, a lion rampant purpure. (j) Lancaster; Argent, two bars gules, on a canton of the second a lion passant guardant or. (k) Fitz-William; Lozengy, argent and gules. (l) Holland; Azure semé of cinquefoils and a lion rampant guardant, argent. (m) Thornton; Sable a chevron argent, a chief indented of the second. (n) Wanton; Argent, a chevron sable, in base an annulet of the second. They were fourteenth in descent from Edward III, and twenty-second from William the Conqueror (vide Burke's 'Royal Families with their Descendants,' vol. ii., ped. xv).

2. The pedigree of Elizabeth Hilton, the wife of Thomas Younghusband of Budle, is given in Surtees' 'History of Durham,' vol. ii., p. 26. As co-heiress to her brother John, the last Baron Hilton, she was entitled to bear the following coat of arms:—Hilton; Argent, two bars azure, quartering—(a) Emildon (b) ? Felton; Gules two lions passant in pale, ermine, crowned or. (c) Stapleton; Argent, three swords, the pommels in the nombril and points to the corners of the escutcheon gules. (d) Vipont; Or, six annulets gules 3, 2, and 1. (e) Warture of Whitwell

3. For the pedigree of Anne Clavering, the wife of Samuel Younghusband of Tuggall, see Raine's 'North Durham,' p. 213, and Wallis's 'History of Northumberland,' vol. ii., pp. 502-508. Her eldest brother, William Clavering of Berrington, who died in 1789, aged 82, had by his wife, Whittenham of Whittenham, co. Lancaster, and widow of Dalton of Thornham, four sons and five daughters, who appear to have all died without surviving issue. One of the sons, William Clavering of Old Elvet, Durham, outlived his brothers and died in 1825, aged 70. In his will, dated the year of his death, no relations are mentioned. Her second brother, Edward Clavering, was hanged, drawn, and quartered on 1st November 1746 "at the Tyburn without Micklegate Bar at York" on a charge of high treason for taking part in the Rebellion of 1745; and her third brother, John Clavering of Duddoe and Fenwick, died without issue. Her descendants are consequently entitled to quarter the arms which she would have borne as co-heiress had she outlived her nephews, viz.:—Clavering; Quarterly or and gules, on a bend sable, a mullet for difference, quartering—(a) Riddell; Argent a fesse between three garbs azure. (b) Grey of Horton; Barry of six argent and azure, on a bend gules a bezant.

Her grandfather, William Clavering, married Barbara Lambton, first cousin to Barbara and Anne Lambton mentioned above, consequently Anne Clavering was sixteenth in descent from Edward III through the same families. She was also thirty-fifth in lineal descent from Charlemagne, Emperor of the West, thirty-second from Alfred the Great of England, and twenty-seventh from Robert I, King of France (vide Burke's 'Royal Families,' etc., vol. i., ped. 32 and vol ii., ped. 15).

4. Elizabeth Lee, or Leigh, the wife of George Younghusband of Berwick. For a short pedigree of Lee and Selby of Lowlin, see Raine's 'North Durham,' p. 206, which might be augmented considerably from the registers at Kyloe. The first John Lee therein, who married Anne, the daughter and co-heiress of William Selby, and acquired Lowlin jure ux., was probably a descendant of Robert Lee of Lee, whose pedigree is given in Surtees' 'History of Durham,' vol. iii., p. 52. Elizabeth Leigh's coat of arms would be—Quarterly first and fourth—Lee; Or a chevron chequé, or and azure, a crescent for difference; second and third—Selby; Barry of eight or and sable.

5. Anne Hall, the wife of George Younghusband, Captain R.N., was of Cornish extraction. In her will, dated 27 May 1793, at Elwick, mention is made of "my brother Sampson Hall chief-mate of the 'Middlesex' East Indiaman—my brother-in-law Alexander Brand Surgeon at Falmouth, Cornwall—my sister Mrs Brand—my four children George, Charles, Delaval, and my daughter."

6. Mary Wood, the wife of Thomas Younghusband of Elwick. There is no printed pedigree of the Woods of Northumberland, but from MSS. in my possession they appear to have intermarried with some of the chief county families. Their ancestor is said to have migrated to the North from Staffordshire, and their coat of arms was identical with that borne by the Woods of that county, and the Woods of Thorpe, Yorkshire,—before 1838, when the tinctures were altered—viz. : Sable on a bend argent, three fleurs-de-lys of the field. Crest, a wolf's head erased sable, collared and ringed or (Granted 6 May 1578).^{*} Fallowden and Preston at one time belonged to the Woods, and some of the family farmed the estates of Presson and Downham, etc., etc., while others resided at Beadnel. One branch is now represented by the Crasters of Craster, which name was assumed on succeeding to that property in 1838. Incidental references to different members of the family are to be met with in Raine and Surtees. Hannah Wood, first cousin to this Mary Wood's father, married Sir Henry Grey of Howick, Bart., and was mother of Charles, Viscount Howick and first Earl Grey.

7. Anne Carr, the wife of Thomas Younghusband of Tuggall. The Carrs of Bowsden were connected with the Scotch Kers, being cousins of the Kers of Littledean, of which family a member, General Ker, contested the title to the Roxburghe dukedom and estates in 1812. "The ancient family of the Carrs sold their paternal estate of Bowsden to the late Sir Francis Blake" (Mackenzie's 'View of Northumberland'), vol. i., p. 381.

8. Pascoa Georgina Barretto was descended from a member (? Nuñez Barretto) of the family of Barretto, who left Portugal in the sixteenth century and settled at Goa and Bombay. In 1775, her grandfather, Joseph Barretto the elder, removed from the latter city to Calcutta. At a later period his son settled in London, and there is now no representative of the Barrettos left in India. In 1813 Joseph Barretto obtained a grant of arms from the College of Heralds:—viz., Erminois, three bars gules, on a canton argent the bust of a female habited ppr. Crest, a demi-tiger ppr. collared with three barrulets, and holding between the paws a star pagoda or. The ancient Portuguese coat of arms belonging to Barretto appears to have been—Gules, a chevron between three annulets or, and this was borne by the first wife of Joseph Barretto the younger, as co-heiress of her father, Luis de Souza Barretto, quartering—Argent, a lion rampant within an orle of eight fleurs-de-lys azure, for (?) De Souza. As Joseph Barretto the younger had issue a surviving son by his second wife, his daughter would be entitled to bear her mother's coat of arms with her father's coat on a canton.

GRANT OF ARMS TO JOHN FURSMAN, 1742.

(From the original, now in the possession of Dr. H. H. DRAKE.)

TO ALL AND SINGULAR to whom these presents shall come, John Anstis Esq. Garter Principal King of Arms and Stephen Martin Leake Esq. Clarencieux King of Arms, send greeting. WHEREAS the Reverend John Fursman Master of Arts, Chancellor and Canon residentiary of the Cathedral Church of St. Peter in Exeter, Rector of Lawhitton in Cornwall and Vicar of Lamerton in Devonshire, hath represented unto the Right Honourable Francis Earl of Effingham, Deputy (with the Royal Approbation) to the Most Noble Edward Duke of Norfolk Earl Marshall and Hereditary Marshal of England, that he is the son of Richard Fursman late of the Parish of Lamerton (by Johanna daughter and coheirress of Robert second son of Robert, son of Nicholas, son of John Rowe of the said Parish, and grandson of Thomas Fursman of the same Parish, where his ancestors had lived in good reputation for several ages. Yet as there is not any entry of them, his Paternal Ancestors, or of any Coat Armor belonging to them in the Heralds' Office, He did therefore pray his Lordship's Warrant for our Devising and Granting such Arms as may hereafter be borne by him and the Descendants of his Body hereafter to be begotten, with a Crest thereto to be borne by such Descendants, And that he may likewise have liberty to place the said Arms upon any Tomb or Monument which shall be erected by him in Memory of his late Wife Martha the Daughter of Jasper Radcliff late of St. Thomas near Exeter Esq. and also in memory of Martha Fursman their Daughter both lately deceased. And that if in case the said John Fursman should chance to dye without Issue of his Body hereafter to be begotten it might then be lawful to and for Thomas Wyat now residing at the Dock near Plymouth Son of Thomas Wyat of Tavistock by Agnes the sole Daughter and Heiress of Richard Fursman by his wife Agnes Ebbesworthy of Bridestow, which said Richard Fursman was elder Brother of Richard the Petitioner's Father, who bore the same Christian name, and for the Descendants of the Body of the said Thomas Wyat to use and bear the said Arms and Crest. AND FORASMUCH as his Lordship duly considering the premisses did by Warrant under his Hand and Seal bearing Date the twentieth day of May Instant, Order and Direct Us to Devise Grant and Assign such Arms and Crest accordingly. Now KNOW YE that We the said Garter and Clarencieux, in pursuance of the Consent of the said Earl of Effingham, and by Virtue of the Letters Patent of Our Offices, to each of Us respectively Granted under the Great Seal of Great Britain, have Devised, and by these Presents Do Grant and Assign unto the said John Fursman Master of Arts, the Arms following that is to say, GULES A SALTIRE DOVE-

TAIL ARGENT BETWEEN A BOOK EXPANDED IN CHIEF PROPER, IMBELISHED GOLD, AND THREE CROSSES BOTONY OR, to be born and used by him, the said John Fursman Master of Arts, and also to be born by the Descendants of his Body to be Begotten together with the following Crest that is to say A LYON PASSANT WITH WINGS ELEVATED ARGENT, COLLARED DOVE-TAIL GULES, REPOSING HIS DEXTER PAW ON A CROSS AS IN THE ARMS, which are in the Margin hereof more lively depicted. AND we do hereby further Grant to the said John Fursman Master of Arts, full Power and Authority to place the said Arms upon any Monument he shall erect to the Memory of Martha his aforesaid Wife, and of Martha their Daughter, both lately deceased, and in case the said John Fursman Master of Arts should chance to dye without Issue, Then and in such case only, We do further in and by these Presents give and Grant full Power Liberty and Authority to the before-mentioned Thomas Wyat now residing at the Dock near Plymouth (Son of Thomas Wyat of Tavistock, by Agnes the sole Daughter and Heiress of Richard Fursman by his wife Agnes Ebbesworthy of Bridestow, which said Richard was the Elder Brother of Richard the Father of the said John Fursman Master of Arts, for both the brothers bore the same Christian Name) and for the Descendants of the Body of the said Thomas Wyat to Use and bear the said Arms and Crest above mentioned according to the Law and Custom of Arms. IN WITNESS whereof We the said Garter and Clarencieux Kings of Arms have to these Presents subscribed Our Names, and affixed the Seals of Our several Offices the thirty-first day of May in the Fifteenth Year of the Reign of Our Sovereign Lord George the Second, by the Grace of God King of Great Britain France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, etc. And in the Year of our Lord God One thousand seven hundred and forty-two.

JOHN ANSTIS, Garter Principal King of Arms.

JOHN ANSTIS, Jun. Garter, etc.*

S. MARTIN LEAKE, Clar. King of Arms.

The Rev. John Fursman, Chancellor of Exeter Cathedral, etc., was the personal friend of Anstis, and succeeded him in the office of Registrar to the Archdeacon's Court, at St. Neott, Cornwall.

The above grant appears to have been procured for the sole purpose of adorning a sumptuous monument (or Mausoleum as Jenkins calls it in his History) which the Chancellor erected in Exeter Cathedral to the memory of his wife, and his only child Martha.

The marble busts of his wife, of himself, and a medallion portrait of his daughter, upheld by a cherub, all life size, are artistic productions of remarkable excellence. His own bust stood in his room until after his decease, when it was placed on the monument, and a blazing urn, which had occupied the same spot, was removed to the apex where it now stands.

The Chancellor was buried on the north, and his wife and daughter on the south of the Choir.* His portrait by Hudson, and that of his daughter by Gandy, and his original will descended with the above grant as heir looms to the writer, and the wife's portrait was bequeathed to the Radcliffe family, but the very magnificence of the monument defeated the cherished hopes of him who had reared and contemplated it as a structure ære perennius. By its magnitude it blocked up a window south of the Choir, and during the present restoration of the Cathedral, it was taken down, and Archdeacon Freeman, a principal agent in the matter, informed the writer that he sought in vain round the Cathedral, for a site large enough to receive it. It was consigned to a side chapel, and shorn of its dimensions to admit it under a canopied arch against the wall. The Archdeacon expressed his willingness to attend to any suggestions the writer might make, but whether the necessities of the case warranted the mutilations, and conveyed a right to effect them remains questionable.

Martha Fursman's Will (dated 19 May, 1723), was proved at Exeter 30 June, 1727; she was then enceinte, and made testamentary provisions accordingly; she mentioned her brother Walter Radcliffe, Esq., her brother-in-law Francis Gregar of Trewarthenic, and Darell Trelawney, Esq., and directed that £60 should be expended on a monument in memory of her Aunt Manaton in the Church of Tintenhall, Somerset.

This Martha Manaton was the relict of Henry Manaton of Harewood, near Calstock. By her will, collated at Bodmin, with a note that the original was retained by Mr. Fursman, she bequeathed to him her husband's books, and to her niece Martha, then unmarried, all the residue, requesting her not to sell her chariot or coach horses but to keep them for her own use. She desired to be borne in a lead coffin by her nephew Walter Radcliffe, among others, and buried at midnight in the Church of Tintenhall.

Ambrose Manaton, an ancestor, was one of Sir Francis Drake's Captains, and a portrait of the great circumnavigator was handed down under curious circumstances in another branch of the writer's family.

Harewood, which was afterwards under litigation, was the seat of the Saxon Earls of Devon, Ordgar the Earl founded Tavistock Abbey, 961 A.D., and his beautiful daughter Elfrida is well known in history as Queen of King Edgar, who it is said, murdered her first husband in the woods near Harewood.

NIGHTINGALE.—I desire to ascertain the ancestry of Lieut.-General Sir Miles Nightingale, K.C.B., 5 January 1815, M.P. for Eye from 1820 till his death, Colonel of 49th Regt., chief in command in Bombay and second in Council there till 1819, when he returned to England. He died at Gloucester 19 September 1829, aged 61. He married 13 August 1800, at Richmond, Surrey, Florentia Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Lionel Darell, Bart., by his wife Isabella, daughter of Timothy Tullie, a Director of East India Company, and sister of Frances (Tullie) who married Robert Sparks, Member of Council, Bombay. Dame Florentia Elizabeth Nightingale born 1777, died 20 Dec. 1863, at her residence in York Place, Portman Square, London. Had Sir Miles Nightingale any family?

APPLETON FAMILY.—The undersigned desires pedigrees of the Appletons of the West of England, and also information as to George Pyne of Cornwall, married Isabel dau. and heir of Roger, son and heir of Roger Appleton; and Henry Appleton, who was Sheriff of Bristol 1657, buried at Bedminster 7 Dec. 1663. He seems to have been the only son of Henry Appleton, and had an elder son John Appleton. Wanted also the father of John Appleton, who married Martha Knight 14th April 1664. She is supposed to have been the dau. of a merchant in Bristol. Any information more than can be seen in Barrett's 'Bristol' of the Knight family will be thankfully received. The clearing up of these questions might tend to unite the West of England and Kentish Appletons.

several children, of whom Mary married John Coplestone of Great Torrington. In 'Gent.'s Magazine' July 1st 1833, "At G^t Torrington, æt. 83, Sarah, dau. of Rev. Joseph Hall, Vicar of Salcombe." Also the name of the father of the Rev. Thos. Hall, Rector of Castle Camps, Cambridgeshire, resigned 15 March 1670, refusing to take the oaths, etc.—was living at Linton, Cambridgeshire, 11th April 1698; he married Mary, dau. of Peter Barker of East Dereham, Norfolk. Also the name of the father of Ann Hall, born 1680, d. 1745, married John Goodwyn, Mayor of Lynn, Norfolk, in years 1721–28–38 and 49.

All these persons claim descent from Bishop Hall of Exeter and Norwich. Blomefield in his 'History of Norfolk,' states that the Bishop died leaving no male issue of his sons at his death; but that is no reason that there was no issue after his death, his sons being men of middle age only. It is singular, though there are many pedigrees of Hall families published, there is none of the Bishop of Norwich beyond his own immediate family.

CARR.—Robert Ker of Cessford was Earl of Roxburghe in 1616. In the year 1812, Major-General Walter Ker of Littledean contested the succession to the then dormant peerage of Roxburghe as heir male of the first Earl. His arms were: Vert, on a chevron Argent 3 stars Gules, in base a unicorn's head erased of the second. He was connected with the family of Carr of Bowsden in Northumberland, with reference to whom I find the following particulars:—

Thomas Carr of Berrington died 9 March 1635, and in his will mentions his wife Isabel and his brother Andrew Carr.

Robert Carr, junior, of Bowsden was buried "24 Apryll 1680 in woolen and one affidaved receaved of daitt y^e 26th of y^e same." (Kylloe Register.)

LYNNE PEDIGREE (Vol. I. p. 345).—Deputy Inspector General J. Atkins Davis, 40 Waterloo Road, Dublin, sends us the following notes on this family:—

Andrew Lynn, Esq. of Ballynimony in the co. of the City of Waterford, in his Will, d. 5 Aug. 1664, pd. 8 Oct. 1684^o, mentions Richard Lynn my brother, and his son Andrew Lynn my nephew, my son in law W^m Dobbryn of Ballymakill, Esq. left £500 for the use of my dau. Christabella his wife and children, by deed of 1664, £500; my son in law Chas. Hubbard of Dromore, Gent. for the use of my dau. Mary and her children, £500; my two grandsons, Andrew Dobbryn and Andrew Hubbard left legacies. Leaves a legacy to nephew Minard Lynn of Dublin, £50, and to his son Andrew £50 more. To my sister Grace James of Bristol, £20. To Mrs. Mary St. Leger, wife of Captain Warham St. Leger, £5, and to her son 40^s, and 20^s to the rest of her children. To Mrs. Mary Aylward, £50. All my plate to be divided between my three dau'rs, Ann, Christabella, and Mary. My grandson, Andrew Carew, left two ploughlands of Ballynemony, etc. If my son, Robt. Lynn, be alive at my death, £1000. My son in law, Robt. Carew, of Gt. Ballyboro, co. Wexford, Esq., ancestor of the present Lords Carew, sole guardian of my grandson, Andrew Carew.

Mrs. Blennerhasset and Andrew Lynn are said to have been first cousins.

Diocese of Waterford and Lismore. Andrew Lynn of the City of Waterford, Clothier, in his Will dated 3 Nov^r 1732, proved March 1733, left property in Waterford to his wife Juliana, and appointed her and his brother in law, Robert Donovan† of Waterford, ex'ors. To nephew Lewis Phillips and niece Mary Phillips legacies for mourning. Mentions his dau. Elizabeth Lynn. To be buried in St. John's churchyard near his sister Phillips. This Andrew Lynn appears to have been the son of Richard Lynn, the brother of Andrew Lynn, Esq. There is a marriage bond, Court of Probate, Dublin, of Andrew Lynn of St. Michael's Without, Gent., with Juliana Donovan, of Kill St. Lawrence, co. Wexford, spinster, dated 20 May 1729.

Diocese of Dublin. Marmaduke Linn, Cordwinder. Will dated 13 April 1657, proved 16 May 1659. Mentions that my sister Elizth Erles left a small sum in the hands of Capt. Bonpaines. Debenture left by my father Jonⁿ Linnes (sic) now in the hands Capt. John Parnt bequeathed to kinsman Wm. Flynt.

RALEIGH FAMILY.—Is this family extinct?—if not, who now represents it? When did the line of Philip Raleigh, the younger grandson of the great Sir Walter (and who, according to Le Neve, was living in London in 1695, and had four sons and four daughters), fail? Also the lines of George of Fardell, co. Devon, of John of Ford, co. Devon, and of Sir Carey of Downton, co. Wilts (living and had three sons and two grandsons at the Visitation of Wiltshire, 1623), the three elder brothers of Sir Walter? Are there any known descendants existing from the three daughters and coheirs of Sir Walter the younger (the elder grandson of the author of the 'History of the World')? These were Elizabeth, died in 1715, having married 1st Sir John Elwes of Grove House, Fulham, who died 1702 s.p., and 2ndly Col. Thomas Raleigh (what relation?), who died 1726, and was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster. Phillippa, the second daughter, married Oliver Weekes of Tortington, Sussex, who died in 1689. Anne, youngest daughter, married William Knight of Barrells, co. Warwick, from whom I presume descended Robert Knight, Earl of Catherlough, who died in 1772 without surviving legitimate issue.

THE EARLDOM OF MAR.

FEW, if any, among our historic titles equal in interest the ancient Earldom of Mar, either from the romance attached to it as one of the most ancient hereditary dignities in the kingdom, or from the fact of its present possessor having been, by a recent decision of the House of Lords, placed in a position which, to those who do not understand the case, appears to cast a doubt on his title to the precedence of his ancestors. "Its origin," says Lord Hailes, "is lost in its antiquity; it existed before our records, and before the era of genuine history." In the following pages we propose, very briefly, to give an account of the descent of this most ancient dignity, shewing that Mr. Goodeve-Erskine, nephew and heir general to the last Lord Mar, is de facto, as well as de jure, Earl of Mar, notwithstanding the present Earl of Kellie has been adjudged possessor of a title called the "EARLDOM OF MAR,"* supposed to have been created in 1565. Of the venerable age of the title there is no doubt, for it existed at so remote a period that the names of its early possessors are well nigh lost. It is said to have been traced in uninterrupted succession to the Pictish period, when the title was called Maormor, a dignity inferior only to that of king. Melbrigda, Maormor of Mar in the ninth century, was slain in battle by Sigurd, the first Scandinavian Earl of Orkney. Sigurd, at least so says Sir Bernard Burke, cut off his head, suspended it to his saddle-bow, and galloped off in triumph. Melbrigda possessed a very prominent tooth. The violence of the motion caused by Sigurd's hard riding caused the head of Melbrigda to knock about, and the prominent tooth inflicted a wound in Sigurd's thigh, which festered, mortified, and caused his death. In course of time the title Maormor gave place to that of Earl. But enough of the age of fiction! Here we have only space for fact.

* Much has been recently published on this question, amongst which may be consulted the following pamphlets and letters:—

'Pall Mall Gazette,' 10 July, 1877.

Early in the fourteenth century Gratney, or Gartney, Earl of Mar, son and heir of Earl Donald, was husband of Christian, sister of King Robert I., and had issue by her:—

Donald, Earl of Mar, killed at the battle of Dupplin in 1332.

Elyne (or Helen), wife to Sir John Menteith, Lord of Arran, from whom descend the family of Erskine, Earls of Mar.

Donald married Isabella Stewart, and had issue,—Thomas, Earl of Mar, who married Margaret Stewart, Countess of Angus, and died without issue in or about 1377,—and Margaret, who, on the death of her brother, succeeded as Countess of Mar in her own right. She married, first, William, first Earl of Douglas, by whom she had two children, James, slain at Otterburn in the lifetime of his mother, and Isabel. She married, secondly, Sir John de Swinton, but had no issue by him.

Isabel succeeded her mother in the earldom as Countess of Mar in her own right. She married, first, Sir Malcolm Drummond, and, secondly, Alexander Stewart, illegitimate son of the Earl of Buchan, and died without issue by either husband. Alexander Stewart had, during the widowhood of the Countess, besieged her in her castle of Kildrummie and, before her marriage with him, forced her to make a charter, dated 12 Aug. 1404, purporting to give the Earldom of Mar, failing the heirs of her body, to him and his heirs. This unjust proceeding was soon revoked, and on 9 December in the same year Alexander surrendered it together with the castle, etc. The Countess on the same day (9 Dec. 1404) made a new charter destining the earldom, failing the heirs of her body, to her own heirs whatsoever,* and this charter was confirmed by King Robert the III. by his charter dated 21 January 1404-5.† It is from this date that Earldom of Mar now takes precedence on the Union Roll. On the death of Isabell, in 1419, her husband, Alexander Stewart, became liferent Earl of Mar, and in order to secure it to his own heirs resigned it to the king (James I.), and the king, on the 28 May 1426, regranted it to him and the heirs male of his body, whom failing, to revert to the king and his heirs. Alexander died in or about the year 1435 without issue, and the earldom devolved upon Robert 1st Lord Erskine (great grandson of Elyne daughter of Gratney Earl of Mar), who thus became de jure Earl of Mar. He did not however obtain possession, as will be seen hereafter.

* “Heredibus viris legitimis ex utraq’ p’tē.”

† This is the date assigned by Mr. Sinclair, ‘New Position of the old Earldom of Mar,’ p. 3. On the same page in a subsequent line he gives 23 Jan. as the day. The charter is given in Appendix to ‘Ancient and Modern,’ p. xix, and is there undated.

Elyne, wife of Sir John Menteith, had no male issue, and was succeeded by her eldest daughter, Christian, who married Sir Edward Keith of Syntoun, by whom she had no male issue, and was succeeded by her eldest daughter Janet, who married, first, Sir David Barclay by whom she had no children, and, secondly, Sir Thomas Erskine, by whom she was mother of Robert, first Lord Erskine. He died in 1452, leaving issue by his wife a daughter of Robert, Lord of Lorn, Thomas, second Lord Erskine, who married Lady Elizabeth Douglas, daughter of James, Earl of Morton, and dying before 1494, had Alexander, third Lord Erskine, guardian to K. James the IVth. He died before 1510. His wife was Christian, daughter of Sir Robert Crichton of Sanquhar, and by her he had Robert, fourth Lord Erskine, killed at Flodden 1513. He married Isabella, daughter of Sir George Campbell of Loudon, and had John, fifth Lord Erskine, guardian to K. James the Vth. He died 1552, having married Lady Margaret Campbell, daughter of Archibald, Earl of Argyll, and had:—

1. John, sixth Lord Erskine, Regent of Scotland. Restored in the Earldom by Queen Mary, 1565, of whom presently.
2. Alexander Erskine of Gogar, married Margaret, daughter of George, Lord Home, and had issue, Sir Thomas Erskine, of Gogar, K.G., created Earl of Kellie, to him and his heirs male bearing the name and arms of Erskine, in 1619. Died 1639. His male issue became extinct in 1829, when the Earldom of Kellie was successfully claimed by John-Francis-Miller, Earl of Mar, who became eleventh Earl of Kellie.
3. Arthur Erskine, died s. p.

Thus from the death of Alexander Stewart the Earldom of Mar had been dormant, till restored by Mary to John, sixth Lord Erskine, for a period of one hundred and thirty years. It happened in this way:—On the death of Alexander Stewart, liferent Earl of Mar in 1435, Robert Erskine (first Lord Erskine) assumed the title. He was served heir to Isabel, Countess of Mar, and “retoured” as such in April and October 1438,* was thus clearly recognized as Earl of Mar, and was so styled in several charters; but King James I. pretended to have succeeded to the Earldom in virtue of the resignation made by Alexander Stewart in 1426. But Alexander Stewart could not convey what was not his, except in liferent, and consequently his resignation of the Earldom was illegal. The charter of Isabel Countess of Mar of 9 Dec. 1404 had already settled the succession. This charter was ignored however by James, who set up in addition to the resignation of Alexander the cancelled charter of Isabell, made be it remembered under coercion, dated 12 Aug. 1404. The King on this title to the Earldom gave away certain of the Mar lands which it will afterwards appear he had no right to do. He was murdered soon after this, and his son King James the II., being a minor, his ministers carried on the warfare till he came of age. He then took up the cause, and in 1457 got a court held in which, on four separate points, Robert Earl of Mar (as a century afterwards he was declared to have been) was deposed on evidence which was proved to have been false in each of the four statements. After this the Erskines were deprived of their right to the Earldom of Mar for upwards of one hundred years, and saw their title enjoyed by different members of the Royal family and others.

* ‘Ancient and Modern,’ App. xxv, and Minutes of Evidence, Mar Case, House of Lords, pp. 386-7.

We now return to John sixth Lord Erskine to whom the Earldom was restored by Queen Mary, or as she is more popularly called "Mary Queen of Scots." "At last," says Mr. Sinclair, "a righteous Sovereign arose in Queen Mary who was resolved, so far as she could for herself and her successors, to remedy this prolonged injustice. She had ignorantly given away the Earldom of Mar to her natural brother, but on understanding the case for Lord Erskine, she cancelled the gift to her brother, and made him Earl of Moray. She confessed and lamented the iniquity of her predecessors, the five Jameses and their Courts, praised the unswerving loyalty of the Lords Erskine, and their intimate connection with her predecessors, notwithstanding their unredressed injuries, and restored the Earldom to Lord Erskine and his heirs general, as representing Isabel Douglas, Countess of Mar, and Robert, Earl of Mar, her heir, his direct ancestor. He was afterwards Regent of Scotland, and his son also, John, Earl of Mar, was High Treasurer, and at the time of the Decreet of Ranking in 1606, proved his antiquity as far back as 1404, when Countess Isabel got her Charter from King Robert III."

Before proceeding further it may be as well to explain the meaning of the term "Decreet of Ranking," because it settles one very important point—the date of the Earldom. King James VI. finding no order of precedency in Scotland, undertook to remedy such an inconvenience, the cause among a proud nobility of many disputes and much bloodshed. He accordingly appointed Commissioners to examine the evidences of each peer, and rank him with such precedence as the documents he could then lay before them would warrant. The evidence produced, by the Lord Mar before this Commission, was the charter of Isabell, Countess of Mar, dated 9th Dec. 1404, and King Robert III.'s charter confirming the same,* as well as some other documents, proving his heirship to the Countess Isabel, and the continued succession to heirs general, not merely to heirs male.*

The charter by which Queen Mary restored the Earldom of Mar to John sixth Lord Erskine is dated at Perth, 23 June 1565; it restored not only the title but all the lands belonging to it. It recites that after the deaths of the Countess Isabel and her husband Alexander "Robert Lord Erskine was retoured† in due order lawful and next heir of the said Isabell in the aforesaid Earldom, etc., notwithstanding that his predecessors were kept out of the possession of the same partly by reason of the quarrels occurring at the time and partly by the unjust refutation and hindrance made by obstinate and partial rulers and officers refusing the reasonable prayers and petitions made by the Predecessors of Our said Cousin often and earnestly praying and soliciting their entry to the Hereditary possession of the same," the charter then gives "to our said cousin John Lord Erskine his heirs and assigns hereditarily all and hail the said Earldom of Mar."‡ This restoration of the Earldom was further confirmed by an Act of Parliament July 29, 1587;§ this Act lays down with remarkable clearness of expression the whole grounds upon which the restitution was made, the most important being the recognition of Robert Earl of Mar as heir of Isabell Douglas, and this through three female ancestors. In this Act be it observed Robert (the first Lord Erskine) is always designated Earl of Mar. "It would be difficult to devise any language that could declare more absolutely than this Act of Parliament, with King James's sanction in 1587, that the Earldom of Mar was an old territorial Earldom, with lands inherited from and through female representatives according to Queen Mary's charter in 1565, which also detailed the iniquity of their long deprivation."|| After this the Earldom of Mar descended from father to son till John Earl of Mar was attainted in 1715. The only important events which happened between 1587 and 1715 were the assignment of precedence by the Decreet of Ranking in 1606 which has been

* The Earldom of Mar was placed by the Commissioners of Ranking above Rothes, created about 1458, and has so remained ever since. However Lord Redesdale finding this position incompatible with the presumed Mar title "created in 1565," disparages the Decreet of Ranking and the 'Union Roll' founded thereon, because, though Lord Mar produced before the Commissioners of Ranking the Charter of 9th Dec., 1404, he was (as his lordship stated in his letter to 'The Times' of July 6, 1877) "placed after the Earl of Errol, created in 1452, and the Earl Marischall created in 1454," (which perhaps has caused Mar to appear in some of the Peerages and Almanacs as created in 1457). But Lord Redesdale forgot that Errol and Marischall had official rank, higher than their Earldoms, as High Constable and Marishall. Moreover the fact remains, that though Lord Kellie's Mar title is supposed to have been "created in 1565," it was not ranked because unknown to the Commissioners forty-one years afterwards, while this, the only Mar dignity then acknowledged, was ranked with precedence of more than a century earlier.

narrated above, and a law suit in the Court of Session in 1626 between Lord Mar and Lord Elphinstone. "In the course of those proceedings Robert (through whom John Lord Erskine was restored by Queen Mary to the Earldom as heir to the Countess Isabella) was declared to have been lawfully Earl of Mar, and further the iniquitous proceedings of 1457 when the King usurped the Earldom of Mar, were condemned by the Lords of Session as illegal, and the usurpations declared null and void."*

The descent of the Earldom from John sixth Lord Erskine, the restored Earl, must now be told. He married Annabella daughter of Sir William Murray of Tullibardine, and had issue:—

John, Earl of Mar, seventh Lord Erskine, and K.G. Married 1st Anne daughter of David, Lord Drummond, by whom he had John, eighth Lord Erskine; and 2ndly Lady Mary Stuart, daughter of Esmé, Duke of Lennox, by whom he had, James, Earl of Buchan in right of his wife Mary Countess of Buchan, whose male issue failed in 1695, and Henry, on whom his father settled the territorial Barony of Cardross, ancestor of David Stuart, now Earl of Buchan and Lord Cardross.

John succeeded as Earl of Mar and eighth Lord Erskine on the death of his father in 1634. He died in 1654, leaving by his wife Lady Christian Hay, daughter of Francis Earl of Errol, a son, John, Earl of Mar and ninth Lord Erskine, who married Lady Mary Mackenzie, daughter of George Earl of Seaforth, who died in 1668, and had issue, Charles Earl of Mar and tenth Lord Erskine, who married Lady Mary Maule, daughter of George Earl of Panmure, by whom he had:—

1. John Earl of Mar and eleventh Lord Erskine.
2. James Erskine, a Lord of Session by the title of Lord Grange, died 1754, married Rachel, sister of Major Chiesley, of Dalry, and had, with two sons, John and Charles, who both died s. p., an eldest son, James Erskine, who married his first cousin, Lady Frances Erskine, daughter and on the death of her brother Thomas Lord Erskine in 1776 without issue, heir of John Earl of Mar and eleventh Lord Erskine. James Erskine died in 1785, leaving issue John Francis Erskine, of whom presently.

John Earl of Mar and eleventh Lord Erskine married first Lady Margaret Hay, daughter of the Earl of Kinnoul, by whom he had Thomas above-mentioned, who died s. p., and secondly Lady Frances Pierrepont, daughter of Evelyn Duke of Kingston, by whom he had Lady Frances Erskine, who married her first cousin, James Erskine. Lady Frances died in 1776. This John Earl of Mar set up the standard of the Pretender at Brae-Mar, on the 6th of September 1715, and proclaimed him King at Castletown. He was attainted by Act of Parliament the same year, and died abroad in 1732. But for this attainder Lady Frances would have been Countess of Mar in her own right. She left issue by James Erskine, a son, John Francis Erskine, restored as Earl of Mar, 17 June 1824, married Frances daughter of Charles Floyer, Governor of Madras, died 1825. They had issue :—

1. John Thomas, Earl of Mar and thirteenth Lord Erskine, of whom hereafter.
2. James Floyer Erskine, died s. p. in 1798.
3. Henry David Erskine, died 1848, married Mary Anne, daur. of John Cooksey, and had issue, Henry David, ob. inf.; John Francis, died unmarried 1845; Walter Coningsby, 12th Earl of Kellie, etc., to whom the House of Lords adjudged an Earldom of Mar, 25 Feb. 1875, supposed to have been created in 1565.

Before we pass on to the descendants of John Francis Erskine the restored Earl in 1824, it is necessary to mention the circumstances attendant on the Act of Royal clemency which gave back to him the hereditary honours of his ancestors. On the restoration of John Francis Erskine the Earldom had been dormant for 109 years. He was the grandson of the attainted Earl through his mother the Lady Frances, who but for the attainder would have been Countess of Mar in her own right, and also male representative through his father who was nephew of the attainted Earl. The latter was however merely an accidental circumstance, arising from the fact of his father and mother being first cousins, and in no way concerned with his claim to the Earldom which he sued for and obtained as grandson of the attainted Earl through his mother that Earl's daughter and heir. His being by his father's side the male heir of the Erskine family had nothing whatever to do with his right to the Earldom of Mar; had his father been Mr. Smith, or Dr. Jones, he would have been Earl of Mar all the same as is very plainly shewn by the following facts.

First, the Earl restored in 1824 was fond of alluding to the unusual circumstance that, though he was heir-male of the family through his father, he derived his right to the ancient title and estates of Mar exclusively through his mother, on whose death he inherited the Mar estates, though his father was still living. Second, that Sir Robert Peel and other speakers in introducing the Bill for reversal of the attainder referred in such terms to the great antiquity of the Earldom as to leave no doubt but that the Earldom intended to be restored was the same which had already passed through five female descents. Third, that the preliminary Report of the Law Officers of the Crown also declared the restoration to be through female succession, and the restored Earl to succeed as her heir, i. e., the heir of Lady Frances. Lastly, the Act of Parliament, dated 17 June 1824, which restored the Earldom states that "John Francis Erskine, Esq., of Mar, is the grandson and lineal representative of John the attainted Earl of Mar." He was and only could be lineal representative through his mother. One would imagine that this one assertion alone in an Act of Parliament was sufficient to determine once and for ever the question whether or no the Earldom of Mar was a dignity descendible through females!

John Thomas, Earl of Mar, son of John Francis the restored Earl, died in 1828, leaving issue by his wife, Janet, daughter of Patrick Miller of Dalswinton:—

1. John Francis Miller, Earl of Mar, fourteenth Lord Erskine, and as collateral heir male under the patent of 12 March 1619, eleventh Earl of Kellie. He died without issue on the 19th of June 1866.
2. Lady Frances Jemima, died 19th June 1842, having married William James Goodeve, by whom she had issue, with several daughters, an only son John Francis Erskine Goodeve, now J. F. E. Goodeve-Erskine, Earl of Mar and Baron Garioch, born 29 March 1836, married 12 Sept. 1866, Alice Mary Sinclair, elder daughter of the late John Hamilton, of Hilston Park, co. Monmouth, and has issue a son, Lord Garioch.
3. Lady Jane Janetta, wife of Edwd. Wilmot Chetwode, by whom she left issue.

On the death of Lord Mar in 1866, his nephew and heir, Mr. Goodeve, lost no time in asserting his position as Earl of Mar. He had been always recognized as heir, not only by his uncle, but by all his other relatives. He attended his uncle's funeral, and was afterwards present at the opening of the repositories in which the late Earl's family papers were contained, and signed a minute of that meeting as "Mar," his cousin, the heir male of the Erskine family signing as "Kellie," to which title he at the same time succeeded. Lord Mar's possession of the Earldom was next recognized in the usual form required by Scotch Peers, by his "service" before the Sheriff of Chancery, and by the matriculation of his arms in the Public Register of the Lyon Court at Edinburgh. After this time he repeatedly voted at the elections of Representative Peers, and his vote has been received and counted. His cousin Lord Kellie, the only person who could be in any possible way interested in the Earldom, fully and completely recognized him as Earl of Mar, both at the time of his uncle's death and for nearly twelve months afterwards. Here the story of the descent of the Earldom ends, and we must now notice the claim set up by the Earl of Kellie to an earldom of Mar descendible to heirs male only, a title quite distinct from the ancient Earldom, but which he asserts to be the only Earldom of Mar now in existence.

The claim* of Lord Kellie, or rather of the Lords Kellie, for the peer who succeeded Lord Mar and Kellie in 1866 died in 1872, and was succeeded by his son the present Lord Kellie, arose from the fact that the Mar estates and the Title went together. "It is generally understood that he (Lord Kellie) was anxious to obtain a title of Mar, in order to render more secure his footing in the Mar estates at Alloa, by giving him the appearance of satisfying certain conditions in the entail deed of these estates (made in 1739) which as Lord Kellie alone, he could not fulfil, and which his opponent, Lord Mar, could, as the holder of the Mar Earldom attained in 1715."† To enter into the history of this entail of the Mar estates is not intended here; it is sufficient for us to say, that these estates being in dispute, Lord Kellie contends that they belong to him as heir male, Lord Mar that they belong to him as heir of line.‡ As however they go with the Earldom, Lord Kellie must of course have an Earldom of Mar which descends in male line if he is to retain a secure hold on the estates. As far as Lord Mar is concerned he would of course be Lord Mar as heir of line whether he has the estates or not. The whole question therefore at issue is, as may be inferred from what has been already said, Is the Earldom of Mar a dignity which descends in male or in female line? We contend that it is a dignity which descends in female line. But on the petition of Lord Kellie, the House of Lords decided that he had "made out his claim to the honour and dignity of Earl of Mar in the Peerage of Scotland, created in 1565." If this decision be correct there are therefore two Earls of Mar, one who inherits a title descendible through females of which the "origin is lost in its antiquity," the other, a title created with limitation to heirs males in 1565, a title never dreamt of in dreams or read of in books till February the 26th 1875, for which no patent exists, or as far as can be ascertained ever did exist, for which not one tittle of evidence can be produced, and which nobody ever heard of till Lords Chelmsford, Redesdale, and Cairns came to the conclusion (based no doubt on their extensive acquaintance with ancient Scottish Law) that common sense told them it must have been created between the 28th of July and the 1st of August 1565. Had the matter ended here, with no decision adverse to Lord Mar and his ancient Earldom, and Lord Kellie duly installed in his modern Earldom, enjoying its possession in peace, we should not have thought it worth while to write this notice, but as the question has been recently brought before the House of Lords for a second time no apology seems necessary for doing so.

* An idea seems to have been held in some quarters that Lord Mar made a claim to the title. This is a mistake. There was no need for him to do so, being already in possession as next heir to his uncle. He merely petitioned the House of Lords to oppose the late and present Lords Kellie, as objecting to their claims, and hence the House of Lords did not adjudicate against him.

† 'Are there two Earls of Mar?' p. 25.

‡ The Entailers, in 1739, passed over the heir male in favour of Lady Frances and any heir-general, and they stated that should the title be restored (as it was in 1824) the holders of the estates, male and female, should carry the dignities and arms borne by the family before the attainder, viz., the old Mar dignities.

An attempt has just been made on behalf of Lord Kellie to extinguish the old Earldom on the Union Roll, and to insert in its place the new dignity, we cannot call it "creation," as there is no evidence of its having been created, of 26 Feb. 1875. A petition signed "Mar and Kellie" was presented to the House of Lords by the Duke of Buccleuch, on the 5th of June last, praying their Lordships "to order and direct that the Lord Clerk Register of Scotland or the Clerks of Session officiating at the election of Peers of Scotland, shall at all future elections of Peers of Scotland call the title of Earl of Mar on the Roll used at such elections in the precedence declared and established under the resolution and judgment of this Right Hon. House, and that the title of Earl of Mar may not hereafter be called at such elections in any other place." This amounts to a request that the Union Roll shall be altered by the excision of the old Earldom of Mar, ranking from 1404, and by the interpolation of a modern Earldom of Mar affirmed by a Committee of Privileges in 1875 to have been created in 1565. The Duke in presenting this petition gave notice that he would move a resolution in conformity with it on July 2.* This petition was read on July 9, and the Duke of Buccleuch moved a resolution in conformity with it. The Marquis of Huntly regarded the resolution as ultra vires of the House, and moved the previous question. Lord Redesdale said there was no proof of any one having sat in Parliament as Earl of Mar since 1377 except under new creations. Earl Mansfield said the peerage of 1404 remained to the present moment; and that the Committee of Privileges came to an erroneous conclusion founded upon no facts whatever. Lord Selborne said that it seemed to him that their Lordships would be going against the mind of Parliament if, without precedent, they were to assume the power which the noble duke asked them to exercise. The Lord Chancellor objected to tampering with Union Roll, and suggested a Select Committee to consider the matter of the petition of the Earl of Mar and Kellie and the precedents applicable thereto, and to report thereon to the House. The original motion was then withdrawn, and, on the motion of the Lord Chancellor, it was resolved that a Select Committee should be appointed to consider the matter.

We have in this brief account of the descent of the Earldom of Mar endeavoured to lay before our readers the leading facts of the case. If further evidence of their truth be desired by the ingenious reader we must refer him to the authorities cited in the foot-note at the commencement of this paper, in which he will find many points, which our limited space has prevented our mentioning, fully treated, together with the objections which are raised by those who take a different view of the question.

Since the above was written, we have received the Report, just issued, of the Select Committee of the House of Lords on the Earldom of Mar, in which, having considered the petition of Walter Henry, Earl of Mar and Kellie, they say :—"Viewing the claim of Mr. Goodeve Erskine as a claim to an Earldom of Mar older than, and different from, that which, according to the resolution of the House, was created by Queen Mary in 1565, it would, in the event of Mr. Goodeve Erskine claiming at any future election to vote in respect of such older and different Earldom of Mar, appear to be competent for any two peers to protest against his claim, and the proceedings would thereupon be transmitted to the House, and it would appear to be in the power of the House to call upon Mr. Goodeve Erskine to establish his claim to such older and different Earldom, and, in the event of his not doing so, to direct that no such older or different Earldom of Mar, and no Earldom of Mar other than that created in 1565, should be called at any future election, and that no person should have his vote received or counted in respect thereof. Under these circumstances the Committee are not disposed to recommend that any order should be made on the petition of the Earl of Mar and Kellie. They think it better to leave the statute to which they have referred* to be brought into operation, if necessary, at any future election of representative peers, in case any persons interested should be advised to resort to its provisions."

It now remains, therefore, for the Earl of Mar, to tender his vote at the next election of Peers for Scotland, and if objection be made to it, the House of Lords will have to decide, once and for all, between "Ancient" and "Modern."

UDNY OF THAT ILK.

XI. John Udney of that Ilk represented the county in Parliament 1703-1706, married in March 1701 Lady Martha Gordon, daughter of George Earl of Aberdeen, Chancellor of Scotland, and had,

1. Alexander.
2. George, Merchant in London, d. s. p.
1. Anne, married Charles Fraser of Inveralochy, co. Aberdeen, and died 24 August 1753, aged 49, leaving issue :—
 William, afterwards of Udney.
 Martha Fraser of Inveralochy, m. Colin Mackenzie of Kilcoy, co. Ross.
 Eliza Fraser of Castle Fraser, died unmarried.
 On the 6th Feb. 1793 these ladies were served heirs portioners special of their brother William in the lands of Inveralochy, Muckals, etc. Mrs. Mackenzie is represented by Sir Colin Mackenzie of Kilcoy, Bart., heir of line of Udney of Udney, and from her second son derives Colonel Frederick Fraser of Castle Fraser.

Lord Grange, writing in 1733, mentions a silly story of a quarrel between Udney and Farquharson of Finzean, the latter of whom he describes as not speaking the truth.

XII. Alexander Udney of that Ilk, Advocate 1728, Commissioner of Excise for Scotland 1742, executed an entail of the estates 17th January 1784, which was recorded in the register of entails 13 Nov. 1789, soon after his death. He married 25th Dec. 1758

Margaret, only child of William Duff of Braco, widow of Patrick Duff of Culter and Premnay, all in Aberdeenshire.

This lady, who possessed the estate of Eden and was known as Mrs. Udney-Duff, claimed the great estates of her father on the plea that the entail in favour of heirs male was invalid; the suit was compromised in 1724, she receiving £10,000 in addition to £3000 given her by William Duff of Braco in 1718.

Mrs. Udney-Duff left all her property to her cousin James Earl of Fife, grandson of her adversary, when fresh lawsuits followed between him and her late husband's heirs.

Eden passed to the heir of entail and belongs to his grandson, Mr. Grant-Duff, M.P.

Alexander Udney died without issue in 1789 and was succeeded by his nephew.

XIII. William Fraser-Udney of Udney and Inveralochy, who was served heir of entail and provision general of his uncle 2 Dec. 1789, and heir general 15 Jan. 1790. He died 13th December, 1792.

We now return to—

X. Robert Udney of Auchterelon, co. Aberdeen, of which he had a crown charter 22 July 1661. Twelve years after he matriculated arms as second son of Udney with a crescent for difference.

Robert married Elizabeth, only daughter of Colonel John Fullarton of Dudwick, co. Aberdeen, and died in January 1708 having had three sons.

1. Alexander dead without issue in 1712.
2. John, was 1 March 1689 served heir of entail and provision to his grandfather Colonel Fullarton in the barony of Birnes, Dudwick, etc., and assumed the surname of Fullarton. In 1712 he was served heir general of his father and heir special in Auchterellon, etc., which he sold; executed a new entail of Dudwick 1729: married Mary, daughter of Sir David Falconer of Newton, Lord President of the Court of Session, sister of David 5th Lord Falconer of Halkerton, and left two daughters, Mrs. Lidderdale, and Mrs. Moir of New Grange, and two sons,
 - a. John Fullarton of Dudwick was "out" in 1745 and specially excepted from the general pardon, and it is said travelled about the country in the disguise of a packman; he married Mary daughter of Sir John Guthrie of Kingedward, baronet, but d. s. p. 1 April 1768.
 - b. Robert Fullarton of Dudwick, Lieutenant-General in the service of the Empress of Russia, and Knight of St. Catherine, died unmarried 7 March 1786, aged 76.

3. James Udny, advocate in Aberdeen, married Jean Walker, and died 1761, having had issue,
 - a. Helen, born 1718, married Walter Cochran, Depute Town Clerk of Aberdeen.
 - b. Elizabeth, born 1719, died young.
 - c. Alexander, born 1720, died young.
 - d. Robert.
 - e. Jean, born 1725, died unmarried.
 - f. Elizabeth, born 1726, died unmarried.
 - g. John, born 1727, resided in Italy as a dealer in pictures and antiquities, was British Consul at Venice and Leghorn, married in August 1777 Selina Shore daughter of John Cleveland, M.P. for Saltash and Secretary to the Admiralty, by Sarah his wife sister of Sir Charles Shuckburgh, Bart., and died in 1800, leaving, with a daughter Julia who married 3 Sept. 1804 William Richard Hamilton of Lord Belhaven's family, Under Secretary of State for foreign affairs and minister at Naples, a son, Robert, afterwards of Udny.
 - h. George, born 1729, d. s. p.
 - i. Alexander, born 1730, d. s. p.
 - j. Ernest, born 1732, died at Grenada leaving, with a younger son Robert, George a member of the supreme council at Calcutta, married Temperance Fleming and died 1830, having had four sons.
Ernest Augustus, born 1801, died young.
George, born 1802, claimant of the Udny estates as next legitimate heir male; being then resident at St. Andrews.
Robert, born 1804.
Charles Grant, died 1844, leaving issue.
 - k. Margaret, born 1734, married Ross and had issue.

XII. Robert Fullarton-Udny, son of James of Aberdeen, was born 1722, F.R.S. and F.S.A., a West India merchant in London, succeeded to Dudwick on the death of his cousin-german, General Fullarton, in 1786, became heir male of the Udny family in 1789, although he did not inherit the estate till after the death of William Fraser-Udny three years afterwards. He lost no time, however, in establishing his right to the chief arms and supporters of the family, which were matriculated in his name in the Lyon Register, 22 Dec. 1789, the blazon being again altered; Gules, a stag's head cabossed Or between two greyhounds salient affrontée Argent collared of the field, in chief and base three fleurs-de-lis of the second; the savages are wreathed with oak leaves and the batons are described as resting on their shoulders.

Mr. Fullarton-Udny married, first, Miss Hougham whose sister was wife of Spencer 8th Earl of Northampton; second, Martha Jourdan and died 3 January 1802 leaving an only child Mary, who married 1785 Sir William Augustus Cunyngham of Livingstone and Milncraig, baronet, and had issue.

Mrs. Udny was in 1805 appointed sub-governess of the Princess Charlotte.

XIII. John Robert Fullarton-Udny of that Ilk and Dudwick, born at Leghorn 14 Nov. 1779, succeeded his uncle; he was educated in Scotland, entered the army, serving in the Guards, and attained the rank of Colonel. He married first, 1812, Emily, daughter of Thomas Fitzhugh of Plâs Power, co. Denbigh, and by her who died in 1846 had—

John Augustus, Colonel in the Army, born 17 July 1817, died unmarried 6 May 1859.

Colonel Udny, who for a great part of his life was in embarrassed circumstances, lived in or near London, at Boulogne and other places, but never kept up an establishment at Udny, or resided in Scotland. While a widower he formed a connection with an English woman named Ann Allatt, who in 1853 gave birth at Camberwell to a son, John Henry. Next year Colonel Udny came down to Scotland for a short time and married his mistress at Ormiston in East Lothian.

This, after his death, which occurred 29 Nov. 1861, led to a claim to the estates by the next heir, Mr. George Udny, on the ground that although Colonel Udny was of Scotch descent and a large owner of land in that country he had no domicile there, having been born in Italy and not having at any time been resident in Scotland, except on visits for short periods; the mother of his child was not Scotch, and it was very plausibly argued that the law of that country of legitimatio per matrimonium subsequens did not apply. The Court of Session, and on appeal, the House of Lords, decided otherwise, and confirmed the possession of the estates, above 9000 acres in extent, to the present,

XIV. John Henry Udny of Udny, who married 8 July 1874 Amy Camilla, daughter of Sir John George Tollemache Sinclair, Bart., of Ulbster, M.P. for the Co. of Caithness.

"Will written with my own hand." Witnesses, Rich. Weekes, Richard Crouch. Proved at Lewes, 17 Jan. 1624.

Nuncupative will of Joseph Weekes, yeo. of Playden, co. Sussex, d. 19 Oct. 1637. To eldest son Wm. £10. To each of his two other sons, Richard and Joseph, £100 at 21, and each to be the other's heir. To his 3 daurs. Martha, Mary, and Elizabeth, £100 each at 18 or marriage. To Elizabeth his wife £10. Rest of his goods, etc. to his br. in law, Richard Weekes of Ashburnham, who to be exor. Witn. Joseph Benbrigg, John Nowell. A codicil recites that whereas certain copyhold lands will come to his youngest son, he to have only £50, and his second son £150. Proved 10 Nov. 1637, at Lewes.

These two wills refute the notion, at p. 193, Vol. I., that the Weekes of Hurstpierpoint are descended from Joseph, br. of Simon Weekes of Devonshire, and, with the will of Joseph W. of Westham, 1658, and of Wm. W. of Bexhill, 1663 [ante], clearly give the ancestry of Richard W., grandfather of Rich. W. of Shoreham, who, in Burke's 'Landed Gentry,' is stated as a fact, not as a conjecture, to be descended from the Weekes of Devonshire. There were, it is true, in Sussex and in Devon, two cotemporary Wm. W.'s, who each had a son Joseph, and a grandson Joseph, but the coincidence ends there, and in all other respects there is no identity whatever. A John Weekes of Bexhill occurs as early as 1523, and several others of the name in the Subsidy Rolls of the Rape of Hastings, a Richard à Weekes being met with in a Muster Roll for that Rape as early as t. Edw. III. ('Coll. Top. and Gen.') The name was very common in East Sussex, and also in Kent, but there is no reason to suppose the families of the name of those counties had a common origin.

PEDIGREE OF RASBY. (Vol. I., p. 92.)

Christopher Rasby is named in the Will of Thomas Saintpool, of Wentbrigg, dated 26th August 1511, and proved at York, 18th June following. His son, James Rasby of Smeaton, by his will, which was proved at York, 4th May, 1555, appointed John Gascoigne, Esq., James Wilcoke, Robert Dey, and Robert Briggs to be supervisors. Addl. MS., 24508, f. 174, Assessment 2 Ed. VI., James Rasby, Kirk Smeaton. His son, James Rasby had two daughters, Margaret, married 10th June 1600, at Kirk Smeaton, to Robert Willson; and Mary, married 29th May 1604, at Hims-worth, to John Lepweeke. John Gascoigne, Gent., and James Wilcokks, the uncle of the heir, desired the wardship and marriage of the heir, which were sold for £20, 18th Feb. 1555. Book No. 8, Preferments and Sale of Wards, Record Office. His son, Hastings Rasbye, described in his will, dated 1st December 1643, proved at York, 26th May 1646, of Ackworth, leaves 10s. to the Poor of Ackworth, 10s. to the Poor of Kirk Smeaton, 4s. to the Poor of Little Smeaton, and 4s. to the Poor of Wentbridge. The wardship of his grandson, Hastings Rasby, had been granted by his son, Christopher Rasby, deceased, to him and Barbara, sometime wife of the said Christopher, and late wife of John Bateman, of Doncaster, also deceased. The testator names his sons-in-law, James Carter, deceased, and Richard Harley, of Norton Priory, who married Elizabeth, the executrix of the said James Carter; his grandchildren, Hastings Harley, Thomas Carter, John, William, and Thomas Lamb, and Thomas Lamb, Frances, Mary, and Ann* Ledsam, and Christopher, Walter, and Samuel Rasby, the children of his son, Christopher Rasby; daughter, Ann Lambe; cousin, Mary Ayrie; son-in-law, John Lambe, and his wife, Ann Lamb, to be executors; and if they renounce, Barbara Bateman to be executrix. Hastings Rasbye and Richard Hudson, qu., and William Hudson and Alice, his wife, defts. of Messuages and land in Templehurst and Carlton. His son, Christopher Rasbye, of Kirk Smeaton, by his Will, dated 29th March 1629, proved at York, 31st March 1636, leaves 200 marks to his sons Christopher and Walter, and if his wife Barbara be with child, a third part of the said 200 marks to such child; wife Barbara to be executrix. His eldest son, Hastings Rasby, of Kirk Smeaton, gentleman, whose second wife Eleanor was buried at Thorne, 15th January 170¹/₁₀; in his Will, proved at York, 28th April, 1680, names his son Richard, and daughters Elizabeth and Anne. In Chancery Bill, Mitford III., B. and A., Easter, 1712, it is stated that he left issue Richard, Elizabeth, wife of George Holcott, and Anne, wife of Daniel Hoyland. Richard Elmhurst, of Houndhill, gentleman, in his Will, dated 12th February 1673, proved at York, 24th March following, names his brother-in-law, Hastings Rasbie. Blome's 'Britannia,' 1673, in List of Nobilitie and Gentry of Yorkshire, gives Hastings Rasby, of Kirk Smeaton, Gent.—Ped. Fines, York, Hil., 18 and 19, Car. II. Womersley, Stubbs Walden, and Norton. His wardship and marriage were sold, 1st July 1629, for £30, to Barbara Rasby, the mother, and Hastings Rasby, the grandfather.—Entries of Contracts, Marriages, and Leases of Wards, vol. 97, Ebor. Record Office. Samuel Rasby, of Sheffield, gentleman, another son of Christopher Rasby, in his Will, dated 29th January 1700, and proved at York, 13th October 1702, names son Walter and his wife, daughter Susannah, late wife of Mr. Richard Boughton, of Sheffield, and wife Susannah, who was daughter of Christopher Naylor, Esq., and was baptized at Wakefield, the last day of February 1631, and in her Will, dated 21st June 1708, proved at York, 9th September following, is described of Sheffield, widow; she names therein her daughter Susannah* Turie, Thomas Rasby and Susannah Rasby, children of her son, Christopher Rasby, and Sarah Trantam, daughter of Philip Roberts, of Dublin.

* Abraham Ellis of Hoo, in his will, d. 1628, mentions his sister Elizabeth, widow of John Weekes of Bexhill, and their son Richard Weekes.

Richard Rasby, son of Hastings Rasby, was a litigious character, and constantly appears as plaintiff or defendant in the Court of Chancery. From Mitford, B. and A., part 75, pleadings before 1714, Rasby v. Watkinson, it appears that his wife Elizabeth was daughter of Thomas and Mellicent Fowler, of Coleby, Lincolnshire, and heiress of property in Coleby, Walcot, Alkborough, and West Halton, in Lincolnshire, and Waldby, Elhoughton, Estrington, Clementhorp, and Owthorp, in Yorkshire, and was under age when a settlement was made, 10th August, 4 Jac. II., prior to her marriage with her first husband, Richard Meager, of Wakefield, merchant, who died on or about the 20th January, 5 W^m and Mary, leaving by her two children, Matthew and Edith Meager; the former died an infant, and the latter became the wife of John Burton, of Wakefield, Esq., and was buried 5th July 1722, at Wakefield, with several of her children. The said Elizabeth married her second husband, Richard Rasby, shortly afterwards, and had by him three daughters, Mellicent, Elizabeth, and Susan. Vide also Mitford III., B. and A., 1694 to 1703, R. 77, Rasby v. Wade and Whittington, Mich. and Hil., 1703, No. 263, Rasby v. Mauleverer, Mitford IV, Pleadings before 1714, part 95, Rasby v. Hair.—Ped. Fines, York Trin. 11 W^m III. Richard Thornton, Ar., and Robert Wood, gent., qu., and Robert Frank, Ar., William Scholey, senior, Dorothy his wife, William Scholey, junior, Jane Broadhead, widow, Thomas Fletcher, Jane his wife, Richard Rasby, gent., and Elizabeth his wife, defts. Messuages and land in Pontefract, Knottingley, Wistow, Methley, and Womersley.

Mellicent, daughter of Richard Rasby, was buried 2nd November 1761, at St. Mary's, Castlegate, York, and is described in the Parish Register as "an old gentlewoman who had been confined in the Castle thirty-eight years." From the 'Gentleman's Magazine' of 1761, it appears she died 30th October 1761, and had been a prisoner for debt. She however possessed property at Kirk Smeaton, so probably inherited the litigious properties of her father.

* She appears to have had for her first husband Richard Boughton, whose Will bears date 10th November 1699, and was proved at York; and for her second husband, Robert Turie, of Sheffield, Clerk, who by his Will, dated 19th May 1720, and proved at York 4th March following, left his property to his wife for her life, and then to augment Queen Anne's Bounty and other charities.

Susan, daughter of Richard Rasby, was married at Cantley, 5th February 1718, to John Lee, of Doncaster, tanner, and had numerous issue, baptized at Arksey. Her husband died 25th May 1756, aged 63 years, and she made her Will, dated 27th October 1773, and proved at York, 26th May 1774, leaving lands in Burton, Coleby, Alkboro, Walcot and Winterton no doubt inherited from her mother, and land in Kirk Smeaton, late the estate of her sister, Millison Rasby, deceased.*

HERALDIC QUERY.—A, an heiress, marries B, who marries a second wife C. By the first wife A, he has issue an only daughter D, heir to her mother, and by C, the second wife several sons. D has therefore a right to bear the arms of her father and mother quarterly. D marries E and has issue F. F were there no male representatives of B would of course quarter the quarterly coat of his mother D with that of his father E. But D was not the heir of B because he had sons by his second wife, and was heir to her mother's coat only. What arms would F bear with his own in right of his mother D, and how would he marshal them?

JOHN HUNTER, MARTYR.—In the quiet churchyard of Tweesmuir, in Peebleshire, is a grave stone bearing the following inscription:—"Here lyes John Hunter, Martyr, who was cruelly murdered at Core Head by Col. James Douglas and his party for his adherence to the word of God and Scotland's covenanted work of Reformation, 1685. Erected in the year 1726." Near to this is an obelisk inscribed:—"In memory of John Hunter, Martyr, whose Grave Stone is in the lower part of this Church Yard, 1837."

Where shall I find the best account of John Hunter and his family?

H. FISHWICK, F.S.A.

SCHOMBERG.—Frederick Armand 1st Duke of Schomberg, 1608–1690, married Elizabeth de Schomberg, and had issue:—Frederic, eldest son, alive in 1715; married Maria von Bocholtry, ob. Aug. 20, 1642. They had Maria Catharina Wilhelmina, married Carl Friederich, Count Sayn-Wittgenstein-Homburg. If this is correct the father and son must have both married at about 16, which is most improbable. That Maria v. Bocholtry did marry a Schomberg is no doubt correct, as her daughter, in 1716, claims the Bocholtry property, sealing the documents with the Schomberg arms. Is it not possible that she married a different Frederic, a common name in the family? If the Count of Schömberg's (the 1st duke's eldest son) wife did die in 1642, is it not most probable that he married again seeing that he was alive in 1715? Can any of your correspondents help me? Wanted the dates of first marriage of 1st Duke of Schomberg, of death of his first wife, and of marriage of his father?

What is known of David Schomberg who was in the Ordnance office at the same time as the 1st duke of Schomberg, and said to be his cousin? and of Solomon Schomberg, of Swansea (a son of Dr. Schomberg) who published in London, 1767, a letter to the Earl of Shelburne?

Abrahamus a Schönberg, supremus rei metallicæ in Electoratu

Saxoniae et Freibergæ Præfectus—Johannes Theodoricus [Johan. Bartol. equitum tribunus sive colonellus (?)] Cancellarius Ducatus Altenburgensis. Wanted information as to these two, or sources of information. The latter is said to have written a history of the Schomberg family. Where is it?

What were the arms of General Carpenter, whose sister married the 1st Lord Calthorpe? Where can I find an account of Gen. Carpenter's family? OTTO.

A GENEALOGICAL ACCOUNT OF THE HIGHLAND FAMILIES OF SHAW.
By ALEXANDER MACKINTOSH SHAW. London, 1877. 8vo.

This interesting little book is a popular rather than a strictly genealogical account of the Family of Shaw; it does not like most family histories bristle with dates of baptisms, marriages, and burials, but gives a general, rather than a genealogical, history of the Shaws. "Those," says Mr. Shaw, "who can look back on a long array of ancestors among whom the virtues of patriotism, fidelity, and self-sacrifice were conspicuous, are born to an inheritance which is, when rightly used, more really valuable than mere riches, and more truly ennobling than mere titles of rank." And again, "true and legitimate pride in ancestors is shewn by the endeavour to imitate their virtues and to keep unspotted the good name which they have transmitted; and it is in kindling and keeping warm such a pride that a knowledge of family history is of the highest possible value." With these prefatory remarks he dedicates his work to the "new generations growing up in various quarters of the world."

According to tradition the Shaws descend from Mac Duff, Earl of Fife. Mac Duff's great-grandson had three sons; the third was named Shaw, from whom the Mackintoshes, and through them the Shaws, trace an unbroken male descent. Shaw in 1163 accompanied King Malcolm IV. in an expedition against the rebellious inhabitants of Morayland. He received as a reward lands on the shore of the Moray Firth, and was made governor of the castle of Inverness. He was called Mac-an-Toiseach, "son of the chief man," and this shortened into Mackintosh, became the surname of his descendants. Shaw Mor was the founder of the family or clan of the Shaws. He was a famous warrior, and his grave is still pointed out in the churchyard of Rothimurcus, where he died in 1405. From him descended Alan Shaw who was outlawed for killing his step-father. On Alan's death the direct line of the Shaws of Rothimurcus became extinct in the country, and the nearest collateral branch was Shaw of Dell. The brother of Alan, and his associates, were exiled into the Western Isles and Ireland. Of the Irish Shaws was Sir Robert Shaw, created a Baronet in 1821; he is claimed as a relative of the Scottish Shaws. Little information based upon reliable evidence is given of the Shaws of Dell. The Rev. Lachlan Shaw, author of the 'History of the Province of Moray,' is said to have belonged to this branch. There were Shaws of Dalniver, and in Harris, of whom some account is given. Chapter vi. is devoted to an account of the Shaws of Tordarroch; their descent is traced from Adam, grandson of Shaw Mor. August Shaw one of this family was in arms for the Pretender in 1715. He was among those who surrendered at Preston, and was committed to Newgate; he was eventually pardoned, on giving security for his future allegiance to the reigning family. He did not join the rising of '45, though his resolution to abstain well nigh failed him, and on the morning of the Prince's fatal march to Culloden, it was only by the quick woman's wit of his wife that he was prevented from joining his kinsmen and friends. "Knowing his irresolution, and fearing that the balance might turn to the side which she instinctively felt was the unsafe one for her husband, herself, and their family, the lady rose at an early hour and carefully secreted various necessary portions of her lord and master's wearing apparel." Whatever his feelings at the time no doubt he was grateful to his wife afterwards. He earned by his "good behaviour" the approval of the ruling powers, by whom, when the country became settled, he was made magistrate! The account of his descendants occupies the rest of the book, among them we find Alexander Mackintosh Shaw, to whom we are indebted for this amusing little book.

* Possibly the parents of this John Gobert were amongst the immigrants to England after the massacre of St. Bartholomew.

THE REGISTER OF THE PARISH OF HOLY TRINITY (CHRISTCHURCH CHURCH), CORK. Edited by RICHARD CAULFIELD, LL.D., F.S.A. Cork, 1877, 8vo.

For this very valuable addition to Genealogical Literature the gratitude of every one interested in old Irish Families is due to Dr. Caulfield. Christ Church, Cork, was the burial place of the Terrys, Sarsfields, Whites, Fagans, Roches, and several other well-known families of the chief citizens of Cork. The register embraces the period from 26 July 1643 to 27 Feb. 1668, and is the oldest parish register in the Dioceses of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross. For a long time it appears to have been lost; and we have not only to thank Dr. Caulfield for its rescue, but also for his public spirit in printing it, and thus rendering its future destruction impossible. Of its recent discovery he tells the story so plainly and briefly that we cannot do better than give it in his own words:—"Its discovery was on this wise. In August 1857, a Mr. M'Carthy, who had been once sexton of this church, but then absent from Cork about 20 years, mentioned to me the existence, in his time, of an old parchment register. He said it was stolen when his father was sexton, and recovered, and that a second time it was removed with some lumber from the church, and restored by a tobacconist to whom it was sold as waste paper with a number of old account books. This occurred about 40 years before Mr. M'Carthy left Cork. I mentioned the circumstance to the Rev. J. Conolly, then rector, and on instituting a minute search, the missing register was found, safe and sound, with some parish books of the same period, in a 'sure coffer' provided with three locks, (in conformity with the 46th Canon), in a small chamber under the organ gallery, which no person appears to have visited for many years." It is much to be desired that the example set by Dr. Caulfield should be followed by other local antiquaries. By the publication of old church registers many a missing link would be discovered, and much light thrown on the history of our forefathers.

THE PARISH REGISTER OF NORTH WOOTTON, DORSET, 1539-1786.

By CHARLES HERBERT MAYO, M.A., Vicar of Long Burton.
8vo, pp. 24.

There is an old saying "that it never rains but it pours;" we have now reason to hope that genealogists will be favoured with a good shower of parish registers. Since Col. Chester, little more than a year ago, gave to the public the result of his valuable labours on the registers of Westminster Abbey, the attention of antiquaries has been drawn to the importance of old parochial registers, a class of records from which we trust that the dust of ages will soon be brushed away, and their contents made available to genealogical students. The Harleian Society has undertaken to publish annually a volume of registers; Captain White has promised to edit the registers of Durham Cathedral; Dr. Caulfield has given us the register of Christ Church, Cork; and Mr. Mayo has, in the volume before us, set an excellent example to the parochial clergy, by giving us the register of North Wootton. North Wootton is a very small parish in Dorsetshire, the population of which is, according to the last census, 72, and hence the size of its register is small. The most noteworthy matter in it is the great number of marriages celebrated in the years 1641-1647, at which time it may possibly have been, for some reason or other, the resort of people who wished to be married "on the quiet." This little book appears to be very carefully edited, and we wish that it may be the forerunner of many another parish register, edited by men as competent to undertake the task as Mr. Mayo evidently is, if we may judge him by the pages of "North Wootton."

WEARDALE FOREST. An Annual. pp. 80, 4to.

THE WEARDALE NICK-STICK. Parts 2-4. By W. M. EGGLESTONE. Weardale, 1871, etc.

THE "LONDON MONEY" INQUIRY, WITH THE LINEAGE OF SIR HENRY FETHERSTON, BART., ETC. Stanhope, 1876. 8vo.

The Notches in the Weardale Nick-stick are an interesting collection of papers chiefly illustrative of persons, places, and things connected with Weardale. Fact and Fiction, Epitaphs and Elections, Battles and Bad Omens, Storms and Superstitions, and a variety of other matters help to make up these very amusing and readable little pamphlets. A methodist parson, named Matthew White, is said to date his 'conversation,' perhaps conversion is meant, from reading an epitaph in St. John's chapel churchyard on Thomas Thornbury, Esq^{re}, who died on the 24th June, 1819, which runs as follows:—

“Remember all as you pass by,
As you are now, so once was I,
As I am now, so you must be,
Therefore prepare to follow me.”

A very little converts some people. In another churchyard a version of the above may be seen, under which a wag once wrote,—

“To follow you I'm not content, Unless I know which way you went.”

One would think that the latter would have been most likely to convert Mr. Matthew White.

The following from an altar-tomb in Stockton churchyard does not say much for the faith of some of the good people in Weardale,—

“Do thou reflect in Time,
Death in itself is nothing.—But PREPARE
To be you know not what
To go you know not where.”

School Boards have not as yet done much towards teaching the Weardale natives to speak plainly, if we may accept this story as a specimen of their dialect. “A group of countrymen were sitting over a pint of ale the other day in a Weardale public-house, when one of them, who it appears was out of the ‘weed,’ inquired of his next neighbour if he had any ‘baccy;’ the answer being in the negative, he next gave a general interrogation, thus:—‘Hezonnyonnyonyeonnyonye?’ To separate this sentence into words it would read, ‘Hez onny onny on ye onny on ye?’ which in English would be, ‘Has any one of you any upon you?’” The article on “Good and Bad Omens” in Part 4 of the “Nick-stick” is well worth reading by those desirous of learning a large amount of superstition in as little time as possible. It is full of proverbs and quaint sayings, e.g.,—

“A whistling woman and a crowing hen
Are the biggest plagues that are sent to men,”

The pamphlet above mentioned which professes to give the lineage of Sir Henry Fetherston, Bart., throws but little light on the genealogy of the claimants to the fortune which he left. They are the descendants of Thomas and Sarah Fetherston, but in what way, if any, these persons were related to Sir Henry is not shewn. At all events they rank with “Claimants,” a class which has become rather numerous of late. This is a genealogical curiosity, but, as far as we can see, is of no further value.

PEDIGREE OF RAINSFORD.

WILLIAM RAINSFORD married Eleanor daughter and heir of Edward Brockysborne, and had issue, Lawrence Rainsford who married Elizabeth Fines daughter of James Lord Saye and Sele,* and had John Rainsford of Rainsford Hall, co. He appears to have been in the service of Government and held considerable appointments in the Province of West Florida amounting to about £1000 yearly which he lost on the surrender of Pensacola (at the siege of which he served) to the arms of Spain. As a compensation for these losses he was appointed Receiver General of Quit Rents for the Province of New Brunswick by H. M. King Geo. III. Commission dated — May 1785 in consequence of which appointment he resigned the Agency of the 13th Regt. of Foot in Ireland and proceeded to New Brunswick, but on arrival there he was informed by Governor Carleton that Quit Rents were not to be paid in that Province. [These particulars are gathered from a Memorial in the possession of Major Rainsford-Hannay from him to the Government of the day in which his grievances are stated.] He was at the taking of the Havannah and appears by the Army Lists as Deputy Assistant Barrack Master General of New Brunswick from 1st August 1801 to the time of his death on 26th May 1820, at Frederickton N. B. He married Elizabeth dau. of Thomas Cumming of Alfred Street, Bath, co. Somerset, who died about 1839, by whom he had a numerous issue most of whom settled in Canada, with the exception of Thomas Rainsford of 2nd Regt. of Life Guards. Retired from the service by the sale of his Commission 19th June 1799. Appointed Provost Marshal at St. Helena in 1816 during Napoleon's captivity, where he died 6th April 1817 and was buried on the 8th of same month, having married Jane dau. of Sir Samuel Hannay of Mochrum and Kirkdale co. Galloway N. B. Bart. on 8th May 1793, at St. George's Hanover Square co. Middx. She died in London on 17th March 1816 from an illness caused by privations suffered as a prisoner in France from about 1802 to 1812. From whom descend the Rainsford-Hannays of Kirkdale House, co. Galloway.

- I. Margaret Rainsford wife of Major Thomas Boyd of 16th Regt. of Foot (at Pensacola 1777) who died in October 1797. They had two sons and three daughters.
- II. . . . Rainsford wife of Capt. John Dudingston 1st Battalion of the Royals.

Charles Rainsford eldest son of Francis, was in 1749 Major of the Tower of London, appointed Deputy Lieutenant thereof 14th November 1750, as a reward for wounds received in the Low Country wars. Married Anne dau. of Lieut.-Gen. Barrett, and died 6th February 1778. Buried in St. Peter ad Vincula 13th of same month. Will dated 30th August 1777, Codicil dated 12th November 1777. Proved at London 19th February 1778. Second Codicil proved 26th March 1784. His son, Savage Charles Rainsford was a Captain in Ancram's Dragoons. Died 26th August 1777, at Kelvedon, co. Essex, and there buried. By his wife Sarah, dau. of William George Freeman (a Director of the Hon. East India Company), who afterwards married William Creeks, and died about June 1799, at Colchester, and was buried at East Bergholt, co. Essex, he had issue,

- I. Charles Rainsford.
- II. Ann Rainsford born about 1766, married her cousin Major Thomas Moore Boyd previously to May 1796, and died 14th October 1834, at River View. Buried at Newton Church, Waterford. Major Boyd (who was a Godson of Sir John Moore) was born at Pensacola, and died 2nd January 1835, at River View.
- III. Margaret Rainsford born about 1774, died unmarried 19th September 1826, at Budleigh Salterton, co. Devon, and was there buried beside her friend Miss James, a sister of the celebrated novelist George Payne Rainsford James, who was named after, and educated principally at the expense of, Miss Rainsford.

Charles Rainsford the eldest son was born at Lewes, co. Sussex, 27th June 1765. Entered Charterhouse School 2nd July 1778, left 24th June 1780 (temp. Gordon Riots), his guardian Gen. NOTES RELATING TO THE FAMILY OF TYNDALE, OF STINCHCOMBE AND NIBLEY IN GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

Ministers' Accounts. "Fortescue's Lands," Bundle 129-10. "Rental" in M. of Stinchcombe, made 22 Jan. 22 H. VII. (1506-7).

Respecting the younger of these two sons, viz. :—

"WILLIAM TYNDALE alias HUCHYNS." According to the RENTAL of the MANOR OF STINCHCOMBE—already referred to—made by the acknowledgment of the FREE AND COPYHOLD TENANTS there on 22 January 22 H. VII. (1506-7), he and THOMAS TYNDALE alias HUCHYNS HIS BROTHER were—at that time—holding, as TENANT FARMERS, in succession, by INDENTURE OF LEASE, the tenement called MELKSHAM'S and the toft called HOLDERS. Of this further particulars are given below. Before 1518 he entered into Holy Orders; for as

"WILLIAM TYNDALL', CHAPLAIN," he—with James Clifford, Esq. and Thomas Heynes of Frampton-on-Severn, farmer, became joint lessee of ALL THE RECTORIAL TITHES, altar-dues and all the emoluments and profits appertaining to the RECTORY OF FRAMPTON-ON-SEVERN, by Indenture of Lease, under the Conventual Seal, from the Prior and Convent of the Priory of the Blessed Mary of Clifford, in Herefordshire, of the Cluniac Order, who were the appropriators of the Rectory of Frampton-on-Severn, dated 21 March, 9 H. VIII. (1517-8), to have and to hold the same to them their executors and assigns—prospectively—from Lady-day 1523, then future after the date of the said Indenture, for forty years, at a yearly rent of £10, to be paid in equal portions at the feasts of the Nativity of St. John Baptist, and the Nativity of Our Lord.

About the same time (1517-8) he was INSTITUTED to the PERPETUAL CHANTRY, or FREE CHAPEL, of ST. MICHAEL of BRADSTON in the parish of Berkeley, on the presentation of Sir Adrian Fortescue, kt., patron thereof. Sir Adrian was lord of the manors of Bradston and Stinchcombe in right of Anne his wife, one of the sisters and heirs of John Stonor, Esq., son and heir of Sir William Stonor, Kt.

The precise dates and particulars both of his institution to this benefice as chaplain, and of his ordination, cannot be discovered in consequence of the latter part of the Acts Book, or Register, of Bishop Silvestro Gilio, or de Gigliis, being lost and missing from the beginning of the year 1517. He died about the end of the year 1523, or in January 1523-4, for—"Primo die Februarii anno domini millesimo quingestesimo vicesimo tertio (1523-4) admissus fuit dominus Nicolaus Astley ad Cantariam perpetuam de BRADISTON, Wigorniensis diæcesis PER MORTEM DOMINI WILLIELMI TYNDALE alias HEWCHYNS ultimi Incumbentis ibidem vacantem. Ad quam per strenuum virum Adrianum Fortescue militem verum ut dicitur ipsius Cantariæ jure uxoris patronum extitit domino præsentatus," etc.*

This William Tyndale alias Huchyns, Clerk, CANNOT therefore BE IDENTIFIED WITH THE MARTYR, who was burnt to death in 1536.

5TH GROUP.

Ministers' Accounts. "Fortescue's Lands," Bundle 129-10 (as above).

Of THOMAS TYNDALL alias HUCHYNS,, the elder son of Richard of Melksham's Court:—the first notice found of him is in the before-mentioned RENTAL of the MANOR OF STINCHCOMBE made (see p. 43) 22 January 22 H. VII. (1506-7), thus:—

"THOMAS TYNDALE al's HUCHYNS et WILLM's TYNDALE FRATER EJUS ad invicem tenent per Indenturam tenementum vocatum 'MILKESHAM' cum tofto vocato 'HOLDARSE,' et reddunt per annum iiij ^{li} xvij^s viij^d."

N.B.—This sum of £4 17s. 8d. for rent is the aggregate amounts of the separate Rents, in 1478, of £4 13s. 4d. paid by Tebota Huchyns for Melksham's Court, and of 4s. 4d. by Richard Tyndale for Holderscroft.

As "THOMAS TYNDALE," he is entered in the same Rental of the Manor of STINCHCOMBE of 22 Jan. 22 H. VII. (1506-7) as holding jointly with John Baker a pasture in Stinchcombe, called "HOKEWODE," at an annual rent of 6^s 8^d.

In the Court Roll of the Manor of STYNCHCOMBE of a Court held there by Sir Adrian Fortescue, Kt., in right of Anne his wife, 2^d August 22 H. VII. (1507) he is described as "THOMAS HUCHYNS, FIRMARIUS." [AUGMENTATIONS RECORDS: COURT ROLLS: "BRADSTON & STYNCHCOMBE," A 6 & 7.]

This position of "Firmarius" is already defined (see p. 43) and likewise in the BAILIFF'S ACCOUNT for the Manors of BRADSTON AND STINCHCOMBE of Gruff Jonys, or Joh'ns, Collector of the Rents of Sir Adrian Fortescue, Kt. for the year ending at Michaelmas 24 H. VII. (1508) thus:—

* Register of Bishop Jeronimo Ghinuucci at Worcester, folio 13 in dorso.

the extract from the Rental (see p. 14) of January 1506-7.

The above entry is repeated in the following BAILIFFS' ACCOUNTS of the Manors of Bradston and STINCHCOMBE that are preserved among the Public Records, viz.:

MINISTERS' ACCOUNTS: AUGMENTATIONS RECORDS,

3-4 H. VIII. No. 44, ending Mich'mas 1512; 4-5 H. VIII.

In the meantime a fresh Lease of the premises had been granted by Indenture on 6th April 2 H. VIII. (1511) to this Thomas Tyndall SOLELY. Reference has been already made (see p. 43) to RICHARD the FATHER of this THOMAS TYNDALE alias HUCHYNS as being TENANT FARMER of MELKSHAM'S COURT BEFORE his son. The Lease of 2 H. VIII. expressly states the fact, and likewise their relationship to each other, and their Christian names. The following abstract, made from the original, preserved in the PUBLIC RECORDS REPOSITORY, will suffice to shew these several points:—

Augmentations Records. Chartæ Miscellanæ, vol. 7, No. 173.

"Hæc Indentura facta quinto die Mensis Aprilis anno regni Regis Henrici Octavi secundo (1511), Inter Adrianum Fortescu militem et Annam uxorem suam ex una parte, et THOMAM TYNDALE ex altera parte, testatur, Quod prædicti Adrianus et Anna traderunt, concesserunt, et ad firman dimiserunt PRÆFATO THOMÆ totum illud tenementum suum in STYNCHECOMBE vocatum MILKESHAMNS quod prædictus Thomas modo tenet, et quod RICARDUS TYNDALE PATER DICTI THOMÆ ANTEA TENUIT, Ac etiam

Besides the entry in the RENTAL of 22 January 22 H. VII. (1506-7)—which shews that THIS THOMAS TYNDALL succeeded his father Richard AS LESSEE OF MELKSHAM'S COURT (see p. 14) BEFORE the end of the reign of King Henry VII.—this THOMAS TYNDALL is entered as a CUSTOMARY TENANT within the Manor of STINCHCOMBE in four other "RENTALS" of the Manor that are found remaining among the PUBLIC RECORDS, viz.

For the half years ending

- (1) Michaelmas 4 H. VIII. (1512), and
- (2) Lady Day 9 H. VIII. (1518), in these words:

"DE THOMA TYNDALE . . . £2 : 8 : 10."

N.B. The above is the half-year's Rent for the MANOR FARM OF MELKSHAM'S COURT WITH THE CROFT CALLED "HOLDERS."

"DE THOMA TYNDALE . . . 1^s 8^d."

N.B. This is his moiety of the half year's Rent of 3^s 4^d for "HOKEWODE" pasture.

- (3) For the year ending at Michaelmas about the 13 H. VIII. (1521).

"DE THOMA TYNDALE . . . £4 : 17 : 8."

N.B. The year's Rent for MELKSHAM'S COURT with the croft called "HOLDERS."

"DE EODEM THOMA . . . 3 : 4."

N.B. His moiety of the year's Rent of 6^s 8^d for "HOKEWODE" pasture.

- (4) For the half year ending at Michaelmas about the 27 H. VIII. (1535).

"THOMAS TYNDALE . . . £2 : 8 : 10."

"THE SAME THOMAS . . . 1 : 8."

N.B. These are explained above, No. 2.

Augmentations Records. Court Roll, Stinchcombe, A. 10 27 April 20 H. VIII.

“THOMAS TYNDALE” was one of FOUR HONEST MEN OF STINCHCOMBE selected at a Manor Court held there 27 April 1528, who were to determine the time for opening the cornfields [for cutting the corn?]

Augmentations. Court Rolls, Stynchcombe, do. A. 8, and A. 13 and 14.

“THOMAS TYNDALL” was one of the HOMAGERS at Manor Courts held at STYNCHCOMBE on 11 Oct. 23 H. VIII. (1531) and 17th April 23 H. VIII. (1532).

As is already shewn, he was living in 1535 (see p. 16), and died before January 33 H. VIII. (1541-2) as ALICE HIS WIFE was then a WIDOW.

He married ALICE HUNT, an heiress, in whose right he and his issue acquired and possessed the house and lands of HUNT’S COURT in NORTH NIBLEY with the appurts. in NIBLEY and WOTTON, by whom there is evidence that he had issue four sons and two daughters, viz. :

1 RICHARD. (See below).

2 HENRY TYNDALL: named THIRD IN REMAINDER to the estate of HUNT’S COURT in his mother’s DEED OF ENTAIL of her lands and tenements in NIBLEY AND WOTTON, dated 20 January 33 H. VIII. (1541-2). He was also a legatee in his MOTHER’S WILL, dated 3 Feb^y 34 H. VIII. (1542-3).

Ancient Miscellanea. Exchequer Lay Subsidy, Gloucr., 34-35 H. VIII., 114-235.

To the LAY SUBSIDY granted by the Parliament of 34-35 H. VIII., which sat from 22 Jan^y 1542-3 to 12 May 1543, he was assessed on GOODS in STINCHCOMBE to the value of £1, and charged thereon with the payment of 1^d.

Lay Subsidy, Glouc’rshire, 35 H. VIII. 114-240.

To the first collection of the same Subsidy, the Indenture for collecting which, in the Hundred of Berkeley, bears date 8 Nov. 35 H. VIII. (1543), he was likewise assessed on Goods in STINCHCOMBE to the value of £1, and charged thereon 2d.

Between this last date, 1543 and 1558, it is probable that he moved from Stinchcombe to ULEY, as—on the Lay Subsidy Rolls—his name ceases in Stinchcombe at the former date and reappears at the latter, thus :

Ancient Miscellanea. Exchequer Lay Subsidy, Gloucr., 4 and 5 P. and M. 115-346.

In the LAY SUBSIDY ROLL for the Hundred of Berkeley—the Indenture for Collecting which is dated 14 May 4 & 5 P. & M.

(1558)—he is assessed on LAND in “YEWLEYE” (Uley) to the value of £1, and charged thereon with the payment of 4s.

Lay Subsidy, Gloucr., 1 Eliz. 115-352.

To the 2^d payment of the LAY SUBSIDY of 1 Eliz. the Indenture for collecting which is dated 18 Feb. 2 Eliz. (1559-60)—he is assessed on LAND in ULEY to the value of £1, and charged thereon 1s. 4d.

Lay Subsidy, Gloucr., 13 Eliz. 115-383.

To the 1st payment of the LAY SUBSIDY of 13 Eliz. the Indenture for collecting which is dated 6 October 13 Eliz. (1571)—he is assessed to the same amount on LAND IN ULEY, and charged thereon 2s. 8d.

Lay Subsidy, Gloucr., 13 Eliz. 115-387.

To the second payment of the same Subsidy,—the Indenture for collecting which is dated 1 Oct. 14 Eliz. (1572)—he is assessed to the same amount on LAND IN ULEY and charged thereon 1s. 4d.

N.B. His name does not appear after this date on the Subsidy Rolls. The present church Register of the parish of STINCHCOMBE begins in 1582, and that of NORTH NIBLEY in 1567, and in neither is any trace of him to be found.

JEWERS.—This name is variously written Jewers, Jevers, Ivers, Jower, Juers, Evers, Eyvers, and Everers. The undersigned is collecting materials of a pedigree of the family, and will be much obliged to any one interested in the name who will assist him.*

ARTHUR JEWERS.

St. Columb, Cornwall.

* The name, spelt with a “J,” appears in a Hampshire will as early as 1583.

BEAUCHAMP.—Who was the husband of Margaret Lady Beauchamp, widow, who made her will on the Wednesday after the Nativity of Our Lord, 1487? She died apparently without issue, and directed that her body should be buried in the Church of the Friars Preachers at Worcester, “w^t my Lorde my husbond according to his will.” She appointed as executor her brother “Richard fferrez esquier.”

THETA.

NOEL.—Is anything known of the ancestry of Garret Noel, born in London in the early part of the eighteenth century? He went to Spain, and married at Cadiz Frances Jaymé, and about 1745 went to New York and settled there.

Address Miss NEILSON, Harbaugh Hall, Lancaster, Pennsylvania, U.S.A.

BLACKER FAMILY.—It is stated in Burke’s ‘History of the Commoners,’ vol. ii. p. 48, that the family of Blacker of Carrick Blacker, co. Armagh, derives its name and descent from Blacar, King or Chief of the Northmen or Danes, who settled in Dublin early in the tenth century. On what authority is this assertion made? Blacar slew with his own axe, on the 26th of March, A.D. 941, in a pitched battle on the banks of the Bann, Muirchertach, King of Ailech, called the Hector or bravest of his time; and if the foregoing statement be true, “it is a singular fact that his descendants have for many generations possessed the site of this victory.” By some writers he is called Blaccard; and the name of the family is commonly pronounced Blackard by the lower classes of the people in the north of Ireland.

I shall be glad to have some particulars of George Blacker, Esq., of Shaw, co. Antrim, Ireland, who was High Sheriff of that county in 1660. Whose son was he, and of what family was he a member? No one else of the name, so far as I am aware, has been at any time connected with Antrim.

B. H. B.

GOBERT.—John Gobert, of Coventry, in his will dated 1623, and proved in London 1625, names his wife, Luce, and two daughters and coheiresses, both named Anne.

Luce Gobert was of the family of Smith, alias Heriz, of Husband’s Bosworth, treated of in the ‘Topographer and Genealogist,’ vol. iii., 255-60; and it is, apparently, jure uxoris that J. Gobert is designated in Ormerod’s Cheshire (Pedigree of Legh) as of Bosworth. Of the two Annes, one married firstly Thos. Legh, of Adlington, co. Chest., secondly, Alex^r Rigby, Baron of the Exchequer, and thirdly Sir John Booth,—and the other, Sir Thomas Barrington; and from them derive Thos. Leigh of Adlington Hall, and Lord Barrington.

The other legatees named in the will are the children of his sister Ann Brown, his nieces Hach and “Sickes,” his “sonne in law Calcott Chambree Esquier,” and his “deare brother and friend Richard Chamberlayne Esquire.”

Pedigrees of Browne and Chambre are given in Nichols's Leicestershire, vol. ii., part. ii., pp. 831 and 874, in which these two families are shewn to have been connected through a common Villiers descent. It seems, therefore, not improbable, that Ann Brown's husband, although not there shewn, belongs to the former family. The latter affords a parallel instance to the fact noted above, in shewing two brothers to have been both named Calcott Chambre. The niece "Sickes" was by her husband, George Sikes of Lutterworth, mother of Gobert Sikes, whose descendants were long resident at Hackney, co. Middlesex.

Information concerning the parentage and family of Gobert, Brown, Finch, and Sikes, is asked for. A later John Gobert* appears to have been a Huguenot Refugee, naturalized in 1682.

Notices of Books.

ANNALS OF WINCHCOMBE AND SUDELEY. By EMMA DENT. London, John Murray, Albemarle Street, 1877. 4to.

The history of Winchcombe and Sudeley, a decayed borough and an ancient castle in Gloucestershire, form the subject of an exceedingly interesting volume of local topography, written without the dryness of detail usually belonging to such books, and illustrated completely and graphically with views of every object of interest connected with the locality.

The year 787 appears to be the first date that can certainly be connected with the history of Winchcombe. At that time a nunnery was built there by Offa, King of Mercia. He was succeeded by Ecgfrith, and he by Kenulf, who in 789 laid the foundation of a stately Abbey, wherein no fewer than 300 monks were maintained. In 811 it was consecrated by Wulfrid, Archbishop of Canterbury, and dedicated to the Virgin Mary. Kenulf was succeeded by his son Kenelm, saint and martyr, of whom the several legends are well known. According to the life given by Mrs. Dent, he came to the throne at the age of seven, having two sisters, Borwenilda and Quenrida. Quenrida, in order to obtain her brother's kingdom, persuaded his guardian Askobert to murder him when out hunting in the Wood of Clent. Here, after cutting off his head, he made a hole and buried him under a thorn. But murder will out. A widow who lived near had a white cow, who went daily to the saint's grave instead of feeding with the rest of the herd, and having had nothing to eat all day in consequence, came home at night fat and full of milk. The valley where he was buried is hence called Cowbacke. One day when the Pope said Mass in St. Peter's a white dove flew down and laid a writing upon the altar which no one could read. Some one, however, found out it was in English, and that it revealed the fact that—

“ In Klent, in Cowbacke, Kenelm, King's child lieth
Under a thorn, his head taken from him.”

The Pope sent to England, the body was dug up, and a well of pure water flowed from the place. The body was carried to Winchcombe; the wicked Queen Quenrida was sitting as it passed by, reading in her psalter the 119th Psalm, and when she came to the 19th verse, Hoc opus eorum, both her eyes fell out upon her psalter (a quaint cut of the event, (p. 50), makes them falling out of a window at which she is sitting), and she died a miserable death:—

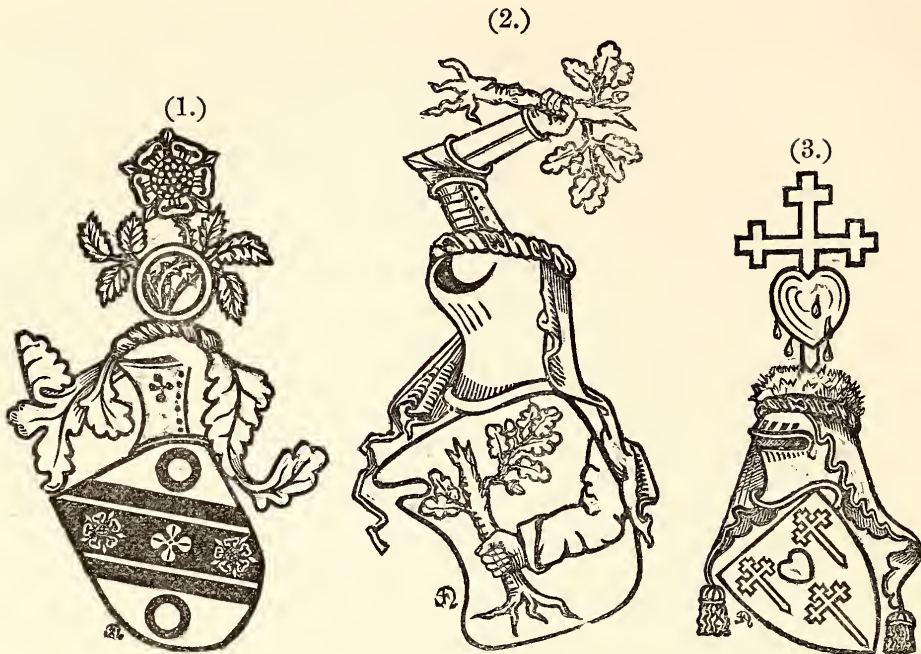

“ At morn, when the pious brothers came
To give the body to ground,
The skull, the feet, the palms of her hands
Were all that they ever found.
Then the holy monks, with ominous shake
Of the head, look'd wondrous sly,
While the breeze that waved their whiten'd locks Bore a prayer for her soul on high.”

“ The holy body of Saint Kenelm was layd in an honourable shryne, whereat our Lorde sheweth dayly many a myracle." In course of time, and in consequence of these miracles he was canonised.

Sudeley became the possession of Ethelred II., who granted it to his daughter Goda, wife of Walter of Mantes, in whose descendants it continued till Ralph, Lord Sudeley, sold it to Richard, Earl Rivers, and others (1469), who soon after transferred it to Richard, Duke of Gloucester. Chapter XIII., one of the most pleasant chapters in this delightful book, gives an account of John Smallwood, alias Winchcombe, better known as Jack of Newbury, "the most considerable clothier England ever beheld." But it is in Sudeley as connected with Queen Katharine Parr, and Lady Jane Grey, that its greatest interest lies. Katharine Parr, already twice a widow, on the 12th July 1543, became the sixth wife of Henry the VIII. Remarkable for her discretion as well as her piety, this, our first Protestant Queen, has been aptly styled "the nursing mother of the Reformation." On the death of Henry VIII., 28 January 1547, Sir Thomas Seymour appears to have lost but little time in marrying the widowed Queen, to whom his attachment before her marriage with Henry is of course well known. Edward the VI. created him Baron Seymour of Sudeley 16 Feb. 1547. Previous, however, to his marriage with Katharine Parr he proposed to the youthful Princess Elizabeth, and was rejected. This was on the 26 Feb. 1547. Mrs. Dent does not give the date of his marriage with the Queen, but says that he married her secretly early in 1547. At what time her residence at Sudeley began, or for how long she was an inmate of its walls, we are not informed, and it is to be regretted that so little light has been thrown on this period of its history. On the 30th of August 1548, Katharine Parr gave birth at Sudeley to a daughter, and died on the 5th September following, in the 36th year of her age. Of the details of her funeral, and the subsequent accounts of the discovery of her body in the ruined chapel at Sudeley, of its restoration, and of the erection of a tomb worthy of one of England's Queens by the present owner of Sudeley, a circumstantial account is given which will be read with great interest by all fortunate enough to see or possess this book.

The fate of Sir Thomas Seymour is too well known for it to be necessary to refer to it here. The offspring of this union, Mary Seymour, was deprived by the attainder of her father of the lands of Sudeley. Strype and Lodge state that she died young,—Miss Strickland that she married Sir Edward Bushel, by whom she had an only daughter, married to Silas Johnson, from whom the Johnson Lawsons of Clevedon descend. Of the unfortunate Lady Jane Grey, who resided at Sudeley with Katharine Parr, of its more recent possessors the Lords Chandos, of the large collection of historic antiquities, so ably described and so amply illustrated in the pages of this amusing volume, our limited space forbids our speaking. Every page will well repay perusal, and we commend it to our readers as one of the most amusing books of its kind.

STEMMATA BRITANNICA: A GENEALOGICAL ACCOUNT OF THE UNTITLED NOBILITY AND GENTRY OF GREAT BRITAIN, ETC. By JOSEPH FOSTER. London: Bickers and Son. 1877. 8vo.

Mr. Foster, to whose untiring industry we are already indebted for 'The Visitations of Yorkshire' and other works, has now undertaken the compilation of an account of the Untitled Nobility and Gentry of the United Kingdom. In Burke's 'Landed Gentry,' which has gone through several editions, we have already a work of a similar kind. Why then, it will naturally be asked, is it necessary that Mr. Foster should bring out another? The answer is this: Sir Bernard Burke's, in other respects excellent work, misleads the public on the most vital point connected with the untitled Nobility, or, as we usually call them, Gentry,—their right to coat armour. To almost everybody, whether or not entitled to it, Sir Bernard assigns a coat of arms. Mr. Foster on the other hand only describes the arms of those who can prove a right to them according to the laws of Arms,—that is to say, can prove by the records of either the College of Arms, the Lyon Office, or Ulster's Office, that they have an undisputed title to use them. Nobiles sunt qui arma antecessorum suorum proferre possunt. This is the ancient and universal rule. Unfortunately it is one which is less understood by the British nation, and even by our lesser nobility themselves, than by any other people in Europe. Mr. Foster's work will do much to remedy our national ignorance by giving us a handy guide to our lesser noblesse. His plan is at the same time brief and exhaustive. The book is intended to contain the majority of those pedigrees which have already been published in County Histories and other works, and to include a considerable number of hitherto unpublished pedigrees; these latter will be fully set forth, but in the former, the earlier portions will be condensed, and references given to those authorities where they will be found in detail. But although Mr. Foster very wisely abstains from reprinting the details of family history already well known, he promises in the case of junior branches to elaborate them in the same degree as the account of the principal members. While he thus satisfies our present desire for information, he is not unmindful of the future, when the cadets of many an ancient family may refer to his pages in order to prove their affinity to the parent stock. In giving arms only to those entitled to bear them, Mr. Foster acts as poineer in a most difficult undertaking, and as he in this matter sides with truth, and constitutes himself the opponent of fraud, we have no doubt as to the ultimate success of an undertaking which cannot fail, by declining to publish fiction, to create a respect for fact.

Unlike most of his contemporaries, Mr. Foster does not pretend to know too much. He adopts a plan which will no doubt be the means of rendering future editions of his book correct in dates and details. It is this, wherever he has been unable to ascertain the date of a birth, marriage, or death, he leaves a blank for its insertion; this ought to be the means of obtaining the true dates of such events, and we hope those interested in the genealogies he gives will take the opportunity of adding such missing information to his work.

The arrangement of the names is alphabetical, but where there is a double surname it is placed under the second instead of the first, thus Vans-Agnew and Cracroft-Amcotts are under letter A. In our opinion they should be under V and C.

In many instances of families entitled to coat armour, Mr. Foster gives illustrations of the arms. These are for the most part very well executed, and lend an additional charm to his book. We select some of them, which do great credit to his taste in heraldic art; and in order that they may be easily identified give the blazon of the coats.

RECORDS OF THE ENGLISH PROVINCE OF THE SOCIETY OF JESUS.
Vol. I., First Series. By HENRY FOLEY, S.J. London, 1877, 8vo.

Mr. Foley has added another valuable volume to his illustrations of the history of the Jesuits noticed in our first vol., p. 295. With the exception of More's Historia Prov. Angl. Soc. Jesu, which comes down to the year 1635, and Bartoli's Inghilterra, which ends in 1610, no complete history of the English Province exists. The materials from which this book is compiled are arranged, as far as possible, in order of time and according to the ancient division of the English Province into Districts or quasi Colleges and Residences, embracing all the English counties, and each having its allotted circuit, its Rector or Superior, and a staff of Missionaries under him. It is intended in this series, which will occupy four or five more volumes, to bring down the history of each College and Residence to the year 1677, and also through the persecution known as "Oates' Plot," the Revolution of 1688, and so on to about 1716, when, together with persecution, all records of public interest seem to have ceased.

The present series comprises the College of St. Ignatius, or the London District, which extended over the Counties of Middlesex, Surrey, Kent, Berks, and Herts. The average yearly number of priests attached to it from 1635 to 1677 was about twenty-six, who were for the most part Missionarii excurrentes, traversing the district, visiting the houses of the Catholic nobility and gentry, and administering to them the rites of their religion.

Much information interesting to genealogists may be gathered from the pages of this work. The accounts given by themselves of their birth, parentage, and education, of several Jesuit fathers on their admission to the English College at Rome, in reply to the interrogatories put to students on applying for admission, supply data of much interest to those families to which they belonged, and which are probably unattainable from any other source. These will be found in the Addenda, pp. 615-670. Several pedigrees of families of which members were Jesuits are given, but they are apparently designed more as guides to the text than as complete genealogies of the persons whose memorials are written. Hence it is, we suppose, that Mr. Foley appears to have accepted as facts some assertions which, as in his account of the family of Young of Kingerby, appear hardly borne out by the evidence adduced. Mr. Foley is doing a most useful work, and we look forward with pleasure for the issue of his future volumes.

GENEALOGICAL CHART OF THE FAMILY OF BAIN. By the Rev.
CHARLES ROGERS, LL.D., F.S.A. Scot.

The family of Bain is traced from George Bene, in Longniddry, parish of Tranent, born about 1580, through seven generations, to James Bain, Agent of the Bank of Scotland, St. Andrew's. The patronymic Bene, Bane, Bain, or Bayne, is derived from the fair colour of the complexion—Bane in Gaelic signifying white. It includes the names of the wife of Dr. Rogers the compiler, and of Mr. Joseph Bain, the well known Antiquary. We have rarely seen so truthfully written a genealogy.

SIR THOMAS KERR, OF REDDEN, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

A NEGLECTED GENEALOGY.

WILLIAM KERR of Ancrum, and his wife Margaret, daughter of Alexander Dundas of Fingask, had, besides Robert first Earl of Ancrum and William Kerr of Linton, and Andrew the youngest, a third son who is omitted in every account of the family hitherto published, viz.—

I. Sir Thomas Kerr of Redden, in the parish of Sprouston, co. Roxburgh. He entered the military service of the King of France and was many years abroad; in Sep. 1632 he was making arrangements to transfer his commission to Andrew Abernethy and soon after returned to Scotland. He was knighted at Dunfermline 5 July 1633 when his elder brother was created an earl, and on the same day their cousin-german Sir John Dundas of Fingask, co. Perth, received the honour of knighthood. He married, first, Jean, daughter of James Kerr of Chatto, co. Roxburgh, and had—

1. John Kerr, styled “of Redden,” died 24 Dec. 1645.
2. James, whose successor, Captain Charles of Redden, had a ribbon at the funeral of Jane Countess of Roxburghe, and was an officer of the local Militia 1689:

On the 25 July 1715 Thomas Kerr of Redden Hall had a son baptized named Andrew. No descendants of this line have been traced.

3. Andrew of Chatto.
1. Jean married, first, 18 April 1640, Sir John Kerr of Lochtour, co. Roxburgh; second, contract dated 16 June 1652, Sir John Wauchope of Niddrie-Marischal, co. Edinburgh, and had issue by both.
2. Katherine.
3. Christian.
4. Vair (sic), born in July 1636.

Sir Thomas married, secondly, Mary Douglas, and had—

5. Margaret, born Sep. 1641.
6. Mary, born Nov. 1642.
7. Anne, born Jan. 1644.

He had by Agnes Wilson an illegitimate son, George, born 1639.

In 1637 Sir Thomas objected to the marriage of his daughter to Kerr of Lochtour, which afterwards took place, and his nephew Lord Lothian writes, that he had asked him “to disburden him of some of his children,” and expresses himself willing to do so, but says the younger are so young that "for the moste part they neade nurses and his daughters that are woemen had rather they took springs on there oune fiddles with others than with me, for that I am affeard they will doe and have seane nothing less."

II. Andrew Kerr of Chatto, born 1628, was a member of the Roxburghshire Committee of War 1649; married, first, Isabel, daughter of George Cranstoun of Bold; secondly, 1 June 1677, Margaret, daughter and coheir of William Kerr of Newton, co. Roxburgh, by Agnes his wife, daughter and coheir of John Abernethy Bishop of Caithness.

Andrew died at Chatto 11 March 1705 and is interred in Hownam Churchyard under a handsome monument with this inscription—

"Here lies Andrew Kerr son of Sir Thomas Kerr of Redden who was son to Kerr of Ancrum now Marquess of Lothian. He lived 46 years at Chatto in g^t reputation and d^d there March 11 1705 in the 77 year of his age much lamented.

"He had 7 sons and 3 D^{rs} for whose use this tomb is humbly erected by Charles Kerr of Chatto, at that time his youngest son living."

Short inscriptions follow to various members of the family.

Isabel Cranstoun died 3 April 1675, aged 36, having had issue—

1. George, born 20 Dec. 1657, died at Kelso 22 March 1688.
2. Andrew of Chatto, born 18 Dec. 1661, died 28 March 1721; had a son, George, born in November 1702.
3. James, born 13 Jan. 1664, died at Chatto 8 Nov. 1665.
4. John, born 7 April 1665, died at Fodderlie 18 April 1695.
5. Thomas, of whom after.
6. James, born 4 May 1669, attained the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel of the third regiment of Foot Guards, commanded by William Marquess of Lothian in 1709; married Elizabeth Fleming who died at Stevenson 12 May 1746, and died in Edinburgh, 19 April 1712, leaving William, who was confirmed executor of his father 17 August 1716, and Isabella was (20 March 1732) served heir general of her father and brother, and married in September following Sir Robert Sinclair 5th baronet of Stevenson, co. Haddington, when her fortune is stated at £6,000; she left issue,
7. William, of whom afterwards.

1. Jean, born 18 Dec. 1659.
2. Agnes, born 9 April 1671, died at Jedburgh in March 1763, aged 92.
3. Isabella, born at Chatto 2 April 1675, died the following day.
Margaret, second wife of Andrew Kerr, died at Jedburgh 17 Nov. 1718, having had three children.
8. Robert, born 27 March 1678.
9. Charles, born 4 Dec. 1680, afterwards of Chatto by marriage in 1735 to his kinswoman Christian, daughter and heir of William Kerr of Chatto, of the family of Greenhead, and d. s. p. before 1759.
10. Henry, born 10 June 1682.

III. Thomas Kerr, born 9 March 1657, was a goldsmith in Edinburgh, deacon of the incorporation, and in 1708 one of the magistrates of the city, married (12 July 1694) Margaret, elder daughter and coheir (with her sister Marion, who married, first, Charles Shireff, second, William Dempster of Newton, brewer in the Canongate) of John Kerr, stabler in the Canongate of Edinburgh, burgess and chamberlain of the Earl of Haddington, stated in Douglas' Baronage to be a descendant of the Lothian family. Thomas died in Edinburgh 12 Dec. 1714, and is buried in the Greyfriars Churchyard; his widow married Mr. James Bryce, minister of the parish of Saline.

Mr. Kerr carried on business in a shop attached to the walls of St. Giles' Cathedral, the first on the right hand when entering the Parliament Square, and lived in very limited accommodation behind and under his premises; he had a family of seven sons and six daughters, but nearly all of them died in childhood, which is said to have been the result of the unhealthy state of the house, and a removal to a more roomy abode on the opposite side of the square probably saved the life of his only surviving son James.

IV. James Kerr of Bughtrig, in the parish of Hownam, co. Roxburgh, was a jeweller and goldsmith in Edinburgh, Deacon of the Incorporation of Goldsmiths 1734, Convener of Trades 1746, Engraver to the Mint and Assay Master with a salary of £100, in 1745 commanded a company of gentlemen volunteers, and in 1747 was elected member of parliament for the city. Being a Whig, his election seems to have excited a good deal of envy and party spirit, and in one passage he is described as "a mean man." Lord Marchmont, in his diary, gives an account of an interview he had shortly after Mr. Kerr's return to parliament, with Mr. Pelham, who told him that he had had a letter from Kerr "representing Mr. George Drummond as the fittest man for being chosen and himself as obscure;" he held his seat till 1754. Mr. Kerr was married 8 July 1725 by his stepfather, Mr. Bryce, to Jean, daughter of Gavin Thomson of Lowget, writer in Edinburgh, and Violet Young his wife, and by her who died in childbirth 1 October 1746 had—

1. William, born 15 Oct. 1729, died young.
2. Thomas Andrew, born 14 Jan. and died 9 Feb. 1739.
3. Gavin, born 22 Nov. 1745 and died young.
1. Violet, born 24 April 1726, married 10th January 1751 her cousin William Dempster, goldsmith in Edinburgh, whose pedigree is given in Douglas' Baronage, shewing him to be heir male of the Dempsters of Muresk and Pitliver, and had issue.
2. Margaret, twin with Violet, died 1 Dec. 1726.
3. Elizabeth, born 2 Sept. 1727, died 30 Sept. 1729.
4. Barbara, born 30 December 1730, died 13 July 1731.
5. Christian, born 24 September 1732, died 12 April 1733.
6. Jean, born 23 Dec. 1733, died 21 Dec. 1738.
7. Barbara, born 15 August 1735, died 9 December 1738.
8. Margaret, born 25 September 1737, died 23 Nov. 1738.
9. Jean, born 2 May 1740, died 21 Dec. 1741.
10. Isabel, born 13 August 1742, married 30 Sep. 1794 William Simpson, D.D., one of the Ministers of the Tron Church, Edinburgh, and died 27 November 1825.
11. Jean, born 12, died 13, June 1744.

Mr. Kerr married, secondly, 6 August 1750, Elizabeth daughter of Lord Charles Kerr of Cramond, co. Edinburgh, Director of Chancery in Scotland, second son of the first Marquess of Lothian, and by her, who died 21 Feb. 1799, aged 85, had—

4. Charles, of whom after.
5. Pelham, born 23 April, died 6 May 1754.
6. Pelham, born 31 July 1755, died 17 August 1760.
7. Robert, born 20 Oct. 1757, a Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh, F.R.S. and F.S.A., Scotland, translated Lavoisier's 'Elements of Chemistry' and Berthollet's 'Essay on the New Method of Bleaching,' 1789; Linnæus' 'Zoological System,' 1792; Buffon on 'Oviparous Quadrupeds, and Serpents,' 1793-1800. He wrote a 'History of Scotland during the reign of Robert the Bruce,' 'Memoirs of William Smellie,' and other works, and edited a 'General Collection of Voyages and Travels,' in eighteen volumes. Robert Kerr married Julia Wardrobe, daughter of a surgeon in Edinburgh, and died 11 October 1813, leaving one son, an officer in the Royal Navy, and two married daughters. He had at one time a considerable fortune, but in consequence of an unfortunate investment in a paper mill at Ayton in Berwickshire became involved in financial difficulties.

8. Douglas, born 15 June, and died 18 Dec. 1759.
12. Jane Janet, born 17 June 1751, died 10 Feb. 1776.
13. Elizabeth Rose, born 17 Oct. 1756, died 28 Jan. 1758.

Mr. James Kerr, who was served heir general of his mother, Mrs. Bryce, 12 May 1762, died at Drumsheugh, near Edinburgh, 24 Jan. 1768.

V. Charles Kerr of Bughtrig, born 21 May 1753, Captain in the 43rd Regiment of Foot, Printer to the King for Scotland, Treasurer and Magistrate of the City of Edinburgh; he registered arms 9 July 1787, sold Bughtrig about 1812, having some years previously acquired Calder Bank, co. Lanark.

Captain Kerr married 8 February 1802 Marion, daughter of Francis Sharp, Controller of Customs at Leith, and died 18 July 1813, his widow surviving till 25 Sep. 1850, when she died in her 72nd year.

They had issue—

1. James.
2. Francis, born 9 July 1804, died at Golden Vale, Jamaica, 5 September 1830.
3. Charles, born 28 Feb. 1806.
4. John Sharp, born 16 March 1813, died 18 Feb. 1814.
1. Madeline, born 14 June 1809, married 16 Sep. 1834 George Meikle, Superintending Surgeon of the Hyderabad Subsidiary Force, Madras Medical Establishment, and died 19 June 1841, leaving two daughters, Marion Madeline Meikle married in 1857 Archibald Broun of Johnstunburn, Advocate, a Principal Clerk of Session, Deputy Lieutenant of the County of Haddington, and has issue; Helen Christina Palmer Meikle married in 1866 the Rev. Robert Henderson, Chaplain on the Bengal Establishment, Calcutta, and has issue.
2. Elizabeth Mary Ann, born 13 July 1811, married 31 March 1842 James Stevenson, Superintending Surgeon, Madras Army, and died in 1866 leaving four sons and a daughter.

VI. James Kerr, Colonel of the 2nd Madras European Regiment, born 4 Dec. 1802, married, first, at Masulipatam 10 May 1826, Joyce Ann Charlotte Alexander, and had no issue to survive by her, who died in 1832, aged 25. Colonel Kerr married, second, 6 July 1836, Christina Haig and had one child who died in infancy; thirdly, in 1850, Miss Conquergood and had three sons and a daughter Marion Isabella, who married in June 1876 John Robert Black, M.D., Greenock. Colonel and Mrs. Kerr both died in 1860.

VII. James Kerr, their eldest son, resident in Liverpool, represents the Bughtrig family:—

EXTRACTS FROM THE PARISH REGISTERS OF COLLYWESTON, NORTHAMPTONSHIRE.

By JUSTIN SIMPSON.

THE Register of this village commences in 1541-2, a portion from 1648 to 1652 is lost, but what remains is in capital condition, the earlier entries being beautifully written. The first vol. is thus headed: "The Register booke of Colliweston, contayninge the names of all those that weare baptized, married, and burried sithence the yeare of our Lord God 1541." The second commences in 1653 with this heading: "A true registr of all y^e burialls in y^e town of Colliweston from y^e 29th day of September, 1653." After the entries of 1727 the same heading is repeated, but the entries are written in a different hand, and there are many not to be found in the first, certificates of the burials (in woollen) being recorded, the most important are incorporated with the others.

* M^{ris} Elizabeth Lewis the first wife of Roger Dale (son of Robert Dale, of Winckle, parish of Prestburg, co. Chester, and sometime of Hawkesley in the same county, by Catharine, dau. of . . . Leigh, of Baguleigh, co. Chester), was the dau. and coheir of Wm. Tofte, of Orlingbury, co. Northampton, and widow of Michael Lewis of Collyweston. In the 21st Eliz. (1579) Sir Henry Sidney, Knt., K.G., Lord Deputy of Ireland and father of Sir Philip, alienated by license the Manor of Manton and Tecksores (Tixover) co. Rutland, to Michael Lewis, who dying s. p. 4 June 26 Eliz. (1584) they descended to Clement his brother and heir. Clement in the 33rd Eliz. (1591) obtained license to alienate them to Wm. Kirkham, the latter in the 37th Eliz. (1595) obtained license to alienate them to Roger Dale then of Collyweston, co. Northants, Esq., which he did by deed of feofment dated 1st April 37 Eliz., and by a fine levied Mic. 2 Jac. 1 (1604). Charles Dale, Esq., grandson of Roger, left at his death four daughters his coheirs, two of whom being within age, certain trustees were enabled by special Act of Parliament held at Westminster 31st Car. 2 (1679) to sell the family estates. Manton was sold in 1682 to Abraham Wright, Clerk, and Tixover to Henry Stafford, of Blatherwyck, co. Northants, Esq., whose descendant Hy. De Stafford still owns it (Wright's 'Rutland'). At the Eyre of Rockingham Forest, 11th Car. 1, Nicholas Jackson, a minor, by Edward Offley, his guardian, Rt. Wyles, yeoman; Roger Dale, Esq.; Nicholas Jackson, baker; and Nicholas Smyth, husbandman, claimed and pleaded prescription for themselves, for the privilege of common in the walk in West-hay (within the bailiwick of Cliffe Regis), within the forest aforesaid, for lands and messuages they were severally possessed of in Duddington (Bridges' Northants, vol. ii. p. 442). A family of the same name seated at Flagg, co. Derby, entered their pedigree in the visitation of 1634, their arms are paly of 6 Gu. and Or, a bend Erm. on a chief Az. 3 garbs Or. Crest, on a mount Vert 3 Danish battle-axes, two in saltire and the centre one in pale ppr., the staves Az. encompassed with a chaplet of roses alternately Gu. and Ar., banded by a ribbon Or. The arms of the Rutland family confirmed in 1602, are paly of 6 Or and Gu. on a chief Az. 3 Garbs or. Crest 3 Danish battle-axes erect, handles Or, headed Ar., enfiled with a chaplet of roses Or. A member of the family settled at Stamford in the reign of Jac. I., and particulars respecting them will be found in my list of 'Lincolnshire Tradesmen's Tokens of the seventeenth century,' p. 57-64.

According to Bridges' 'History of Northamptonshire,' I find Geoffrey Dale was presented to the Rectory of Boughton, and instituted 23 Jan. 1558-9, and there bur. 2 Nov. 1593, and William Dale compounded for the first fruits of the Vicarage of Moulton also in the same county, 1st Feb. 1596-7.

† The several manors and most of the lands in Cranesley were early in the reign of Elizabeth in the possession of Edward Barnewell and Edw. Dallison, who in the 27th of Eliz. conveyed the same to Sir Thos. Cecil, Knt. son and heir of the Lord Treasurer, who in 38th Elizabeth sold all his property here to Alice Elkin, widow. A manor here, called Merston's Manor, was possessed by George Dalyson, Esq. (arms, Gu. 3 crescents Or, a canton Erm.) who died seized of it 16 Hen. VIII. In 17 and 21 Elizabeth, leases of the rectory were granted to Edw. Dalyson, which expired in the 31st Elizabeth. In the parish church is a monument

- 1588-9. Item. Zacharie Hunt the p'son of Colliweston made a license to Mr Roger Dale, gentleman, and to Elizabeth his wife, and to Mr ffrauncis Bullington (Bullingham ?*) to take flesh for the time of lent, for wedensdayes, fridaies, saterdayes, and other fastinge dayes during the time of their sicknesses and diseases according to the statute in y^t case p'vide, dated this xxij of March.
1590. John the sonne of John ffetherstonne, bapt. the xvijth of July; bur. xvth of Oct. 1592.

* She became the wife of John Havers, of Stockerston, co. Leicester, Esq., and died at the early age of 25, Feb. 15, 1632-3. Her mother was Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Anthony Cope, of Hanwell, co. Oxon, Knt. and Bart. David, son and heir, succeeded as third Earl of Exeter, and died 18 Apl. 1643. Richard Cecil was knighted by James I. at Woodstock, Oxfordshire, 28 Aug. 1616, and afterwards resided at Wakerley, Northants, where he was bur. 4 Oct. 1633. He was the second son of Sir Thomas Cecil, Knt., second Baron of Burghley, and first Earl of Exeter, K.G. (bur. at Westminster Abbey 8 July 1640), by his first wife Dorothy, dau. and coh. of John Neville, Baron Latimer (she died at London 22 May 1608). He was M.P. for the city of Westminster 35th Eliz., Peterboro' 39th of Eliz., and 1st Jac. 1, and for Stamford 12th and 18 Jac. I. The last time he was returned for Stamford is thus quaintly entered in the Municipal Records:—"1619 Dec. 19 Thomas Crowson, Alderman. At this hall the Right Hon^{ble} Sr Richard Cecill, Knt. and John Wingfeilde, of Threckencote (Tickencote), Esq., were chosen by the whole assembly to be burgesses for the saide borough in the next p^{liam}'t to be holden at the famous cyty of Westminst^r to begin the sixteenth day of January next accordinge to a warrant sent by the high Sheriff of the county of Lincoln openly read." A letter from the Earl of Exeter wishing to be allowed to nominate the two members on this occasion was received by the Alderman and read to the Corporate body. The Mr. Wingfield alluded to was a barrister-at-law, an officer of the Exchequer, and, in the latter end of the reign of Elizabeth, Escheator of Northants, M.P. for Grantham in the 18th Jac. I. and 1st Car. I., and died July 1626. He first mar. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Margaret the wife of Paul Gresham, Esq., and Lady of the Manor of Tickencote. She died 14 Feb. 44 Eliz. (1601-2). He espoused secondly Margaret, widow of John Blyth, of Denton, co. Lincoln, gent., and dau. of Robt. Thorold, of Haigh, in the same co. She was bur. at Tickencote, 3 Sept. 1618. Two of her sisters were married at Tickencote Church, Anne, in 1617, to Will^m Terall (Thorold) Esq., created a Bart. 24 Aug. 1642, and Katherine, 30 May 1618 to Thomas Michell, Esq.

NOTES RELATING TO THE FAMILY OF TYNDALL, OF STINCHCOMBE AND NIBLEY IN GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

By B. W. GREENFIELD, BARR.-AT-LAW.

3. WILLIAM TYNDALL:—named SECOND in REMAINDER to the estate of HUNT's COURT under his mother's Deed of Entail, dated 20 January 33 H. VIII. (1541-2), and one of the VALUERS of her household effects under her Will, dated 3 Feb'y 34 H. VIII. (1542-3.) He had his abode in NIBLEY—probably (with the permission either of his parents, or his elder brother) at HUNT's

Lay Subsidy, Gloucr., 34-35 H. VIII. 114-235.

COURT, for—to the LAY SUBSIDY of 34-35 H. VIII. (1543) already referred to, he was assessed on Goods in NIBLEY to the value of £4, and charged thereon with the payment of 4d; and to the first collection of the same Subsidy, the Indenture for collecting which in the Hundred of Berkeley is dated 8 Nov. 35 H. VIII. (1543) he was assessed on Goods in NIBLEY to the value of £4, and charged thereon 8d.

Lay Subsidy, Gloucr., 35 H. VIII. 114-240.

Registry of Wills proved in the Diocesan Court of Gloucester, vol. vi. Originals, and now in the District Court of Probate at Gloucester.

On the evidence of the Wills of NICHOLAS GEYNER of NORTH NIBLEY, dated 13 July 1552 and proved at Gloucester 16 March following, and that of his wife, JOHANE GEYNER of NORTH NIBLEY, WIDOW LATE WIFE of NICHOLAS GEYNER, dated 19 Feb. 7 E. VI. 1552-3, and proved at Gloucester 23 Sept. 1553,—it may be assumed that THIS WILLIAM TYNDALL was husband of their daughter ALICE, and—by her—father of NICHOLAS TYNDALL, AGNES TYNDALL, HELEN TYNDALL, ELIZABETH TYNDALL, and ALICE TYNDALL,—all of whom are severally named therein.

Church Register of Nibley.

In the Church Register of Nibley the entry of the BURIAL, on 10 November, 1603, of ALICE WIFE OF WILLIAM TYNDALL, DECEASED, may probably apply to them. Likewise the following MARRIAGES AT NIBLEY may apply to two of their daughters, viz.

1573 May 7th JOHN NELME and ELIZABETH TYNDALL.

1580 July 21, JOHN HIGGES and ALICE DAUGHTER OF WILLIAM TYNDALL.

Thornbury Register.

The son above mentioned of William Tyndale, viz., NICHOLAS, may have been NICHOLAS TYNDALE OF GROVENINGE in the parish of THORNBURY, WEAVER, who MARRIED THERE, 22 October 1620, ANN BRIGGS, WIDOW. He was BURIED AT THORNBURY in the following year, viz., 25 July 1621.

Gloucester Wills Register, vol. xli.

His Will, dated 21 July 1621 was proved at Gloucester by Anne his relict 7 August 1621. He makes bequests to his kinsman Thomas Hewlings; to his step children—that is to his wife's three children by a former husband—viz., William Briggs, John Briggs, and Johan Draper; and to the children of the said Johan Draper. All the Residue of his Goods &c. he gives to ANNE his said wife whom he appoints executrix.

Query: Is it probable that this Nicholas had a former wife and that she can be identified with the next person? viz. ALICE TYNDALL OF FALFIELD IN THORNBURY who was buried there 2 September 1604. Her will dated 30 Aug. 1604 was proved at Gloucester 3 Aug. 1605 by Augustine Davyes and Thos. Allen the Residuary legatees and exors., She gives to Richard and Benedick Bower—to each £5. To Jeffery Bower for his keep by Thos. Allen till he is 21 yrs. old £10. “To MY DAUGHTER MARGARET MY CLOTHES,” etc. To this William Tyndall of Nibley and Alice his wife may, probably, be attributed the PARENTAGE of RICHARD TYNDALL alias HITCHINS (Nibley Register) of NORTH NIBLEY, BROADWEAVER.

Original Will in the Registry of the Diocesan Court of Gloucester, vol. 44, Now in the District Court of Probate at Gloucester.

By Will, dated 1 July 1624 and proved at Gloucester by WILLIAM HIS SON AND SOLE EXECUTOR 27 Oct. 1626, he made specific bequests to HIS SON THOMAS, HIS DAUGHTERS, BRIDGET TYNDALL and AGNES TYNDALL, to his grandson Samuel Tyndall son of his son Thomas, and Richard Hayward, then under age, son of John Hayward, and gave the Residue of his effects to HIS SON WILLIAM TYNDALL; and he appoints “MY BELOVED IN CHRIST RICHARD TYNDALL of HUNT'S COURT IN NORTH NIBLEY AND FRANCIS JOBBINS OVERSEERS.” The witnesses to his signature were John Graile and Anna Graile.

N.B. RICHARD TYNDALL OF HUNT'S COURT was grandson of Richard Tyndall, elder brother of the above William: therefore these two Richards would be, paternally, first cousins once removed. They were also connected through their wives, who were both GRAILES, the broadweaver's wife being aunt to MRS. RICHARD TYNDALL OF HUNT'S COURT.

Transcripts of Nibley Register at Gloucester.

Richard the broadweaver was buried at Nibley 19 Nov. 1625. He married at Nibley, 21 August 1578, Anne, or Agnes, GRAYLE of Wootton-under-Edge. By her, who was buried at Nibley 27 April 1622, he had issue, Nibley Register.

(a) THOMAS TYNDALL, bapt. at NIBLEY 3 Feb. 1582-3 and buried there 19 Jan. 1665-6. He married at Nibley 29 Oct. 1618, ELIZABETH DAVIES. There were descendants of this marriage dwelling in Nibley at the close of the 17th century.

(b) WILLIAM TYNDALL, bapt. at NIBLEY 18 March 1591-2. He dwelt at SWINEHAY IN NIBLEY and was called "THE ELDER" to distinguish him from his son. He married at NIBLEY in 1625 ANNE WICKES. Descendants of this marriage were living in Nibley and Stinchcombe down to the middle of the last century.

(c) BRIDGET TYNDALL, bapt. at Nibley 16 April 1581.

(d) AGNES TYNDALL, married at Nibley 26 April 1627
Richard Scote.

4. THOMAS TYNDALL: named FOURTH IN REMAINDER to the estate of HUNT'S COURT in his mother's Deed of Entail of her lands and tenements in NIBLEY and WOTTON dated 20 Jan. 33 H. VIII. (1541-2). He was also a LEGATEE in his MOTHER'S WILL dated 3 Feb. 34 H. VIII. (1542-3).

Lay Subsidy, Gloucestershire, 34-35 H. VIII., 114-235.

Lay Subsidy, Gloucestershire, 35 H. VIII., 114-243.

To the LAY SUBSIDY of 34-35 H. VIII. (1543) (see p. 17) he was assessed on GOODS IN STINCHCOMBE to the value of £2; and to the first Collection of the SAME SUBSIDY in November 1543 he was assessed on GOODS IN STINCHCOMBE to the value of £2 and charged thereon 4d.

Original Will at Gloucester.
Vol. xxv.

He is, probably, that "THOMAS TYNDALL OF STINCHCOMBE, BROADWEAVER" who made his Will 7 February 1595-6, which was proved at Gloucester, 16 October 1596. He thereby gave half his goods to ELIZABETH HIS WIFE, and the RESIDUE to GEORGE TYNDALL HIS SON, whom he made whole executor. He appointed RICHARD TYNDALL and JOHN NELME to be Overseers to his Will. The son, Stinchcombe and Cam Church Registers.

He was father of TOBY TYNDALL OF STINCHCOMBE: bapt. at Stinchcombe 22 Nov. 1595, and buried there 19 Sept. 1659. By ELIZABETH HIS WIFE, who was buried at Stinchcombe 21 August, 1660, he had issue, viz.:

1. GEORGE, bapt. at Stinchcombe, 3 August 1622.
2. TIMOTHY, bapt. at Cam, 11 April 1624.
3. ARTHUR, bapt. at Stinchcombe and Cam, 10 April 1626.
4. HARRY, bapt. at Stinchcombe, 28 May 1631.
- SARAH, bapt. at Stinchcombe, 9 February 1633-4.
- ELIZABETH, bapt. at Stinchcombe 14 February 1636-7.

5. JOHN TYNDALL: named FIFTH IN REMAINDER to the estate of HUNT'S COURT in his MOTHER'S DEED OF ENTAIL of her lands and tenements in NIBLEY AND WOTTON dated 20 January 33 H. VIII. (1541-2). But he is NOT named in HER WILL (see fols. xiii. xiv.)

Lay Subsidy, 34-35 H. VIII. 114-235.

To the LAY SUBSIDY of 34-35 H. VIII. (1543), he was assessed on GOODS in STINCHCOMBE, (see p. 14.)

He was living in 1577, as provision for his maintenance at STINCHCOMBE is made in his elder BROTHER RICHARD'S WILL, which is dated 17 August 1577. This is the last found of him. No Register of BURIALS at STINCHCOMBE, from the END OF 1587 to APRIL 1630, is now to be found.

JOAN TYNDALL: a legatee in her Mother's Will, dated 3 Feb. 34 H. VIII. (1542-3.)

AGNES TYNDALL: a legatee in her Mother's Will, dated 3 Feb. 34 H. VIII. (1542-3).

Original will proved in the Diocesan Court of Gloucester, vol. v, fol. 74. Now in the District Court of Probate at Gloucester.

She appears to have married RICHARD NELME of STANCOMBE in STINCHCOMBE from his Will, which was dated on 28 Dec. 1547, in the presence of Richard Foster, Curate of Stinchcombe, Thomas Trattman and RICHARD TYNDALL, and proved in the Diocesan Court of Gloucester at Berkeley, 4 June 1548. He therein makes AGNES, HIS WIFE, Residuary Legatee and Executrix, and gives specific legacies to his two children, JOHN NELME and KATHERINE NELME, to be paid to them at their respective ages of 18 and 15 years, with proviso, in case of their mother marrying again, that she shall become bound to THOMAS Trattman and RICHARD TYNDALL for the delivery of the said legacies.

APPLETON FAMILY (p. 69).—I have in my possession an old lease (3 James II. 1687) of lands in the parish of Compton Magna alias Compton Episcopi, co. Somerset, from John Appleton of Bedminster, Gentleman, to Edward Cooke of Compton Bishop, Yeoman, witnesses, Francis Yeamans and John Yeamans. And, in a deed of 1714, mention is made of John Appleton formerly of Bedminster, but then of Monckton, near Chippenham, Wilts, Gent., and Christian his wife. He was son of the first named John Appleton. From other sources I gather that Henry Appleton was a mercer in Bristol, and that a son of his was appointed by the Corporation to a Scholarship at St. John's, Oxford. In 1659 he was chosen a Captain of the Trained Bands. In 1660, was on the Committee for presenting Charles the Second with an address and £500, and in 1661 was re-elected by mandamus to the Corporation. He died in 1663, possessed of considerable property, leaving a widow Martha, and seven children, and was buried within the altar rails at Bedminster Church, leaving by will £5 to the parish and £5 to buy a bell. His crest is stated to have been an elephant with a serpent in his mouth. Considerable information in reference to the Knight family may be obtained from 'Life and Times of Edward Colston,' edited by S. G. Tovey, and a short pedigree of a branch of the family will be found in the 'County Families of Wales,' by Nicholas, in addition to which I have a few monumental inscriptions relative to the family which I shall be happy to forward Mr. Barker on receipt of his address.

RALEIGH FAMILY.—Can any one give information as to where Sir Walter's head is really buried? Both East Budleigh in Devonshire, and West Horsley in Surrey, claim the honour. It was known to have been in the possession of Lady Raleigh, and of her son Carew Raleigh after her death.

BLACKER.—The Rev. Legard Blacker was the second son of Major George Blacker, of Carrick, co. Armagh. He entered Trinity College, Dublin, May 3, 1668, when eighteen years of age ('Entrance Books'); in 1670 he was elected a Scholar ('Dublin University Calendar, 1862,')

p. 277); and in 1674 he graduated B.A. (Dr. Todd's 'Catalogue of Graduates in the University of Dublin, 1591-1868,' p. 47.) As recorded in Archdeacon Cotton's 'Fasti Ecclesiæ Hibernicæ,' vol. iii. p. 303, he was collated to the prebend of Dromaragh, in the diocese of Dromore, October 18, 1681: he was rector of the parish of Shankhill (or Lurgan), in the same diocese, in 1684, and presented a baptismal font, which is extant, to his parish church. Dying without issue(?) August 29, 1686, he was buried at Shankhill. Any information respecting him will be acceptable.

BEAUCHAMP (p. 129).—Referring to Dugdale's 'Warwickshire,' under ALCESTER," and to his 'Baronage,' i. 248, THETA will find that Margaret Lady Beauchamp was sister of Richard Ferrers, Esq., and wife of John Lord Beauchamp of Powyke, K.G., who by his will, dated 9 April 1475, desired that his body should be buried in a new chapel to be built on the north side of the choir in the Church of the Monastery of the Friars Preachers at Worcester. Richard Beauchamp was his son and heir, aged forty years and more at the time of his father's death in 1475, but there is no proof that this Margaret was his mother. The inference to be drawn from her will is that she was not: in which case she was second wife of John Lord Beauchamp.

BALL.—Will you kindly refer me to any biographical sketch (and what I want to see appeared, I think, in an Irish periodical of the day), of Serjeant John Ball, in memory of whom a monument was erected in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, shortly after his death, 24th August 1813, "by the unanimous vote of the Irish Bar"? A copy of the inscription, which is perfect in its way, is given in Monck Mason's 'History of St. Patrick's Cathedral' (Appendix, p. lix.); and an extract from Mr. Peter Burrowes's speech on moving that a monument should be erected, appears in Phillips's 'Specimens of Irish Eloquence,' pp. 300-302. Another fine monument to his memory is in St. Peter's Church, Drogheda. I wish to know more of him and his family; and any genealogical information respecting them will be thankfully received.

"IRISH FAMILY NAMES."—Is there any work on the origin and meaning of Irish family names? I am well aware that some interesting and valuable articles, under the title I have quoted, and by the late John O'Donovan, LL.D., appeared in the 'Irish Penny Journal' (Dublin, 1841); but the subject deserves, I think, a fuller consideration. At any rate, the articles might with advantage be reprinted—revised (if need be) by some one competent to do so.

1691. Anne ye Wife of Ames Trevellian, Gent. was buried ye ffirst day of february.

The above entry is taken from the parish register of West Quantoxhead, co. Somerset, and probably refers to some member of the family of Trevelyan of Nettlecombe, a parish not far distant. The Christian name Ames was common in the family of Harrison, of which many extracts from the Quantoxhead registers are given in the 'Genealogist,' vol. ii., p. 24. Who was Ames Trevellian, and did he belong to the Nettlecombe family?

GENEALOGICAL MEMOIRS OF THE FAMILY OF SIR WALTER SCOTT, BART., OF ABBOTSFORD, WITH A REPRINT OF HIS MEMORIALS OF THE HALIBURTONS. By the Rev. C. ROGERS, LL.D. London. Printed for the Royal Historical Society. 1877. 8vo.

The first edition* of the 'Scottish House of Roger' was printed in 1872, pp. 319, 8vo. The genealogy in that before us is reduced to 44 pages, including an index. The first ten are devoted to notices of various persons bearing the Christian name of Roger, and not proved to be connected with the family whose genealogy is set forth. "Before proceeding further," says the author, "it is essential that we make some observations respecting the origin of surnames." This reminds us of the well known story of the undergraduate, who commenced his paper—"before we can explain the construction of the common pump it is necessary to demonstrate the binomial theorem." The 'Scottish House of Roger' appears from the members mentioned to have mainly consisted of respectable tenant farmers, resident at Coupar Grange, of whom William Roger, who died there in 1562, was the first. "The members of the Scottish House have spelt the name variously—such as Roger, Rogers, Rodger, and Rodgers." "The armorial escutcheon of the Scottish House of Roger has not been satisfactorily determined." We are not surprised at this. Most probably it may be said of the Rogers', as Sydney Smith sarcastically remarked of the Smiths, "they had no arms—they always sealed their letters with their thumbs."

The 'M memoir of the Families of Strachan and Wise' has, says Dr. Rogers, been framed on authentic materials, which are systematically quoted or referred to. It does credit to the untiring spirit of research for which its author is well known. The Strachans of Thornton, whose descent is traced, apparently acquired Thornton from the marriage of Sir James Strachan with Agneta de Thornton. Alexander Strachan of Thornton was one of Queen Mary's "Justiciars" appointed to make trial of George, Earl of Rothes, on the charge of being privy to the murder of Cardinal Beaton.

Another Alexander Strachan of Thornton, at one time M.P. for Kincardineshire, was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia 28 May 1625, and ranked on the roll next to Gordon of Letterfourie, the premier Baronet. He was succeeded by his second son Alexander, John the first having died prior to 1 August 1635. This Alexander died without issue at Bruges in 1659, in poor circumstances. His will, given at p. 47, is curious. The patent of the Baronetcy was granted with remainder to heirs male, and consequently James Strachan of Inchtuthill, a distant relative, succeeded as third Baronet, and dying in 1686, was succeeded by Mr. James Strachan, minister of Keith, probably his nephew. (Dr. Rogers does not prove the relationship.) He was succeeded by his son William, and he by his brother Francis, a person in Holy Orders in the Church of Rome. The subsequent descent of the title is given to the death of Sir John Strachan, who died 28 Jan. 1854.

* A very able notice of this work will be found in the 'Herald and Genealogist,' vol. viii., pp. 449-456.

A second Baronetcy was granted to a person of this name, one Thomas Strachan, and the heirs male of his body, in 1685. He died without issue, when the Baronetcy was assumed by his younger brother Patrick, M.D., Physician to Greenwich Hospital, and his issue are traced to the death of Sir Richard Strachan, when it is said to have "lapsed by the extinction of heirs male." How Sir Richard could have made any claim whatever it is difficult to see, as the title was limited to the heirs male of the body of the grantee.

The want of proofs of the succession to the former title relegates the Strachan Baronets to the class of 'Claimants'; as to the latter, it appears clear that they are not even entitled to this honour.

The pedigree of the Family of Wyse, stated to be of "Saxon origin," commences with Alexander Wyse of Mains, "in the middle of the seventeenth century," said to be "a descendant of the House," but no exact date or proof of his existence is supplied. The absence of a tabular pedigree, were it merely given as a guide to the text, is much to be regretted. It is extremely difficult to follow the narrative account of the Strachans in these pages, and to pick out the authorities which are relied upon as proving the relationship of the persons mentioned.

The same remark may be made of the 'Genealogical Memoirs of the Family of Sir Walter Scott.' Dr. Rogers vouches in his preface for "the copiousness and accuracy of his details," and we must take the latter on his authority. As a general account of the family of the eminent Poet and Author the work will be read with much pleasure. It is amusing and interesting, and the story of Sir Walter's ancestors is told in an agreeable and pleasant manner, well suited to the general reader, but entirely without that attention to legal evidence which renders a genealogy worthy that of the genealogist who cares only for such pedigrees as are capable of proof.

To those of our readers who love a pleasant story, pleasantly told, we commend Dr. Rogers's books, but they are not, so far as we can see, intended for the critical Genealogist.

GRANT OF ARMS TO JOHN CREAMER CLARKE OF WASTE COURT, ABINGDON, IN THE COUNTY OF BERKS, ESQ., M.P., J.P. DATED 8TH JAN. 1876.

To all and singular to whom these presents shall come. Sir Albert William Woods, Knight, Garter Principal King of Arms, and Robert Laurie, Esquire, Clarenceux King of Arms, of the South East and West Parts of England from the River Trent Southwards send Greeting. Whereas John Creamer Clarke of Waste Court, in the parish of Saint Helen's, Abingdon, in the County of Berks, Esquire, Representative in Parliament for the Borough of Abingdon, and in the Commission of the Peace for the said Borough, eldest son of Robert Clarke, late of St Giles in the Wood, in the County of Devon, Gentleman, deceased, hath represented unto the Most Noble Henry, Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal and Hereditary Marshal of England, that being uncertain of the Armorial Ensigns pertaining to his Family, and unwilling to use any without unquestionable authority, he therefore requested the favour of His Grace's Warrant for Our Granting and assigning such as may be proper to be borne by him and his descendants and by the other descendants of his said father Robert Clarke, deceased, according to the Laws of Arms. And forasmuch as the said Earl Marshal did by Warrant under his hand and seal, bearing date the Thirtieth day of August last, authorize and direct Us to grant and assign such armorial bearings accordingly, Know ye therefore that We the said Garter and Clarenceux, in pursuance of His Grace's Warrant, and by Virtue of the Letters Patent of our several Offices to each of us respectively granted, do by these Presents grant and assign unto the said John Creemer Clarke the Arms following: that is to say, Vert, on a Bend Ermine, Cotised Or, between three Crosses pattée Argent, as many swans of the third. And for the Crest, On a Wreath of the Colours, in front of a Mount overgrown with Clover, a Lark rising proper, Charged on the breast with a Cross pattée Argent, and in the beak an Ear of Wheat, Or, as the same are in the margin hereof more plainly depicted, to be borne and used for ever hereafter by him the said John Creemer Clarke, and his descendants, and by the other descendants of his said father, Robert Clarke, deceased, with due and proper differences according to the Laws of Arms. In Witness whereof We, the said Garter and Clarenceux Kings of Arms, have to these Presents subscribed our names and affixed the seals of our several Offices this Eighth day of January, in the Thirty-ninth year of the Reign of Our Sovereign Lady Victoria, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen, Defender of the Faith, etc., and in the Year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

The following is an account of the issue of Charlotta Lambert and Edward Cotton; and of her sister Sarah Lambert and Thomas Lewis.

Charlotta Lambert, married for her first husband Edward Cotton, Citizen and Fishmonger, of London, at Shoreditch Church, 6 March 1766, he died 19 Oct. 1779, aged 35, and was buried in the church of St. James, Clerkenwell. Her second husband was James Brown, F.S.A. of Stoke Newington, to whom she was there married, 17 March 1789. She died at St. Albans, 6 May 1815, and was buried on the 15th in her second husband's vault in the churchyard at Stoke Newington.

Edward Cotton was the only son, and second child of Thomas Cotton, Citizen and Barber Surgeon, of London, and of Pindrop, co. Glouc. and Northaw, co. Hertford, Esq. (who died 8 May 1777, aged 83, and was buried, as was also his wife, in the Church of St. James, Clerkenwell), by Elizabeth (died 25 April 1763, aged 56), daughter of Zephaniah Page and of his wife Sarah Howard, who died 1 March 1765, aged 86, and was with her husband buried in the Church of St. James, Clerkenwell.

Edward Cotton had two sisters, Elizabeth, born 3 Jan. 1739-40, died unmarried 22 August 1807, buried in the Church of St. Michael, Cornhill; and Sarah, died 26 Oct. 1774, aged 28, buried in Church of St. James, Clerkenwell, married Charles Clavey, of London, Linen Draper, buried at Frome, co. Somerset. They had:—

1. Sarah, born Nov. 1767, died at Bath circa April 1829. Married Rev. John Griffith, D.D. Master of the Free School at Warminster, and Rector of Little Elm, Somerset, died Feb. 1816. They had eight children.
2. Charles Cotton Clavey, died an infant, buried at Hampstead, Middx.
3. Harriet, born 10 Sept. 1770, married June 1793, Charles Palmer, of Thurnscoe Hall, near Doncaster, and had four sons, and two daughters, Harriet and Clara.
4. Joseph Clavey, Captain 29th Foot, born 2 May 1772, at Hampstead, died of yellow fever about Sept. 1796, unm.

The children of Edward Cotton, and Charlotta (Lambert) his wife were, with three daughters, viz. Charlotta born 20 Feb. 1768, died 9 April 1771, bur. in the Church of St. James, Clerkenwell; Charlotta, born 24 Nov. 1772, died 3 Dec. 1788, bur. at Stoke Newington; Sarah, born 20 Dec. 1774; seven sons :—

1. Edward Cotton, born 9 March 1767, died unm. 17 Oct. 1798, bur. in churchyard of St. George's, Southwark.
2. Thomas Cotton, born 7 Aug. 1769. Married at St. Michael, Cornhill, 25 July 1795, Sarah Anne, only dau'r and heir of George Rigby, Esq. of Stoke Newington, by his first wife Sarah Anne, dau'r of Cluer Dicey, Esq., born 15 June 1773, and had issue :—
 - i. Charlotta, born 12 May 1796.
 - ii. Thomas Dicey Cotton, born 24 May 1797.
 - iii. Caroline, born 5 Oct. 1798.
 - iv. George Cotton, born 5 Oct. 1799, died 30 Dec. following.
 - v. Francis Cotton, born 14 Oct. 1800, died 12 July following.
 - vi. Sophia, born 11 Oct. 1801.
 - vii. William Cotton, born 20 Oct. 1802.
 - viii. Marianne, born 9 Jan. 1804.
 - ix. Emma, born 1 Dec. 1804.
 - x. Rosetta Lambert, born 28 March 1807.
 - xi. Edward Cotton, born 11 Oct. 1809.
 - xii. Robert Cotton, born 12 March 1812.
 - xiii. Henry Cotton, born 3 June 1815.
3. William Cotton, born 3 Oct. 1771, died 5 Jan. 1772, buried in the Church of St. James, Clerkenwell.
4. Charles Cotton, born 14 Dec. 1773, died 24 Jan. 1774, buried in the Church of St. James, Clerkenwell.
5. John Cotton, born 5 Dec. 1775, died two days after, and bur. at Stoke Newington.
6. William Cotton, born 8 Feb. 1777, married at Chorley, co. Lancaster, 24 Sept. 1807, to Hannah Alker, born 15 April 1783.
7. Charles Cotton, born 24 June 1779.

The children of Thomas Lewis and Sarah Lambert, before mentioned, were :—

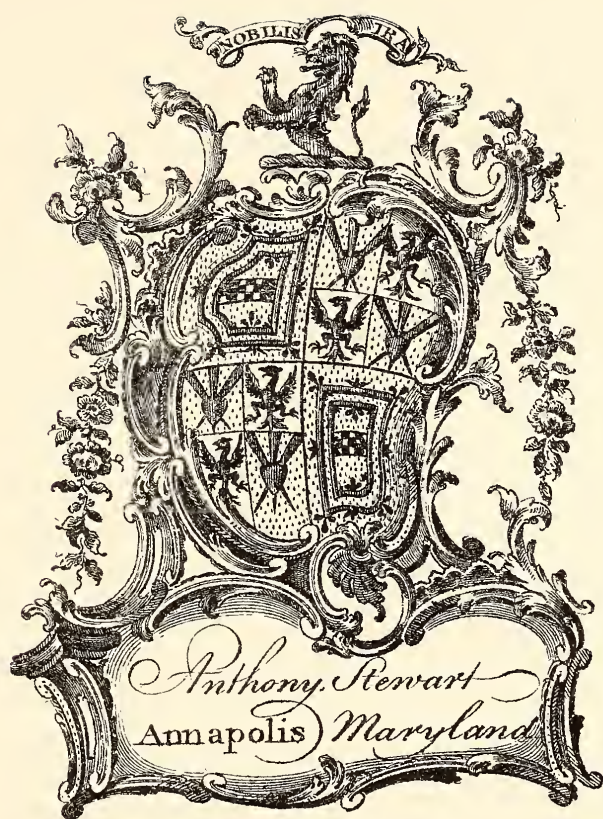

1. William Lewis, born 7 Nov. 1772, died unm. 11 Feb. 1816, buried in the Church of St. Olave, Jewry.
2. Sarah, born 27 Jan. 1774, married at St. Olave, Jewry, 25 April, 1795, to John Gray, of London, Brandy Merchant; he died at Wembley Park, 22 Oct. 1828, aged 82. They had issue:—

- i. Sarah Maria, born 25 June 1796.

 11. John Walter Lewis, born 30 Nov. 1791.

BOOK-PLATE OF ANTHONY STEWART.

WE are indebted to the kindness of W. F. Marsh Jackson, Esq. for the accompanying illustration of the arms of Anthony Stewart of Annapolis, Maryland, taken from a book-plate found by Mr. Jackson in an old copy of 'Hudibras.' The coat is that of Stewart (of Bute) quartering Logan of Restalrig, and Ramsay, and should be described as, i. and iv. Or, a fess chequé Azure and Argent within a double tressure flory counter flory Gules. ii. and iii. quarterly, 1 and 4, Or, three passion nails in point piercing a heart Gules (Logan). 2 and 3, Argent, an eagle displayed Gules (Ramsay). The latter coat is usually given as an eagle with two heads. Some account of these arms will be found in 'Nisbet's Heraldry,' pp. 53, 205. We shall be much obliged to any of our transatlantic correspondents who can give information tending to identify Anthony Stewart, or an account of his life, should he have been in any way remarkable.

PEARCE.—December 7, 1733, Sir Edward Lovett Pearce, M.P., "a celebrated architect, and the builder of the Irish Parliament House of his day," departed this life; and on the 10th he was buried in the old churchyard of Donnybrook, near Dublin. Are any genealogical particulars of him and his family to be found, printed or in manuscript? He is mentioned, I am aware, in Harris's 'History of Dublin,' p. 410, Whitelaw and Walsh's 'History of Dublin,' vol. i. p. 529, and D'Alton's 'History of the County of Dublin,' p. 805; and his interment is duly recorded in the register of burials in the parish of Donnybrook. "Last night died at his seat at Still-Organ [near Dublin], Sir Edward Lovet Pearce, Knt., Engineer, Overseer, and Surveyor General of this kingdom" (Pue's 'Occurrences,' December 8, 1733); and, "Yesterday morning the corps of Sir Edward Lovet Pearce was interred at Donnybrook Church" (Ib. December 11). There also was interred, January 20, 1738, his brother, the Right Hon. Lieut.-General Thomas Pearce, who "was at once Governor, Mayor, and Representative in Parliament, of the city of Limerick" (Ferrar's 'History of Limerick,' p. 83); and Lady Pearce, July 17, 1749. See Blacker's 'Brief Sketches of Booters-town and Donnybrook,' pp. 11, 37, 74, 278-280. "Coronet Pierce" was likewise interred in the same churchyard, February 7, 1738-9. Whose son was he? I have Lenihan's 'Limerick: its History and Antiquities,' in which mention is made of the two brothers.

CASWALL.—The ancestry and descendants of Sir George Caswall are asked for. Sir George was knighted 10 Feb. 1717-18, married firstly . . . daughter of John Brassey of Roxford, co. Herts, and secondly Mary, widow of Thos. Brassey. Sir George died 22 Sept. 1742. His sons George and John married, and the latter, who died in his father's lifetime, left a son John, and a daughter Frances. Timothy Caswall was not, as stated in Burke's 'Landed Gentry,' of 1858 and 1862, a son of Sir George, but his nephew, and son of John Caswall. I have seen the Wills of Sir George Caswell, and of his son George, who at the time of his death, July 1746, was of Weybridge, co. Surrey. I have no information as to the families into which this family married, and I do not know the maiden name of Sir George's second wife.

LEGH OF LYME.—A pedigree of this family is given in Ormerod's 'History of Cheshire,' vol. iii. p. 338, but previous to the issue of Sir Peter Legh of Lyme, who married Ellen, daughter of Sir John Savage, and died in 1527, the names and intermarriages of none of the daughters and but few of the younger sons are given. Is anything known of them, and are the wills extant of Sir Piers Legh, who was beheaded in 1399, of Sir Peter Legh his son, of Sir Peter Legh, who died in 1478, or of Peter Legh, son of the last mentioned, who died in his father's lifetime in 1468?

JOHN UPHAM.—The public records at London shew the following among a list of Passengers,

		" Bound for New England,
Weymouth, } y ^e 20 th of March 1635, }	John Upham,	age	35. (?)
	Joane Martyn,	"	44.
	Elizabeth Upham,	"	32.
	John Upham Jr,	"	37.
	William Grave,	"	12.
	Sarah Upham,	"	26.
	Nathaniel Upham,	"	5.
	Elizabeth Upham,	"	3."

Ninety-seven passengers are mentioned in this list, three of whom are spoken of as "from Somerset; four, all of different names, as "of Batcombe," a parish in Somerset; one "of Broadway;" one "of Dinder," and one "of . . ." No other county or place named.

John Upham, mentioned first above, was the progenitor of a large number of descendants now living and bearing the name in the United States. It is not known where he was born, but there are strong indications that he too was "of Somerset," perhaps of Wivelscombe in that county. He was a man of prominence in his time, as shewn in a little volume published at Concord, New Haven, in 1845, entitled 'Notices of John Upham and his Descendants.' On the 25 Feb. 1681, the patriarch died at Malden, Mass., where his grave is still to be found, the inscription over which is:—

"Here lyes y^e body of John Upham, Aged 84.
Died Feby. 25, 1681."

Should these notes meet the eye of any one able to throw light upon the ancestry of the American emigrant, John Upham, of 1635, such information will be of great value, and thankfully received.

THE FIRST BOOK OF THE PARISH REGISTERS OF MADRON, IN THE COUNTY OF CORNWALL. Edited, with an Appendix and Notes, by GEORGE BOWN MILLETT. Penzance: Beare and Son, 1877. 4to.

During the last thirty years the increasing recognition of the value of Original Records of all descriptions has been very remarkable. Not only did the late Lord Romilly, as Master of the Rolls, inaugurate the publication of Calendars of the State Papers, and a series of neglected and valuable MSS., but, stimulated by our Archæological and Historical Societies, a desire for the possession of accurate materials for history and genealogy has reached to private societies and individuals. The same feeling has extended to another class of records, of a more simple but scarcely less important character—Parish Registers—which not only have afforded most important evidence in peerage cases, but which have very justly been termed the “title deeds of the middle classes.” Nothing could exceed the neglect to which these records were subjected during the eighteenth century. Remitted to the charge of ignorant Parish Clerks, they were not only loosely and badly kept, but many of the older, and more valuable, volumes have been utterly lost. The transcripts, by various Statutes and Canons, directed to be lodged in the Episcopal Registries for safe custody, and to supply the place of the originals if destroyed by fire or other accident, have, shame to say, so far as our knowledge extends, been treated with still greater negligence than the parochial books themselves.

The handsome volume before us, containing the ‘First Book of the Parish Registers of Madron, in Cornwall,’ the mother parish of the popular health-seeking town of Penzance, now rapidly increasing, published by Mr. G. B. Millett, is a model of the manner in which such works should be executed. The earlier Registers of this parish, if they ever existed, like those of many, indeed we may say most others, have been lost. The existing Registers commence in 1577, just forty years after the institution of Parish Registers by Cromwell, as Vicar-General of Henry VIII., and even from this date they are incomplete, for the entries of burials commence in 1592 only. This book extends to 1700. It was described more than forty years ago by the then vicar of the parish, as “decayed, worm-eaten, and perishing,” and Mr. Millett deserves the thanks of the parishioners, and of the public generally, for the preservation of its contents by means of the printing press. He has executed his self-imposed task in the most admirable manner. Not only has he printed the whole of the entries of baptisms, marriages and burials, in extenso, except the omission of the constantly recurring words, “was baptized, were married,” etc., but he has increased the value of his publication by a collection of entries of baptisms, etc. of persons connected with Madron, recorded in the Registers of neighbouring parishes; by printing the most important inscriptions on monuments and gravestones, in the church and churchyard, giving the blazon of the arms when they occur; by a list of incumbents of the vicarage from the thirteenth century; by printing various original documents relating to the parish; and last, though not least, by an index to the name of every person occurring in the volume. His work is also enriched by a photograph of some pages of the original Register, shewing its actual condition, and by other illustrations in photography. Mr. Millett, from the spirit with which he has undertaken and executed his task, is entitled to a greater amount of support than is indicated by the too scanty list of subscribers printed at the end of the volume. This support we trust he will receive, and that he will be encouraged to proceed with his useful labours.

MEMORIALS OF THE EARL OF STIRLING, AND OF THE HOUSE OF ALEXANDER. By the Rev. CHARLES ROGERS, LL.D. Edinburgh, 1877. 8vo, 2 vols.

The House of Alexander, which forms the subject of this work, is supposed to descend from Somerled who in the twelfth century disputed the sovereignty of the Western Isles with David I. The Alexanders of Menstry, to which family the Earl of Stirling belonged, were resident there as early as 1505. Thomas Alexander, mentioned in a legal instrument 6 March 1505, was succeeded by his son Andrew, who married Katherine Graham, and dying before 1527 was succeeded by his eldest son Alexander Alexander, who in 1529, was appointed baillie on the Earl of Argyle's estate in Clackmannanshire, and a charter by James V. dated 20 April 1530 confirms a charter by Archibald, Earl of Argyle, in which he is described as his "well-beloved servitor." He married Elizabeth, dau'r of Sir Robert Douglas of Lochleven, and had with other issue, an eldest son Andrew, who succeeded his father in 1544, and died soon after, leaving two sons, Alexander and John. Alexander, the eldest, died between 14 Feb. 1564 and 6 January 1565, being father, by Elizabeth Forbes his wife, of three sons, William, James, and John, and three daughters. William the eldest had three sons, Alexander, Archibald, and Andrew, and two daughters. After giving an account of the two younger sons and of the daughters, Dr. Rogers says (p. 25), "Alexander Alexander, only son of William Alexander of Menstry, succeeded his father in the patrimonial estate. He died on the 10th February 1580." It is evident that the word only is an error for eldest, at all events for the sake of the continuity of the descent we must assume it to be so, for we are not furnished with a tabular pedigree to guide us to the exact meaning of Dr. Rogers' genealogy. Alexander Alexander married "about the year 1567" Marion daughter of Allan Couttie, by whom he had issue a son, William, and two daughters, Janet and Christian. William the only son was born at the Manor House of Menstry, and became Sir William Alexander, Earl of Stirling, whose history Dr. Rogers gives us in his subsequent pages. It will be observed that between 1505 and 1580, a period of only seventy-five years, no less than seven generations of the Alexanders of Menstry are said to have existed, this gives less than eleven years to each. The average length of a generation in most pedigrees is about thirty years. No notice of this singular circumstance is taken, or of the account given by Sir Bernard Burke in his 'Dormant and Extinct Peerages,' which makes one generation less. Until supplied with more exact data as to the Menstry Alexanders we must therefore leave their pedigree among doubtful genealogies, and pass on to the first undoubted ancestor of the Earls of Stirling, the first Earl himself.

The commonly received opinion that he was born in 1580 is untenable, and we are led to conclude that he was born about the year 1567. A charter was granted 24 Sept. 1607 to him as "William Alexander of Menstry," and in another, dated 25 May 1609, he is described as "Knight." Dr. Rogers does not appear to have investigated further the date at which he was knighted. The earliest authentic information concerning him is that, having gained reputation as a scholar, he was selected as travelling companion to Archibald, seventh Earl of Argyle, whom he accompanied to France, Spain, and Italy. The Earl introduced him at Court, and William Alexander became tutor to Prince Henry. "Through his poetical talents and general learning, James VI. at once received him into favour," and when "in 1603 James succeeded to the English throne, Alexander followed in his train." "Prior to his forming a connection with the English Court, Alexander was known as an author. His first poem appeared in a small quarto volume under the title: The Tragedie of Darivs, . . . Edinburgh, 1603." The above statements hardly agree. Sir William became well known as a poet, and was Author of 'A Paraenesis to Prince Henry,' 'Domesday,' 'Recreations with the Myses,' and other works—and was the acknowledged friend of Michael Drayton and Drummond of Hawthornden. Of his translation of the Psalms, intended to supersede that of Sternhold and Hopkins, and which the King attempted to force on the Church, some curious and amusing particulars are given.

In 1614 the King appointed Sir William Alexander Master of Requests. In 1620 Sir Ferdinando Gorges received from King James a patent, by which forty English subjects, incorporated as the "Council for planting, etc. and governing New England," obtained possession of a territory extending from the fortress of 48th degree of north latitude and the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific. (It was Sir Ferdinando Gorges who received this patent; how it happens that Dr. Rogers has called him Sir Frederic, we are at a loss to explain.) They found on their northern frontier some French colonists, who professed the Romish faith. Sir Ferdinando entreated the English Government to proceed to their dislodgment. On this subject James consulted Sir William, who considering the opportunity favourable for his personal enterprise, himself resolved to attempt a settlement in Canadian territory, and to that end obtained a grant of that vast district to the east of the river St. Croix, and south of the St. Lawrence, which he designated New Scotland. On the 29th Sept. 1621 a charter was passed under the Great Seal, appointing him hereditary Lieutenant of the new colony. Scotsmen were invited to settle in the new country, where the merchant might prosecute successful commerce, the sportsman enjoy abundant recreation, and the Christian have ample scope for missionary enterprise; the attempt however proved abortive, and Sir William lost £6000 sterling by his adventure. In order to relieve himself from these embarrassments he devised a scheme, copied from that used a few years previously for the colonization of Ulster, of creating baronets of New Scotland, and accordingly on his recommendation a Royal Letter was issued informing the Privy Council of Scotland, that the King had resolved to make the colonization of New Scotland a work of his own, and in connection therewith to establish an order of Baronets. Of the attempts made by Sir William Alexander to colonise New Scotland, the abandonment of Port Royal, the coining of the copper money called turners, and many other matters of which a clear and interesting account is given, we regret that our limited space prevents us entering into detail. We are more concerned with the genealogical portion of these amusing volumes, and must therefore pass over much historical matter which will well repay perusal.

Sir William was created Viscount Stirling and Lord Alexander of Tullibody 4 Sept. 1630, and 14 June 1633, Earl of Stirling and Viscount Canada, in both cases to himself and his heirs male. "Created a peer," says Dr. Rogers, "Lord Stirling sought to vindicate his rank by obtaining a grant of arms. . . . To his residence at Menstry he invited Archibald Alexander of Tarbert, chief of the clan. . . . Before separating, the representative of the clan Mac Alexander surrendered his birthright, accepting Lord Stirling as his chief. This effected, Sir James Balfour, Lyon King of Arms, was, in a royal letter, dated Newmarket, 15th March 1632, instructed 'to marshall his Coate Armour, allowing it to him quartered with the armes of Mac Allester, who hath acknowledged him for chief of their familie.' The royal letter was accompanied with a draft of the proposed grant, while Lyon King was charged to embody in the escutcheon the arms of New Scotland." This is a curious story. It is difficult to understand in what way Lord Stirling could "vindicate his rank" by obtaining a grant of arms. There is no evidence that he did do so. No record of a grant to him is preserved in the Lyon Office. Dr. Rogers gives a description of his arms from a MS. there, but this proves nothing. As however we do not hear that the Alexanders of Menstry recorded any arms, or were known to have borne any, it may fairly be presumed that a grant must have been made agreeably to the Royal Letter mentioned. (We are not told where this Royal Letter may be seen.) If Lord Stirling was, as from the Menstry pedigree and the fact that he had no arms, he appears to have been, a novus homo, the story of the surrender of his birthright as chief of the clan Mac Alexander by Archibald Alexander of Tarbert, a person who now appears for the first time on the scene, must surely be a romantic fiction. We can imagine Esau selling Jacob his birthright for a mess of pottage, but the idea of Archibald Alexander surrendering his, if indeed he had any, which is not proven, for nothing, and for no apparent reason, is a most unlikely story. It is however asserted by Dr. Rogers without the semblance of an authority for the statement, and one would almost imagine that he must have been an eye-witness of this friendly transaction, settled perhaps between the Peer and the Chief at the former's expense, over an excellent haggis and unlimited whisky.

"Lord Stirling," now chief of his clan, "felt that as a peer he should occupy a lordly dwelling," he accordingly erected a mansion at Stirling, and placed on the house his arms and motto, "Per mare, per terras." This was replaced by some wag with Per metre, per turners, in evident allusion to his translation of the Psalms and his copper coinage.

Owing to the failure of his many ambitious schemes Lord Stirling died in debt to the extent of £32,680, in Feb. 1639-40. He had issue by Janet his wife, dau'r and coh. of Sir William Erskine :—

1. William, Lord Alexander, married Lady Margaret Douglas, and died (v.p.) in 1638, leaving :—
 - i. William, born 1632, succeeded his grandfather as second Earl of Stirling Feb. 1640, and died May following.
 - ii. Catherine, m. (as his 2nd wife) the 6th Lord Torphichen.
 - iii. Margaret, m. (as his second wife) Sir Robt. Sinclair, Bart. Sir Walter Scott is mentioned as one of her descendants.

Sir Bernard Burke mentions another daughter, Lucy, who is not named by Dr. Rogers.
2. Anthony, Knighted 1635, m. Elizabeth, d. of Sir Henry Wardlaw. Died 1637, s.p.
3. Henry, m. Mary dau'r of Sir Peter Vanlore.* (Dr. Rogers gives a very interesting account of the Vanlores, vol. i. p. 235, &c.) Succeeded as third Earl of Stirling, 1640. Died 1650. His issue was :—
 - i. Henry, who succeeded as 4th Earl of Stirling. He married first, Judith dau'r of Robert Lee, of Binfield; and secondly, Priscilla, widow of Sir Robert Reynolds. He died in Feb. 1690, leaving issue by his first wife six sons and three daughters; Henry, the eldest, succeeded his father as fifth Earl, the others all died unmarried. Of the three dau'rs Mary, the eldest, m. John Phillips, Judith, the second, m. Sir Wm. Trumbull, and Jane, the youngest, m. Ralph Stubbs, M.D. Henry, fifth Earl of Stirling, lived in retirement. He married Elizabeth, widow of John Hobby, of Bisham Abbey, and died without issue 4 Dec. 1739, when the Earldom and other titles became extinct.
4. John, m. Agnes, dau'r of Robt. Graham of Gartmore. He died in 1641, leaving an only daughter Janet.
5. Charles, m. and had a son Charles, who graduated in the University of Edinburgh, 23 May 1655.
6. Robert, died before June 1638. } Descendants, if any,
7. Ludovick. } not traced.
8. James, was twice married and had a daughter by both wives, but his descendants, if any, are not traced.

* She married secondly Col. John Blount.

Besides the above sons Lord Stirling had three daughters, Jean, m. Hugh, Viscount Montgomery, and secondly Gen. Munro; Margaret, m. Sir William Murray of Dunearn; Elizabeth, died unmarried. It is much to be regretted that the descendants of the younger sons, if any existed, or the proofs of their having died without issue, have not been worked up by Dr. Rogers. Were any male representative of Charles, son of Charles Alexander, 5th son of the 1st Earl, living, he would be now Earl of Stirling. Till we are supplied with these particulars we are compelled to lay down the book feeling that the work has been only half done. The descendants of the daughters of the house are traced out with much more care, though they can have but little interest for the reader, who will probably expect to find an exhaustive pedigree of the male line of the family of Alexander, and care but little for people of other names who are put in because their great-great-grandmothers happened to be daughters of an Alexander.

From Chapter xii. the book is devoted to collections for the history of various families bearing the name of Alexander, now or formerly resident in England, Scotland, Ireland, and America. In Chapter xxxiii. will be found some valuable additions to the account of Sir Jerome Alexander, given by Le Neve in his Catalogue of Knights, p. 107, a work to which some additions have been made in the first volume of the 'Genealogist.'

The Earldom of Stirling has not been without claimants; Major Wm. Alexander of New Jersey made a claim in 1759, but in 1762, the Lords' Committee of Privileges resolved that he had not established it, and further, that he "be ordered not to presume to take upon himself the said title, honour, and dignity, until his claim shall have been allowed in due course of law."

About 1825 one Alexander Humphrys son of William Humphrys of Birmingham, by Hannah his wife dau'r of the Rev. John Alexander, a Presbyterian minister, laid claim to the title. The history of this claim and the fraudulent devices of its author, and the recent attempts made by his son to revive it, are given in detail in the Appendix, and form one of the most interesting portions of Dr. Rogers' book. We regret that the story is too long for reproduction in our pages.

It will be inferred from some of the remarks we have made that had more time and care been taken in the preparation of these Memorials, they might have been rendered more complete. As they are, they form two very valuable volumes, and we trust that the support they receive will be sufficient to induce their learned and industrious author to add to our present obligation to him, by producing a second, enlarged, and revised edition.

PEDIGREE OF THE FAMILY OF WOOD OF NORTHUMBERLAND.

THE founder of this family, Thomas Wood, is stated to have come into Northumberland from Uttoxeter, Staffordshire, soon after the year 1651. Family tradition relates of him that, having fought at the battle of Worcester on the Royalist side, he fled into the North after the defeat of Charles, and sought refuge with his kinsmen of the Grey family who had espoused the side of the Parliament, and were in a position to afford him protection.

There is however on record no connecting link between him and the Woods of Staffordshire, whose pedigree is entered by Dugdale in his Visitation of that county in the year 1664, as follows:—

William Wood, citizen of London, and fined= daughter of for Shireeve of London, died circa annum 1642. } Chapman

James Wood of Uttoxeter in co. Staff.=Mary, daughter of Richard ARMS.—Sable, on a bend Argent, three fleur-de-lys of the field.

CREST.—A wolf's head erased Sable, collared Or, langued Gules.

“Respite given for the proof of these Arms, but no proof made.” (Vide also Harl. MSS. 6104 f. 61.)

Neither can he be identified with any of the Woods of Thorpe, co. Ebor., who bear the same Arms, and whose pedigree may be found in Dugdale's Visitation of Yorkshire 1666.

The above coat of Arms was borne by the Northumbrian family until the year 1838, when the representative of the elder branch (as will be mentioned hereafter) had it confirmed to him with due variation, being unable to produce evidence of his connection with either the Staffordshire or Yorkshire family.

Thomas Wood of Burton in the parish of Bamburgh, gent. Will dated 1668, bu. 2 July 1669,¹ — married² Elizabeth Gray, sister of John Gray of Murton, gent.,³ “sister-in-law to Mr. John Hall⁴ of Otterburn”¹ (living in 1674), and had issue:—

² Surtees' 'History of Durham,' vol. ii. p. 55. Thomas Wood married Mary, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Robert Chamber of Cleadon, co. Palatine Dunelm, Esq., by his wife Florence Horsley, and widow of Richard Blewitt of Cleadon, Esq., mar. at Jarrow 12 Feb. 1650-1, bu. 16 January 1657-8 (by whom she left issue), and had two daughters, Hannah Wood and Rubina Wood. Arms of Chamber (1634)—Gules, a chevron between three cinquefoils, Or. Crest—a bear passant, muzzled, Sable, with collar and chain, Or. "Of the two co-heiresses of Robert Chamber, Mary joined in 1668 with her second husband in releasing their right to Robert Blewitt, the son of her first marriage." "A small estate in Cleadon was conveyed in 1738 by THOMAS WOOD of the city of London, mariner (A RELATION OF THE WOODS OF BEADNELL), to John Dagnia of South Shields, gent. It was again conveyed, June 1755, to Dame Hannah Grey, who, in 1762, devised it to her son, Ralph Grey," etc. etc.

I cannot identify the Thomas Wood living in 1738, who was probably a descendant of Thomas Wood and Mary Chamber, with any one of that name in the following pedigree, nor can I find any proof of the identity of the above Thomas Wood of Burton with the husband of Mary Chamber. If, however, such were the case, it would make Elizabeth Gray his second wife.

⁴ "Mr. John Hall of Otterburn, proprietor of Leame Over, Crawden and Woodhouse, in parish of Corsenside, 1663" (Book of Rates for Northumberland, 1663).

I copy the following from the 'Gentleman's Magazine' for April 1818, p. 378:—

"(Died.) At Hurcot near Kidderminster, Mr. William Spencer, miller; he was a relation to the poet Shenstone, a portion of whose library he possessed, as well as his portrait, a full length face in fine preservation."

I have recently found among some old law papers the probate of the will of this William Spencer, and as it is short and interesting I here copy it:—

"This is my last Will and Testament made this 24th day of August 1818 (sic). Sheweth, 1st. It is my will and desire that all the property I am possessed off in lands, goods, &c., shall be fairly valued, out of which I give to my nephew James Devey £50 when he comes to the age of 25 years. The remainder to be divided as follows: My brother Joseph Spencer to have half; the other half to be equally divided between my brother Charles Spencer and my brother Thomas Spencer; my brother Joseph to take the choice of the Woodhouse and land, or Hurcot Mill and land, which he likes best, and Charles and Thomas the other house and land, and to live together upon the same terms as we do now as long as they think proper. Shenstone's books and pictures to remain as long as one of the family remains here. His gold watch I give to my brother John Spencer. My executors to be Mr. John Phillips, my brothers Thomas and Joseph Spencers. Witness my hand this 24 day Aug^t 1813.

" W. SPENCER.

" Witnesses to this my Will,

" John Devey,

" Thomas Taylor.

" Observe, since Catherine's marriage I have erased her name from this my Will, placed by (sic) brother Thomas Spencer in her place. As witness my hand Jan^y 1817.—W. SPENCER."

The Will was proved at Worcester June 18, 1818, by Thomas Spencer and John (sic) Spencer "the executors named in the said Will."

These papers relate to some land ("20 acres or thereabouts") in the parish of Wolverley, sold in 1831 by a Mr. Thomas Spencer to William Trow, of Ismere, Esq., and among them is a memorandum of agreement for sale, dated 26 May 1831 and signed by the said "Tho^s Spencer." There is also a note that "John Spencer was christened at Kidderminster June 20, 1757," and the following certificates:—

Marriage at Handsworth, co. Stafford, of John Spencer to Elizabeth Bratt on June 10, 1795, in the presence of Wm. Bratt and M. Bratt.

Burial at the same place of Elizabeth Spencer on May 5, 1817, aged 49.

Burial at the same place of John Spencer on 19 Feb. 1825, aged 67, and Baptism there of William son of John and Elizabeth Spencer on July 8, 1800.

It is noted likewise that "William Spencer the son of John is his heir at law, is of age, and will join in the conveyance."

I do not quite know how these Spencers were related to Shenstone, the poet, but I have seen an autograph letter of the latter, dated 1758, addressed to "Mr Samuel Spencer, Blakedown, near Kidderminster," signed "Your affec. kinsman, W^m Shenstone;" and I find that administration of the effects of Ann Shenstone of Halesowen, widow, was granted at Worcester July 31, 1732, to John Spencer, of Oldswinsford, guardian-at-law of William Shenstone (the poet) a minor.* On April 14, 1760, William Shenstone himself obtained administration "de bonis non." This John Spencer was Steward of Foley's Hospital at Oldswinford. He died Feb. 7, 1742, aged 65 (M. I.) and was buried at Oldswinford on the 9th. A Mary Spencer was also buried there June 29, 1746.

In an old schedule of deeds I find the following:—

"1764, March 25. Indenture of this date made between John Steward, of Kidderminster, Weaver (sole executor of Samuel Spencer, late of Blakedown, in the parish of Kiddr, Miller, deceased) Joseph Spencer, of Kidderminster, Shopkeeper (sole executor of Benjamin Spencer, late of Cawnsall, in the parish of Wolverley, Miller, deceased) which said Samuel and Benjamin were executors of the Will of John Spencer, late of the Hospital, Oldswinford, gent., deceased, of the first part, and (the Feoffees of the said Hospital) of the other part."

The name of Spencer does not often occur in the parish registers of Oldswinford, and I am very much inclined to think that the Mary Spencer buried there in 1746 was the widow of John, and that she was the daughter of John Shenstone, of Halesowen, who was a brother of the poet's grandfather.

This "John Shenston deceased"† was undoubtedly John

* The poet was baptized at Halesowen 6 Dec. 1714.

† "The Grange" is the name of a mansion at Halesowen which belonged to, and was occupied by the family of Lea. Close adjoining it—indeed in the grounds—formerly stood a cottage which, with about an acre of land surrounding it, belonged to the Shenstone family. I think this cottage must have been the residence of John Shenston. It is curious that a similar small plot of land at the Leasowes belonged to the Lea family.

Shenston, of the Grange, Halesowen, yeoman, whose will is dated Dec. 7, 1693, and was proved at Worcester Oct. 5, 1694, by his brother William Shenstone (grandfather of the poet), "Mr Thomas Lea of the Grange," the other executor having renounced. The will is attested by Elizabeth Shenston, Hannah Green, Wm. Lea, and Edward Groves. He leaves to his son John his land in the parish of Halesowen, and directs his personal estate to be equally divided between his said son, John, and his daughter, Mary. John Shenston, the son, mated above his station, his wife, Margaret, being the sister of William Lea, of Halesowen Grange, Esquire, whose son (by the Hon. Frances, his wife) Ferdinando Dudley Lea, inherited the ancient Barony of Dudley. John was of Perry Hill, Warley, in the parish of Halesowen. He was first cousin to Thomas Shenstone, the poet's father, and, according to Nash,* he at one time occupied the Leasowes as a tenant. His will, wherein he is described as "of Halesowen, Gent.," is dated April 1, 1737, and was proved at Worcester Ap. 17, 1738. He mentions his daughters, Mary Southall, Sarah Parkes, and Elizabeth Andrews, and his sons, Thomas and John. He desires his two sons to "go into partnership." John was made his sole executor, and "Master Lea" and "Master William Shenstone" were appointed overseers. The will is attested by Joseph Brettle, Wm. Hinchley, and Wm. Price.

John Shenstone, described as "of the Leasowes," died intestate, and administration of his effects was granted at Worcester in May 1742 to Mary, his relict, who, being a Quakeress, made affirmation. His personalty amounted to £474 2s. 4½d.

A John Shenstone of Halesowen was married at Enville, Staffordshire, by licence, to Mary "Brittle" on March 10, 1742, but this could hardly have been the above John unless he died very soon after his marriage; and I presume March 1742 really means 1743 new style (174 $\frac{2}{3}$), but this I cannot decide, as the extract was sent to me by a friend whose note is not sufficiently precise.

Mary "Brittle" was no doubt a member of the old yeoman family of Brettell, of Romsley, in Halesowen.

In 1710 John Shenston of Warley-Salop, in Halesowen, and Margaret, his wife, sold a piece of land in Halesowen to Joseph Brettle, apothecary, of that place (no doubt the Joseph Brettle who attests John Shenstone's will). This Joseph (I learn from the title deeds to the property) was afterwards of Sutton Coldfield, co. Warwick, and had by Esther, his wife, an only daughter and heiress, Esther, married to John March of Halesowen, afterwards of Sutton-Coldfield, "whitener."

* "In 1745 his (the poet's) uncle [the Rev. Thomas] Dolman [of Broom] died, who had chiefly managed his estate; which had been occupied by Mr. John Shenstone, of Perry Hill, in this parish, a distant relation, who, with his sons John and Thomas Shenstone, rented the farm as tenants." Nash, 'Worcestershire,' i, 530. Mr. Dolman was the husband of Mary Penn, the poet's maternal aunt. Thos. Dolman and Mary Penn were married at Churchill, co. Worc. Feb. 17, 1725.

The next Shenstone will at Worcester is that of John Shenstone, of Bromsgrove, miller. It is dated Nov. 1, 1760, and was proved April 9, 1763. He left to his son, John, and his heirs his house and land at Sutton Coldfield upon trust to pay testator's daughter, Ann Shenstone, £100, and remainder to John and his heirs. To his son, Richard, the Hop-yard close, about four acres in the manor of Stoke Prior, and to his son, William (whom he makes sole executor), his personal estate. The will is attested by John Spilsbury, Mary Spilsbury, and Sarah Richardson.

A Richard Shenstone (who in 1822 was "of West-Bromwich, co. Stafford, Innkeeper") proved in 1811 the will of Richard Wilkes, of Bromsgrove, gent., dated 1809.

So end my Shenstone notes. The poet's immediate ancestry is well known. He was the son of Thomas Shenstone of the "Leasowes" (younger brother of Joseph) by Anne, eldest dau. and coheiress of William Penn of Harborough Hall, Hagley, and grandson of William Shenstone, of Ylley (which is, I think, in the parish of Bromsgrove), afterwards of the "Leasowes," yeoman, brother of the testator of 1693. I have not ascertained the parentage of these brothers, but it could no doubt be readily ascertained from the parish registers of Halesowen or Bromsgrove, which I have not searched.

Possibly some reader of the 'Genealogist' may be able to name the present possessor of "Shenstone's books and pictures" and his "gold watch."

6TH GROUP.

Abstract of Title Deeds in the possession of B. W. Greenfield.

ALICE, WIDOW OF THOMAS TYNDALL OF MELKSHAM'S COURT. As has been already observed (p. 127), the wife of Thomas Tyndall was ALICE HUNT, an heiress. In her widowhood, she made a settlement of her REAL ESTATE by a DEED OF ENTAIL, of which the following is an abstract made by George Tyndale, Esq., of Bathford, Somerset, about the year 1762 from the original in the possession of the Rev. William Tyndale, Rector of Charfield, co. Gloucester, who was direct descendant of Alice Hunt, and then owner of Hunt's Court in Nibley.

N.B. The feoffees herein mentioned were EDWARD TYNDALE of the Manor of HURST IN SLIMBRIDGE, and of PULL COURT, CO. WORCESTER, BROTHER OF WILLIAM TYNDALE alias HUCHYNS the Martyr.

JOHN HARVYE WAS OF BRADSTONE IN BERKELEY, where he held Lands in Freehold of that Manor.

N.B. That HUNT'S COURT was comprised in this Settlement is shewn by the Grant made by HER SON, RICHARD, in 10 Eliz. (1568).

Ancient Miscellanea: Exchequer. Lay Subsidy, Gloucr., 35 H. VIII. 114-240.

A LAY SUBSIDY was granted by the Parliament of 34-35 H. VIII. which sat from 22 January to 12 May 1543. In the first Collection of this SUBSIDY—the Indenture for collecting which in the Hundred of Berkeley is dated 8 November 35 H. VIII. (1543)—she is assessed on her Goods in STYNCHCOMBE as follows:—

which is at rate of 4d. in the pound.

Registry of Wills proved in the Diocesan Court of Gloucester, vol. 1, No. 79, fols. 95-96, Original, and now in the District Court of Probate at Gloucester.

In her last Will, preserved in the Bishop’s Registry (now the District Court of Probate) at GLOUCESTER, dated 3 February 1543 (1542-3) 34 H. VIII., confirmed 7 May 35 H. VIII (1543), and proved at Tetbury in the diocesan Court of Gloucester 20 March 1543-4, she styles herself “ALICE TYNDALL WIDOW OF THE PARISH OF STYNCHCOMBE.” The valuation of her effects endorsed on the Will is £123 19s. 8d. She therein appoints her ELDEST SON, RICHARD, Executor and Residuary Legatee, and EDWARD TYNDALL (probably one of the feoffees in the Deed of Settlement of her Realty, already recited) and Thomas Trotman, overseers of her Will. She desires her overseers, after a valuation has been made by Thomas Trotman, WILLIAM TYNDALL and RICHARD TYNDALL (probably the two latter were her sons) of her household effects, to deliver “THE BETTER PART” thereof to “JOHAN and to AGNES my daughters,” and the “OTHER part” to be divided equally between “RICHARD, HENRY, and THOMAS my sons.” She also gives specific legacies to her sons THOMAS HENRY and RICHARD, and to her daughters JOHAN and AGNES. It was witnessed by EDWARD TYNDALL, Thomas Trotman John Trotman and David Williams priest.

N.B. The original Will is not in her own handwriting, nor does it bear her signature.

7TH GROUP.

The eldest son,

RICHARD TYNDALL OF MELKSHAM’S COURT IN STINCHCOMBE—where he appears to have resided. He is named FIRST IN REMAINDER in HIS MOTHER’S DEED OF ENTAIL, dated 20 January 33 H. VIII. (1541-2)—whereby he succeeded on her death to an ESTATE of INHERITANCE IN FEE TAIL IN POSSESSION IN HUNT’S COURT IN NIBLEY. Upon his father’s (Thomas Tyndall) death—which happened between 1535 and 1542—he probably succeeded to a LEASEHOLD ESTATE, as tenant farmer, in MELKSHAM’S COURT. We learn from the Indenture of bargain and sale in 1561 that—at THAT TIME—he held a LEASE of MELKSHAM’S COURT from Thomas Lord Wentworth for THREE LIVES, viz. of HIMSELF (Richard Tyndall), ELIZABETH HIS WIFE, and ANNE THEIR DAUGHTER and the longer liver of them three (see p. 230.)

He was appointed EXECUTOR AND RESIDUARY LEGATEE, and one of the APPRAISERS of her household effects under his MOTHER'S LAST WILL in February 1542-3.

Both in the Subsidy Rolls, and in the Indenture of Bargain Sale whereby he purchased of Lord Wentworth the estate of Melksham's Court in fee in 1561,—he is styled "SENIOR," and "THE ELDER OF STYNCHCOMBE" to distinguish him from Richard Tyndall of Southend in Stinchcombe.

Ancient Miscellanea: Exchequer. Lay Subsidy, Gloucr., 34-35 H. VIII., 114-235.

To the LAY SUBSIDY granted by the Parliament of 34-35 H. VIII. which sat from 22 January 1542-3 to 12 May 1543, he was assessed on GOODS in STYNCHCOMBE as follows:—

"RYCHARD TYNDALE IN BONIS £4 SUBS' . . 4d."

Lay Subsidy, Gloucr., 35 H. VIII. 114-240.

To the first collection of the same SUBSIDY, the Indenture for collecting which in the Hundred of Berkeley is dated 8 Nov. 35 H. VIII. (1543) he was, in like manner, assessed on Goods in STYNCHCOMBE, as follows:—

"RYCHARD TYNDALL IN BONIS £4 SUBS' . . 8d."

which is at the rate of 2d. in the pound.

Lay Subsidy, 3 E. VI., Gloucester, 115-323.

To the RELIEF granted by the Act of Parliament of 2-3 E. VI. (1548-9), of 1s. in the pound on Goods of the value of £10 and upwards, he is assessed on the Rolls for two Collections in the Hundred of Berkeley on his GOODS in STYNCHCOMBE as follows:—

"Decenna de Stynchcombe: DE RICO TYNDALE IN BONIS £10, PER RELIVIO 10s."

N.B. This assessment of £10 is the COMPLEMENT of the two separate assessments to the SUBSIDY of 35 H. VIII., viz. on his MOTHER'S GOODS OF £6, and on HIS OWN OF £4.

Lay Subsidy, 4 E. VI., Gloucr., 115-312.

By Indenture, dated 8 April 4 E. VI. (1550) Sir Nicholas Ponytz and Sir John Butler, Knts., Nicholas Wyks, Maurice Walshe and Thomas Throgmorton, Esquires, the Commissioners deputed for taxing, cessing, and levying in the Hundreds of Berkeley, Henbury, and Barton by Bristol the RELIEF granted by the Act of 2 & 3 E. VI., appointed him, as "RYCHARD TYNDALE of STYNCHCOMBE YEMAN," to be UNDER-COLLECTOR for the HUNDRED OF BERKELEY of a total amount of £65 7s. throughout the Hundred to the SECOND PAYMENT of that RELIEF.

230 NOTES RELATING TO THE FAMILY OF TYNDALE.

Lay Subsidy, 4 & 5 P. & M., Gloucr., 115-346.

A LAY SUBSIDY was granted by the Parliament which assembled at Westminster 20 January 4 & 5 P. & M. (1557-8). In the Roll for the HUNDRED OF BERKELEY, the Indenture for collecting which is dated 14 May 4 & 5 P. & M. (1558), he is assessed to this SUBSIDY on his LAND IN STYNCHCOMBE as follows :

“RICUS TYNDALL SEN^r, IN TERR. £4 SUBS’ . . . 16s.”

which is at the rate of 4s. in the pound on Land.

Lay Subsidy, 1 Eliz., Gloucr., 115-352.

To the second payment of the LAY SUBSIDY granted by Parliament in 1 Eliz. (Jan. 1558-9)—the Indenture for collecting which in the Hundreds of Grumboldsashe, Berkeley, Thornbury, &c., is dated 18 February 2 Eliz. (1559-60)—he is assessed on his LANDS IN STINCHCOMBE as follows :—

which is at the rate of 1s. 4d. in the pound on Land.

Lay Subsidy, co. Gloucr., 13 Eliz. 115-352.

To the first year’s payment of the LAY SUBSIDY granted by the Parliament assembled at Westminster 2 April 13 Eliz. 1571, the Indenture for collecting which in the Hundred of Berkeley is dated 6 October 13 Eliz. (1571) he is assessed and charged on his LANDS in STINCHCOMBE as follows :

“RICUS TINDALL, SEN., IN TERR. £5 SUBS. . . . 13s. 4d.”

which is at the rate of 2s. 8d. in the pound on LAND.

Lay Subsidy, co. Gloucr., 13 Eliz., 115-387.

And to the second year’s payment of the same SUBSIDY—the Indenture for collecting which in the Hundred of Berkeley is dated 1 Oct. 14 Eliz. (1572)—the assessment and charge on his LANDS in STYNCHCOMBE are as follows :—

which is at the rate of 1s. 4d. in the pound on Land.

Indenture of Purchase of Melksham’s Court in 3 Eliz. (see next following).

Thomas, 2nd Lord Wentworth of Nettlested (who succeeded his father in possession of the manor of STINCHCOMBE and other estates), on 3rd March 5 E. VI. (1550-1) made a new Lease of MELKSHAM’S COURT with the appurts. together with the Toft called HOLDERSCROFT to this RICHARD TYNDALE, ELIZABETH HIS WIFE, AND ANNE THEIR DAUGHTER, FOR THE TERM OF THEIR LIVES AND OF THE LONGEST LIVER OF THE THREE.

SIR JOHN VANBRUGH, knighted 19 September 1714, died 25 March 1726. Was Clarencieux King-at-Arms, Comptroller of His Majesty's works; celebrated as a dramatist, and as the architect of the palaces of Blenheim, Duncombe Park, and Castle Howard. There is a portrait of him in the College of Arms.

His will is dated 25 August, with a codicil 31 August 1725. He names his sisters Mary, Victoria, and Robina Vanbrugh, his sister Garencieres and her daughter Lucia; his brothers Charles and Philip Vanbrugh; his son Charles Vanbrugh, then under fifteen years of age; and appointed his wife Lady Vanbrugh executrix (84. Plymouth. P.C.C.). The will was proved 22 April 1726 by Dame Henrietta Maria Vanbrugh, relict and executrix. She was the eldest child of James Yarbrough, Esq., Colonel of the Foot Guards, of Snaith Hall, Yorkshire, by Ann, elder daughter and coheir of Thomas Hesketh, Esq., of Heslington, near York. She was born 13 October 1693, and baptised at St. Lawrence, York, in which church she was married 14 January 1718-9, her husband being described as of Castle-Howard.

She died 22 April 1775, aged 82, and was doubtless interred where she desired, in Mr. Vanbrugh's vault in St. Stephen's Church, Walbrooke. Her will is dated 15 June 1769, with codicils of 4 August 1772 and 9 Dec. 1775. She describes herself as of East Greenwich, widow; makes her brother Yarbrough sole executor, and gives him her farm at Low Burton, Yorkshire; and to his eldest son £1000. To Mrs. Rosamond Best of Beverley £20 for a ring; and to her daughter, Mrs. Tulloh, £200; to Miss Wyvill, sister of Sir Marmaduke Wyvill, £50 for a ring; to her niece, Miss Mary Yarburgh, £1000 and her diamond earrings. "To Mr. Vanbrugh the lease held of the Crown in the Hay-market, with the rooms and cellars that belong to me in the Opera-House; the lease of the field on the top of Maize Hill, also of the Castle, for which Lord Mexbrough pays £8 a-year, and the cup that was my son's, and all the family pictures, and two small pictures set in gold, one of Sir John Vanbrugh, the other of Sir Dudley Carleton, my diamond ring and my silver epargne. To Mrs. Vanbrugh the two shell vases done by the Duchess of Leeds, and the two brackets they stand on, and £100 for a ring. To the Duke of Leeds my fine old silver Japan box. To Francis Marquis of Carmarthen the enamel picture of Henrietta Duchess of Marlborough set in gold." (250 Bellas, P.C.C.) The will was proved* 22 May 1776.

* For these notes we have to thank the Rev. C. B. NORCLIFFE.

Charles Vanbrugh, the only son, to survive his father, of the three children born to Sir John and Lady Vanbrugh, was reading Juvenal and Persius in 1734, and afterwards went to Switzerland to complete his education. One of Lady Vanbrugh's letters dated from Whitehall 30 March 1738, says, "My Aunt Norcliffe† is in Town, she is pretty well. She told me she saw you at the Bath. She intends being at Ripon on Saturday Sennit, and bid me tell you she should be glad to see you there. Charles is at Lausanne." Several classical books belonging to this young man have been preserved; and also a parchment diploma, written in French, and dated 29 April 1738, appointing "Monsieur Charles Vanbrugh, Gentilhomme Anglois, Membre de la Compagnie des nobles Fusillers de Lausanne." The seal bears a Sagittarius, the field being divided per fess. The crest is, on a helmet, a Triton wreathed, blowing a straight trumpet. The legend runs thus, "Sceau de la Compagnie des Nobles Fuzeliers. 1654."

Mr. Charles Vanbrugh soon after became Ensign in the regiment of the Coldstream Guards, and his Christian name should have figured, but does not, on page 357, volume i. of Colonel MacKinnon's History of that famous regiment. The 'Gentleman's Magazine,' volume xv. pages 248, 276, mentions him as wounded at the Battle of Fontenoy 30th April, old style, 11th May, new style, 1745. Horace Walpole also names him as being dead of his wounds in a letter to Sir Horace Mann. (London, 1833, volume ii. page 94.) No will or administration is to be found in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, although Ensign Vanbrugh was twenty-six years old the day of his death, 1st or 12th May, new style. The following letter, hitherto unpublished, gives an account of his death, and is by no means a bad specimen of what a letter should be, that is to cause "most bitter lamentation for an Only Son" (Jeremiah vi. 26).

* For an account of the families of Yarburgh, Norcliffe, and Best of Elmswell, see Joseph Foster's 'Yorkshire Pedigrees.' 1874. 'The Priory and Peculiar of Snaith.' London. 1861. Pages 55-81. Burke's 'Landed Gentry.'

The writer was the Hon. Joseph Yorke, born about 1723 or 1724, third son of Philip, first Earl of Hardwicke, and Lord Chancellor. He was aide-de-camp at Fontenoy to H.R.H. the Duke of Cumberland (who was then but twenty-four years of age), and was afterwards Colonel of the Fifth Dragoons, Major-General 16 January 1758, Lieut.-General 9 Dec. 1760, General 6 Sept. 1777, and Knight of the Bath. After having been nearly thirty years Ambassador at the Hague, he was created Baron Dover 18 Sept. 1782, but died without issue 2 December 1792.

Letter.

Mr. Jones,—After the letter I had the Honour to write to my Lady Vanbrugh with regard to the welfare of my Dearest Friend, to which I got him to write a Postscript, I know not how to sit down to write so very different an account at present; not only from the shocking circumstance of being the person to send the most unwelcome news her ears have ever heard, but from the miserable unhappy state I am myself in, whilst I write this. It would be ridiculous in me to screen his death from you; how to break it to his poor mother God above only knows; and yet, yet it must be done. Alas, those who knew him best must feel it most. I can not comfort any one, tho I wish it; to say I have lost the only one in all my acquaintance with whom I had made so strict a friendship, is what makes my Blood freeze with horror. My Support, my Comfort, my Adviser, my Everything is gone; the thought makes me distracted. This only pleases me in the Reflection that after haveing suffer'd with unparallel'd Heroism and sweetness of Temper, 20 hours of the most racking torture, the Almighty of his goodness took him to Himself. I must tell you the particulars of his death. For some time we had hopes, but we found yesterday the Ball so fix'd to the main bone of the Thigh that it was in vain to attempt the taking it out; however, with the assistance of Mr. Middleton and Mr. Adair (the best Surgeon in the Army, and whose care of him was very perticular) we made an incision upon the part yesterday, but without success. I saw him a few hours before he dyed, and kiss'd him, I was sure for the last time, and so it happen'd, for at 12 o'clock last night he was freed from misery, and left his Friends in dispare. The last words he spoke was his concern for his Mother, and his regret in leaving me; nothing else affected him in dying. Judge then what I suffer! But poor Lady Vanbrugh, let the news be told her in the softest manner that it can, and, when she can bear it, tell her his Dearest Friend perform'd the last sad Friendly office he could do him; to see him decently buried, which I saw performed at Ath this day, at 12 a'clock.

Would it had been possible to have shewed any other Mark of that Excess of Esteem and love I had for him. I can write no more on a Subject which flutters me to such a degree that it is all I can do to support it. His Enemys felt the effects of his Courage, in the day of battle; with 40 men he routed a whole French Battallion; but alas! his Friends feel the loss too deeply now. Poor Joseph I have now with me, who will soon go for England; his fidelity to his Master is not to be Exceeded. His horses and Camp Equipage I will order to be sold; and the other things shall remain till you tell me what is to do. Pray let me know how my poor Lady does; what, what will she do? If anything can add to the misery, to have lost so good, so dear, a Friend, 'tis to be the Raven, that must Croak this in all your ears. I am but a Job's Comforter, but I must be forgiven, the loss touches me so near. Adieu! Comfort your selves! He dyed in his Calling, in the Eye of his Prince* a like a Hero for his Country. I can no more.

Your afflicted miserable Friend and Servant,

JOSEPH YORKE.

NOTE ON "SISTER GARENCIERES."

By this expression we must understand sister of the half-blood. Sir John Vanbrugh's mother, Elizabeth Carleton, had married to her first husband Thomas Barker of Gray's Inn, Esq. He was second son of Sir John Barker of Grimston Hall, co. Suffolk, Baronet, was admitted of Gray's Inn, 6 Feb. 1644-5, and married at St. Andrew's, Holborn, after being published at Newgate Market the 13th, 20th, and 27th January 1654-5. There is a Marriage Licence in the Faculty Office, dated 3 May 1678, for Dudley De Garencieres, of St. Oswalds, City of Chester, Bachelor, aged about 27, and Elizabeth Barker, spinster, aged about 22, daughter of Elizabeth Barker alias Vanbrugh of the said City, who consents. (For this information I have to thank Col. J. L. Chester). The Rev. Dudley Garencieres, Clerk, of Chester, had a daughter Lucia Priaria Garencieres, living 13 March 1748-9, when her brother, the Rev. Theophilus Garencieres, B.A., Brasenose, Oxford, 1704, A.M., 1728, Vicar of Stainton, and of Scarborough, Yorkshire, made his will, which was proved 29 May 1751. He had married in 1714 Elizabeth Best, buried at St. Helen's, York, 9 July 1763, daughter of Charles Best, Esq., of Elmswell, by Charlotta, sister of Sir Charles Hotham, Bart. His brother-in-law, Francis Best, married Rosamond, daughter of Yarburch Constable, of Wassand, second cousin to Lady Vanbrugh, and the person to whom she left £20 for a ring. The Vicar of Scarborough had issue—Dudley, Solomon, William, Francis, Charles, Charlotta, Elizabeth, Sarah, and his eldest son, Theophilus Garencieres of York, Apothecary, and Sheriff of the City 1771; who left issue, at his death at Malton, 17 January 1784, aged 69, Theophilus Davy Garencieres of York, Apothecary, Lord Mayor 1796, who died 13 March 1803, aged 60, leaving two daughters and coheirs.

It is probable that the Rev. Dudley Garencieres was son of Theophilus Garencieres, M.D. of Caen 1634, of London 1657, who was living in England as late as 1676. He is said to have been a native of Paris; but the family was seated at a place of that name, near Domfront, in Normandy, in the thirteenth century, and bore for Arms:—"Gules, three chevrons Or;" Crest, a "Dragon's head couped. (See 'Roll of the Royal College of Physicians,' by W. Munk, M.D., London, 1861, vol. i., p. 257; 'Dictionnaire de la Noblesse,' De la Chesnaye, Paris, 1863; 'César Armorial,' Paris, 1654.)

* William Augustus Duke of Cumberland, born 15 April 1721.

ISHAM FAMILY MEMORANDA.

Communicated by WALTER RYE, Esq.

PROBABLY no family in England has more ample and minute materials for its history than that of Isham of Lamport in Northamptonshire. From the time they purchased the manor in 1559 to the present date it is hardly an exaggeration to say that not only have no family documents, such as letters, deeds, etc., been destroyed, but that every incident of the least consequence in the family history has been made the subject of a careful note.

The first owner—John Isham—carefully copied all his deeds into a thick folio volume, which he styled the Book of his Evidence, and jotted down ample memoranda as to his family, an example which was followed by his blind son Thomas and his grandson Sir John Isham, the first baronet. Others of the family took notes of the inscriptions and coats of arms of all of their name, and there are several volumes of MS. family history extant in the Library at Lamport. Their inscriptions I have already printed privately, and one of the numerous Diaries kept by different members of the family, viz., the Diary of Thomas Isham—a boy of 14 in 1671—was published in 1875. The memoranda which I print below are those which I think will be of the most general interest.

Copy of a Paper endorsed “Remembrances of Sr John Isham First Baronet enter’d May 30 1627.”

Shee kept in her chamber for the space of three yeares before shee dyed by reason of weakenesse sicknesse and infirmities, which tyme (weaning her selfe from the worlde and the vanities thereof) shee spent most religiously in constant reading of the Holy Scriptures and many other good bookes: in earnest frequent and fervent prayer which were seldom performed by her without aboundance of teares falling from her eyes: and in doing of many good workes and almes deedes to the poore as well of the towne as of the countrey towards the reliefe of whom shee often tymes gave mony from her purse, food from her belly, and clothes from her back.

I beseeche god that her religious and charitable lyfe and good & godly end may never be forgotten, but ever remembred and followed both by mee and myne.

JOHN ISHAM.

The following is from a contemporary MS. in the possession of the family :—

The tenthe day of May being Sunday about one of the clocke in the afternone Mrs. Pulton* spake divers good and godly words tendinge towards her end and being weary and her winde short did stay awhile and then begann againe and called for her Brother Thomas Isham saing in effect thes words following (her parents her husbände and many other being present) Brother Thomas saithe she (thowgh with trembling voice yet with a good hart) I hope Christ will pray for me and fight for me against myne enemye to the end and will say to him She is myne and none of thine and will take me from him And I beleave that Christ shedd his Bludd for Sinn' yea for my Sinn and this I fully Beleave And nowe (said shee) yf I have not said well I pray yow all to help me And she being answered that we all weare glad to heare her of that good minde turned her selfe and for that tyme tooke her rest.

* Wife of Geo. Pulton, Esq., of Desborough.

The following and three other letters addressed to Mrs. Isham by her uncle are written over in another hand with hundreds of medical recipes, every inch of blank paper being covered with very minute writing. Twelve more pages of the same sized paper also covered with similar recipes were annexed.

Sinthes my last to you I received one from you dated the 22 of Novem: wherby I understand of all your health except little Sue who you thinke to bee troubled with the wormes, I have given my children sumwhat for the wormes, who are not yet well with others in my family in the like case. Wee did think it first had bin the messels, but the Phisision and wee all thinke not now so, they had a rednes al over them with a great burninge and when thay began to take rest and groo better there skin pilled of booth of boddy and hands and most of them very sore throats withall The 19 day of Nove: the phisision cumminge to them did affirm that hee see 3 sonns in the elament, others say with confidens 2. These cannot otherwise bee but forruners of that happy cumminge of our saviour to gather his elect together for which time hee graunt that wee may be prepared like the wise virgins and that wee may heere that comfortable sayinge cum ye blessed posses the Kingdom prepared for you It rejoyseth mee to heere of your good choyse and likinge of your minister. We have heere a change and can find noe fault with him and every fortnight a lecturer of the cheefest prechers in Suffaulk to which most about us booth of the better sort and other resort to.

The Lord make it profitable to us that wee may not have more layd to our charge at the last day Thus cumminge our respect and love to all from all ever desiringe your daily prayer for us I rest

I praie leave this with Thomas Bull ye carrier who doth inne at the Crowne neere Sidney Colledge in Cambridge to be conveyed as abovesaid.

NOTES.

(^a) John Isham who bought the manor was born at Ringsted in 1525, and was one of the twenty children of Euseby Isham Esq. (son and heir of Thos. Isham Esq. of Pichley), by Ann daughter of Charles Pulton, Esq., of Desborough. Like his elder brother Gregory he went to London, and was of the Mercers' Company. He made an ample fortune there, and, returning to Northamptonshire, purchased the manor, and was a J.P. and once Sheriff for the county. He married Elizth dau. of Nich^s Barker, of Sunning, Berks, citizen of London, who was the widow of Lennard Barker, citizen and mercer of London. He died 17th March 1595, and he and his wife lie buried in Lamport Church.

(b) Judith Lewin was youngest dau. and ultimately coh. of W^m Lewin, D.C.L. and LL.D., of Ottingden, Kent, Judge of the Prerogative Court, and sister to Sir Justinian Lewin, K^{nt}—from whom the name of Justinian, afterwards so frequent in the Isham family, was no doubt taken. She died 25th June 1625, aged 34, and lies buried in Lampport Church.

(c) Elizabeth Isham was the dau. of Christ^r Nicholson, of Cambridge, gentⁿ. She died 9th August 1621, and was buried at Lampport the next day, but there is no inscription to her memory.

(d) A very curious and beautifully illuminated "Acrostologicall Epithalamium" on their nuptials is preserved among the family papers. She died in childbirth 4th March 1638, and her husband afterwards married Vere, dau. of Tho^s Lord Leigh of Stoneleigh.

(e) The old portraits, etc., in the Hall all have this coat, but of late the piles are in chief and the fess is not over all.

(f) She was one of the daughters of Sir Justinian Isham by Vere, dau. of Tho^s L^d Leigh. She was an erudite young lady, being conversant with mathematics and algebra, and died aged 19 in 1674. Jenny Carew was no doubt a daughter of her half-sister Susanna Isham by her husband, Sir Nich^s Carew K^{nt} of Beddington. The families were afterwards again connected by marriage, for Sir Justinian Isham, the grandson of the above Justinian and Vere, married Mary, dau. and heiress of Lisle Hacket, while Nicholas Carew, the grandson of the above Nich^s and Susanna, married her kinswoman (?) Anne, dau. of Nicholas Hacket.

(g) A note-book of his subsequent travels in France, beginning 19th April 1679, is still preserved in the Hall.

(h) Probably the Mr. Robinson of Cransley who is mentioned as a friend of the family in the Diary of Thomas Isham, 1671–3, p. 89, etc.

(i) No doubt a relation of Elizth dau. of Sir Edmund Turner, of Stoke Rochford, who married Sir Justinian Isham the 2nd, and died in 1713.

(j) I cannot trace what became of this Christopher. There is a portrait in the Hall of a man with a date and age which would correspond with his birth; but the family think this only a coincidence. The whole affair is rather mysterious, for his father does not remember the exact day of his own marriage, and Christopher's appearance itself was rather premature.

(k) Henry Bellamy was the writer's brother-in-law, having married his sister Elizabeth or Ely. They lie buried at Hedley by Barnet. He died 5th August 1583, having had issue three sons and five daughters.

(l) I cannot trace who was the writer of this letter. We presume the Mistress Elizabeth Isham to whom it was written was the Elizabeth dau. of Zaccheus Isham, as she is the only Elizabeth who had a sister Susanna about this time.

NICHOLETTES (Vol. I. p. 233); NEWPORT (Vol. I. pp. 202, 213).—The following entries in the Parish Registers of Eastham probably relate to persons connected with these families:—"1574. Thomas Herford sepultus fuit x^o die Maij. Maria filia M^{ri} Richardi Nicolets baptizata fuit xj^o die Julij. (I. 234.) 1589. Franciscus Wakeman duxit vxorem Annam Goode vij^o die Octobris. 1613. Johannes Flitt de Civitate Wigor' vxorem duxit Bettricem Nicholetts de Eastha' die septimo Octobris. 1620. Peter the sonne of John Newton, Clearke, Vicar of Baschurch, was buried the 28 day of May. 1627. Jane the daughter of Nicholetts Browning and Anne his wiede of Hanley-Child was baptized the vth of February. 1633. Betrich the wife of John Flytt, gent., of the City of Worcester was buried the xxiith day of January. 1646. Joan the wife of John Lea, Clerk, of Estham was buried the xxith of Auguste. (John Lea was Curate of Eastham.) 1685. Bapt. Amphilis Illegitimate Daughter of Allis Nicoletts and Edward Whittall (ut asseritur) the thirteenth day of January. 1703. M^{rs} Mary Nicholetts of Stanford Bishop in y^e County of Hereford was Buried, March y^e 20th."—G. W. M.

MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS IN THE PARISH CHURCH, PRESTBURY, GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

Communicated by the Rev. BEAVER H. BLACKER, M.A., Cheltenham.

In the Chancel there are three mural tablets :—

Sacred to the memory of Thomas Baghott De la Bere, Esq^r, of Southam, who died on the fifth of December, 1821, in the 93rd year of his age, having gained by a strict integrity, a peculiar benevolence of disposition, and urbanity of manners, the esteem and affection of all who knew him.

Sacred to the memory of James Agg Gardner, Lord of the Manor of Cheltenham, who died the 12th of March, 1858, aged 53. This tablet is erected by his widow, Eulalie Emily Agg Gardner.

In memory of Elizabeth Harriet Susan Agg, who died November 26th, 1863, aged 16 years.

There are three in the Nave :—

Near this place lyeth the body of Christopher Capel, Gent. He died the 15th of May, 1740, aged 71. Where also lyeth Sarah, his wife. She died the 6th of Augst, 1733, aged 68. Also near this place are interred William and Sarah Capel, son & daughter of the above. He died 12th June, 1732, aged 34. She died 28th Nov^r, 1717, aged 21.

Sacred to the memory of the Rev^d Christopher Capel, eldest son of the late William Capel, Esquire, of Prestbury House. He died at Cheltenham 8th October, 1846, aged 66.

In memory of Edw^d Hatheway & Amy, his wife. He died y^e 21st of July, 1754, aged 63. She the 24th of June, 1747, aged 51. Also of Marg^t Carpenter, their daughter, who died Augst, 1738, aged 23. And of Elizabeth Meekings, another daughter, who died Dec^r, 1801, æt. 85. Also of E. Ansell & Jane Holloway, two of her daughters.

Six in the North Aisle :—

In memory of William Baghott, Esq., and Ann, his wife, daughter of John De la Bere, of Southam, Esq. He died Nov. 8, 1725, aged 70 years. She died Oct. 31, 1739, aged 77 years.

They had issue, seven sons and eight daughters, the survivors of whom in gratitude and respect to their parents erected this monument.

Sacred to the memory of James Agg, Esq^r, of Hewletts, in this parish, many years an active magistrate for this county, and formerly Captain of Engineers in the Hon^{ble} East India Company's Service, who departed this life January 14th, 1827, aged 80 years. Also of Edith, relict of the above, who departed this life September 19th, 1851, aged 83 years.

Underneath a slab in the churchyard lie the mortal remains of the Rev^d Edward Southouse, Rector of Woolstone, in this county. Benevolent to all, he died sincerely regretted on the 20th June, 1829, aged 61 years. Also of Elizabeth, relict of the above, who died at Dibden, Hants, March 12th, 1846, aged 81.

Sacred to the memory of Elizabeth, wife of Lieut Gen^l Thomas Molyneux, who departed this life on the 24th day of December, 1831, in the 63rd year of her age, and whose remains lie interred in a vault on the north side of this church.

Sacred to the memory of Emilia, daughter of Lieut General Thomas Molyneux, and Elizabeth, his wife, who departed this life on the 25th of June, 1832, in the 28th year of her age, and whose remains lie interr'd in the catacombs of St. Martin's in the Fields, London.

Sacred to the memory of Thomas Edwards, Esq^r, who died August 30th, 1838, aged 74 years. Also of Jane, his beloved wife, who died Dec^r 26th, 1802, aged 35 years. She was the elder co-heiress of the ancient families of the De la Beres of Southam and the Baghotts of this place.

Four in the South Aisle :—

In memory of Harriet, relict of the late Meredith Price, Esq^{re}, who died 15th March, 1820, aged 56. Also of Louisa Charlotte, their daughter, who died 20th February, 1833, aged 40. Also of Francis, their third son, who died at Cheltenham May 10th, 1859, aged 63.

Sacred to the memory of Mary Isabella, wife of Thomas Christie, M.D. Born on the 22nd Oct^r, 1787. Died at Cheltenham on the 16th April, 1827. Her loss will ever be most deeply deplored, as the best of wives, the most tender of parents, & the most affectionate of friends. Also to Thomas Christie, M.D., of Cheltenham, late Medical Superintendent General of the Island of Ceylon. Born on the 2d of April, 1774. Died on the 11th Oct., 1829. His remains are interred, with those of his beloved wife, in a vault near the south-east corner of this churchyard. Throughout a most useful and varied life he was ever regarded with the truest esteem and affection by all who knew him. Their sorrowing children who have raised this monument to their memory, are consoled by the blessed conviction, that for such as they have lost, death hath no sting, and over such the grave hath no victory.

Sacred to the memory of Louisa Maria, the beloved wife of the Rev. John Law Willis. She died March 7th, 1831, in the sixty-fourth year of her age. Also to the memory of the Rev. John Law Willis. He died Sept. 26th, 1841, in the seventy-seventh year of his age. Sacred to the memory of Mary Heaton, relict of the late William Pope, Esq., of Hillingdon, Middlesex, and daughter of the late Sherlock Willis, Rector of Wormley, Herts. She died June 6th, 1823, aged 59 years. Their mortal remains are deposited in a vault near the south-east corner of this churchyard. Also in the same vault lie the remains of Mary Sarah, daughter of the above Rev^d John Law & Louisa Maria Willis, who departed this life July 21st, 1833, aged 42 years.

Sacred to the memory of Ann, the beloved wife of George Smith, Esq^r, who departed this life March 8th, 1850, aged 73 years. Also of George Smith, Esq^r, many years resident of the Retreat, in this parish, but formerly of Margaret Street, Cavendish Square, London. Died 28th October, 1854, aged 69 years.

Three in the Tower :—

Near this place lieth the body of James Akerman, who departed this life July y^e 31st, 1770, aged 70. Also of Ann, his wife, who departed this life March the 14th, 1775, aged 67 years.

Sacred to the memory of Christopher Capel, Esq^r, who died February 26th, A.D. MDCCCLXXX., aged 50. Also of William Capel, Esq., who died October 21st, MDCCCXVIII., aged 69 years. Also of Susanna, relict of the above William Capel, Esq^r, who died March 6th, MDCCCLIII., aged 92 years.

Sacred to the memory of Capel, son of Major General Thomas Molyneux and Elizabeth, his wife, of Castle Dillon, in the County of Armagh, in the Kingdom of Ireland, who departed this life at Cheltenham the 23rd of June, 1822, in the eighteenth year of his age, and whose remains lie interred in a vault on the north side of this church. To the many virtues and departed worth of the most dutiful, affectionate, and inestimable of sons, this inadequate tribute has been erected by his afflicted and disconsolate parents.

There are brasses under seven memorial windows, inscribed as follows :—

DESCENDANTS OF THE PRINCESS MARY TUDOR, DUCHESS OF SUFFOLK.—These are now somewhat numerous, and by the act of Protestant succession stand next in reversion to the throne of England, failing the line of Brunswick. In Burke's 'Royal Descents' (Ed. 1876, p. 62) is given a list of thirty-two persons entitled to quarter the Royal Arms of Henry VII. as descended from the Princess Mary, through her two grand-daughters and ultimate co-heirs the Ladies Katherine and Eleanor Grey. The representation of the latter eventually centred in her three great-grand-daughters, the ladies Anne, Frances and Elizabeth Stanley, daughters and co-heirs of Ferdinando, fifth Earl of Derby. From the two younger of these derive the Earl of Jersey, the Duke of Sutherland, the Earl of Loudoun, and many others enumerated by Sir B. Burke. But how is it that the descendants of the lady Anne Stanley, the eldest sister, are invariably passed over? She certainly left issue, and I much doubt if her line is yet extinct. She married twice—first to Grey Brydges, fifth Lord Chandos, and secondly to Mervyn, Earl of Castlehaven. By her second husband she had no issue. But by her first marriage she had two sons and two daughters, viz.: George and James, successively sixth and seventh Lords Chandos. Elizabeth, m. to James, Earl of Castlehaven, but left no issue, and Frances, m. to a Mr. Tortison. Both the sixth and seventh Lords Chandos left three surviving daughters co-heirs. The co-heirs of the elder were: 1. Margaret, m. first in 1668, William Brownlow, of Snaresford, co. Lincoln, Esq. (who died in 1675), and secondly, Sir

* 1675-6. Adam, son of George Leafield, Esq., and Anne, bur. Mar. 15 (West Deeping par. reg.) Nicus Leifeild, gen. paid iij^{li} to Henry Eldred, Chamberlain, and took up his freedom 23 Dec. 20 Jac.—Stamford Corporation Records.

Thomas Skipwith, second Bart. of Metheringham, co. Lincoln, who died in 1710. By her first marriage she had an only daughter, Elizabeth Brownlow, wife of Philip Doughty, Esq., and left issue. By her second husband she left a son, Sir George Brydes Skipwith, Bart., ob. 1756, s.p. and a daughter Lucy, ob. 1763 unmarried (vide 'Westminster Abbey Registers,' Jan. 8, 1742, for burial of Margaret, as "Hon. Dame Margaret Skipwith"). 2. Elizabeth (second daughter and coheir of sixth Lord Chandos), married thrice, but died 1718, s.p. 3. Lucy, m. Adam Loftus, Viscount Lisburn, and left an only daughter Lucy, wife of Thomas, Marquis of Wharton. Her line failed with her last surviving daughter, Lady Jane Coke, ob. 1761, s.p. Of the three daughters and coheirs of William, seventh Lord Chandos, two appear to have died unmarried, but the third, Rebecca, m. Thomas Pride, son of Thomas Pride the regicide, by Elizabeth Monk, niece of George, Duke of Albemarle. She left a daughter and heir Elizabeth, wife of William Sherwin, Esq. It thus appears that—without including the possible descendants of Tortison and Frances Brydges, youngest daughter of the fifth Lord Chandos, concerning whom nothing is known—there are at least two channels through which descendants of the lady Anne Stanley may yet exist, viz., the line of Philip Doughty and Elizabeth Brownlow, and of William Sherwin and Elizabeth Pride. Perhaps some of your genealogical correspondents can furnish information respecting these. The estate of Snaresford or Snarford, co. Lincoln, which I presume came to the Doughtys by the above marriage, was held by them until the present century, when it was bequeathed by Miss Doughty to the late Sir Edward Tichborne, who thereupon assumed the Doughty surname and arms. The Tichbornes however do not appear to be in any way descended from the Doughtys.

PINCKE, PINKE, OR PINK, CO. HANTS.—This family was seated at Kempshott Park, near Basingstoke, Hants, it is said, for 500 years. The direct line failed there in 1770, with Henry Pinke, Esq., ob. s.p., leaving his niece and heiress Dorothy, wife of John Lee of White Waltham, co. Berks. There is a brief Pedigree of the family (commencing early in sixteenth century) in 'The Visitation of Oxfordshire, 1634.' (Harl. Soc. Pub., vol. v.) The Rev. Dr. Robert Pinke was Warden of New College, Oxford, 1617, and Vice-Chancellor of the University, 1634. He died 1647, and was buried in New College Chapel, where, in 1677, a monument to his memory was erected by Dr. Brideoake, Bishop of Chichester (vide Marshall's 'History of Woodstock,' Supplement, pp. 76–79). Genealogical information respecting this family would be most acceptable to the undersigned. Monuments and brasses to various members of the family exist in several of the Hampshire churches, especially in those of Winslade and North Waltham, on one of which—a brass of the seventeenth century, in the last-named church—the family is described as "ex honestâ et antiquâ familiâ Pinkorum." Branches were located at Alton, Farringdon, Hambledon, Havant, East-Meon, etc., in most of which places doubtless many memorials of interest are to be met with.

FITZWILLIAM FAMILY, OF MERRION.—As I am gathering materials respecting the noble family of Fitzwilliam, of Merrion, in the county of Dublin (now represented by the Earl of Pembroke), I shall feel much obliged for references to sources of information. Of course I am aware of what is given in Archdall's edition of Lodge's 'Peerage of Ireland,' vol. iv.; Playfair's 'British Family Antiquity,' vol. v.; Burke's 'Extinct and Dormant Peerage' (1846), and similar publications; but, as one has justly remarked, "more might well be in print respecting the Fitzwilliams of Merrion."

B. H. B.

SCHOMBERG.—Catharine Boria, Luther's wife. What was the exact relationship, if any, between her and Cardinal Nicholas Schomberg, Bishop of Capua? What were her parents' names?

Life of Duke of Schomberg. Bayle in his Dictionary says, "He would deserve a long article here, but not having received the memoirs" (what memoirs?) "I expected, I am forced to defer it to another time." Did he do so? "He is one of those great men whose history ought to be written by an able pen. I do not doubt but that the Duke of Schomberg, his worthy son, has already thought of procuring this honour to his family, and this fine present to the commonwealth of letters." Has this ever been carried out, or have materials for such a history been collected, and where?

Seckendorf, in his 'History of Lutheranism,' says, "Rhenani (Schombergii) stellam liliatam in scuto gerunt, quam vulgo Clivensem vocant, Misnenses leonem, alia Helvetici." What were the arms of the Swiss Schombergs? Where can I find any account of their families? How were the Schombergs of Oberwesel related to or sprung from the House of Cleves?

OTTO.

MACMAHON.—Teige MacMahon, Esq., was created a baronet of Ireland 15th August, 1628. Where may I find some particulars of him and his family? He appears in his proper place in Burke's 'Extinct and Dormant Baronetcies,' p. 616 (2nd ed., London, 1841), but the required information is not supplied.

B. H. B.

AMYES OF STOTTESDON, CO. SALOP.—Thomas Amyes of co. Lincoln married Alice, daughter of Langford, and had issue John Amyes of Stottesdon, co. Salop, who married Christian, daughter of Peter Wentworth* of Lillingston Lovell, co. Oxford, by whom he had Thomas Amyes of Stottesdon, who married Martha, daughter of Christopher Diston, of the City of Worcester, and dying 11 March, 1663, left issue by her, together with a daughter Susanna, wife of Edward Walshe of Stockton on Teme, co. Worcester, a son, Bonham Amyes of Stottesdon, aged 35, 18 August, 1663, at which date he entered his pedigree (at Ludlow) in the last Visitation of Salop. He married Margaret, daughter of John Tuds of Tregonan, co. Montgomery. Bonham Amyes claimed to be entitled to bear Argent, on a bend Sable three roses of the field. Respite was given for proof of these arms, but none was made.

The names Amyes and Langford are found in the Registers of Eastham in Worcestershire, a parish not many miles distant from Stottesdon, and still nearer to Stockton, the seat of some of the Walshes. It is therefore probable that the families were connected; any notes throwing light on them are asked for. The following entries are from the Eastham Register:—

"1581. Edmundus Amis de Burford duxit vxore' Magdalena Banes primo Aprilis. 1588. Anna filia Edmundi Amyas de Eastham, bapt. 1 and bur^d 13 Nov^r; Francisc' filia Edmundi Amias, bur^d 1 Nov^r. 1593. Thomas filius Edmundi Amias baptizatus fuit xvj^o die Septembris. 1602. Thomas Amies duxit vxorem Margeria Yeavington apud Eastham, 22 Jan^y. 1609. Edmundus Amias servus Thomæ Hill de Eastham, buried 21 April. 1620. Edmond Amis of Estham, buried 4 Nov^r; Anne Amis of Estham, widowe, buried 10 Feb^{ry} (1620-21). 1624. Thomas Amis the sonne of Edmond Amis and Maude his wiefe of Estham, buried 5 March. 1630. Maud Amis of Estham, widow, buried 24 Oct^r.

"1581. Maria filia D'ni Elicij Langford baptizata fuit xi^o die Julij. 1588. Richardus Langford duxit vxorem Margeriam Ambler, 9 April. 1591. Walterus Langford sepultus, 16 June. 1597. Johannes Langford, Clericus, sepultus, 24 Jan^{ry}. 1604. Walterus Langford et Margareta Sonybancke de Ludlowe, married 23 Sept^r."—L. A.

WILLIAM WARD.—The earliest vicar's signature in the Parish Register of Walsall is that of William Ward, 1571, and his name only occurs once. I shall be glad if any of your readers can give me any information as to his family.

HIRONDELLE.

GOBERT (p. 129).—Noble, in his 'House of Cromwell,' says that Sir Thos. Barrington married Frances (not Ann), daughter and coheir of John Gobert of Coventry, Esq.

OTTO.

ARCHBISHOP NEWCOME.—Stuart, in his 'Historical Memoirs of the City of Armagh' (in his account of William Newcome, D.D., Archbishop of the Diocese), p. 461, informs the reader that—

"It is said there is extant an interesting manuscript, written by himself, in which he details at some length the progress of his studies, and points out the sources from which he had derived his theological opinions."

Is this memoir extant? and if so, where deposited? The Archbishop's interleaved copy of the Bible, in four volumes, is described in the 'Catalogue of the Archiepiscopal Manuscripts at Lambeth.'

ROBINSON.—Where may I learn any genealogical particulars of Bryan Robinson, M.D., the author of a posthumous publication entitled 'An Essay on Coin,' Dublin, 1757?

ARMS WANTED.—To what family does the following coat of arms belong? Per pale Or and Gules three mullets counterchanged, quartered, together with Greene and Sleight, by John Hamby of Brocklesbury, co. Lincoln, whose dau. and coh. Elizabeth married William Naylor, of Newland, in Deane Forest, Gloucestershire.

Cinderford, Gloucestershire.

W. C. HEANE.

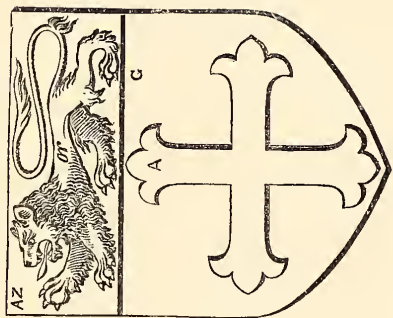

SWAYNE.—Wanted information of—

1. Samuel Swayne, said to have been chaplain to the famous Earl of Strafford and tutor to his children; after the Earl's execution to have taken his son, Lord Wentworth, abroad; he is said to have returned, and afterwards to have held the living of the two Worthies, near Winchester.

2. Samuel Swayne, B.A. 1679, M.A. 1687, Oxford. The first is said to have been the brother, the second the son, of the Rev. Geo. Swayne (whom did he marry?), who came into Somersetshire with Gilbert Ironside when he was made Bishop of Bristol, 1666. He held the living of Sutton Crowthorne, co. Somerset; patron, Edmund Burton.

BOWNAS.—I am desirous of obtaining genealogical information respecting the Rev. Robert Bownas, who was appointed Vicar of Bramham, in Yorkshire, Sept. 1792, and died before 1827; also what Arms, if any, he bore; at what University he graduated, and when. It is supposed that his father was a landed proprietor at or near Keswick in Cumberland.

JAMES RUSBY, F.R. HIST. SOC.

KERR OF FERNIHIRST, BARON JEDBURGH.*

I. SIR ANDREW KERR of Fernihirst, who was not knighted till after January 1543, died in 1545, having had issue—

1. Thomas, named in charter 1523, d. s. p. the same year.
2. John.
3. Robert of Ancrum.
 1. Jnaet, who had Bedrule in life rent by charter 1519.
 2. Isobel, married Sir Walter Kerr of Cessford.
 3. Christian, married Sir James Douglas of Cavers (Wilson's Hawick).
4. Margaret, twice married, according to a book of Funeral Escutcheons; to Mr. James Menzies, first of the family of Culdares, co. Perth, and to . . . Hay of Smithfield, co. Peebles, and had issue by both.

Sir Andrew the year before his death entered into a covenant to serve Henry VIII. against all his enemies both Scots and French.

II. Sir John Kerr of Fernihirst, knighted 1548, Warden of the Middle Marches, Heritable Bailie of Jedburgh, etc., married Catharine daughter of Sir Walter Kerr of Cessford, and died 1562, having had issue—

1. Thomas.
2. Andrew of Nethergogar, dead 24th August 1581, when his brother John is called his heir in a contract with the Makdougals.
3. William, who had some claims on the Abbey lands of Kelso as to which there was a suit, 1561.
4. John, alive 1581, October 31, when a gift of a pension of 500 merks to him out of the profits of the Abbey of Kelso by Mary Queen Regent, was ratified by Queen Mary.
 1. Margaret, married William Lord Hay of Yester.
 2. Elizabeth, married Andrew, younger son of Walter Lundin of that Ilk, co. Fife.

III. Sir Thomas Kerr of Fernihirst, 1562—1586, for an account of whose life refer to Wood's 'Douglas Peerage,' where however the account of his children is incomplete. Sir Thomas, then designed of Oxnam, Knight, married first (contract 10 February 1561-2), Janet, daughter and heir of Sir William Kirkaldy of Grange, co. Fife, distinguished as a soldier and for his adherence to the last to the cause of Queen Mary, for which he suffered death at Edinburgh 3d August 1573, after the surrender of the Castle; her tocher was 3510 marks.

* A valuable article will be found in the 'Herald and Genealogist' on the early history of this family. (ED. GENEALOGIST.)

The children of this marriage were—

1. Andrew Lord Jedburgh.
2. William Kerr alias Kirkaldy of Grange.
1. Mary, married James Douglas, Commendator of Melrose, second son of William Earl of Morton, and had issue. She is omitted in the Peerages, but there is ample evidence as to her position in the family, for instance a discharge by her husband dated at Oxnam Craig, one of the houses of her father, 1587, January 8th, for part payment of her marriage portion. She is elsewhere designed sister of the ladies Haddington and Balmerino.
2. Janet, married first Sir Patrick Home of Polwarth, Master of the Household of James VI.; secondly, Thomas Hamilton, first Earl of Haddington, and died in March 1637.
3. Margaret, married Robert second Lord Melville, without issue.

Sir Thomas married secondly in 1569 Janet, daughter of William Scott, younger, of Branhholm and Buccleuch, and had—

3. Thomas of Oxnam and Over Crailing, who with his servant was killed at Jedburgh 14 September 1601, by the Turnbulls of Minto and others, for which Andrew Turnbull was beheaded. Thomas Carre died without issue.
4. Sir James of Crailing, of whom presently.
5. Robert, the celebrated favourite of James I., was in 1604 a Groom of the Bedchamber with £20 salary, in 1607 was made a Gentleman of the Bedchamber with a grant of £600 a year for fifteen years. From this time he enjoyed the King's confidence and highest favour till the affair of the poisoning of Sir Thomas Overbury caused his downfall. In 1611 he was created Viscount Rochester and elected a Knight of the Garter, 1613 Earl of Somerset and Lord High Treasurer of Scotland, 1614 Chamberlain of the Royal Household and a Privy Counsellor. In 1609 he had a grant of the manor of Sherborne, Dorset, the forfeited estate of Sir Walter Raleigh, and had at different times large sums of money.

There was a rumour that Carre was to marry Lady Anne Clifford, the richest heiress in England, but this match did not take place.

He married 26 December 1613, Lady Frances Howard, daughter of Thomas, first Earl of Suffolk, K.G., Lord High Treasurer of England. This lady had been married to and divorced by Robert Devereux, Earl of Essex, and died 23d August 1632, having had one child.

Lady Anne Carre, born in 1615 in the Tower, married in 1637 to William first Duke of Bedford. The Earl and Countess of Somerset were both sentenced to death in 1616, but were only imprisoned, and after a time set at liberty and pardoned in 1624. Part of his property had been restored to him, but to furnish the portion of £12,000 demanded by the Earl of Bedford for his son's wife, Somerset had to sell his house at Chiswick, and even it is said his household furniture. He was sued for the fees payable on his election as a Knight of the Garter (of which order it had been tried, unsuccessfully, to deprive him as a felon), and at last in 1637 he was stated to be insolvent. Several English historians and memoir writers have made the mistake of speaking of Carre as "a low-born favourite, a man of obscure birth," and so on. The genealogy of his paternal family here given might be a sufficient answer to such a statement, but I may draw attention to the fact that his mother was a daughter of the house of Scott of Buccleuch, now of Ducal rank. When Carre was in the full enjoyment of the favour of his Sovereign in England, he and his relative the Earl of Ancrum had friendly intercourse with the family of Carre of Sleford, co. Lincoln, and the second son of Sir Edward Carre, Baronet, was named Rochester after the favourite who then bore that title. Although there was a mutual recognition of kinship, no common origin can be proved for the Scotch and English Carres. Lord Somerset and others of his branch, as well as Sir Edward, spelt their surname Carre.

The Sleford Family, now represented through descent from the heiress by the Marquis of Bristol, was founded by a George Carre, merchant of the Staple of Calais, whose son Robert acquired Sleford, Aswarby, and other estates, and was father of Sir Edward above-named who was knighted by James I. at Belvoir on his journey south after his succession to the Throne of England; he was one of the Baronets created in 1611 on the foundation of the order. George Carre above-named is said to have been grandson of Sir John Carr who was seated in the north of England in the fifteenth century, and married a daughter of the noble family of Clifford.

The arms of the Carres of Sleaford were, quarterly, first and fourth, Gules on a chevron Or three estoiles Sable; second and third, an orle Crest, a stag's head, which closely resemble the arms and crest borne by the Lords Jedburgh. When Sir Robert Carre was made a knight of the Garter he had a grant of a Lion of England in dexter chief as an honourable augmentation. Lord Somerset died in London in July 1645, after passing many years in poverty and retirement.

4. Anne married in 1613 John Elphinstone, second Lord Balmerino, who is said by Scotstarvet to have assisted his brother-in-law Somerset after his ruin by becoming security for him, and paying the encumbrances on his Scotch estates.

Sir Thomas Kerr of Fernihirst died in ward in Aberdeen in March 1586.

IV. Sir Andrew Kerr of Fernihirst is notable for having attained the dignity of the Peerage, and for having ruined the family. In 1593 he was served heir to his mother Janet Kirkaldy in the Barony of Grange. In 1594 he and his brother Thomas were denounced rebels for subscribing an assurance to Sir Robert Kerr apparent of Cessford, and ordered to confine themselves within Dumbarton Castle.

He had in addition to the estate inherited from his ancestors various grants of land, but just before his death, the whole had been alienated, chiefly to the Earl of Lothian, Sir John Kerr of Hirsell, and his own brothers Somerset and Mr. James of Crailing and his son.

A crown charter 1587, March 15, confirms to him the office of Heritable Bailie of Jedburgh held by his father Sir John, his grandfather Sir Thomas, and his great-grandfather Sir Andrew Kerr, all of Fernihirst. Sir Andrew was a Gentleman of the Bedchamber to James VI. 1591; 1622, February 2, he was created Baron Jedburgh with remainder to his heirs male and successors of the family, and bearing the name and arms of Kerr of Fernihirst.

In 1601 a fight took place in Jedburgh between the Kerrs of Fernihirst and the Turnbulls, when Thomas Kerr of Crailing, Robert Turnbull of Bewlie, and John Middlemast were killed and several persons wounded. Sir Andrew as Provost of the Burgh arrested the murderers of his brother, one of whom was capitally punished, but he, his brother James, James Kerr of Lyntellie, and others of their kinsmen and followers, were brought to trial the same year for the slaughter and demembration of those who suffered on the other side. The Earl of Angus as Lord of the Regality of Jedburgh claimed the right to try Sir Andrew and the others as dwelling within his regality, the King's Advocate denied this, but it was proved that Fernihirst lay within the regality. He then alleged that Sir Andrew as Provost of a Royal Burgh could not be repledged, and eventually Lord Angus withdrew his claim of jurisdiction except as regards James Kerr of Lyntellie and his son, but under protest; the case was delayed and apparently never pursued as against the Kerrs. Lord Jedburgh married, contract 1584, October 20th, Anne eldest daughter of Andrew Stuart, Master of Ochiltree, niece of James Earl of Arran, High Chancellor of Scotland, and died in 1631, having had one son and six daughters.

1. Sir Andrew Kerr first styled of Oxnam, and afterwards Master of Jedburgh, was in November 1613 appointed Captain of the Guard to James I., was a member of the Privy Council of Scotland, and was the month before his death appointed an Extraordinary Lord of Session. He married Margaret widow of James Lord Hay of Yester, daughter of Mark Kerr, first Earl of Lothian, and died without issue 20 December 1628.
1. Margaret, married Sir John Macdowall of Garthland, and was living a widow in 1648, left issue,
2. Jean, married Thomas Kennedy of Pinwhirrie in the county of Ayr, and was alive a widow in 1648.
3. Alison, married John Rutherford of Hunthill, both alive 1648.
4. Anne, }
5. Mary, } both alive and unmarried in 1648.
6. Liliass married . . . McCulloch, and was dead 1648, leaving issue.

His Lordship leaving no male issue and no estate, the heir male did not, although unquestionably entitled to it, assume the title; according to the Peerage writers this heir male was his half brother Sir James Kerr of Crailing; but this was not the case, as there were existing descendants of Lord Jedburgh's brother of the whole blood.

IV. William; this gentleman under a family arrangement succeeded to the estates in the county of Fife of his mother's family and assumed the surname and arms of Kirkaldy. Perhaps this change has misled previous writers, but there is no want of evidence to prove his identity; in a deed 1586, May 9th, he is styled brother of Andrew Kerr of Fernihirst; his contract of marriage 1586, Feb. 14, styles him William Kerr alias Kirkaldy of Grange, the lady being Elizabeth daughter of the deceased John Lyon Lord Glamis, Lord High Chancellor of Scotland;

Margaret Learmonth widow of Sir William Kirkaldy, and grandmother of the bridegroom, is a party to this Deed.

V. Alexander Kerr their son seems to have dropped the surname of Kirkaldy, the estate having been conveyed to the heir male of his grandmother's family.

His only son—

VI. John Kerr was the heir male of the Fernihirst family in 1654, and established his status by three different General Services on the 24th June as heir male of his great-grandfather Sir Thomas of Fernihirst, of his grand uncle Andrew Lord Jedburgh, and of his grandfather's brother's son Andrew Master of Jedburgh. He appears never to have claimed or assumed the Peerage, and was dead without male issue in 1670.

IV. Sir James Kerr of Crailing, brother of Lord Jedburgh, and erroneously called his heir male, was 1603 October 29, served heir special to his brother Thomas in the lands and Lordship of Oxnam, the lands of Over Crailing, etc., and in 1611 had a Crown Charter of part of the lands in the county of Roxburgh forfeited by John Lord Maxwell. The estates of this nobleman, including the lands of Maxwell, the oldest possession of his family in Scotland, were divided among the Kerrs, Sir Andrew of Fernihirst acquiring half the Barony, and Sir Andrew of Greenhead, and Mr. afterwards Sir James of Crailing getting Maxwell-heugh, etc. In 1617 Robert, brother and heir of John Lord Maxwell was restored, and the three Kerrs made a protest that this Act of Restoration should not prejudice their rights to any of these lands, which they retained possession of. Sir James married Mary daughter and heiress of James Rutherford of Hundolie in the parish of Jedburgh, which had belonged to her ancestors from the middle of the fifteenth century. Sir James Kerr, then designed of Hundolie, represented the county of Roxburgh in Parliament 1630. He died in 1645 leaving—

Robert afterwards Lord Jedburgh.

Jean married John Kerr of West Nisbet, a younger son of the Cavers family, and had issue—

V. Robert Kerr of Crailing and Hundolie, having become heir male of Fernihirst and repurchased the estate from the Earl of Lothian, had 1670 July 11th, the title of Baron Jedburgh allowed and confirmed, not as a new creation but with the original precedency of 1622, by a Patent to him and the heirs male of his body, whom failing, to William Master of Newbottle and the heirs male of his body, whom failing to the heirs male whatsoever of the said Master of Newbottle. The disposition of Fernihirst, 1669 June 21, conveyed that estate to Lord Jedburgh then Robert Kerr of Crailing and the heirs male of his body, whom failing to William Master of Newbottle and the heirs male of his body, whom failing to his other heirs male. He had executed an entail, 1669 July 24, of Riccaltoun in favour of the Master who is designed eldest son of Robert Lord Newbottle and grandson of William Earl of Lothian, which Earl was nearest and apparent heir male of the entailer, and entered into a contract 15 September following with the said Earl and his eldest son, by which it was agreed that the Master of Newbottle and the other heirs therein named were on their succession to Fernihirst to bear the title of Lord Jedburgh and the Arms in an escutcheon of pretence over the Arms of Lothian; also that the eldest son and heir apparent of the Earls of Lothian in all time thereafter was to bear the title of Lord Jedburgh, and that these conditions were not to be held as contraventions of the Lothian entail. His Lordship is one of the heirs named in the entail of Cavers the same year, and on the 13th August 1675 he executed a separate entail of the Cross of Jedburgh; on the 2 August 1678 Lord Jedburgh executed a Procuratory of Resignation of the lands and barony of Over Crailing in favour of himself and the heirs male of his body, whom failing, any other person or persons whom he should nominate by writing during his lifetime, and in 1685 he nominated Robert Lord Newbottle and the other heirs of Robert Earl of Lothian, whom failing, John Kerr of Cavers. The same year April 8th he executed a Bond and Procuratory of Entail of Hundolie, Ashtrees, etc., in favour of himself and the heirs male of his body, the heirs male of the family of Cavers, and the heirs male of the body of Robert Earl of Lothian, etc.

Lord Jedburgh married Christian, relict of Sir Patrick Hume of Polwarth, daughter of Sir Alexander Hamilton of Innerwick, but died without issue 4th August 1692, when his title and entailed estate of Fernihirst passed to William Lord (formerly Master of) Newbottle, who when Parliament met 18th April 1693, presented the renewed Patent of Peerage of 1670 which was openly read and ordered to be recorded, and his Lordship took his seat as a Peer in virtue of it, his father at the same time sitting as Earl of Lothian.

The limitation of the Patent seems not to have been understood; it is perfectly clear from the wording that when William who succeeded as Lord Jedburgh 1692 became Marquis of Lothian on the death of his father in 1703 the Peerages became united, but that according to the terms of the entail Jedburgh was to be the courtesy title borne by the eldest son and heir apparent.

In 1712 however, William eldest son of William second Marquis tendered his vote as Lord Jedburgh at the election of Representative Peers, and it was accepted, but this was certainly a mistake. I am not aware that the Lothian family have ever complied with the injunction to bear the Arms of Fernihirst in an escutcheon of pretence, but to the very irregular marshalling of arms

I shall return. The courtesy title of Lord Jedburgh was used by the eldest sons till the marriage in 1735 of William Lord Jedburgh afterwards fourth Marquis of Lothian, when he discontinued it and took the style of Earl of Ancrum, which had been conferred as second title along with the Marquessate in 1701.

It may be as well to draw attention to another mistake in Wood's 'Douglas Peerage'; Charters are quoted of Fernihirst to Robert Kerr in 1608, and of Carlaverock, etc., to Sir Robert Kerr in 1610, as if they referred to Robert of Crailing afterwards Lord Jedburgh, who was at that time neither a knight nor a landowner, but a little boy; the grantee was the Earl of Somerset.

On the death in 1692 of Robert Lord Jedburgh the estate of Hundolie, and other real and personal property of considerable value, were inherited by his sister's son John Kerr of Cavers in terms of Bond and Procuratory of Entail executed by his Lordship 8 April 1685.

On the extinction in the male line of this family Hundolie reverted to the Marquis of Lothian, whose descendant still possesses it.

I shall now proceed to trace the descent of this nobleman.

KERR OF ANCRUM, EARL OF ANCRUM, EARL AND MARQUIS OF LOTHIAN.

II. Robert Kerr of Ancrum, third son of Sir Andrew of Fernihirst, was proprietor of part of Ancrum in 1542 and the lands and mill of Newton, of which he had a charter 1586 November 17; also of Woodhead, which he held from the Abbot of Jedburgh. In 1552 there was a suit between Sir John of Fernihirst and his brother Robert of Woodhead.

In 1567 "Robyn Ker of the Wodhead" signed the Bond "to assist and fortify" the infant James on the throne, but at an earlier period he had intrigued with England, as in 1548 I find him applying for an assurance from the Protector Somerset to go to his own house to serve the King, i.e. Edward VI.

He built the house of Ancrum, on which there was long to be seen cut in stone, "Robert Ker and Isobel Home Foundar and Compleitar 1558." His arms are cut as three mullets on a chevron, and in base a stag's head couped.

He married Isobel daughter of David Home of Wedderburn, and died in February 1588, having had issue,

1. William.
2. Robert of Newton, denounced as a rebel 1594 for subscribing an assurance to Sir Robert Kerr apparent of Cessford, and ordered to be warded in Dumbarton Castle, father of Robert of Newton whose special service to him is dated 1618 November 3d. He had a Crown Charter of Newton 1622 Feb. 7, to him and his heirs male, whom failing to Sir Robert Ker of Ancrum and his heirs male whomsoever. William Kerr of Newton was served heir special to his father Robert 1639 May 22; his name occurs 1643 to 1649 as a member of the Committee of War, and of the Committee of Estates, and he was Lieutenant-Colonel of the Regiment of Horse raised in the Counties of Roxburgh and Selkirk; in 1662 he was fined £600. By his wife Agnes daughter and coheir of John Abernethy, Bishop of Caithness 1616—1635, he had three daughters, Euphemia, Agnes, and Margaret, who were in 1671 June 8th served heirs portioners of their mother in various lands in the county of Caithness.

The eldest seems to have been second wife of William Kerr of Cherrytrees formerly noticed; Margaret m. 1 June 1677, Andrew Kerr of Chatto.

1. Katherine married in 1566 Henry Haliburton of Mertoun; in the contract her father is designed Robert Kerr of Ancrum Woodheid.

III. William Kerr of Ancrum and others on the 15 June 1572, slaughtered James Henrye, Burgess of Jedburgh, and James Mitchell. He was assassinated in December 1590 by Robert Kerr younger of Cessford, afterwards Earl of Roxburghe. William married first Margaret, widow of Sir David Home of Fischwick, daughter of Archibald Dundas of Fingask, co. Perth. She married 3rdly in 1590 Sir George Douglas of Mordington, co. Berwick, and had issue.

William had four sons—

1. Robert, Earl of Ancrum.
2. William of Linton and Sunlaws, Groom of the Bedchamber to James VI. and Charles I., in 1601 was sued for the murder of Robert Turnbull of Bewlie and others. He had, 1625 August 31, a Crown Charter of the lands of Overton to William brother of Sir Robert Kerr of Ancrum; 1629 February 28, Charter to William Kerr of Linton of same lands.

He was living in 1640; married Isabel daughter of John Kerr of Littledean, and had—

William married Anne daughter of Philip fourth Lord Wharton, but died without issue.

Henry mentioned in 1641 as nephew of the Earl of Ancrum, was probably also son of William.

Letitia married Alexander Popham of Littlecote, co. Wilts, and issue.

Anne married first Colonel Edmund Popham, younger brother of her sister's husband, and had issue; secondly as his third wife, Philip Lord Wharton above named, and had one son William, who fell in a duel 1689.

3. Sir Thomas of Redden, omitted in the Peerages, of whom and his descendants a separate notice has been given.

4. Andrew believed to have died abroad unmarried.

IV. Sir Robert Kerr of Ancrum born 1578, was made a Knight of the Bath 1603.*

Sir Robert was Captain of the King's body guard till 1613, when he resigned that office in favour of his kinsman Sir Andrew Kerr of Oxnam. Was gentleman of the Bedchamber and Keeper of the Privy Purse to James I. and Charles I. See Wood's 'Douglas Peerage' for various particulars of his life.

Sir Robert was one of the principal creditors of Robert second Earl of Lothian, and arranged a marriage between his own eldest son and the Earl's elder daughter and heiress Anne, the bridegroom being allowed the title of Lothian by Patent 1631 October 31, and his father resigning in his favour the Lordship of Newbottle. Thus, according to Scotstarvet, who gives many particulars as to Lord Ancrum and his descendants, the family rose from "Goodman of Ancrum" to two Earldoms.

He married first in 1605 Elizabeth daughter of Sir John Murray of Black barony, co. Peebles, and had one son—

William Earl of Lothian.

Sir Robert married secondly in 1621 Lady Anne Stanley, relict of Sir Henry Portman of Orchard-Portman, co. Somerset, daughter of William 6th Earl of Derby, Knight of the Garter, and was at the Coronation of Charles as King of Scotland, 1633 June 24 created Earl of Ancrum etc., with remainder to the heirs male of this marriage, whom failing to his other heirs male. The same year his pension was excepted from a revocation of Royal grants. He had by his second marriage two sons and four daughters, of whom Lady Vere married Dr. Wilkinson of Oxford, and Lady Anne m. Colonel Nathaniel Rich of Stondon in Essex, and was mother of Sir Robert Rich, Bart.

1. Charles, second Earl of Ancrum.

2. Stanley, died without issue after 1666.

It has been already mentioned that Lord Ancrum when resident in England was on terms of friendship with the Carres of Lincolnshire; this led to a curious transaction. Sir Robert Carre the second Baronet of Sleaford having been married for some time had three daughters and no son; and entered into a contract with Lord Ancrum by which he settled his estates on his Lordship, in the event of his own death without male issue, on the condition that one of the Earl's sons was to marry one of his daughters; the birth of a son to Sir Robert in 1637 caused the revocation of this contract, the execution of which would have provided a large estate in England for the younger son in the same way that the elder had been enriched in Scotland. Lord Ancrum died in 1654 at the age of 76 in exile and poverty at Amsterdam (his corpse was arrested by creditors and remained unburied for a considerable time), and was succeeded in the title by the eldest son of his second marriage.

* This honour has generally been omitted in the account of his Lordship and given erroneously to Lord Somerset.

V. Charles 2d Earl of Ancrum sat in the Parliament of Scotland as a Peer 1671 to 1681, and represented the Borough of Wigan, in Lancashire, in the House of Commons; Lord Ancrum married in 1662 and had a son who predeceased him 1676. The estate of Ancrum was sold to John Scott of Kirkstyle, who had a Charter in 1670. His Lordship was in poor circumstances, and is described as broken-hearted by his sister; he died in Sept. 1690, when his honours devolved on Robert 4th Earl of Lothian.

V. William Earl of Lothian married Lady Anne Kerr, heiress of the Earls of Lothian of the Cessford family, and was himself created Earl of Lothian. In 1646 he acquired the estates of Fernihirst and Riccaltoun from the disponees of the creditors of Andrew Lord Jedburgh, but in 1669 settled them on Robert Kerr of Crailing, afterwards Lord Jedburgh, heir male of Fernihirst. In 1641 had a ratification of the Lordship and Barony of Jedburgh from Thomas Earl of Haddington, which a few years previously he had purchased. In 1662 he was fined £6000.

Lord Lothian 1675 August 13th made an Entail of the Tower of Jedburgh, etc., on Lord Jedburgh and the same series of heirs as those named in the Fernihirst Entail. He died in 1675, having had a large family as stated in Wood's 'Douglas Peerage;' and with more accuracy and detail at p. cvii. of the preface to the 'Correspondence of Robert first Earl of Ancrum and William third Earl of Lothian,' printed for private circulation, 1875, by the Marquis of Lothian. The youngest daughter, Lady Liliass, is said by the Editor to have died unmarried, but in a pedigree of Lewin in the 'Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica' she is said to have married Thomas Lewin of Amble in Northumberland, and to have had a family. The eldest son Robert, fourth Earl and first Marquis of Lothian, was ancestor in the seventh degree of Schomberg Henry Kerr, ninth Marquis, heir male of the Kerrs of Fernihirst. In 1658 Robert Lord Kerr of Jedburgh afterwards first Marquis of Lothian, made a claim to the Earldom of Roxburghe, his mother's uncle, the Hon. John Kerr, who was then an old man and childless, and unquestionably the heir male, having executed a disposition in his favour of his right, but it was not pressed. There had been a previous attempt made by Anne Countess of Lothian on the death of Henry Lord Kerr, son of the first Earl of Roxburghe, in 1643 to unite the families by marriage of her sons to his Lordship's daughters and coheirs, but it came to nothing.

The second son Sir William Kerr, Director of Chancery 1661, married 12th June 1664 Agnes Cockburn, and left a son William who died in 1721. The third son Charles was first of the Kerrs of Abbotrude of whom an account is to be found in the 'Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica.'

ARMS.

Those of the Earls of Lothian of the Cessford family have already been given, and also an account of the successive changes made in the Fernihirst coat. Sir George Mackenzie says that the latter family carried two angels as supporters before they were Peers, and these are given in an illuminated manuscript now in the Lyon office as carried by the first Lord, each holding in her exterior hand a cornucopia, sometimes two savages; but the bearings recorded in the Lyon Register by Robert Lord Jedburgh about 1673 are, Gules, on a chevron Argent three mullets of the first; Crest, a buck's head erased Or; Motto, Forward. Supporters two stags. The motto was sometimes amplified into "Forward in the name of God."

Sir Robert Kerr of Ancrum bore as above with a crescent in the dexter chief point for difference. After he was created an Earl he bore his arms marshalled in two different ways, and in both cases quartered with a coat of Augmentation. First and fourth, Kerr as Jedburgh with a canton ermine; second and third Azure, a saltire Argent; a bordure of the last charged with twelve thistles proper. The second coat was, first and fourth, Kerr without the canton; second and third, ermine, on a chief parted per pale Gules and Or a lion passant gardant counter-changed; sometimes the coat of Augmentation is placed in the first and fourth quarters, and the paternal arms in the second and third. The Crest a stag's head couped proper attired Or, collared Gules, the collar charged with three mullets Argent. Motto, Tout droit. Supporters two stags Argent attired Or, and collared as the Crest.

The noble family of Lothian has not registered arms in the books of the Lyon court, and if the modern Peerages are to be relied on, does not comply with the terms of the Jedburgh Entail (although according to Nisbet, they for a time bore the Fernihirst coat in the second and third quarters in place of the differenced Kerr coat), nor bear any coat for the separate title of Ancrum. The appropriate arrangement would appear to be, that the shield should be divided into four grand quarters; first and fourth, the quartered coats of Lothian and Kerr; second, the quartered coat of the Earls of Ancrum: third, the bearings of the Hobarts Earls of Buckinghamshire, which come through the marriage of William sixth Marquis of Lothian with the Lady Henrietta eldest daughter and coheir of John second Earl of Buckinghamshire; and in an escutcheon of pretence over all the coat of Kerr, Lord Jedburgh. The Earl of Rochester bore Kerr with a Lion of England in dexter chief as an Augmentation. The seal of his sister Mary, wife of the Commendator of Melrose, attached to a Deed 1590, gives a unicorn's (stag's) head regardant in base.

In a Book of Funeral Escutcheons in the library of the Lyon office, compiled by Henry Fraser, Ross Herald and Herald Painter, the following bearings are assigned to the Earl of Lothian (apparently Robert afterwards first Marquis between 1692 and 1701), 1 and 4 the Lothian coat of augmentation; 2 Argent, on a fess Gules, three mascles Or; 3 Vert, three unicorns' heads erased Argent, and in an escutcheon of pretence the Jedburgh coat. If this alteration of the family arms ever obtained the sanction of the Lyon King of Arms no matriculation in the official register followed.

PIGOT OF MELMORBY IN COVERDALE, AND OF CLO- THERHAM NEAR RIPON, CO. YORK.

ARMS.—Quarterly 1st and 4th. Sable, three mill-picks Argent. (PIGOT.) 2nd. Ar. a fess Gu. between three eagles displayed Sable. (LEEDS OF LEEDS.) 3rd. Ar. on a fess double cottised Gu. three fleurs-de-lis of the field. (NORMANVILLE.)

CREST.—A greyhound statant collared

The family of Pigot is said to have been descended from a Norman nobleman, and to have settled in different provinces of England at or soon after the Conquest. A branch was settled in Yorkshire at an early period. The name occurs frequently in the 'Monasticon Eboracense,' in the early undated charters. "Robert fil' Pigot" is mentioned in the charter of Sir William Percy as a knight holding lands of him, temp. Hen. II. (Harl. MS. 1364.)

The earliest dated record of the connection of the family with Melmorby is a charter dated St. Michael's day, A.D. 1257, by which GEOFFRY PIGOT grants to Ralph de Middleham the right of taking stones from his quarry at Melmorby, and the right of common, etc., in Melmorby and Karleton. ('Formulare Ang.') This Geoffry may have been father of

I. LORETTE PIGOT, the first mentioned in the Visitation pedigrees, who was father of

II. GEOFFRY PIGOT of Melmorby. Held also two car. land in Carleton (Kirkby's Inquest), and land in Leyburn, and Hoton Wap. of Hang West in 1291. (Evidences of heirs of Falkingham of Leeds, Dodsworth MSS.) Married JOAN, dau. of Relict in 1310, when she gave a charter of release to Dame Mary de Neville of common right in Coverdale Forest ('Form. Ang.'), and had issue—
 Randolph his heir,
 Roger.

III. SIR RANDOLPH PIGOT of Melmorby, Kt. Living 1340. Lord of Melmorby, and of part of Aldborough and Carleton, 1316 ('Nomina Villarum'). Was witness to a charter of Mary de Neville in 1316 ('Form. Ang.'). Obtained a charter of free warren in Melmorby, Straston, Helawe, and Carlton 8 Ed. III. (1335) (Wilson's MSS.). Married JOAN (? dau. of Sir John Mincot, Kt.) and had issue—Geoffry his heir.

 Alice, married 1st Marmaduke Darrel, Junior, of Sessay, co. York, living 1371; his 2nd wife. She mar. 2ndly Peter de Routh.

IV. SIR GEOFFRY PIGOT of Melmorby, Kt., living 1348. Roll of Arms, temp. Ed. III.:—"Geffray Pigot de Melmorby. Port de Sable ove trois picois de Argent." ('Coll. Top. et Gen.') Married JOAN, dau. of and had issue—

V. SIR RANDOLPH PIGOT of Melmorby and Clotherham, Kt., living 1359. His will is dated Jan. 8, 1404, and was proved at York Mar. 10, 1404. He desires to be buried in the Church of St. Peter at Ripon. He married JOAN, dau. and heir of JOHN CLOTHERHAM of Clotherham, Esq.,—"the last of a race" (says Mr. Walbran, in his notes to 'Test. Ebor.') "which had been settled at Clotherham from the early part at least of the 12th century." His widow was living 1412. Had issue—

 Geoffry, his heir.

 John, of whom afterwards.

VI. SIR GEOFFRY PIGOT of Clotherham, Kt., living 1418. Married EMMA, dau. and heiress of SIR ROGER LEEDS of Northall, Leeds, Kt., and eventually heir of her brother WILLIAM LEEDS, Esq. This family was descended from Thomas de Leeds, grandson of Ashulf, lord of Birkin, co. York, temp. Hen. I. The said Thomas de Leeds married a coheiress of the family of de Cauz, which was descended from Reginald de Normanville, Forester of Sherwood temp. Will. I. (Visitation pedigrees.) Sir Geoffry had issue—

 1. Randolph, his heir.

2. RICHARD PIGOT of Little Horwood, co. Bucks, mar. 1st Alice, dau. and heir of Richard Finnell of Winslow, by whom he had Robert Pigot, ancestor of the family of Pigot of Horwood; and 2ndly Joan, dau. of Paul Darrell of Lillingstone Darrell, by whom he had a son, John, to whom he conveyed the estate of Bechampton, Bucks. Richard Pigot was Steward to the Duke of York, and was killed with him at Wakefield 31 Dec. 1460. His widow took the veil, and lived fifty years after her husband's decease. (Lipscombe's 'Bucks' and Harl. MS. 1364.)

Emma living { 1415
 { 1428 and mar. Henry Gerlington.

Another dau., living 1428.

VII. RANDOLPH PIGOT of Clotherham, Esq., was married before 1428 to MARGARET, dau. of SIR ROBERT PLUMPTON of Plumpton, Kt. Was lord of Helaugh, par. of Masham, and had an oratory there Dec. 3, 1429 (Reg. Cap. Ebor.) He founded a chantry at Clotherham (Reg. Wm. Booth.) His will is not dated, but was proved at York May 9, 1467. "To be buried in the Church of S. Peter, Ripon, in the place where my ancestors are buried." Buried there 1467 (Reg. Wm. Booth.) A Sir Radulph Pigot was killed at Towton Field 1461. (See Drake's 'Eboracum.') Randolph Pigot had issue—

Geoffry, his heir.

Johanna, married Sir John Norton of Norton Conyers. She died Aug. 6, 1488, and is buried with her husband in the Norton Chapel at Wath.

VIII. SIR GEOFFRY PIGOT of Clotherham, Kt., 1436. Born before 1428. An oratory was granted to him and his wife at Sewarby in 1453-4-5 (Reg. Wm. Booth.) He married MARGARET, dau. of WILLIAM SEWARBY of Sewarby, near Bridlington, Esq. She took the veil Sep. 2, 1469, and was admitted to Corpus Christi Guild 1470. Her will is dated Nov. 7, 1485, and was proved at York Dec. 17, 1485. A full inventory of her effects is printed in 'Ripon Chapter Acts' (Sur. Soc.). Had issue—

Randolph, his heir.

Thomas.

Joanna, mar. Sir John Wandesford of Kirklington, Kt.

Agnes, mar. John Copley of Batley, Esq.

Elizabeth, mar. Scargill.

IX. SIR RANDOLPH PIGOT of Clotherham, Kt., was Wakeman of Ripon 1471. Admitted to Corpus Christi Guild 1479 with his wife. Said to have been at that time one of the wealthiest of the Yorkshire knights, and he died possessed of estates in sixty-five different places in the county. He married JOAN, dau. of SIR

RICHARD STRANGEWAYS, of Harsley Castle, N. Riding, Kt., by Elizabeth his first wife, dau. and coheir of Wm. Neville, Earl of Kent and Baron Fauconberg, a great-grandson of Edward III., but had no issue. By a deed dated 5 April, 1503, he conveyed his vast estates to trustees, for the ultimate use and benefit of his three neices, dau.'s of his brother Thomas Pigot ('Test. Ebor.,' Sur. Soc.) His will is dated May 26, 1503, and proved at York Sep. 27, 1503. "To be bur. in Ripon Church." He died 9th Aug. 1503.

X. THOMAS PIGOT of Clotherham, Esq., brother and heir of Sir Randolph, was admitted to Corpus Christi Guild 1479. Married Isabell, dau. of . . . Gascoyne, a younger brother of the house of Gascoyne. (Harl. MS. 1364.) He died 16 May, 4 Hen. VIII. (1513). An Inq. p.m. was taken 5 Aug. 1513, by which he was found to have been possessed of the manors of Gricethorpe, Northall, Okewell, and Clotherham; and his three dau.'s, aged respectively 20, 15, and 12, were declared his heirs (Cole's 'Escheats,' Harl. MS. 756.) He had issue as above,

1. MARGARET PIGOT, born 1493, coheiress of Sir Randolph Pigot, her uncle. Married 1507 SIR JAMES METCALFE of Nappa in Wensleydale, Kt. Arms—Ar. three calves Sa., 2 and 1. She died Feb. 3, 1531, leaving a son, Christopher Metcalfe, the ancestor of the family of Metcalfe of Nappa, which became extinct in male line with Thos. Metcalfe of Nappa, who died without issue April 25, 1756 (Foster's Ped.)

2. ELIZABETH PIGOT, coheiress of her uncle Sir Randolph Pigot, born 1498. Married 1stly Sir James Strangeways of Harsley Castle, Kt., who died without issue in 1541; 2ndly Charles Brandon, natural son of Chas. Brandon, Duke of Suffolk; and 3rdly Francis Neville of Barby, gent., 3rd son of Sir John Neville of Chevete, Kt. She died without issue.

3. JANE PIGOT, born 1531, coheiress of Sir Randolph Pigot. Married 1stly Sir Giles Hussye of Cawthorpe, co. Linc., Kt., second son of John Lord Hussye of Sleaford in that county, and 2ndly Thomas Falkingham of Northall, near Leeds, Esq., descended of the Falkinghams of Lincolnshire. (Arms—Ar. a chev. between three cinquefoils pierced Sable.) From this match the Falkinghams of Northall were descended. Her will is dated Feb. 2, 1594, and proved at York Dec. 14, 1597. She desires "to be buried in the high quearc at Leedes, neare unto Sir Roger Leedes my ancestor." Buried there Oct. 29, 1597 (Par. Reg.), being aged 96 years. She left all her landed property to her grandson Pigot Falkingham, son of John

Falkingham of Northall, Esq. Her husband, Thomas Falkingham, was buried in Leeds Church June 15, 1593 (Par. Reg.)

Returning to JOHN PIGOT, the second son of (V.) Sir Randolph Pigot of Melmorby and Clotherham, he was of Ripon, and married Elizabeth, dau. of Conrad Aske (Harl. MS. 1364), and widow of . . . Mountford of Hackworth. His will is dated Jan. 15, 1428, and proved at York. He had issue—

1. John.
2. Richard.
3. Roger, presumably died young. Living 1428.

Margaret, married Robert Wyvell of Ripon, Esq., from whom descended Wyvell of Constable Burton. She eventually became heir of both her brothers, John and Richard.

I. JOHN PIGOT of Ripon, Esq., was constituted Archbishop's Receiver at Ripon Oct. 8, 1465 (Reg. Geo. Neville.) Married in Chapel of St. John's Hospital, Ripon, Katherine Helton, Jan. 15, 1485. "They had long lived together and been accounted man and wife." His will is dated 3 Mar. 1488, and proved at Ripon. His wife's will dat. 16 Jan. (?) 1508, and proved at Ripon. They left no issue.

II. RICHARD PIGOT, second son of John, was a celebrated lawyer temp. Hen. VI. and E. IV. Serjeant-at-law about 1463. Justice of Assize Dec. 1st, 1476, by William, Bishop of Durham (Test. Ebor.) Had numerous possessions in Yorkshire. Will dated April 15, 1483, proved at Lambeth June 21, 1483, and at York Aug. 3, 1484. He married Joan, dau. of . . . (survived her husband) and had issue—

RICHARD PIGOT, a minor in 1483. He died without issue, and the greatest part of his property went to his aunt Margaret, who had married Rob. Wyvell. (Test. Ebor.)

THE EARLS OF EU.—(1.) Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, who died 1275, married Maud, daughter of the Earl of Eu. Some of our Extinct Peerages state that she was daughter of John, Earl of Eu, who died 1170, by Alice, daughter of William de Albini, Earl of Arundel, and Alice of Louvain, widow of Henry the First, King of England. On what authority does this statement rest? Henry died 1 Dec. 1135; Alice de Albini, Countess of Eu, child of his widow, died in 1154, aged 18 at most, and not likely to have left more children than her son Henry, Earl of Eu, who died 1183. But if Maud de Bohun was her daughter, her son-in-law had the good fortune to survive his mother-in-law 131 years!

(2.) Sir Harris Nicols, in his 'Synopsis of the Peerage' (London, 1825, i. p. 223), calls the husband of Alice, daughter and heiress of Henry 5th Earl of Eu, Ralph de Yssonden, who died 1218. Is this a mistake for Issoudun? And are the French genealogists wrong in styling her husband, with one consent, Raoul de Lusignan, who died at Acre 1217-18? They make him out to have been brother of Hugh de Lusignan IX. of Guy, and of Amaury, Kings of Cyprus and Jerusalem, who died in 1208, 1194, and 1205 respectively.

(3.) Was not Maud de Bohun daughter of this Ralph de Lusignan, and aunt of Mary de Lusignan, who in 1250 carried the title of Earl of Eu to her husband, Alphonse de Brienne, who died at Tunis in 1270?

MURRAY.—William Murray, a native of Scotland, born according to New England genealogical records about 1697, left his native land soon after the rebellion in 1715. He came from Pelham, New Hampshire, to Amherst, Mass., in company with one Mackonachie or McConky, and shared in the division of land south of Mt. Holyoke (South Hadley and Granby) which took place in 1720. It is believed that he emigrated to New England with the expedition of the Scotch Presbyterians under the leadership of McGregor and others, who in 1718-19 founded the colony of Londonderry in New Hampshire, to which the settlement of Pelham is adjacent. The traditions of the family represent him as having been the son of a Scottish gentleman of culture and of gentle blood, who designed his son to receive the advantages of superior education and to follow literary pursuits, for which he (the son) had a hearty disinclination. His father was living (in Scotland) at the time William left his home,—a step which he took without the knowledge or consent of his parents. It has been surmised that he may have become involved in the rebellion, and was forced to leave the country as a fugitive in order to save his life, or he may have been sent as a prisoner to the New England colonies. It is the impression among his descendants that his mother's name was Janet or Dorothy. His religious persuasion is not known, although his supposed connection with the expedition of McGregor is an indication in favour of his having been a Presbyterian; but his name is not found upon the records of the church in Amherst, where he passed his life, where he made his will Oct. 22nd, 1779, and where he died in 1784,—his will having been proved July 5th in that year.

William Murray married in 1723 Hannah, the daughter of John Dickinson of Hatfield, Mass. (a descendant of the patriarch Nathaniel Dickinson of Hadley, Hatfield, and Wethersfield). Their children born in Amherst were named Elijah, William, Dorothy, David, Seth, and Hannah.

A clew may be found in the association of this name (Wm. Murray) with the following brief notice published in the 'History of Boston,' although the identity has not been proved, and the name is mis-spelled. This is in reference to a "Fire Society" which was incorporated in Boston Sept. 30, 1717, and was in existence many years after. In 1734 its regulations were printed in the form of a handbill. By these regulations the Society was to consist of but twenty members. For a copy of the regulations, printed on parchment, the historian is indebted to the Hon. Francis Brinley, of Boston. These parchments were probably equal to the number of the members, and contained the names in MS. of those composing the Society. The one in question contains the following names:—

"Wm. Winter, Andrew Craige, Arthur Savage, Thomas Handasyde Peek, John Moffatt, Allan Melville, Wm. Murrey, John Cunningham, William Brattle, Thomas Tyler, Samuel Bass, Jona Simpson, Samuel Hill, Wm. Fairfield, David Henschman, John Tyng, David Cutler, John Hunt, Shrimpton Hunt, Thomas Marshall, Daniel Rae, Thos. Symmes, Samuel Holbrook, Thomas Fayreweather, William Andrus, Robert Williams, Bartholomew Rand. These in italics are written upon a part of the parchment so impervious to the ink, that there is some uncertainty respecting them. The first four names, also Melville, Murrey, Brattle, Simpson, Hill, and Henschman, are erased by the line of a pen drawn across." (S. G. Drake's 'Hist. of Boston, Mass.')

It would seem that these persons had withdrawn from the "Society," or left the place for permanent settlement elsewhere.

The descendants of William Murray in the United States would be very grateful for any information which may tend to connect him with his ancestors in Scotland, his native land.

ISHAM FAMILY MEMORANDA (pp. 245 and 250).—On p. 250 is this, referring to p. 245, "I cannot trace what became of this Christopher The whole affair is rather mysterious, for his father does not remember the exact day of his own marriage, and Christopher's appearance itself was rather premature." On referring to page 245, we find that the only doubt in the father's mind was whether his marriage was on the 5th, 6th, or 7th of October, 1552. He then states that his son Christopher was born February 23, 1553. And it is upon this statement that the disparaging note on page 250 is founded. But the statement gives no ground for so scandalous an insinuation. The writer of the note was apparently forgetful of the method of computing the year in England in 1553, and long after. John Isham and Elizabeth Barker were married on one of three days in October, 1552. The next February after that October was still in the year 1552. The year 1553 did not begin till the March 25 after. Thus the 23rd of February, 1553, would be a year and several months after the marriage. This confusion as to the beginning of the year is a never ending cause of mistakes.

NOTICES OF THE HISTORIC PERSONS BURIED IN THE CHAPEL OF ST. PETER AD VINCULA IN THE TOWER OF LONDON. By DOYNE C. BELL, F.S.A. London, Murray, 1877. 8vo.

Most of our readers will recollect with pleasure the amusing little volume descriptive of the Tower published by Lord de Ros in 1866. Since this date the chapel of St. Peter ad Vincula has undergone a thorough repair, which has afforded the opportunity, ably seized by Mr. Bell, of determining the places of burial of various persons of historic note, whose untimely fates caused them to find their last resting place within its walls. With the exception of Westminster Abbey, there is no ecclesiastical edifice in the kingdom within whose walls have been received the remains of so many whose names must ever live in the pages of English history. The present church was erected at the order of Edward I., about 1306. Extensive alterations were made in the reign of Henry VIII., and these brought it into the architectural condition in which we now see it. The dedication is peculiar, and with the exception of the Church of St. Pietro in Vincoli at Rome, Mr. Bell has not met with any similar. Built for the accommodation of the prisoners in the Tower, it is at all events appropriate. Macaulay has with much truth observed that "there is no sadder spot on earth than this little cemetery. Thither," says he, "have been carried through successive ages, by the rude hands of goalers, without one mourner following, the bleeding relics of men who had been the captains of armies, the leaders of parties, the oracles of senates, and the ornaments of courts." During the restorations of 1876-7 it was found necessary to relay the pavement, which had sunk and become uneven in many places, in order to make a level and safe foundation upon which the new pavement could be placed. On removing the stones of the old pavement, it was found that the resting places of those who had been buried during the 16th and 17th centuries had been repeatedly, and it was feared almost universally, desecrated. Even where, as was not usually the case, a stone had marked the resting place of some notable person, it was found that the bones had been much disturbed,—so much so, indeed, as to be beyond all possible means of identification. This was notably the case of those of the three Scotch lords, Balmerino, Kilmarnock, and Lovat. Lord Lovat was executed in 1747, and was the last person who suffered death by beheading in this country. In October, 1876, the repairs had progressed so far that it became necessary to consider the arrangements for the restoration of the chancel. Here Queens Anne Boleyn, Katherine Howard, the Dukes of Somerset, Northumberland, and Monmouth were known to have been buried, and it was very properly determined to allow the flooring of this part of the chapel to remain unmoved, till on a subsequent examination by the Surveyor of the Office of Works it was found to be practically impossible, as in two places the pavement had sunk, and shewed signs of considerable hollowness beneath it. On the 9th and 11th of November, 1876, an examination of the ground was made in the presence of the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works, the Secretary to the Commissioners, the Resident Governor of the Tower (Col. Milman), the Local Government Inspector (Dr. Mouat), and Mr. D. C. Bell, Secretary to her Majesty's Privy Purse. Having been an eye witness of these proceedings adds much to the value of Mr. Bell's testimony, and gives the stamp of authority to his work.

At the meeting held on Nov. 9th Mr. Bell produced a plan shewing the relative positions in which the persons known to have been buried here were, according to various historical authorities, placed. The pavement was first lifted at the spot where Queen Anne Boleyn was supposed to have been buried, and at the depth of only two feet below the surface were found the bones of a female, an examination of which proved almost without the possibility of a doubt that they were those of the unhappy Queen. Some large male bones were also found,—“doubtless,” says Mr. Bell, “those of the Protector Somerset.” At the second meeting, on the 11th Nov., the ground nearest the grave of the late Sir John Burgoyne, where the Duke of Northumberland was said to have been buried, was first examined, and his remains discovered; close by were found the remains of two females, believed to be those of Lady Rochford and Margaret of Clarence, Countess of Salisbury. No remains which could be identified as those of Queen Katherine Howard were found, but her youth—she being only twenty at the time she was beheaded—and the extensive use of lime in these interments, may possibly account for there being no trace of them. The skeleton of Sir Allan Apsley, Lieutenant of the Tower, was next found beneath the stone which formerly bore his name. He was buried in 1630. James, Duke of Monmouth, was buried under the communion table. His remains were next identified. At a depth of six inches lower than the grave of the Duke of Monmouth was found a large male skeleton, at first supposed to be that of the notorious Judge Jeffreys, who was afterwards removed to the Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury. This skeleton has not been identified. After this no further examination was made; the remains which had been taken out, after having been carefully examined by Dr. Mouat, were placed apart, and having subsequently been enclosed in leaden coffers, encased with oak, and having the names of the persons to whom it is supposed they belonged engraved upon them, were on the 13th April, 1877, reinterred in the respective positions in which they had been found.

The fourth chapter of Mr. Bell's work gives the inscriptions on the monuments now remaining in the chapel; nearly all of them commemorate Lieutenants of the Tower, or persons holding some official appointment connected with it.

The fifth and sixth chapters relate to the Burial Register, and the burials known to have taken place in the chapel. The entries of burials begin in 1550, christenings in 1587, and marriages in 1586. Till the middle of the 17th century the registers appear to have been very irregularly kept; that of burials alone contains any names of historic interest. Copies of the most noteworthy entries are given. We then find a list of remarkable persons buried in the chapel, thirty-four in number, and all familiar names. Among them are the Earl of Kildare, Fisher Bp. of Rochester, Sir Thomas More, Q. Anne Boleyn, Cromwell Earl of Essex, Q. Kath. Howard, Edw. Seymour Duke of Somerset, Lord Guilford Dudley, Lady Jane Grey, Henry Grey Duke of Suffolk, Thomas Howard Duke of Norfolk, Philip Earl of Arundel, Robert Devereux Earl of Essex, Sir Tho. Overbury, James Duke of Monmouth, George Lord Jeffreys, and lastly the three rebel lords, Kilmarnock, Balmerino, and Frazer of Lovat. As this list includes only those persons who were buried in the chapel, the burial places of Henry Earl of Surrey, Lady Arabella Stuart, Sir Walter Raleigh, Wentworth Earl of Strafford, and Archbishop Laud, who all died here, are added afterwards.

The rest and by far the greater portion of this amusing volume is devoted to memoirs of the "remarkable persons buried in the chapel." These explain the reasons for which they were committed to the Tower, give an account of their trials, and of their deaths or executions; the authorities for all the statements made being fully and clearly set forth in the numerous foot notes which add much value to the book. That nothing should be wanting, an excellent index renders it complete. Every page of this little memoir abounds in details of historic interest; it is clearly and pleasantly written, without the least trace of dullness or pedantry. Though the subject is painful it is none the less interesting, and we have to thank Mr. Bell for a book as entertaining as it is instructive.

GENEALOGICAL MEMOIRS OF THE FAMILY OF ROBERT BURNS, AND OF THE SCOTTISH HOUSE OF BURNES. By the Rev. CHARLES ROGERS, LL.D. Edinburgh, 1877. 8vo.

The pages of this little genealogy are chiefly founded upon Dr. James Burnes' 'Notes on his Name and Family,' printed in 1851, and on entries in parochial and other registers, and mainly consist of such particulars as are known concerning the ancestors of the Poet Burns. We search in vain for the account of the "Scottish House" mentioned in the title, unless Godric de Burnes, a man of Kent, mentioned in Domesday, and Sir John de Burnes, Envoy of Edward I. to Pope Nicholas IV., and afterwards Sheriff of Kent, are intended to do duty as its representatives. The family to which the Poet belonged were farmers on the Inchbreck estate, and their history commences with the tombstone of William Burnes of Bogjorgan, who was buried at Glenbervie in 1715. He married Catherine Fotheringham. The founder of the house of Fotheringham is said to have come from Hungary in the train of Margaret, wife of Malcolm Canmore, but there does not appear to be the slightest evidence that Catherine was of this family. The descendants of William Burnes are traced through two generations of the same Christian name to Robert Burnes of Stone-haven (whose son established a manufactory there), and John his brother, author of 'Thrummy Cap' and other works.

The genealogy of the Poet is traced from James Burnes, tenant in Brawlinmuir, a person "according to tradition of great sagacity and shrewdness," who died in 1743. He is believed, but on what ground we are not informed, to have been a brother of William (the first) of Bogjorgan. He married Margaret Falconer, who "belonged to an old and noble house." This is hardly probable, considering the position of her husband; but as no evidence of the fact is offered by Dr. Rogers, it is a statement not worth enquiring into. They had issue five sons, of whom Robert, the second, was father by Isabella Keith his wife of four sons and six daughters. Of these we need only notice two,—James, the eldest, and William.

James settled at Montrose, and had issue with others James, school-master, and afterwards a solicitor (? advocate) at Montrose, who married Anne Greig, by whom he was father of James Burnes, Provost of Montrose, a zealous agriculturist, and J.P. for Forfarshire ; he died in 1852, having had issue by his wife, Elizabeth Glegg, nine sons and six daughters. Of these the eldest was the late James Burnes, LL.D., F.R.S., the author of 'Notes on his Name and Family,' to whom, and the issue of his grandfather, arms were granted by Lyon King of Arms. The coat is figured and fully described at p. 62 of Dr. Rogers' book. The third son, Alexander Burnes, author of 'Travels in Bokhara' and 'Cabool,' received the honour of knighthood, and was murdered with several other officers on the outbreak of an insurrection for restoring Dost Mohammed, at Cabool, in 1841.

William was ruined by the terrible winter of 1740, and not, as asserted by his son the Poet, by his adherence to the cause of the Stuarts. He settled in the neighbourhood of Ayr, and married there in 1757 Agnes, dau'r of Gilbert Brown. His eldest son was Robert Burns the Poet.

The admirers of Burns will read Dr. Rogers' Memoirs with interest. They contain in a concise and readable form all that is worth knowing about his family history.

THE HISTORY OF CHESHIRE. By GEORGE ORMEROD, Esq., LL.D.
New Edition. By THOMAS HELSBY, Esq. Parts VI. and VII.

It is always pleasant to report progress, and more than usually so when it is of such a satisfactory nature as Mr. Helsby's. He is now well forward with the second volume, and considering the vast amount of labour which the revision of Ormerod requires, the parts issue from the press with great regularity. Both editor, publishers, and subscribers may well be congratulated. The parts before us comprise the Hundred of Edisbury, and in them, amongst matters of most special interest, will be found accounts of Frodsham, with pedigrees of Frodsham, Hellesby, Arderne, Rutter, etc.; the Forest of Delamere; the Monastery of Vale Royal; Over, the traditional birthplace of Nixon, the Cheshire prophet, to whose history Mr. Helsby has not added, though a more detailed account of him determining the period at which he lived would be highly curious and interesting; Bunbury, in which parish is situate the old castle of Beeston, long one of the strongholds of Cheshire, etc. etc.

The new engravings of seals and arms continue to form an addition of much value to the work ; at the same time we cannot help regretting that the generosity of the Cheshire public has not enabled the publishers to give new views of old mansions and other historic buildings, not as substitutes for the originals, which are all reproduced from Ormerod, but as additions to them, shewing the changes time has wrought, and to enable us to see the present as well as the past appearance of so many relics of antiquity. Mr. Helsby's task is now half completed, and we wish him as much success in the latter half as in the former. That it will be equally well done there is no reason to doubt.

OWTHORPE AND THE HUTCHINSON MONUMENTS.

By Captain A. E. LAWSON LOWE.

THE Hutchinsons of Owthorpe, who were a younger branch of an ancient Yorkshire family, sprang from Thomas Hutchinson, second son of Anthony Hutchinson of Cowlam, near Driffild in Yorkshire, who purchased lands at Owthorpe and elsewhere in Nottinghamshire, about the commencement of the sixteenth century. His great-grandson, Thomas Hutchinson of Owthorpe, married a daughter of Henry Sacheverell of Radcliffe-upon-Soar, by whom he had a son and successor, Sir Thomas Hutchinson, Knight, who served as High Sheriff of Nottinghamshire in 1620, and for some years represented the county in Parliament. He was twice married; first to Margaret, youngest daughter of Sir John Byron of Newstead Abbey, by whom he had two sons; and secondly to Catherine, daughter of Sir John Stanhope of Elvaston, in Derbyshire, by whom he had a son and a daughter. Sir Thomas Hutchinson died in London in 1643, and was buried within the altar-rails in St. Paul's Church, Covent Garden. His eldest son, John Hutchinson, who succeeded to the family estates, was born in 1616, and warmly espoused the cause of the Parliament in the civil wars, being constituted governor of Nottingham Castle, which he defended against the Royalists. He was subsequently appointed one of the Commissioners of the so-called High Court of Justice, and his signature is appended to the warrant for the execution of King Charles the First. After the Restoration, he was imprisoned and died in confinement at Sandown Castle in Kent, September the 1st, 1663. His remains were brought to Owthorpe, and interred in the vault beneath the church.* Lucy, his wife, was a daughter of Sir Allan Apsley, Lieutenant of the Tower of London, and the 'Memoirs' written by this lady, and afterwards published by a member of the family, are well known. After the decease of her husband, Mrs. Lucy Hutchinson and her eldest son sold the Owthorpe estate to Charles Hutchinson of Willoughby-on-the-Wolds, only son of Sir Thomas Hutchinson, by his second wife.† Thomas Hutchinson, Esq., the grandson of this Charles Hutchinson, died in 1774, having directed by his will that his estate should be sold, and the manor of Owthorpe was accordingly purchased from his representatives in the following year by Sir George Smith Bromley, Bart.

* The Hutchinson vault under the church is of unusually large dimensions, and contains a considerable number of coffins. On the south side is a large lead coffin, presumably that of the regicide, placed in an upright position, and secured to the walls of the vault by strong iron bands and chains. The coffin is, however, uninscribed, and is not placed beneath the monument which commemorates the regicide, but at the opposite end of the vault.

† A pedigree of the descendants of this Charles Hutchinson, whose wife was a coheirress of the Botelers of Hatfield Woodhall, in Hertfordshire, may be found in Clutterbuck's History of that County.

The old hall at Owthorpe was rebuilt by John Hutchinson, the regicide, about the year 1655, and, somewhere about the same time, he took down the greater part of the parish church, and erected the present unpretending fabric against the north wall of the chancel of the old church. It is not improbable that the monuments to his ancestors may have been offensive to the Puritan representative of the family, and were consequently destroyed by him when the church was rebuilt. But be this as it may, the mural monument which commemorates the regicide himself is the earliest of those that now remain. This monument, which is placed against the north wall of the church, is divided into five compartments of white and black marble, adorned with military emblems and armorial bearings, the whole being surmounted by a large oval tablet of black marble bearing the words "Quosque Domine" encircled with a wreath of sculptured foliage, and flanked on either side by a wreathed skull. On one side of the monument is a shield with these arms: Semée of crosses crosslet, a lion rampant gardant,*—Hutchinson; above which is carved a suit of body-armour, and over that a helmet bearing the crest of the Hutchinsons—a cockatrice with wings expanded. On the opposite side is a shield displaying: three bars and a canton,—Apsley; and above this shield are a pair of crossed military colours or standards, over which is the crest of the Apsleys—a fleur-de-lys, between two wings displayed. On the lower part of the monument is a shield bearing the arms of Hutchinson impaling Apsley. The inscription (said to have been written by Mrs. Lucy Hutchinson) is as follows:—

of Owthorpe, in the County of Nottingham, Esq., elder sonne & heire of S^r Thomas Hutchinson, by his first Wife, the Lady Margaret, daughter of S^r John Biron, of Newsted, in the sayd County.

This monument doth not com'emorate
Vaine ayrie glories, Titles, Birth & State.
But sacred is to free illustrious Grace
Conducting happily a mortall's race
To end in Triumph over death & hell
When (like the Prophet's cloake) the fraile flesh fell,
Forsaken as a dull impediment
Whilst love's swift fiery chariot climb'd the ascent.

* It is somewhat doubtful whether the crosslets in the arms of Hutchinson should be described as "semée." According to some authorities, the crosslets should be placed in "orle," in which case the number should be limited to eight or ten. Thoroton gives "a lion rampant" instead of "a lion rampant gardant," as the arms of the Hutchinsons of Owthorpe, but the latter appears in the Heralds' Visitations.

Nor are the reliques lost but only torne
To be new made and in more lustre worne.
Full of this Joy, he mounted, he lay downe

He married Lucy the daughter of S^r Allen Apsley, Lieften^t of daughter of S^r John S^t John, of Lidyard Tregoz, in the County of Wilts, who dying at Owthorpe Octob: 1659, and lieth buried in the same vault.

He left surviving by the said
Lucy 4 sons, Thomas, married

Upon the same side of the church is a large mural monument of good design and execution, surmounted by these arms: Quarterly, first and fourth, Per pale gules and azure, semée of crosses crosslet or, a lion rampant gardant argent,—Hutchinson; second and third, Gules, a fesse chequy argent and sable between six crosses crosslet or, Boteler. Beneath the armorial bearings is the following inscription:—

Crests.—First, a moor's head proper, wreathed about the temples argent and azure. Second, out of a coronet or, a demi-griffin gules, holding in the claws a sword argent, hilted or. Mottoes "Confide recte" and "No foe to fortune, no friend to faith, no woe to want, so Norton saith."

The earlier portion of the parish registers is said to have been taken away by the Hutchinson family when they left Owthorpe. The oldest of the remaining volumes only dates from the year 1731, and consequently but few entries relative to the Hutchinsons are to be found. The following are extracts :—

* All the following Chester Wills, and Cheshire Parish Register Entries, were found, and supplied to the present writer, by the research and kindness of Mr. Hughes, F.S.A., of The Groves, Chester. They were sought, to throw light upon the pedigree of the Gouldsmyth family of Nantwich, and accidentally disclosed the true descent of MILTON's third wife, Elizabeth Minshull. For previous doubts and discussions and mistakes relating to it, see 'Notes and Queries,' 1st Series, vols. viii. and ix., where "Visitations" are quoted, and some Registers, besides Richard Minshull's letters in Harl. Executors, Margery my wyfe, Richarde Hassall of Namptewiche & Thomas Bressye my son in lawe. Overseyer, my son in lawe Ric. Coope." Proved, with inventory, at Chester, last day of February 1576-7, at which time it appeared "by affirmac'on of Will'm Allen, Clerke, p'son of Wistaston & Nicholas Goldesmyth sonne to the Testator, that it was the intent of said Testator that his wife should have the lease he had taken in Morefeild during her life." Issue,—

I. NICHOLAS Goldsmith, of whom presently.

II. Geffrey Goldsmith, buried at Wistaston, 1 November 1627.

III. Randall Goldsmith.*

IV. Richard Goldsmith, deceased before 26 January 1616-17; see Will of his brother Nicholas, below. Had issue, Thomas; Dorithy, buried at Nantwich 5 Nov. 1620; and Frances.

I. Margaret Goldsmith, married to Thomas Brassie before 6 January 1574-5; buried, as a widow, at Wistaston, 29 May 1634. Thomas Brassie or Bressey was buried at Wistaston 14 Dec. 1620. Hanshall's 'Cheshire,' p. 509, says "Bressey or Brassey Hall in Willaston township is a venerable mansion, formerly a seat of the respectable family of the Brasseys." Willaston is partly in Nantwich and partly in Wybunbury.

II. Alice Goldsmith, m. to Richard Coope before 6 January 1574-5.

3. NICHOLAS Goldsmith of Nantwich, co. Chester, mercer. Buried at Nantwich 28 January 1616-17, where Dorethey his wife was buried 4 July 1611. His Will, dated 26 January 1616-17, is signed "Nycolas," only. Legacies: "to my dau. Mabell Goldsmithe £120; to my dau. Margery wife unto Thomas Paget, clerk, 20s.; to Ellen my dau. wife of Richard Minshull, 30s.; to my Brother Geffrey Goldsmith; to Dorithy Goldsmith dau. of my Bro. Richard Goldsmith deceased; to Frances sister of Dorithy; and Thomas brother of Dorithy and Frances; to my

* Probably he was the Randall Goldesmythe, Yeoman, of Willaston, whose Will, dated 13 January 1590-1, was proved at Chester, without date. He names wife Dorotheie, son Randall Goldsmythe and daughters Margaret, Isabell and Brygett; also "Randell and Richard Goldsmyth, my Brother's sonnes," Randell Mynshull, Thomas Brassie, and others. In the Bishop's Records at Chester are Licences, for John Withnall of Wibunbury to be married by the Vicar of Acton to Isabell Goldsmyth of Nantwich, dated 22 July 1607; and for Ralph Grastye to be married at Wrenbury to Bridget Goldsmith, both of Wibunbury, dated 27 January 1608-9.

sister Margaret wife of Thomas Brassie and to said Thomas Brassie; to my cousin Randall Church a french crowne; to James son of Roger Bryne, to my landlord Roger Wrighte, gent., to William Reeve, Anne Lownes and Anne Robinson; to my grand child Nicholas Goldsmith; to my grand child Mabell Minshall a ringe with this posie, 'pitie my grieve;' to my son Richard Goldsmith; to my grand child Richard Goldsmith one peece of gold with a crosse on it; to my grand child Randall Minshull one other piece of gold about 4s. 4d.; to Antony Holcrofte and Yewin Caterall; to my said sonne Richard; the residue of all my goods remayning in the chamber where I lye, together with my plate and certain brasse and pewter remayning at my daughter Minshul's* etc., I give and bequeath unto my said daughter Mabell, and she to be sole Executrix." Proved (with inventory taken 10 Feb. 1616-17) at Chester, by the executrix, 23 January 1617-18. Issue,—

- I. RICHARD Gouldsmithe, of whom presently.
- I. Mabell Gouldsmithe, married to Thomas Stevenson, at Wistaston, 26 Oct. 1620.
- II. Margery Gouldsmithe, married to the Rev. Thomas Paget, who died rector of Stockport, co. Chester, in Oct. 1660. His Will, dated 23 May 1660, was proved in London, 16 Oct. 1660 (Nabbs 190). Particulars of his life are given in Booker's 'History of Blackley Chapel,' from which, upon being "silenced," he fled to Holland, and became pastor of the English Chapel at Amsterdam. See also Masson's 'Life of Milton,' vol. ii. p. 593. Issue,—Rev. Thomas Pagett; Dorothy Pagett; Mary Pagett; Elizabeth Pagett, who married . . . Johnson (see Masson's 'Life of Milton,' vol. ii. p. 359); and Dr. Nathan Paget, M.D. (see Munck's 'History of the College of Physicians'), the intimate friend of MILTON. His Will, dated 7 January, 13 Charles II., 1678-9, names "my brother Thomas Pagett Clerk; my sister Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson widow, Thomas Johnson her son and Elizabeth her daughter. To my loving Cosen John Goldsmith £10 for mourning, and £40 for a legacy; to my cosen Elizabeth MILTON £20. To President and Coll. of Physicians a legacy, etc. Executors, Thos. Paget, Clerk, my Brother, and my cosen John Goldsmith of the Middle Temple, gent." Proved in London, by the executors, 15 January 1678-9; (King 9).

* Only such legacies are here copied from the Will as are interesting on account of the recipients; but no name has been omitted.

III. Ellen Gouldsmithe, married Richard Minshull; and before 26 January 1616-17 had issue: 1, Mabel Minshull. 2, Randall Minshull. The latter married . . . Boote and had numerous children, of whom a daughter, viz. Elizabeth Minshull, became the third wife of MILTON, and survived as his widow until 1727, when, on the 10 Oct. her Will was proved at Chester.

4. RICHARD Gouldsmithe of Nantwich, mercer, was buried there 26 January 1640-1. Probably he retired from business, as he is styled "Gentleman" in his Will, dated 31 August 1639. It shews that he disposed of his real estate in his lifetime by deed of 15 August, 15 Charles I.; but by his Will, he limits Bullock's Hayes in the Lordship of Stapeley* to the use of his son John Gouldsmithe, and one half of Gouldsmithe's Mores alias Heathpoole within the said Lordship of Stapeley, co. Chester, to the use of Margaret his wife† for life and widowhood, she to keep his daughter Anne untill she attain twenty-one years or marriage; said Anne to have £100. The other moiety of Gouldsmithe's Mores to the executors, until £150 have been levied for use of "John Gouldsmith and Margaret Gouldsmith my children; to said children John, Margaret and Anne, £150 between them, from sale of corn, cattle, etc.;" to my daughter Highfield £10; legacies to Elizabeth Brunte, Robert Parker, Thomas Burroughes of Nantwich and to my son Highfield. Residue to executors. Mentions also, deceased son Nicholas Gouldsmithe. Codicil, 21 January 1640-1. To son John Gouldsmith "all my term in one parcel of ground and a Lodge thereupon, in Stapeley, called Moyle's field." Signed "Richard Gouldsmyth." Proved, with inventory, at Chester, by the executors Robert Parker and Richard Gouldsmithe, 11 March 1641-2. Issue,—

I. Nicholas Gouldsmythe, died before 31 August 1639.

II. Richard Gouldsmyth.

III. JOHN Gouldsmyth, of whom presently.

I. Dorothe Gouldsmyth, married to Richard Highfield, at Nantwich, 5 March 1632-3.

II. Margaret Gouldsmyth.

III. Anne Gouldsmyth, Bapt. at Nantwich, 23 Feb. 1622-3.

* In Hanshall's 'History of Cheshire,' it is stated that in 1662, the joint Lords of the Manor of Stapeley were the Earl of Ardglass, Mr. MILTON, and Mr. Green. "The share of Green was purchased by MILTON, and afterwards was held by the family of Stubbs."

† Margaret, widow of Richard Gouldsmith, was buried at Wistaston 1 Feb. 1674-5, and the burial is registered both there and at Nantwich; but the date seems too late for the above Richard's widow, unless she was his second wife, and much younger than himself.

5. JOHN Gouldsmyth, baptized at Nantwich 23 April 1618. He is mentioned in the Woodroffe Pedigree, in Manning and Bray's 'History of Surrey,' as a "Mercer," probably by confusion with his father and grandfather, for he was Citizen and Goldsmith, of London, and is described as such in the Will of his brother-in-law, John Woodroffe, junior (whose executor he was), dated 10 June 1664, and proved in London 3 December 1664 (Bruce 140). He was apprenticed 18 July 1634, as son of Richard Gouldsmyth of Nantwich, co. Chester, mercer, to William Maddockes of London, goldsmith, for eight years to begin at next Feast of St. James day, and on 7 August 1642, he was, as apprentice to William Maddoxe, etc., presented, sworn, and made free by service, as recorded in the books of the Goldsmiths' Company. He was buried at Nantwich 26 April, 1684. His Will, as that of John Gouldsmyth of Nantwich, gentleman, is dated 25 March 1684. To wife Anne £200 and £40; legacies to grandchild Elizabeth Weston; niece Mrs. Anne Brereton of Bromhall, co. Chester, widow; niece Margaret, now wife of Mr. Thomas Minshull of Chester; cousin Elizabeth Edgeley, daughter of Mr. William Edgeley of Marley, co. Chester, gentleman, and Dorothy wife of said William Edgeley. To grandchild Judith Gouldsmyth "one Tortoise shell Cabinet with a Pendant Jewell in the same, that formerly were her grandmother's my loveing wife Judith Gouldsmyth deceased, mother of my sonne John Gouldsmyth." Legacies to poor persons. Testator refers to said son John's settlement of 17 and 18 November, 34 Charles II., assuring certain lands upon him "and upon Richard Powell, late of the Inner Temple Esqr.* deceased," and Chewing Radclyffe of the City of London, grocer, to the use of said son John and Jane his wife. Sole executor said loving son John Gouldsmyth, who proved the Will 20 May 1684, at Chester. It was proved there again, 10 Nov. 1702, by William Holbrook, legatee and administrator, with Will annexed, of the son and sole executor of said deceased. He married first Judith, 3rd dau. of Robert Woodroffe, Esq. of Poyle, Surrey. She died in 1658 (Admon. London, 1 Nov. 1658), leaving issue,—

I. JOHN Gouldsmyth, of whom presently.

He married secondly at Nantwich, 24 May 1666, Anne Smith of Nantwich, by Licence dated 18 May 1666,—bondsman, William Brereton of Bromhall. She was buried at Nantwich 13 August 1701. Her will is dated 23 March 1700-1. Legacies to son John Gouldsmyth, Esq. and his wife; to his daughter Jane, to his son Jonathan and his daughter Judith; to grandson West, if living; to grand-daughter West; to grand-daughter Elizabeth Holbrooke wife of William Holbrooke of Nantwich, gent., and to their children Anne, William, Elizabeth, and James; to grandson John Arden £20 "which my cozen Elizabeth Barker owes me;" to said son Gouldsmyth, the house wherein he now lives; legacies to Grammar School of Nantwich; to my cozen John Morrey; to cousin Anne Birch wife of John Birch, and others. Sole executrix, said grand-daughter Elizabeth Holbrooke. Proved by her at Chester, 17 Oct. 1701.

* Eldest brother of Mary Powell, MILTON's first wife. He was admitted to the Inner Temple in May 1638, as son and heir apparent of Richard Powell of Forest Hill, co. Oxon, and made his Will 29 Dec. 1693. Proved in London 3 Feb. 1695-6 (Bond 18).

6. JOHN Gouldsmyth,* baptized at St.^m Bartholomew's the Great, London, 18 August 1654; entered at Middle Temple 22 June 1672; buried at Nantwich 29 Sept. 1702. Admon. at Chester, to his widow (she declaring upon oath that he did not leave a Will), 8 and 14 Dec. 1702. He married first, 1682, Jane daughter of Hugh Radcliffe; she was buried at Nantwich, 9 Feb. 1686-7. Issue,—

- I. Judith Gouldsmith, died a child, 1684.
- II. Jane Gouldsmyth.

He married secondly, at Westminster Abbey, 26 Dec. 1691, Elizabeth† daughter of Jonathan Cope, Esq. of Ronton Abbey, co. Stafford. She was buried at Nantwich 24 May 1706. Will, dated 20 September 1705, names only her children Jonathan and Judith, and appoints her "brothers-in-law Robert Slaney Gent. and Gabriel Wetenhall Esq^r," executors, to whom she commits "the care and tuition" of her children. Proved at Chester by Gabriel Wetenhall 30 August 1706, and by Robert Slaney 26 Sept. 1706. Endorsed in a female hand, "Sister Goldsmith's Will." Issue,—

- I. Jonathan Gouldsmyth, b. 1674, M.A., M.D., F.R.S.
Died without issue 1732.‡
- I. Judith Gouldsmyth, b. 1696, at Nantwich. Married, 1712, Walter Stubbs, Esq. of Beckbury Hall, Salop. After her death, as a widow, in 1760, a Fine was passed upon Stapeley Manor (see Record Office, Cheshire Fines, 5 Geo. III., April 1765, No. 22). The property was sold, and the proceeds divided between her numerous children, in accordance with her Will.

T. E. SHARPE.

* Executor of Dr. Nathan Paget in 1678-9.

‡ He left a widow, Elizabeth née ffarington, who had first married Richard Atherton, Esq. of Atherton, Lancashire.

NAMES WHICH OCCUR IN HANLEY WILLIAM REGISTERS.

Those marked * are most common at an early date. The commonest name of all is Nash, a family which was numerous here at the commencement of the Registers, and so continued till about 1800. They were frequently churchwardens, and apparently of the rank of yeomen. The same may be said of the family of Bufton.

Bodnam; Bowyer; Botwoode, or Botwod; Brazier; Browne; Burraston; Beevan; Bysshoppe; Birche; Brook; Bowkett; Beaumont; Clyffe,* or Clifte; Coxe; Clarke; Crowther; Counley; Deikin, or Daykin; Dyer; Davies; Duppa; Eaton; Eliman, Elimant, or Eliment; Ecley; Foord, or Ford; Fysher, or Fisher*; Fidoe; Fayzie, Feisey, Feizeye, Phrysey, or Phaesie; Foxhall, or Foxall; Gayley,* or Gailey; Greaves; Greene;

* Buried 16 April, 1721.

Gardener; Gregg; Halle, or Haule*; Haycocks, or Heicoakes; Hyggins; Hughes; Hereford; Hinton; Hobbye; Holder; Heye; Hooper, or Whopper; Hammond; Holt; Jacson; Jones; Johnsons; Lewis; Lea; Lingen; Lines, or Loynes; Mund, or Maund*; Masone; Maulthill; Mallard; Morris; Nott; Osborne; Osland; Perkins*; Preece, Price, Pryse, or ap Reese; Pagge, or Page; Powell*; Pennell; Prichard; Russell; Ricketts; Smith; Sylcoxe; Stollard; Spilsbury; Starye; Stinton*; Sterry; Simmons; Scandrett; Tayler, or Tailor; Trevice; Tunstall; Warroll; Woolfe; Williams; Walker; Wier; White; Winwood; Weaver; Wainwright.

In most years the entries are signed at the end by the Curate. The following is a list of the various ministers, as near as can be made out from the Registers:—

Thomas Wotton,	Curate 1592—1601.

Common-Plea Roll, Mich'mas, 3 and 4 Eliz., part 3, (last part) Memb. 17 dorse, (at the end) or Memb. 1817, counting all the membranes from the beginning of the Roll, to Memb. 1819.

In October 1561 this RYCHARD TYNDALL purchased of the same Lord Wentworth in fee simple the Farm of MELKSHAM'S Court with the premises and appurtenances, as is shewn by the following Abstract of a Deed enrolled in the Treasury of the COURT OF COMMON PLEAS in MICHAELMAS TERM 3 AND 4 ELIZ. (1561). The enrolment of the Deed is prefaced with the following memorandum in Latin :—" Thomas Wentworth Miles, dominus Wentworth de Nettleded in comitatu Suffolciæ venit hic in Curiâ duodecimo die NOVEMBRIS isto eidem termino (3 Eliz. 1561) et cognovit hec duo Scripta subsequencia fore facta sua, et petiit illa irrotulari; et PRIMUM SCRIPTUM sequitur in hec verba." N.B. Then follows a complete record of the Indenture of Bargain and Sale from Lord Wentworth to John Trotman of Cam, Senior,

The RECOVERY suffered by the said Lord Wentworth to the said RICHARD TYNDALL of the Lands and Tenements in the above mentioned Fine is recorded on the RECOVERIES ROLL in Common Pleas, MICH'MAS 3 AND 4 ELIZ. MEMB. 506.

By the Inquisition on the death of THOMAS TYNDALL, THE GRANDSON, in 1636 (see below), this property was found to consist of one Capital messuage, or SCITE of the FARM OF MILKESHAM with its appurts. in Stinchcombe, 2 barns 2 dovecotes 1 garden 1 orchard 80 acres of arable land, 68 acres of meadow and pasture 10 acres of wood and 10 acres of furze and heath held of GEORGE LORD BERKELEY, AS OF HIS MANOR OF BERKELEY IN Socage by fealty, and the RENT OF A PENNY, OR ONE PAIR OF GLOVES OF THE PRICE OF ONE PENNY, yearly, and suit of Court for all Services; and worth clearly per annum—over all deductions—20s.

322 NOTES RELATING TO THE FAMILY OF TYNDALE.

*Abstract of Tyndale Title Deeds made in 1762, now in the possession of B. W. G.
(See page 42.)*

In 10 Eliz. 1568, this RICHARD TYNDALL barred his Estate-tail in Hunt's Court created by his mother's Settlement (see page 227)—converting it into an estate in fee simple by the usual process of suffering a Recovery of the premises with double voucher. For this purpose, by Deed of Feoffment indented with Livery, dated 1 July 10 Eliz. (1568) he, as “RICHARD TYNDALE STINCHCOMBE YEOMAN” gave and granted to John Tratman Junior and Thomas Lynke their heirs and assigns—(in order to make them tenants to the præcipe)—“All that Messuage or Tenement with the appurts. called, HUNT'S COURT, and one dovehouse one orchard one garden forty acres of arable land lying and being in the fields called TETCUM, WILLESLEY, DEANE and THE SLADE ten acres of meadow called THE HENOCKS, THE MORE and THE DEANE, one pasture called the HOME-CLOSE Two Closes of pasture called THE CROFT, six acres of wood lying in THE SLADE in NIBLEY AND WOOTTON in the County of Gloucester, and the Rents and Services issuing out of one tenement now or of late in the tenure and occupation of one John Gibbons, and all and singular other land houses edifices underwoods and services and all his hereditaments in the county of Gloucester WHICH ALICE, MOTHER OF THE SAID RICHARD TYNDALE gave to EDWARD TYNDALE AND JOHN HARVIE (see page 227) and their heirs to the use of HERSELF for the term of her life and after to the use of the said RICHARD TYNDALE and the HEIRS OF HIS BODY lawfully begotten, To Hold to the said JOHN TRATMAN and THOMAS LYNKE and their heirs to be holden of the Chief Lords of the fee &c.

Original Deed in possession of J. W. W. Tyndale, Esq. 1878.

Accordingly, by Indenture tripartite dated the last day of August 10 Eliz. (1568) between “THOMAS TYNDALE of ESTWOOD in the County of Gloucester Esq. and LAWRENCE BEYNARD of PUBLEY in the said county GENTLEMAN, on the one part” (as demandants) “and JOHN TRATMAN THE YOUNGER of UPTHROP in the said county, CLOTHIER, and THOMAS LYNKE of PEDINGTON in the said county YEOMAN of the second part” (as tenants to the præcipe) “and RICHARD TYNDALE OF STINCHCOMBE in the said county YEOMAN on the third part” (as vouchee)—a Deed to lead the uses of a Recovery therein covenanted to be suffered of the premises last before mentioned was effected, Whereby all the parties agree that the Recovery so to be had shall be to the ONLY USE of the said RICHARD TYNDALE his heirs and assigns for ever. It was executed in three parts,—ONE OF WHICH—executed by Thomas Tyndale, Lawrence Beynard, John Tratman and Thomas Lynke—is in the POSSESSION of JOHN WILLIAM WARRE TYNDALE ESQ., OF PERRIDGE HOUSE, SHEPTON-MALLET, Somersetshire, J.P., the DIRECT DESCENDANT and PRESENT REPRESENTATIVE of this THOMAS TYNDALE OF EASTWOOD PARK, who was SON AND HEIR OF EDWARD TYNDALE one of ALICE TYNDALE's feoffees to uses in the Deed of 33 H. VIII., above recited in page 227.

The consequent WRIT OF ENTRY "SUR DISSEISIN EN LE POST," sued forth by the "Demandants" against the "Tenants to the Præcipe," is recorded in the Court of Common Pleas, viz., on the Recovery Roll, of EASTER 11 ELIZ. (1569) membrane 1335; and in HILARY 12 ELIZ. (1569-70) a RECOVERY was accordingly suffered of 2 messuages, 2 cottages, 3 gardens, 3 orchards, sixty acres of land, thirty acres of meadow, thirty acres of pasture, eight acres of wood, and ten acres of furze and heath, with the appurts. in NIBLEY AND WOOTTON.

Probably for the purpose of extinguishing his DAUGHTER ANNE'S ESTATE FOR LIFE IN MELKSHAM'S COURT, created by the LEASE granted by Lord Wentworth to her father and mother and herself for THEIR THREE LIVES (which Lease is referred to in the Deed of Sale in Fee-simple, see above). She, with HER HUSBAND, THOMAS TROTMAN, soon after their marriage, levied a Fine of MELKSHAM'S COURT with its appurts., of which the following is a copy taken from the ORIGINAL FOOT OF THE FINE :—

Feet of Fines Trinitas, 13 Eliz. No. 2, in P. R. O.

Gloucr. Hæc est finalis concordia facta etc., in Crastino Sanctæ Trinitatis anno regni etc., Eliz. 13^{mo} etc. Inter RICARDUM TYNDALL et ELIZABETHAM uxorem ejus Querentes et THOMAM TROTMAN et AGNETEM (Annam) UXOREM EJUS Deforciatores de 1 messuagio, 2 columbariis, 2 gardinis, 1 pomario, ducentis acris terræ, quadraginta acris prati, sexaginta acris pasturæ, novem acris bosci, centum acris jampnorum et bruere cum pertinentiis in STYNCHCOMBE, CAME et NIBLEY unde etc. Et pro hac recognitione etc., iidem RICARDUS ET ELIZABETHA dederunt prædictis Thomæ et Agneti octoginta libras sterlingorum.

Original Will in the Registry of the Diocesan Court of Gloucester, Volume xvij. and now in the District Court of Probate at Gloucester.

This RICHARD TYNDALL'S LAST WILL is dated 17 Aug. 1577, and it was proved in the Diocesan Court of Gloucester 19 October following. He therein calls himself "RICHARD TYNDALL OF STYNCHCOMBE," and desires that his body be buried in the chancel. He appoints ELIZABETH HIS WIFE and RICHARD HIS SON to be EXECUTORS and ROGER HOLESTER and JOHN PURNELL (his son-in-law) OVERSEERS, to each of whom he gives 6s. 8d. He bequeaths to ELIZABETH HIS WIFE one half of the FARM CALLED "MYLCHANSE COURT" for the TERM OF HER LIFE with reversion to his son RICHARD to whom he bequeaths the other half. He provides MAINTENANCE at MELKSHAM'S COURT for his brother JOHN TYNDALL; and after giving specific legacies of £5 each to USSELY TROTMAN, MARYAN TROTMAN, MARGERY PURNELL, and MARY PURNELL (FOUR OF HIS GRANDCHILDREN), and a heifer to MORYS MALLET (HIS GRANDSON), he leaves the RESIDUE of his Goods moveable and unmoveable to ELIZABETH HIS WIFE and RICHARD HIS SON. The witnesses to his signature were Thomas Nelme, Thomas Trotman, John Purnell (THE TWO LATTER WERE PROBABLY HIS SONS-IN-LAW), and THOMAS TYNDALL. (The last was PROBABLY HIS BROTHER, see page 161).

ELIZABETH his wife survived till 1609. In her WILL, which is dated 24 January 1608[-9] and was proved at Gloucester 1 April 1609 (vol. xxxii.), she styles herself "ELIZABETH TYNDALE of STINCHCOMBE, WIDOW." She bequeaths to "JOHN PURNELL AND MY DAUGHTER MAUDE PURNELL all my Linnen and my apparel;" to their four sons, Thomas, William, John, and Richard Purnell 20s. each, and to their daughter ISRAELL PURNELL 40s.; to Maurice, Anthonie, Anne, and Ursula Mallett children "of William Mallett" 20s. each; to "WILLIAM TYNDALE SON OF RICHARD TYNDALE 40s.;" all the foregoing legacies to be paid on the days of their respective marriages. (The latter ten legatees were her grandchildren; William Tyndale—the last—was third son of her only son Richard.) To the poor of the parishes of Dursley and Stinchcombe, to each parish 13s. 4d.; to the poor of North Nibley 10s.; to "my godson Thomas Trottmann son of William Trottmann 10s.;" to "my goddaughter Elizabeth Browninge daughter unto Richard Browninge 10s. All the Rest of my Goods moveable and unmoveable UNTO MY SON RICHARD TYNDALE whom I make my whole and sole executor." She appoints JOHN PURNELL of NIBLEY (her son-in-law) and JOHN HICKS of "SOWTLINGE," (Query, PIERS COURT IN STINCHCOMBE?) Overseers of her Will, and gives to each of them 5s. The witnesses to her Will were HENRY TYNDALL, THOMAS TYNDALE and ARTHUR TYNDALE. (The two latter were her GRANDSONS. I have not discovered the relationship of HENRY TYNDALL, but find that he dwelt in Stinchcombe, where he married SYBEL NELME 27 February 1590-1. He was buried at Stinchcombe 20 October 1636. His son John Tyndall was baptized there 24 February 1593-4.)

ANNE TYNDALL: in the LEASE of the farm of MELKSHAM COURT for three lives granted, at some period between 1551 and 1561, by Thomas 2nd Lord Wentworth to her father, she is named therein as one of the three (see preceding page).

She was married at CAM 13 April 1570 to THOMAS TROTMAN OF STINCHCOMBE, and had issue. Soon after her marriage she with her husband (see preceding page) entered into a FINE with her father and mother for the purpose of extinguishing her life estate in Melksham's Court created by the Lease above referred to.

MAUD TYNDALL, married JOHN PURNELL OF NIBLEY and had issue. She was living at the date of her mother's will in 1609.

GOULD AND COLLIER.—Sir Nathaniel Gould, Knighted 14 April, 1721, Director of Bank of England, M.P. for Shoreham, married Frances, daughter of Sir John Hartopp, 3rd Bart., by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Charles Fleetwood. Sir Nathaniel Gould had issue two daughters—1. Mary, who married Sir Francis St. John of Longthorpe, co. Northants, Bart., and had issue a daughter Mary, who married Sir John Bernard of Brampton, co. Hunts, and had issue. 2. Elizabeth, who married Thomas Cooke of Stoke Newington, Director of Bank of England, J.P. for co. Middlesex, and had issue two daughters, Frances and Margaret, who died unmarried. Lady Gould died 15 Nov. 1711, and was buried at Stoke Newington. Sir Nathaniel Gould died 21 July, 1728. Will proved 23 July, 1728, P.C.C. (Browne, 208.)

Sir Nathaniel Gould's brother, John Gould of Hackney, Citizen and Draper of London. Will proved 23 August, 1736, P.C.C. (Derby, 176), had property at Headcorn, co. Kent, and Bovingdon, co. Herts; married Rachel. Will proved 19 Oct. 1737, P.C.C. (Wake, 224), and had issue—1. John Gould who married and had issue John and Nathaniel. 2. Alexander Gould of Hackney. Will proved 23 July, 1736, P.C.C. (Derby, 153). 3. Nathaniel Gould of St. Helen's, Bishopsgate, who married Jane, daughter of His will proved 7 April, 1738, P.C.C. (Brodrepp, 90). His widow remarried Richard Madan. 1. Frances, marr. Sir Henry Cairnes of co. Monaghan, 2nd Bart. (See Burke's 'Extinct Baronetage.') 2. Elizabeth, married Albert Nesbitt, and had a daughter Rachel. 3. Sarah. 4. Mary.

Sir Nathaniel Gould had a sister Elizabeth, who married Sir Alexander Cairnes of co. Monaghan, 1st Bart., and had an only child Mary, married, firstly Cadwallader, 7th Lord Blayney, who died 19 March, 1732; secondly Colonel Charles Murray.

SIR GEORGE COLLIER, Vice-Admiral of the Blue, Knighted 1775, and died 6 April, 1795, leaving issue. Sir George Collier had an uncle Ebenezer Collier, one of the six Clerks in Chancery, and another relation Jabez Collier, and a Mr. Lloyd, all living in 1717.

I ask for the ancestry of Sir Nathaniel Gould and Sir George Collier, and for particulars of their descendants lineally and collaterally, with all intermarriages and dates.

BROWNE OF COWDRAY IN SUSSEX.—Sir Anthony Browne of Cowdray in the county of Sussex, K.G., Master of the Horse to King Henry the Eighth, by his will, dated April the 22nd, 1547, and proved three years later, mentions his six younger sons, William, Henry the elder, Francis, Thomas, George, and Henry the younger, to each of whom, so that they should not be left “altogether destitute of lyvinge and therebi be driven to any extremyte,” he bequeathed an annuity of forty marcs. Of these younger sons, William married a coheirss of Sir Hugh Hastings, and became ancestor of the Brownes of Elsing in Norfolk. Is anything known of the others? The will of their eldest brother, Anthony, first Viscount Montague, dated July the 19th, 1592, and proved the year following, shews that Henry the elder, Francis, and Henry the younger were then living; and from other sources it appears that Francis had married a daughter of Sir William Goring of Burton in Sussex. Any information relative to these younger sons or their descendants will be gladly received.

WOLSELEY.—The following entries record the births of the sons of Thomas Wolseley, Esq., the eldest son of Erasmus Wolseley, Esq., of the Staffordshire family of that name, now represented by Sir Charles Wolseley, Bart. Thomas Wolseley was twice married, first to Grace, daughter of Sir Thomas Gresley, by whom he had no issue, and secondly to Anne, daughter of Humphry Moseley, Esq., by whom he had these six sons, and three daughters, Margaret, Mary, and Joan. The entries are made on the last leaf of a copy of St. Augustine's work, “De Civitate Dei,” Fol. Paris, 1586, in the possession of John Batten, Esq., Aldon, Yeovil.

Notices of Books.

RECORDS OF THE ENGLISH PROVINCE OF THE SOCIETY OF JESUS.
By HENRY FOLEY, S.J. Vol. III. London: Burns and Oates.
1878, 8vo.

The volume before us contains the 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th Series, of Mr. Foley’s valuable history of the labourings and sufferings of eminent Jesuits. The 8th series includes the lives of Thomas Pounce, George Gilbert, and Thomas Darbyshire, which, it should be remembered, were first published under the title CONFLICTS, but are now, with much additional matter, incorporated in this work.

Series 5 is devoted to the history of the “Residence of St. John the Evangelist, with the Mission of Durham;” it included the counties of Durham and Northumberland. The memoirs of Richard Holtby, Ralph Emerson, and Ralph Corby with an account of the Corby family, and the notice of Stella Hall, are among the most interesting matters in this series.

Series 6 gives an account of the College of St. Michael the Archangel, or the Yorkshire district. “After London,” says Mr. Foley, “York was more deeply dyed in the blood of the English Martyrs than any city in England; no fewer than thirty-nine being executed there for the faith between the years 1582 and 1589.” Accepting this assertion we are somewhat disappointed that a larger portion of the book has not been devoted to the history of Yorkshire Catholics. Thomas Oglethorpe and Thomas Coniers were remarkable among them. The Babthorpes of Babthorpe and Osgodby, of whom a memoir and pedigree is given, furnished no less than five members to the English Province of the Society of Jesus, besides one Benedictine Father, and eight or more nuns to various orders. The Constables of Everingham were another ancient house which in later years gave several members to the English Province. John Constable, the first who is mentioned, died a victim to his faith in York Castle, in the year 1581. The extracts from Father Grene’s MS., Book “F,” which are added to this series, and a further portion of it in the Addenda, which was not known to the Editor when the first portion went to press, appears to be a very important document, and gives many interesting particulars of value to the genealogist. It is to be regretted that no information is given as to the place where this MS. is now deposited. If the MS. be, as it appears to be, a genuine one, we can see no reason for withholding its present locality.

The College of St. Thomas of Canterbury or the Hampshire District, which included the Counties of Sussex, Wilts, Hants, and Dorset, is the title of the 7th series of this work. It was formed in 1633 by Father Richard Blount. Andrew White, the Apostle of Maryland and founder of the American Missions, which have developed into the present Catholic Church of the United States, was connected with this district. A mission to Maryland was commenced by him in 1633-4, and was supported and served by members of the English Province till 1773. A good account of him is given, and of his labours. He died in England in 1656, at the age of 79. According to a table given by Mr. Foley from 'Sadlier's Catholic Directory,' the number of Catholics in the United States has decreased in number during the last three years upwards of three hundred and ten thousand. The account of the American mission closes with a short memoir of Dr. Carroll, first Archbishop of Baltimore. The reports from the College of St. Thomas of Canterbury are said to be very scanty, owing to the anti-Catholic and persecuting spirit of the times. Persecution is we think rather over-rated by the writer of these volumes; the troubles into which these unfortunate Catholics fell, often appear to have been the result of a want of ordinary discretion. Here is an example which cannot well be called a case of persecution. "At the Beaminster quarter sessions, 1625, one John Barton, for using manie contemptuous wordes against the King's proclamation concerning Jesuits and recusants, and selling ale without a license," the italics are ours, "is committed to the House of Correction until he hath receaved his punishment by whipping . . . and till he shall pay the penalties according to the statute." Notices of Chideock, Dorset, and the fathers connected with it; John Cornelius, executed at Dorchester in 1594, whose head after death was said to have been surrounded with rays of light—a similar story it will be remembered was told of Bishop Fisher's; pedigrees of Dayrell and Hawkins, with accounts of some of them; an account of the Caryll family; and a memoir of the Rev. Henry Chaderdon, are among the many other interesting matters which are included in this series.

The Addenda form a very useful supplement to the volumes already issued, and which we have noticed before (Vol. I. 295, II. 136). Though we cannot find space to give much notice of their contents, the following amusing anecdote is too good to pass by. Geoffrey, son of Sir Geoffrey Pole, and grandson of the Countess of Salisbury executed by Henry VIII., "a brave and courageous gentleman" (in these days we should call him a "muscular Christian"), "being strong in hand," used to beat the pursuivants and catchpoles sent in search of him so handsomely that they stood in great fear of him. "Once a pursuivant being sent down to serve a writ upon him for his conscience [being a recusant] it chanced that the pursuivant [who did not know him by sight], met him upon the road; so, riding on together, the fellow began to speak about Mr. Geoffrey Pole, saying thus: 'He's a shrod (sic) man of his hands, for he did beat a brother of mine; but I have something here, I warrant, that will cool his courage;' and then he told how he brought a writ for him. The gentleman heard all and said nothing who he was, but entertained the pursuivant with talk, and rode on together with him till he had him in a fit place, and then said he unto him: 'Here is Geoffrey Pole, what hast thou to say to him?' The fellow pulled out his writ, and said (as the manner is): 'The Queen greets you' (for it was in Elizabeth's reign). He, hearing this, made no more ado, but drew out his sword, and said: 'Look here fellow, I give thee thy choice—either eat up this presently, or else eat my sword, for one of the two thou shalt do ere we depart hence!' The poor knave began to quake for fear . . . and did eat up the writ for fear, rather than he would be killed. So became the writ of no effect."

Mr. Foley is doing a good and useful work, and we trust ere long to be able to report that his series of Records is completed.

GENEALOGICAL MEMOIRS OF THE SCOTTISH HOUSE OF CHRISTIE. By the Rev. CHARLES ROGERS, LL.D. London: printed for the Royal Historical Society, 1878.

Dr. Rogers claims for Scotch and Manx Christies a Danish origin, and considers the name to have been derived from the baptismal Christian or Christigern. Mr. Lower, however, and we think with quite as much reason, looks upon it as a diminutive of Christopher.

Branches were settled in Dunfermline and Kinglassie. Of a second son of the latter house it is recorded that being a Captain in the Army he was presented with a lottery ticket by his Colonel, the Earl of Berkeley, and having been fortunate enough to draw a £10,000 prize, purchased with it the estate of Baberton, co. Edinburgh. Of this family was Sir Archibald Christie, who died Governor of Stirling Castle, in 1847. He registered arms in the Lyon office in 1818 as heir male and representative of the ancient family of Christie of Stentoun. From James Christie, Provost of Stirling 1709, is descended a numerous family of this name, several of whom have been distinguished military officers. From Alexander Christie of Aberdeen, a quaker, who settled at Moyallan, co. Down, Ireland, and died there in 1722, descends Samuel Christie-Miller, some time M.P. for Newcastle, who received a grant of arms in 1868 (Lyon Reg. vol. viii. p. 6). Thomas Craig Christie of Bedlay, a descendant of John Christie, who was one of the founders of the Paisley Union Bank in 1788, appears to be the only other representative of a Christie family entitled to coat armour.

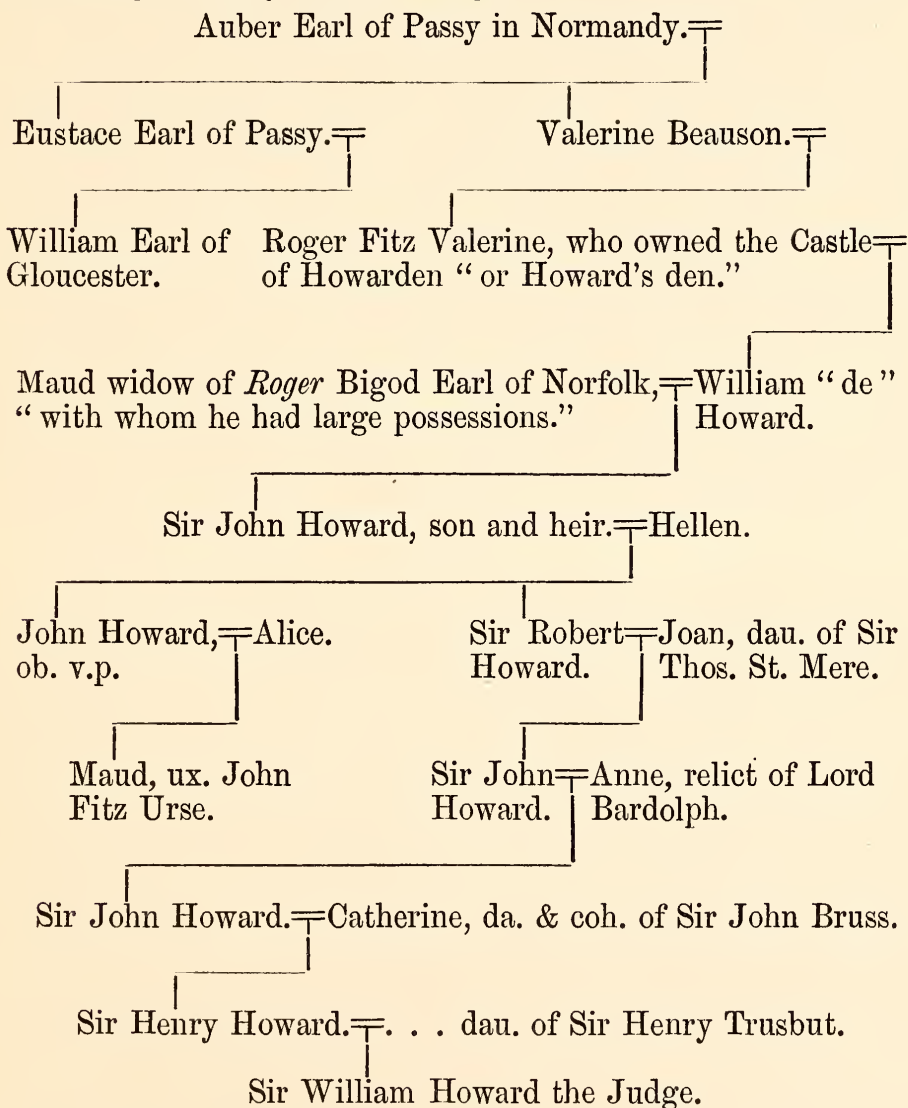

Dr. Rogers has succeeded in getting together a good deal of valuable information relative to the Scotch Christies, and has given a capital index to his book. It is quite the best of the numerous genealogies he has published, and we hope it may be by no means the last.

DOUBTFUL NORFOLK PEDIGREES.

No. I. HOWARD.

DUGDALE, in his 'Baronage,' admits that "after much fruitless search" he is unable to ascend higher with the pedigree of the Dukes of Norfolk than the celebrated Judge, Sir William Howard, the founder of the fortunes of the family.

Others have not been as scrupulous or as honest;* Harvey (Clarencieux), Glover (Somerset), Philpot, Seager, and others† manufacturing—for I can hardly doubt that is the correct term—the following ancestry for the Judge:—

All this is adopted by Collins in his 'Peerage,' where he quotes the Heralds just referred to, but most subsequent writers (even Burke) have abandoned it.

* Hereward the Wake was one of those to whom their ancestry was traced!

† Quoted by Collins in his Peerage, London, 1756, i. p. 174.

With the earlier part of the myth one need not trouble oneself, but beginning with the theory that the name was derived from "Howarden," it certainly seems strange that a noble whose name was not Howard, but Fitz Valerine, should call his castle "Howard's den." His son, too, is said to have called himself "de Howard," not "de Howarden," and the "de" is alleged to have been at once dropped by his descendants.

This Wm. "de" Howard is stated to have married Maud, widow of Roger Bigod, Earl of Norfolk, "with whom he had large possessions in Norfolk and Suffolk."

Now the only Maud Bigod, Countess of Norfolk, was, as every genealogist knows, Maud, the wife of Hugh Bigod the third earl, and eldest daughter of Wm. Mareschal Earl of Pembroke, and she, after the death of her first husband Hugh Bigod married secondly William de Warren Earl of Surrey, and thirdly Walter de Dunstanville. She was living in 1245. This glaring error would in itself be sufficient to demonstrate the absurdity of the whole affair, but if anything further is wanted I will only point out that though this lady was still living in 1245, her alleged great great great great grandson, the judge, appears on the scene a grown man and on the bench in 1293,* which would presuppose an unequalled rapidity of procreation in the Howard family. After this it is useless to point out that the alleged matches with St. Mere, Fitz Urse, "Lord" Bardolph, Brus, and Trusbut are conspicuous by their absence from the pedigrees of such families.

Henry Howard of Corby, in his 'Memorials,' is more moderate, dropping the de Wigenhall descent, and making William Howard, the judge, to be son of John Howard, who lived 45 Hen. III., by Lucy Germund his wife; grandson of Robert Howard of Terrington and Wiggenhall, in Norfolk, who lived in 12 Hen. III., and stating "they were what we should call private gentlemen of small estate, probably of Saxon origin, living at home, intermarrying with their neighbours, and witnessing each others' deeds of conveyance and contracts."

Even this modest claim however must, I fear, disappear if we examine the evidence on which it seems to rest.

The first to start the theory that the Judge was the son of John de Wigenhale alias Howard,† by Lucia dau. of John

* Blomefield states he was knighted in 1278, and he was certainly living at East Winch in 1285.

† And that this John's father was named de Clenchwarton (!) and his grand father Fitz Jeffrey (!!). The calm assumption with which the early part of the pedigree is strung together from a handful of old charters of no apparent connection one with another is amusing. I cannot believe it to be Blomefield's own work, and expect it was a "communicated" paragraph from some courteous herald, duly mindful of the favours of the then great house.

Germund, was Blomefield,* who treats at length on the subject at p. 189 of the ninth volume of his 'History of Norfolk.' He states that this John de Wigenhale "is said to have assumed the surname of Howard most likely from some office, trust of honour, or dignity committed to him. How, in Saxon, signifies a hill or a mound, and so it may signify from the ward or care that he had of some particular fortification or castle on a hill, or care, or over the sea banks, etc.; . . . and that John, son of Wm. de Wigenhale, assumed that name appears from some old deeds."

Unluckily, however, he does not add by what old deeds, and does not give the ipsissima verba of them, which would have settled once for all the vexed question of the Howard descent.

In another place however (vol. v. p. 237), quoting from the pedigree of the family in Caius Coll., Camb., he states that the Judge "had a brother Thomas who was sometimes called Thomas de Wigenhale and sometimes Thomas Howard of Wigenhale whose son Andrew also did (sic) the same for in a deed of exchange made between him and this William, he is called Andrew son of Thomas Howard, in the deed which hath on its seal an eagle volant with a bird in its claws, the circumscription being 'Sigillum Andree de Wigenhale,' " etc. etc.

This seems at first sight to bear out Blomefield's view; but the deed itself, which he quotes in a note, speaks of William Howard de Wigenhale and Andrew son of Thomas Howard, so the omission, possibly for want of space, of the name from the seal is very far from conclusive.

The only other evidence tendered by Blomefield to identify the Judge with the de Wigenhale family is that by a deed sans date John de Norwold, Abbot of Bury, conveyed land abutting on Fitton's Green in Wigenhale, in part, and in other part on land of William Howard.

This of course proves no more than that William Howard held land at Wigenhall; but as about the time of John de Norwold's abbacy, William Howard, the judge, had married Alice, dau. of Sir Edmund Fitton of Wiggenhall St. German's, and had also been buying various small parcels of land in Wigenhale and Tilney, as is set out in Blomefield's 'Norfolk,' vol. ix. p. 190,† I contend it is most likely that the Judge's first connection with Wigenhale was through his wife.

As a matter of fact we do know that before he actually resided at Wigenhale he was long at East Winch, near Lynn, having lived there, as Blomefield himself points out, from the 13th to the

* Or Parkin. He differs from the Hon. Henry Howard in making this John son of William de Wigenhale—but the point is immaterial.

† And vide Feet of Fines for Norfolk, Ed. I., Nos. 611, 635, 654, 766, 769, 802, 957, and 1092.

34th Edw. I., during which time he is said to have acted as Standing Counsel to the Corporation of Lynn, and to have received various presents from it from time to time.*

East Winch, indeed, which he bought in 1298 (26 Edw. I.), seems to have been the only manor of which he became possessed in his own right.

There is no inquisition post mortem existing of the Judge, and that on his son refers to the manor of Wigenhale, held of the Lord Bardolph, which no doubt was that acquired through the Judge's marriage with Alice Fitton, who held the manor from the Bardolphs.

No stronger proof could indeed be offered that the Howards were not identical with the de Wigenhales, than that none of the latter's possessions can be traced to them. The evidence that Blomefield deduced from the "old deeds" must have been of the weakest, or his memory very bad, for after having surmised the Judge to have been son of John de Wigenhale alias Howard, he in another place (vol. ix. p. 86) guesses (with much greater probability) that he was the "William son of Andrew Howard," who bought land in Tirrington in the 27 Edw. I. Shortly before this (in 20 Ed. I.) William Howard by Andrew Howard his attorney purchased land in Tyrington, Walpole, and Tylney of John de Hoyland and Sybilla his wife (F. of Fines, Norf., Ed. I., No. 611),—a fact which seems to have escaped the notice of Blomefield.

So much for what I believe to be a suggestio falsi†—the alleged

* In the Tallage Rolls of Lynn for 25, 26 and 27 Ed. I. occurs the name of William Heyward, who pays in the district of Richd. de Dockynge. The Account Rolls quoted by Blomefield are now unhappily lost.

† A very curious feature of the case which is worth relating, though it bears but indirectly on the point at issue, is as follows: In the Abbrevatio Placitorum printed from Agard's MS. compilation, the Judge is twice (pp. 259 and 292) referred to as "de Howard" and "de Hauward."

This struck me as being so curious that I determined to look up the original documents, which I did with the following results:—

1. The roll quoted at p. 259 (Mich^s 34-35 Ed. I.), which is now known as Coram Rege Roll Ed. I., case 16, N^o 187, does not, as alleged by the printed vol., refer at membrane to William de Howard. Wherever his name occurs on the skin in question (and elsewhere in the roll) it appears as William Howard. On the first occurrence of the name, however, a piece of parchment has been cut out between the 'William' and the 'Howard'—Can it be that the roll as engrossed had William le Howard? Agard in his Calendar has quietly written the name as "Willis de Howard*i*."

2. The roll quoted at p. 292 (Trin. 23 Ed. I.), which is now known as Coram Rege Roll Ed. I., case 16, N^o 146, does not, as alleged by the printed vol., refer at mem. 12 to William de Hauward. His name first occurs as 'William Haward,' and secondly as 'William Hauward.' In the latter instance the name was originally written 'Hayward,' but the tail of the 'y' has been partially cut out—whether by the scribe or not I cannot say.

It is most singular that in both the cases in which the MS. Calendar and printed vol. prefix the Norman-sounding 'de' to the Judge's name, the original record should not only flatly contradict it, but bear on its face the mark of an erasure or mutilation.

descent from the de Wigenhales. We may now turn to what seems to me a suppressio veri on the part of the compilers of the generally received pedigree.

By no writer on the subject are we told that the surname was ever spelt otherwise than 'Howard.' On consulting the original records, however, I find that the Judge* and his descendants really spelt their name 'Haward' for many years.

The following instances will perhaps suffice :—

Coram Rege Roll 23 Ed. 1—William Haward (the Judge).

His name does not occur as Howard among the Parliamentary writs till 1 Ed. II.,‡ and then it reverts to Haward twice in the same year (pp. 179 and 180).

There is moreover an Inquisition ad quod damnum extant, dated 29 Ed. I., for the Abbot and Convent of Dereham, in which he is described as "Wilhelmus Haward alias Howard."§

Nor did his descendants speedily abandon the spelling. In 8 Ed. II. John 'Howard,' to whom, we are told by the Peerages, the custody of the Castle and Honour of Clare was committed, is described on the entries relating thereto on the Originalia Rolls of 8 Ed. II. (mem. 15—vide Abb. Plac. 1, p. 215), and of 10 Ed. II (mem. 10 and 17), as John 'Haward,' and again by the same spelling on the Originalia Rolls of 13 Ed. II. (mem. 2)|| and 15 Ed. II. (mem. 6).

As late as the 8th Ed. III., Sir John Howard and his son John, the Admiral, are described in the Parliamentary Summonses as 'John Haward senior,' and 'John Haward junior of Norfolk.' The engraving of the inscription at Long Melford to the Judge, which is given in Henry Howard's Memorials, spells the name "Howard," but Collins in his Peerage quotes it as Haward.

Having thus shewn that the Judge and his descendants for many years were more frequently called Haward than Howard, and that the Judge himself was in one case styled 'Haward alias Howard,'—which identifies the two surnames, I now propose to take the case still further, and prove that about a century before the Judge's father is supposed to have abandoned his patronymic in its favour, Howard was an existing personal name in Norfolk.

I have recently found two instances of its occurrence in the early Feet of Fines for Norfolk I am editing for the Norfolk and Norwich Archæological Society, viz., Fine 7 Ric. I. No. 3, whereby Wm. son of Helye conveys land to Ralph de Lenham, property in Terning (Thurning), part of which is said to abut "versus occidentem ante portam Howard," and Fine 4 John, No. 200, whereby Ranulph, the son of Howard, conveys 9a. in Saxlingham to Emma de Saxlingham. Another instance of the existence of a man named Howard in Norfolk anterior to the Judge, and one which I think has also hitherto escaped attention, is to be found in the Hundred Rolls (taken by virtue of a Commission dated 2 Ed. I), where a William Howard occurs apparently as a resident who had bribed a bailiff at Happisburgh in Happening Hundred, which is quite the other side of the county.

A further argument against the alleged assumption of the name by the Judge's father is, that there were existing contemporaneously with, or soon after, the Judge many persons of the name of Howard who were scattered all over the county, and who could not all have been descended from his father.

Take for example the following:—

1. John Howard of Walton, who in 2 Ed. II. gave a receipt to Thomas de Birstone, and bore six martlets, 3, 2, and 1.*
2. Peter, Simon, and John Howard, whose names occur on mem. 15 of the Gaol Delivery Roll for Norfolk, 6 Ed. II. m. $\frac{49}{1}$.
3. Richard Howard of Flegg Hundred—Subs. Roll Norf. 1 Ed. III.
4. Alice Howard of Flegg Hundred—Subs. Roll Norf. 1 Ed. III.
5. Lawrence Howard of Shipden—Subs. Roll Norf. 1 Ed. III.
6. Peter Howard of Watlington do.
7. Robert Howard of Knapton do.
8. John Howard of Alington—Sub. Roll Norf. 6 Ed. III.†
9. Hugh Howard of Walsingham do.

* Dashwood's Ancient Seals at Stow Bardolph, plate 6, p. 4.

† Both these Subsidy Rolls ($\frac{145}{7}$ and $\frac{145}{9}$) contain numerous instances of the names of Heyward, le Heyward, le Heiward, Hereward, Erward, Eyward, Heiward, Iryward, etc. etc.

The balance of evidence seems therefore to be that the Howards sprang from an able man of Saxon origin named Haward,* who married well, a precedent closely followed by most of his descendants.

* If I were allowed a conjecture as to his descent, it would be that his name may be identical with that of Hereward. We know the Judge was at an early period of his life standing Counsel to the Corporation of Lynn, and high in favour with it; and not long before I find that a William Hereward, who may have been his father, was a merchant of Lynn, and apparently a wealthy one.—Vide Litt. Claus. 5 Hen. III., m. 6, and 8 Hen. III., m. 1. In the Subsidy Roll for 1 Ed. III. (before quoted), a William Heyward is rated in Burnham Westgate, and a William Hereward in the adjoining village of Burnham Thorp. If it could be proved these two were identical, it would go far to help my guess. On the other hand, "Hayward" is defined by Halliwell (Dict. Arch. and Prov. Words, p. 440) as being "originally a person who guarded the corn and farmyard in the night time, and gave warning by a horn in case of alarm from robbers. The term was afterwards applied to a person who looked after the cattle, and prevented them from breaking down the fences; and the warden of a common is still so called in some parts of the county."

M.A. Lower (N. and Q., 3rd ser. xi., p. 84) thinks that the name of Howard has nothing to do with Hogward or Hayward, and says the name Hovard is well known in Normandy. Hofward, a Saxon freeman, held Boyton in Walsham Hundred, Norfolk, temp. Domesday, and a name somewhat similar occurs in the Annales Cambriae under the year 956, where mention is made of the drowning of Haardus filius Meuruc (Monumenta Hist., p. 837). Henry Howard refers to several Saxon monetaries of Norwich of the name of Howard.

HOWARD FAMILY.

THE Peerages under the title "Earl of Effingham" enumerate seven sons of Sir Francis Howard of Great Bookham, Knt. (grandson of Wm. Howard first Lord Effingham), of whom no further account is given than of the eldest, Sir Charles Howard, Knt. No will is recorded of Sir Francis who died July 7, 1651, but administration was granted in 1654 by the Prerogative Court of Canterbury. By deed enrolled in Chancery (at the Record Office, "Indentures" 17 Car. I. 21 pars, No. 20) he gives a small property called Gassons in Great Bookham to his second son William, and his younger sons successively in remainder, viz., Henry, Thomas, Edward, Lodowick, and John. The will of the second son William Howard of Great Bookham co. Surrey, gent., is at Somerset House (Lloyd 96). It is dated 14 Nov. 1685 and was proved 26 July 1686. After remarking "and for that small estate which it hath pleased God to bless me with," he proceeds to devise to his son Wm. Howard* in fee his house called Gassons and 25 acres in Great Bookham, all in his own occupation; also a tenement and three acres in Little Bookham—mentions that his said son was then childless, and his mother and testator's wife Mary—and then that his younger brothers and their heirs male were in default to have the said property "according as it was my deare father's intention and desire expressed when he settled it on me by deed enrolled in Chancery dated 7 Feb. 1641." He then mentions Henry Howard his eldest son, "my brother Thomas Howard, my brother Lodowick Howard, my nieces Mary and Frances, daughters of my brother Thomas Howard, Wm. Howard their brother and my godson, and my nephew George Howard's children;" bequeaths his goods and chattels in Great Bookham or in Staunton-upon-Harrow, co. Hereford, and appoints his son Wm. sole exor. The third son Henry Howard apparently lived at Leatherhead, for in 1681 administration was granted to Deborah his widow of the effects of Henry Howard of Leatherhead. (The Reg. of Leatherhead is wanting for this date.) The fourth son Thomas is mentioned in the foregoing will, and in the Hearth Tax for 1675 the name of "Thomas Howard of Leatherhead, gent."† occurs. The fifth son Edward is doubtless the Edward Howard of Great Bookham, who married Frances Walpole who was bapt. 1628 ('Genealogist,' Vol. I., p. 12).‡ The will of the sixth son was proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury (Ash 84) as of Lodowick Howard of Bookham

* William, son of Mr. Wm. Howard, was born 19th, bapt. 20 April 1672 (Great Bookham Reg.).

† Frances, d. of Mr. Tho. Howard, was bapt. 14 Oct. 1653; Wm. Son of Tho. Howard gent., born 16 June 1657; Wm. Son of Mr. Tho. Howard of Leatherhead, born 30 March 1664 (Great Bookham Reg.).

‡ Edward Howard Esq. is Deforciant in a Fine of lands in Wimbledon co. Surrey, Hilary Term 32 and 33 Car. II., and Hilary Term 33 and 34 Car. II.

co. Surrey, gent., dated 4 Dec. 1703 and proved 11 April 1704. He therein gives to his friend Edward Grove of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, distiller, £20 in trust for his niece Frances Howard, also £20 more to her—to the said Grove his silver-hilted sword—all his residue to his wife Catharine Howard. Signed Lod. Howard. Witnesses,—John Lane, Benjamin Osborne, attorney in Drury Lane, Geo. Harris, cl. Of the seventh son, John Howard, nothing can be found.*

At Somerset House (Barrett 59) is the will of Catharine Howard of St. Giles, Middlesex, widow. Therein she recites “Whereas Thomas Audley esq. late of Woodham Ferrers co. Essex was seised for life of the manor of W. F. and also Woodham Hall and other lands and tenements, and in default of heirs of his body the said lands came to me as his sister and heir at law,” and devises out of the same, an annuity of £40 to Roger Stutevill of Brinckley and Abigail his wife, and the said lands to Thomas son of the said Roger, then to Thomas his son, remainder over to John Walpole Esq., to whom £10; to my uncle and aunt Stutevill £10; to my nephew Wm. Howard Esq. and my niece Mrs. Frances Howard £10; my cosin Mary Audley, my cosin Mr. Francis Canning and his wife; to the Lady Lashford, Mrs. Catharine Pound, Mr. James Mather and Edward Burdett Esq. 20s. each; Mr. Grove and wife 10s. each; the said John Walpole sole exor. Dated 24 July 1705, proved 10 Feb. 1707.

The testatrix is no doubt the widow of Lodowick Howard; but it does not clearly appear what was her parentage. In Morant's ‘Essex,’ ii. 30 and i. 138, is an account of the family of Audley, which says that Sir Henry Audley married twice (his second marriage being in June 1628). By his first wife he had issue Thomas his son and heir who died 1697 s.p. and intestate, whereon his estates descended to his two sisters and coheirs Mary and Catharine. The latter married Henry Barker of Monkwick, by whom she had a son and heir Henry Barker. If the testatrix were this Catharine, her first husband and her son must have been dead at the date of her will, and she remarried Lodowick Howard.

There is another member of this family of whom the Peerages simply mention his name, and that is Sir Charles Howard Knt. third son of Sir Wm. Howard of Lingfield. Sir Wm. died 1 Sep. 1600, at Croydon; no will of his is met with at Somerset House, but the will of his eldest son Sir Edward Howard is registered there (he died 1620 æt. 40 s.p.) Bunce 110. It is dated 5 August 1620, 18 Jac. I., and he is described as Sir Edward Howard of

* In the Patent Rolls at the Record Office 12 Car. II. 35 pars No. 9, is a grant to John Haward gent. of the office “of one of our Fawconers in the service of hawking” for life. The family of Howard often wrote their name Haward, and this John might possibly be the seventh son of the testator. John Howard, son of Sir Francis Howard Knt. and the Lady Jane, was bapt. at Great Bookham July 2, 1636 (Reg.).

Westminster in the county of Middx. Knt. He therein desires to be buried in the parish church of Reigate "neere to my deare mother." "Imprimis I give and bequeath to my loving brother Sir Charles Howard Knt. the manor of Bagshott with, etc. To my servant Anthony Stert during life the parsonage Barne of Lingfield, with the land belonging, worth by estimation £20 yearly, or an annuity of £20 at the discretion of my loving brother Sir Francis Howard (his heir)." Bequests to servants and the poor of Reigate. Sir Francis Howard exor. Witnesses Ch. Howard, Geo. Plucknett apprentice to John Plucknett scr. Pr. 17 Nov. 1620 by Sir Francis H. mil.

It is strange that Manning and Bray's Hist. of Surrey, under "Bagshot" in Windlesham parish, does not give the name of Howard as owner of any property. But the same authority in their pedigree of Howards Earls of Effingham, give the date of Sir Charles Howard's death as 1652 æt. 57 with no further particulars. He died intestate, for in the P. C. C. 13 July 1653 administration of the effects of Sir Charles Howard late of Marwood co. Surrey, (there is no such parish as Marwood, but probably Merrow near Guildford is meant,) widower, deceased, was granted to his two natural and legitimate daughters, Anne and Elizabeth Howard.

These two children were probably the only ones of age to administer. He might have had other issue. There is at Somerset House (Hyde 5) a will of Mary Howard, relict of Charles Howard esq., and one of the daughters of John Cartwright of Bold Hall co. Notts Esq. deceased, who mentions "Isabella Underwood m sister; Anne Smyth another of my sisters; Edmund Underwood my nephew, and Elizabeth Smith my niece." Richard Wooton was appointed exor. Dated 5 Dec. 1664. Pr. 16 Jan. 1664-5. This Charles Howard might have been a son of Sir Charles Howard. He cannot be identified as a scion of any of the titled families of Howard, and there are reasons for believing another son to have been — Howard, Yeoman of the Tents and Toils to Charles II., James II., King William and Queen Anne, who married a sister of Sir Geo. Waterman Knt. Lord Mayor of London. He had issue four sons, viz., Thomas H. of Guildford, Surgeon, qui ob. 1736-7 æt. 73, who married Letitia daughter of Sir R. Heath Baron of the Exchequer; John H. surgeon, and some time mayor of Guildford, who died 3 Mar. 1755 æt. 79; Wm. H. of Guildford Surgeon, who died 1741; and Charles H., Keeper of Hampton Court Palace, who died 1785 æt. 91, and was buried at Cuckfield co. Sussex.*

The difficulty of easily finding out anything of this Sir Charles Howard is much increased by the fact of there being six other cotemporary Sir Charles Howards, viz. :—

* The writer is in possession of a copious pedigree of his descendants down to a recent period.

Sir Charles Howard, third Baron H. of Effingham, qui ob. 1643.

Sir Charles Howard, 2nd Earl of Berkshire, qui ob. 1679.

Sir Charles Howard, son of Lord Howard de Walden, born 1595.

Sir Charles Howard, son of Lord Wm. Howard of Naworth, qui ob. 1640.

Sir Charles Howard of Redesdale, co. Northumberland.

Sir Charles Howard of Clun, co. Salop.

The affiliation of these last two Sir C. H.'s I cannot however ascertain. A writer in the 'Gentleman's Magazine' for May 1833 (p. 405), gives some additions to the accounts in the Peerages of the titled families of Howard; and of course research would bring down many of the descendants of junior branches.* But the name presents great difficulties to the genealogical investigator. It is so variously spelt; and the names of Hayward, Heywood, Haward, Haworth, Harward, and Harwood, are frequently confounded with it. There is a pedigree of Haward or Harward of Merrow co. Surrey in the Visitation of Surrey 1623 of six descents. At Somerset House is the Will (Exton 150) of Valentine Heyward of St. Giles Midx. d. 1685, pr. 1688, where the testator signs "Val. Howard." There was a family of Hayward of Westerham and Tattesfield, two or three of whom bore the Christian name of Valentine. This family might be the same as Haward of the Grange in Gillingham co. Kent, whose name is spelt in the parish register Haward, Hayward, Hawood, and Heywood.

It has been stated that the ancient family of Howarth of Howarth in Lancashire is of the same stock as the illustrious family of Howard. But the true origin of this latter (subject to so much speculation) is given in Burke's Extinct Peerage, ed. 1866. It is there shewn from charters that the name was early spelt Herward as well as Haward, and the orthography Howard was unknown till temp. Edw. II., and that the pedigree of the family may be carried back to Herward the Saxon chieftain, though it is remarkable that Houard is a Norman Domesday name. It is thus singular that two of the greatest families in the Peerage are of

* In 'Le Neve's Knights' (Harl. Soc. Publications) page 40, it is stated that Sir Cecil Howard third son of Lord Howard of Escrick, was knighted at Breda 1651. In the Register of Richmond, Surrey, are recorded about 1662 the birth of a child of Sir Cecil and Lady Frances Howard, and subsequently four more of their children, viz., William, Francis, Edward, and Frances. These must all have died young, as in the Extinct Peerage it is stated that Sir Cecil Howard son of Thomas, Lord Howard of Escrick, had an only daughter who died an infant.

In the 'Herald and Genealogist' (v. 482) are given several descents of a family of Howard who bore the coat of Howard without the augmentation, beginning with Stanley Howard of Howard House in the Vale of White Horse, a Roman Catholic temp. Jac. II.

Henry Howard esq. and Joan Stowbridge gent., were mar. Nov. 2, 1563 (Mitcham Reg.). Who was he?

Saxon origin, the other being that of Nevill, who are descended in the male line from Robert Fitz Maldred of Saxon lineage, whose descendants retained his arms (the saltire) but took the surname of their female ancestor Nevill. (Vide Drummond's 'British Families.')

Probably Howard having long been an illustrious name, families bearing a resembling name assimilated the spelling. Hence its remarkable frequency.*

NOTES RELATING TO THE FAMILY OF TYNDALE, OF STINCHCOMBE AND BIBLEY IN GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

By B. W. GREENFIELD, BARR.-AT-LAW.

Of the land thus sold 28 acres are defined and named in the Inq. p. m. 13 Car. p. 1, No. 40, of THOMAS TYNDALE OF MELKSHAM'S COURT, SON OF THIS PURCHASER, as having been so purchased by his father, and that 25 of these acres were held of LORD BERKELEY BY FEALTY AND AN ANNUAL RENT OF 1d., or A PAIR OF GLOVES OF THE PRICE OF 1d., and were worth yearly, beyond deductions, 3s.

In the same Inquisition it is distinctly shewn that this Land and Holding were other than and SEPARATE FROM THE MANOR FARM OF MELKSHAM'S COURT AND ITS 169 ACRES AND APPURTS., WHICH WERE LIKEWISE HELD OF LORD BERKELEY AS OF HIS MANOR OF BERKELEY IN SOCAGE BY FEALTY AND AN ANNUAL RENT OF 1d., OR A PAIR OF GLOVES OF THE PRICE OF 1d., AND SUIT OF COURT, AND WORTH YEARLY BEYOND DEDUCTIONS 20s. (see below.)

Deeds in possession of Thomas Morse, Esq., the present proprietor of Melksham's Court.

In March 26 Eliz. (1583-4) he made an EXCHANGE of small parcels of Land in STINCHCOMBE with EDWARD NELME.

Deed of Settlement on marriage of Thomas son of this Richard Tyndale with Katherine Harris, dated 22 May, 7 James (1609).

Sometime before May 7 James I. (1609) he granted a Lease of HUNT'S COURT FARM TO HIS SECOND SON RICHARD TYNDALE, FOR THE LIFE OF HIS SAID SON.

Abstract of Deed in the possession of Thomas Morse, Esq., of Ashmead in Cam, proprietor of Melksham's Court in 1866, made from the Original Deed by me B. W. Greenfield, February 1866.

By Indenture, dated 22 May 7 James (1609), as "RICHARD TYNDALE of STINCHCOMBE, YEOMAN," in consideration of the marriage of THOMAS his SON AND HEIR, with "KATHERINE HIS NOW WIFE," and in performance of ARTICLES BETWEEN HIM the said RICHARD TYNDALE and JOHN HARRIS LATE OF BERKELEY, YEOMAN, DECEASED (father of the said Katherine), HE the said RICHARD GIVES AND GRANTS TO HIS SAID SON THOMAS a yearly RENT OF £20 OUT of the capital messuage and lands called the FARM OR SCITE OF THE MANOR OF MILSAM alias MILKSAM in STINCHCOMBE WHEREIN HE the said RICHARD NOW DWELLS, and declaring that the said FARM OF MILKSAM IS OF THE CLEAR YEARLY VALUE OF £40.

Abstract of Deed of Settlement after marriage of Thomas Tyndale son and heir of this Richard Tyndale with Katherine Harris, made in 1866 from the Original in the possession of Thomas Morse, Esq., of Ashmead in Cam, at that time Proprietor of Melksham's Court Farm, by me B. W. Greenfield.

By ANOTHER INDENTURE, TRIPARTITE, dated as above, viz. 22 MAY 7 JAMES (1609) between him as "RICHARD TYNDALE OF STINCHCOMBE, YEOMAN, OF THE 1st PART, JOHN HALL OF BARKLEY, MATTHEW SMITH OF BARKLEY, and RICHARD WEBB of WOOTTON-UNDER-EGE, YEOMAN, OF THE 2^d PART, and THOMAS TYNDALE (son and heir of said Richard Tyndale) and KATHERINE HIS WIFE (DAUGHTER AND HEIR OF JOHN HARRIS OF SENIGER IN BARKLEY, YEOMAN, DECEASED) of the 3^d part, he the said RICHARD TYNDALE, being resolved to settle the estate of his messuages, lands, tenements and hereditaments, with their appurts. in STINCHCOMBE CAM AND NIBLEY in consideration of a competent jointure to the said KATHERINE NOW WIFE OF THE SAID THOMAS, and other considerations, covenants with the said John Hall, Matthew Smith, and Richard Webb that he the said RICHARD TYNDALE his heirs and assigns would STAND SEIZED of and in the SITE OF THE MANOR OR FARM OF MILKSHAM ALIAS MILSAM and ALL LANDS, tenements, and heredit. with the appurts. of the said Richard Tyndale in STINCHCOMBE, and of and in ALL THAT MESSAGE OR TENEMENT and all manner of heredit. thereto appertaining called or known by the name of HUNT'S COURT, and all other Lands, Tenements, and heredit. of the said RICHARD TYNDALE in CAMBE (Cam) AND NIBLEY to THE USES THEREIN DECLARED, that is to say, of six closes of meadow and pasture (therein severally named and containing, together, 20 acres) IN STINCHCOMBE which by INDENTURE DATED 10 MAY 33 ELIZ. (1591) he bought of the ASHTONS (see p. 325-6) and which are of the clear yearly value of £18, and also a CLOSE, parcel of the FARM OF MILKSHAM IN STINCHCOMBE of the yearly value of £5, To THE USE of the said THOMAS TYNDALE and KATHERINE HIS WIFE FOR THEIR TWO LIVES and the longest liver of them: remainder to their joint issue: remainder to the said RICHARD TYNDALE in fee. And of all other his messuages, Lands, Tenements and Heredit. that were parcel of the Possession and Inheritance of RICHARD TYNDALE deceased FATHER of him the said Richard party hereto, which he THE SAID FATHER PURCHASED of Thomas Lord Wentworth to him and his heirs, and which TO HIM THE SAID RICHARD DESCENDED IN FEE SIMPLE. And also of one other CAPITAL MESSAGE or Tenement in NIBLEY called HUNT'S COURT, and all other his Lands, Tenements and Heredit. in CAM AND NIBLEY,—EXCEPTING (amongst other things) A LEASE granted by him the said Richard Tyndale to RICHARD TYNDALE HIS SON FOR THE TERM of his said son's LIFE of the tenement called HUNT'S COURT,—TO THE USE OF HIMSELF THE SAID RICHARD TYNDALE party hereto FOR LIFE without Impeachment of Waste: REMAINDER to his SAID SON THOMAS TYNDALE IN TAIL MALE: remainder to said RICHARD TYNDALE PARTY TO THESE PRESENTS in TAIL MALE: remainder to said Richard Tyndale his heirs and assigns.

Executed by "RICHARD TYNDALE."

Original Will in the Registry of the Diocesan Court of Gloucester, vol. xl., and now in the Registry of the District Court of Probate at Gloucester.

HIS LAST WILL—in which he styles himself "RICHARD TYNDALE OF STINCHCOMBE YEOMAN"—is dated 4 April 1616. It was witnessed by William Tratman, Richard Attwood, and "THOMAS TYNDALL" (probably his son and heir), and proved at Gloucester 12 February 1619(-20). He therein gives, "TO MY SONNE THOMAS TYNDALE," most of his household effects including a silver tankard and a walnut-tree standing bedstead, and "my Lease of" (for) "lives and years of a parcell of ground which I hould of Mr. Thorpe, conditionally that my sonne Thomas Tyndale pay unto my wife thirty shillings a yeare soe longe as shee shall live;"—"to MY SONNE ARTHUR TYNDALE the £100 which is in Mr. Hughe Perrie's hands if he shall outlive the time of his apprenticeshippe"—otherwise the said £100 to be divided between the unmarried children; to "MY SONNE SAMUEL TYNDALE ffortye pounds when he shall come to the age of twenty two yeares;"—to "MY SONNE NATHANIELL TYNDALE" £40 on like condition;—to "my sonne MATHEW TYNDALE" £40 on like condition; to "MY DAUGHTER KATHEREN TYNDALE" £100 at 22 years of age or marriage; to "MY DAUGHTER ORIANNA TYNDALE" £100 on like condition;—to "MY WIFE the bed with its appurtenance on which she now lyeth, sixe boshells of wheate and sixe boshells of malte;"—to "MY SISTER IN LAW AGNIS WEBB fortie shillings;"—to "all my children's children" one ewe lamb apiece or 10s. apiece in money;—to the poor of STINCHCOMBE 20s.;—to "MY SONN WILLI'M TYNDALE all the rest of my Goods mooveable and unmoveable" and make him "my whole and sole executor." "Mathew Smithe of Wanswell, and cossen (cousin) WILLI'M TRATMAN OF DURSLEY and THOMAS TYNDALE my son" to be Overseers "and for their paines tenn shillings apeece. My SONNE THOMAS TYNDALE to paye MY WIFE in lue of her thirds of a Lease holden of Mr Thorpe, £8 a quarter, if it be to her likeinge, for and dureing the tearm of her naturall lyffe."

His first wife was WEBB of CROMHALL and mother of his children.

His second wife was MAUD, who survived him and was living at the time of taking the Inquisition on the death of her STEP-SON THOMAS TYNDALE OF MELKSHAM'S COURT in 1637. From that Inquest we learn that this RICHARD TYNDALE HER HUSBAND had assigned to her use—after his death—a LIFE INTEREST in four Closes of meadow in CAM and STINCHCOMBE—containing in the whole 18 acres which were part of the Lands purchased by his FATHER OF LORD WENTWORTH IN 1561; likewise in two other Closes of pasture and meadow in STINCHCOMBE containing together 8 acres, which were part of the Lands that he purchased of the ASHTONS in 1591 (see below). It does not appear that he had any Issue by his second wife.

By his first wife he had seven sons and three daughters who are all—with the exception of the eldest daughter and Richard the second son—mentioned in his last Will.

The children were—

1. THOMAS, his son and heir (see below.)
2. RICHARD TINDALL OF HUNT'S COURT IN NIBLEY, of which—as already shewn—he had a Lease for life from his father.

(Abstract of Tyndale Title Deeds made 1762. See p. 42.)

By Indenture dated 19 October 22 James I. (1624) made between him as RICHARD TYNDALE OF NORTH NIBLEY, YEOMAN, of the one part, and THOMAS TYNDALE OF STINCHCOMBE, CLOTHIER, elder brother of the said Richard, of the other, HE THE SAID RICHARD TYNDALE GRANTED AND SURRENDERED TO HIS SAID ELDER BROTHER the CAPITAL MESSUAGE called HUNT'S COURT and the houses, buildings, lands, meadows, pastures, etc. thereto belonging and THEN IN the TENURE of the said RICHARD TYNDALE and his assigns, and also A COTTAGE with the appurts. in NORTH NIBLEY THEN LATE IN the TENURE of THOMAS BIDDIFORD or his assigns, and also an ACRE OF ARABLE land in a field in Nibley CALLED TETCOMBE then lately purchased by the said THOMAS TYNDALE IN FEE OF JOHN SMYTH GENTLEMAN and MARY HIS WIFE: ALL which premises the said RICHARD HELD FOR HIS LIFE, THE REVERSION THEREOF BEING IN THE SAID THOMAS TYNDALE. To Hold to the said THOMAS TYNDALE HIS HEIRS AND ASSIGNS; with a PROVISO that this SURRENDER BE VOID if the said THOMAS TYNDALE did NOT pay to the said Richard £500 on the feast of the Purification of the Virgin then next (2 February 1624-5).

Upon this Surrender, his ELDER BROTHER THOMAS GRANTED to him a NEW LEASE of "ALL THAT MESSUAGE with the appurtenances CALLED HUNT'S COURT IN NORTH NIBLEY WHEREIN the SAID RICHARD NOW DWELLS with the garden and orchard," two closes and four parcels of arable land containing $39\frac{3}{4}$ acres, four closes of meadow and pasture containing $12\frac{1}{2}$ acres and a parcel of wood of four acres—in all $56\frac{1}{4}$ acres. "TO HOLD TO THE SAID RICHARD AND SARAH HIS WIFE FOR THEIR LIVES WITH REMAINDER after the decease of the said Richard Tindall and Sarah his wife TO RICHARD THEIR SON FOR HIS LIFE for and under the yearly rent of four shillings, AS IN AND BY THE INDENTURE AND COUNTERPART THEREOF WOULD APPEAR IF THE SAME WERE EXTANT: BOTH WHICH HAVE IN THE LATE TROUBLESOME TIMES PERISHED."

[INDENTURE OF CONFIRMATION of the above lease for three Lives, dated 20 Oct. 1658, "BETWEEN THOMAS TINDALL OF STYNCHCOMBE, CLOTHIER, SON AND HEIR OF THOMAS TINDALL LATE OF STYNCHCOMBE, DECEASED, OF THE ONE PART, AND RICHARD TINDALL THE OLDER, OF NORTH NIBLEY, YEOMAN, SARAH HIS WIFE AND RICHARD TINDALL THE YOUNGER, THEIR SON, OF THE OTHER:" taken from the ORIGINAL DEED, in 1842, and then in the POSSESSION OF THOMAS TYNDALE ESQ., OF BIRMINGHAM, DIRECT DESCENDANT AND MALE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE AFORESAID THOMAS TYNDALE. Further confirmation of this lease to Richard Tyndale for his life appears (see below) in Inq. p.m. 13 Car., p. 1, No. 40, on the death of his ELDER BROTHER THOMAS TYNDALE OF MELKSHAM'S COURT FARM in Stinchcombe, wherein it is particularly recited with the several kinds and quantity of land so leased. That account nearly corresponds with the one above.]

He was baptized at Stinchcombe 3 Oct. 1585. His Will, dated 12 December 1660, was proved at Gloucester 2 September 1663. He therein signs himself "RICHARD TINDALL," and appoints his son Richard sole executor, and his "COUSINS, THOMAS GRAILE OF HUNTINGFORD AND THOMAS TINDALL OF STINCHCOMBE," overseers of his Will. [N.B. The latter was his nephew, of Melksham's Court, in Stinchcombe.]

HE MARRIED SARAH GRAILE OF WOTTON-UNDER-EDGE, who survived him. She was AUNT OF MR. THOMAS GRAILE who bought the manor of Huntingford in Wotton-under-Edge of John Dutton Esq. of Sherborne in 1639. Their GREAT-GRAND-SON, the REV^d JOHN TYNDALE, Rector of Charfield co. Gloucester, PURCHASED from the senior branch of the family, in JANUARY 1736, the estate of HUNT'S COURT in fee. His grand-daughter and heir, MARY TYNDALE (sole SURVIVING CHILD AND HEIR OF HIS ELDEST SON, THE REV^d WILLIAM TYNDALE, RECTOR OF CHARFIELD, who died in February 1763) sold it—about 1784—to Matthew Howell. In 1800 it passed to Thomas Robinson, father of the present, or late, owner.

"Entries of Sales of Wards" 4 to 21 Charles, vol. xiii., p. 80^b, Anno 13 Car.

3. WILLIAM TYNDALE OF SOUTHEND IN STINCHCOMBE CLOTHIER: was baptized at Stinchcombe 8 March 1588-9, and buried there 25 February 1663-4. He was his father's Residuary Legatee, and sole ex'or of his will. On 25 May 13 Car. I. (1637) the wardship of his nephew "THOMAS TYNDALL SON AND HEIR OF THOMAS TYNDALL, GENTLEMAN, DECEASED" WAS GRANTED TO HIM BY THE COURT OF WARDS for the fine of £80: his bondsmen being Richard Cole of Painswick, clothier, Nathaniel Cambridge of Woodchester, clothier (both of them his brothers-in law), and Samuel Tyndall of Stinchcombe, clothier (his brother): his said nephew and ward being then about 15 years of age. He married at Cam, 20 July 1618, URSULA MERRY, and by her was ANCESTOR OF WILLIAM TYNDALE ESQ. OF BOBBING COURT, KENT, who died in 1747; the REV^d WILLIAM TYNDALE, RECTOR OF COTES AND VICAR OF ST. MARY DE LODE IN THE CITY OF GLOUCESTER, who died in 1762; THOMAS TYNDALE ESQ. OF NORTH CERNEY, who died in 1783; LIEUTENANT-COLONEL WILLIAM TYNDALE OF THE 1ST LIFE GUARDS and FORMERLY OF THE KING'S DRAGOON GUARDS, SHERIFF OF GLOUCESTERSHIRE IN 1797, who sold the Estate at North Cerney to Earl Bathurst, and died in 1830; and of HIS SONS, MAJOR CHARLES WILLIAM TYNDALE LATE OF 51ST REG., in which Regiment he was present in the engagements of Salamanca, Vittoria, Pyrennees, Nivelle, Orthes and Waterloo,—in which last he was wounded. For these he received the War Medal with five clasps. Afterwards he was for some years Brigade Major at Corfu, and Military Secretary to General Sir Alexander Woodford, G.C.B. at Gibraltar. He died in 1854 s.p. Also his BROTHER THOMAS WILLIAM TYNDALE, BARR. AT LAW, who died in 1844, s.p.

4. ARTHUR TYNDALE of LONDON, MERCHANT ADVENTURER. Baptized at Stinchcombe 16 October 1591; died unmarried. Will dated at Delft in Holland 26 June 1624, proved in London by Hugh Perry, sole ex'or, 25 November 1625 [129 Clarke.]

5. SAMUEL TYNDALL of STINCHCOMBE, CLOTHIER, and last of Seagry, near Chippenham, Wilts. Baptized at Stinchcombe 28 November 1593. Adm'on of his Effects granted to ALICE (Man) HIS WIDOW in the Court of the Archdeaconry of Wilts 6 May 1665. ob. s.p.

6. NATHANIEL TYNDALL of LONDON, MERCER, AND MERCHANT ADVENTURER. Baptized at Stinchcombe 19 October 1600. Dated his Will—while living at Delft in Holland—19 August 1630, which was proved in London by Hugh Perry, sole executor 10 December 1631. [131 St John] Ob. unnm.

7. MATTHEW TYNDALE, CITIZEN AND DRAPER OF LONDON. Baptized at Stinchcombe 12 April 1603. Will dated 25 November 1676 and proved in London by his NEPHEW WALTER TYNDALE, whom he appointed his Residuary Legatee and Ex'or, 2 December following. [157 Bence.] He was buried in St. Giles's Cripplegate-Without 30 November 1676, unmarried. His name is erroneously entered in the Burials Register—(a copy of the original)—as “Kendall.”

ANNE TYNDALE : baptized at Stinchcombe 18 March 1582-3 ; married there 29 April 1601 to JOHN HICKS OF STINCHCOMBE, YEOMAN, and had issue.

CATHERINE TYNDALE : baptized at Stinchcombe 22 February 1597-8 ; married at Cam 15th October 1621, RICHARD COLE OF PAINSWICK, CLOTHIER, and had issue. Survived her husband, and in her widowhood lived at Stroud. Her will, dated 1 July 1674, was proved at Gloucester by her daughter Sarah 20 September 1679.

ORIANNA TYNDALE : baptized at Stinchcombe 2 March 1605-6. PROBABLY SO NAMED AFTER THE WIFE OF THOMAS TYNDALE OF EASTWOOD PARK in Thornbury, who was ORIANNA LE BON, sister and coheir of Claud Le Bon of Fourneaux near Elbeuf in Normandy. Married at Stinchcombe 20 October 1625, NATHANIEL CAMBRIDGE of WOODCHESTER, CLOTHIER, and had issue. He died in September 1667. She died in September 1659.

9TH GROUP.

The eldest son,

THOMAS TYNDALE of MELKSHAM'S COURT, to which he succeeded on his father's death. He is styled “CLOTHIER” in the Deed of Surrender of Lease of Hunt's Court, by his brother Richard, dated 19 October 1624 ; likewise in the Confirmation of Lease, dated 20 October 1658 (see above) ; and by himself in his last Will. On his marriage with KATHERINE DAUGHTER AND HEIR of JOHN HARRIS of SANIGER in BERKELEY, YEOMAN,—his father in May 1609 (see above) settled on him in tail male MELKSHAM'S COURT after his (the father) death, and HUNT'S COURT, subject to a LEASE granted by him (the said father) to his SECOND SON RICHARD FOR LIFE.

In MICHAELMAS TERM 22 JAMES I. (1624) he LEVIED A FINE OF HIS FREEHOLD ESTATES to Samuel Trotman and John Trotman for the PURPOSE OF DOCKING ENTAILS. (Morse Title Deeds.)

About the same time he granted a LEASE (see above) of HUNT'S COURT to his BROTHER RICHARD for THREE SEVERAL LIVES, viz^t for those of the said Richard, SARAH HIS WIFE and RICHARD THEIR SON, at an annual rent of 4s. : WHICH LEASE HIS SON THOMAS CONFIRMED 20 October 1658, in consequence of the loss of the Original “IN THE LATE TROUBLESOME TIMES.”

On 17 November 1631 he was fined £17 10s. by way of pecuniary composition for NOT taking the Order of Knighthood at the King's Coronation in February 1626 (BOOK OF COMPOSITIONS

FOR NOT TAKING THE ORDER OF KNIGHTHOOD, IN THE OFFICE OF THE AUDITOR OF THE EXCHEQUER—RECEIPT SIDE—in P.R.O.)

He was baptized at Stinchcombe 19 June 1582. He died 31 December 1636, and was buried at Stinchcombe 2 January 1636-7. In the Register of his Burial he is styled "FARMER." By Katherine his wife, who was buried at Stinchcombe 14 October 1631, he had issue ONE SON and SIX DAUGHTERS, viz^t :—

THOMAS TYNDALE: baptized at Stinchcombe 9 June 1622, and buried at Nibley 6 July 1671; HE MARRIED in July 1649 ELIZABETH DAUGHTER OF WILLIAM BOORD OF BATCOMBE, CO. SOM'SET, BY HIS WIFE HESTER BOND OF LUTTON CO. DORSET. (Visitation of Cambridgeshire, A° 1684, in Heralds' Coll., K. 7, f. 18.)

SETTLEMENT BEFORE MARRIAGE dated 6 July 1649 includes the Farm of MILSHAM ALIAS MILKSHAM and other lands IN STINCHCOMBE. The TRUSTEES therein named are WILLIAM BOORD AND WILLIAM TYNDALE. (The latter was either his uncle or cousin.) (Morse Title Deeds original.)

He left surviving FOUR SONS AND THREE DAUGHTERS. By ELIZABETH, only child and heir of his eldest son, THOMAS TYNDALL, the ESTATE OF MELKSHAM'S FARM passed to her grandson, HENRY TYNDALL TOWNSEND of STEANBRIDGE IN STROUD, who sold it 11 October 1768, to THOMAS MORSE Senior, of Dursley, Clothier, ancestor of the present owner. (Morse Title Deeds.)

His second son, Rev. Dr. WILLIAM TYNDALE, LL.D. FELL. OF TRIN. HALL, and MINISTER OF ST. EDWARD'S CHURCH, CAMBRIDGE, died in May 1712 unmarried.

His third son, JOSEPH TYNDALL OF BEWDLEY, CO. WORCESTER, was ancestor of the EXTANT FAMILY OF TYNDALL OF BIRMINGHAM.

His fourth son, ONESIPHORUS TYNDALL OF BRISTOL, was ancestor to the EXTANT FAMILY OF TYNDALL OF THE FORT NEAR BRISTOL.

MARY TYNDALE: baptized at Stinchcombe 29 February 1609-10 (called "AGNES" in the Baptismal Register), married there, 2 November 1636, WILLIAM BURDGE, OR BURGE, OF CIRENCESTER, and had issue.

SARAH TYNDALE: baptized at Stinchcombe 18 September 1614; married there, 4 May 1637, ROBERT THEYER OF BROCKWORTH, and had issue.

HANNAH TYNDALE: married CAPTAIN PEGLER OF ULEY.

OVERBURY (Vol. I. pp. 267, 394).—The following notes of wills, proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, add somewhat to the Overbury Pedigree, and are therefore of interest:—

Walter Overbury, of the parish of St. Martin in the Fields, London. Dated 25 Nov. 1698. My niece Anne Overbury Stratford sole ex'x; her father William Stratford; my niece Mary Hale, Widow; my niece Elizabeth Forster; my godson Charles Lechmere son of Thomas Lechmere of the Temple; my niece Anne Malines, and her brother Samuel Malines; my kinsman Nicholas Lechmere, Barrister of the Middle Temple. Proved by within named ex'x 10 June 1700. (Noel 86).

Nicholas Overbury (from a copy out of the Supreme Court of Delegates). Undated. To be buried at Barton on the Heath; my servant Richard Harris; my wife Katherine. No other persons mentioned, and no ex'or appointed. Adm'on, in which testator is described as late of Barton on the Heath, Esq., to his son Thomas Overbury, 4 July 1706. (Eedes 152.)

Thomas Overbury of Barton on the Heath, co. Warwick, Esq. Dated 14 July 1738. To be buried as my cousin Charles Goodere the elder, Esq. shall direct with great decency but without any funeral pomp in the chancel of the parish church of Barton aforesaid in the corner at the feet or East end of my father Nicholas Overbury's grave next my dear wife, and I direct a black marble stone to be laid over my grave such as is on hers. Real estate to Sir Thomas Wheate of Glympton, co. Oxon. Bart., and William Sheldon of Weston, co. Warwick, Esq., younger brother of Edward Sheldon lately deceased in trust to sell, etc. Mentions Mary Stratford eldest daughter of my cousin Walter Stratford of Farmcot; Mathew Pritchard of Parthier, co. Monmouth; my cousin Overbury Hale; Mary Martyn daughter of Augustin Martyn late of Boreton on the Hill. Residue of real and personal estate to be divided equally between all the sons of my cousin Walter Stratford and all the sons of my cousin Edmond Goodere the elder late of Heythorp in co. Oxford, Esq. deceased. "Item, I give unto the University of Oxford the picture of Sir Thomas Overbury which now hangs over my Drawing room Chimney, to be by them hung up in some publick place with a proper Inscription under it." Mentions Elizabeth Sheldon widow of Edward Sheldon, Esq. Codicil dated 5 May 1739. "Whereas I did shortly intend to have intermarried with Alicia Cox of Brails in the said co. of Warwick, Spinster, and having fully considered the same, as also the hindrance or disadvantage it may hitherto have been attended with in respect to the said Alicia Cox, I do give and bequeath unto the said Alicia Cox (whom I did intend to have made my wife) the sum of five hundred pounds." Proved by Sir Thomas Wheate, Bart., and William Sheldon, Esq., 28 March 1741. (Spurway 73).

To the above should be added these, which though they do not bear directly on the pedigree already given, probably relate to persons of the same family:—

Richard Overbury. Dated 7 June, 1500. To be buried in the church of St. Paul at Malmesbury. Lands in Sharston to John Overbury, jun^r. To Agnes Staffe my dau^r 20^s. To Thomas Staffe £25 in the hands of Sir Walter Hungerford, K^t. To John Overbury, sen^r 40^s, on condition that he does not molest Eva his mother or John Overbury, jun^r his brother. John Overbury jun^r my son. To Isabella Haynes 20^s. Wife Eve ex^x. and residuary legatee. She proved 6 July, 1500. (Moone 6.)

Peter Overbury of Mickleton, co. Glouc^r, husbandman. Dated 23 April 1579. To be buried in the chnrchyard of Mickleton. Sons Richard, Edmund, Barnabe, and Anthony, and daughters Jone, Agnes, and Jeye, £5 apiece at their ages of 21. Will^m Wydowes and Will^m Albrighte overseers. Wife Emmott Overbury, sole ex^x. and residuary legatee. She proved 24 July, 1579. (Bakon 33.)

Richard Overbury going a voyage to the Indies. Dated 1 April, 1645. Wife Dorothy Overbury sole ex^x. Mentions his daughter, but not by name. No other person mentioned. Proved by Relict 13 Jan. 1647.

W.B.A. desires information concerning Lewis Bruce, D.D., Vicar of Raynham, Essex, and Chaplain to His Majesty in Somerset House. He was Heir Male of the Bruces of Earlsall in 1769.

DELAUNE.—The Rev. Michael Delaune, M.A., was promoted to the archdeaconry of Dublin in 1672, and died, while holding that dignity, November 3, 1675. Where may I find any genealogical information regarding him?

B. H. B.

F. C. PIERCE, A.M., Bane, Worcester, co. Mass., U.S.A., desires information relative to the Pierces, Pearces, or Perces; John Perce, emigrated to America about 1630, with his wife, whose name was Elizabeth, and several children, all born in England. Replies to this query should be addressed to Mr. Pierce.

E. A. B. SHEPHERD, 321, 33rd Street, New York City, U.S.A., is preparing an account of the descendants of Edmond Sheppard of Cambridge, Mass., who settled there about 1637, and desires that information as to the genealogies of English families of the name should be forwarded to above address.

NUTTALL.—Where may be seen a copy of The Genealogy and Ensigns Memorial of the Right Hon. Joseph Nuttall, Lord Mayor of the City of Dublin, etc.? Alderman Nuttall was Lord Mayor in 1731-32; and his pedigree was drawn up about that time by Charles Lynegar, whose ancestors, as he states, "were successively Chief Antiquaries of Ireland." Who was this Lynegar? and what office did he hold?

Notices of Books.

BIBLIOTHECA CORNUBIENSIS: A CATALOGUE OF THE WRITINGS, ETC., OF CORNISHMEN, AND OF WORKS RELATING TO THE COUNTY OF CORNWALL. By G. C. BOASE and W. P. COURTNEY. Vol. II. P—Z. London, 1878, Longmans and Co. 8vo.

It will be remembered that in our first volume, p. 254, we gave a list, the only one as yet published, of works cataloging books belonging to individual counties. It is with great pleasure that we now add to it the BIBLIOTHECA CORNUBIENSIS, a far more exhaustive compilation than any of its predecessors. The plan usually followed in such books has been to give a mere list of books relating to the history of a county, or such as have been published within its boundaries. These of course are fully set out in the volume before us. But it extends much beyond such narrow limits. A by no means inconsiderable portion, perhaps the greater part, is what may be termed a Biographical Index, not only to men of Cornish birth, but to anybody, and everybody who has, either by residence in the county, by having a book of which he is the author published in it, by having even set foot upon its soil, or in any other imaginable way, connected himself with it. Thus we find Alexander Pope included because one edition of his essay on "Man" happens to have been printed at Helston, and Edmund Spenser because he happens to mention St. Michael's Mount, and many other persons whose claim to connection with the County rests on an equally slender foundation. For example an obscure person, named Rogers, is introduced because he left eleven letters in MSS. addressed to his father. It is somewhat difficult therefore to determine the canon of admission to a place in this elaborate work, and we are driven to one of two conclusions, either, that the authors have exceeded the plan which it would have been best to have followed, or, that they have not included every literary production and every created mortal having directly or indirectly some connection with the County of Cornwall. The latter course is an obvious impossibility, the former possibly nearer the true state of the case. While, however, the book is open to both these objections, it must be admitted that Messrs. Boase and Courtney have produced a more exhaustive work than any other of its kind hitherto published.

A third and concluding volume is in course of compilation, is already far advanced, and will be continued with as much speed as is consistent with a due regard to accuracy. It will contain an alphabetical arrangement of miscellaneous matter which could not be classified under the names of the authors, a list of local Acts of Parliament and civil war pamphlets relating to the county, a supplement shewing the works of recent date and the particulars which have been brought to light since the commencement of the printing of the previous volumes, and lastly, a complete index to the contents of the entire work. It is well said that "the end crowns the work," and if in the promised volume we find, in addition to the matter it is announced to contain, that the index is full and perfect, Cornishmen will have good reason to boast that more has been done for their county than has been done for any other shire in the kingdom, or, it may be added, is likely to be done, in our time, at all events.

THE HISTORY OF ROTHWELL. By JOHN BATTY. Rothwell: published by the Author. 1877. 8vo.

ROTHWELL is an important parish, near Leeds, in the County of York, containing a population of between nine and ten thousand persons, of which the history has been hitherto unwritten. No apology is therefore required for the carefully written account of it given us by Mr. Batty. It had a name and place in the time of Edward the Confessor, was a market town six hundred years ago, and has been in later times the situation of the Debtors' Gaol connected with the Honor of Pontefract. The aim of the Author of this little work has been to produce a popular history, full of new and original matter, obtained by personal enquiry from people possessing authoritative information, and he has very wisely abstained from repeating that which has already appeared in print.

The first indication of human habitation in Rothwell was the discovery of a small cup of baked clay found at Oulton, and supposed to have been placed in the grave of an early British child. Four Roman camps are known to have existed in the neighbourhood. It is said to have been a place of importance in Saxon times, but its genuine history appears to begin when, after the Conquest, it became part of the possessions of the De Lacies. King John stayed here in 1212, and John of Gaunt is said to have killed the last wild boar frequenting these parts. In 1557 and 1558 it was severely visited by the Plague. The present church dates from the time of Edward III., and appears to have been built upon the foundation of an earlier structure. It contained five chantries. Of the registers, monuments, arms, vicars, structure, and all appertaining to this interesting edifice, Mr. Batty gives a full account, together with a long list of the oldest inhabitants. Life however now appears to be of short duration, owing to Rothwell being a mining village. To reach the age of eighty is at the present time uncommon. After the Church Mr. Batty notices the old Manor House, the Market Cross, the old Gaol and its curious customs and quaint "entrance ditty," commencing,

Welcome, welcome, brother debtor,
To this poor but merry place,
Where no bailiff, "bum," or "setter," Dares to shew his frightful face.

and ending,

For every island is a prison
Strongly guarded by the sea,
Kings and princes for that reason Prisoners are as well as we.

the alms houses, and old houses in the village, the schools, the old trades and especially the Coal trade, old public houses, ancient names of places, and in fact every thing about which the curious traveller can desire information from the prehistoric age with which the work commences, to Wesleyan Methodism and School Boards, with which it ends.

We congratulate the good people of Rothwell on having found such a painstaking chronicler as Mr. Batty, whose book is a step in the right direction, and which we trust is, as the preface leads us to suppose, the forerunner of "a more learned and elaborate work on the district."

A PARTIAL RECORD OF THE DESCENDANTS OF WALTER BRIGGS OF WESTCHESTER, N. Y. To which is added some account of his Ancestry, Collateral Branches, Origin of the Family Name, Ancient Pedigrees, Wills, etc. etc. Compiled by SAM. BRIGGS, Cleveland, Ohio. Printed for private circulation only. 1878. 4to.

THIS is the first genealogical publication relating to the family of Briggs in America, of which it comprises ten generations, commencing with John Briggs of Portsmouth, Rhode Island, who died in 1690; and, is intended to "act as an incentive for a more thorough and general inquiry into the ancestry of the various branches of the now numerous Briggs Family," rather than as a complete genealogy of all its members. It is illustrated with facsimilies of the autographs of many of them. The earliest mention of the name in America appears in the records of Plymouth Colony, wherein one Clement Briggs is said to have arrived in the ship "Fortune" in 1621.

Mr. Briggs, the author of this work, has been prominently identified with the Masonic fraternity of Cleveland since 1868, and is now a partner in the printing establishment of Fairbanks, Briggs, and Co. of that place. He leads us to hope that this is but the forerunner of a more complete account of the family, and desires that those who may be able to correct, or add to, the statements he has made will be kind enough to communicate with him as early as may be convenient. Information relative to persons of the name in this country would aid him much in his researches.

IN our notice of the 'English Province of the Society of Jesus,' p. 334, we stated that no information was given as to where Father Grene's MS., Book F., is now deposited. This was an error which we correct with pleasure; it is preserved in the archives of the English College, Rome. This statement will be found at page 214 of Mr. Foley's work.

THE REV. C. J. ROBINSON, Rector of West Hackney, is preparing a list of the admissions of free and certain other scholars, entered on the books of Merchant Taylors' School, and will be glad to receive genealogical or biographical notes of those who have been entered on its foundation, especially as to the names of Herne, Roper, Percival, and others of its more distinguished scholars.

NOTES RELATING TO THE FAMILY OF TYNDALE, OF STINCHCOMBE AND NIBLEY IN GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

By B. W. GREENFIELD, BARR.-AT-LAW.

LYDIA TYNDALE : baptized at Stinchcombe 17 October 1619 ; married in October 1646 JOHN ROBERTS ALIAS HAYWARD OF SIDINGTON-PETER, NEAR CIRENCESTER : Settlement before marriage being dated 3 October 22 Chas. Will of Thos. Tyndale 1637, in the Prerog. Court of Canterbury, Register "Goave," 124.

His last Will, dated 12 September 1636, in the presence of William Giles, MATTHEW TYNDALE [his brother], Richard Woodward, John Purnell, Thomas Morse, and John Spelman, in which he styles himself "THOMAS TYNDALE OF STINCHCOMBE, CLOTHIER," was proved in the P. C. of Canterbury by all the Ex'ors 12 September 1637. He therein appoints, as Ex'ors and Guardians of his only son, JOHN TROTMAN OF STINCHCOMBE, gentleman, "MY BROTHERS RICHARD AND WILLIAM TYNDALE, AND MY BROTHER-IN-LAW NATHANIEL CAMBRIDGE," and gives to each of them 40s. To his said Ex'ors he likewise commits "MY LANDS" &c. "IN STINCHCOMBE PURCHASED BY MY GRANDFATHER RICHARD TYNDALE OF THOMAS LORD WENTWORTH—EXCEPT THE HOUSE IN WHICH I NOW DWELL, WITH THE GARDEN, ORCHARD &c. THERETO BELONGING—TO HOLD UNTIL MY SON THOMAS COME TO THE AGE OF 23 YEARS. I give to my aunt AGNES WEBB 20 marks yearly during her life." He then states that "MY BROTHERS ARTHUR AND NATHANIEL—both DECEASED—the one left me by Will £100 and the other—£50." He then makes the following bequests, viz^t :—

"To MARY MY ELDEST DAUGHTER, £200.

"To MY DAUGHTER SARAH, £200.

"To MY DAUGHTER HANNAH, when 21, £200.

"To MY DAUGHTER LIDDA (Lydia), when 21, £200.

"To MY DAUGHTER CATHERINE, when 21, £200.

"To MY DAUGHTER ELIZABETH, when 21, £200."

With proviso that if any one of his four younger daughters should die under 21 years of age, then her, or their, legacies to go to the surviving daughters. To the Poor of Stinchcombe £5. THE RESIDUE of all "MY PERSONAL EFFECTS TO ALL MY DAUGHTERS TO be DIVIDED EQUALLY BETWEEN THEM."—[GOARE, 124.]

CONTEST FOR PRECEDENCY BETWEEN THE KERR FAMILIES OF CESSFORD AND FERNIHIRST.

It has already been shewn* that early in the 16th century Kerr of Fernihirst, a cadet, was, during the minority of his chief Andrew of Cessford, the most influential member of the family; that his descendants long struggled to establish themselves as chiefs, in support of which pretension a pedigree of seven generations was fabricated; that, although the first Kerr who attained to the Peerage was a Cessford cadet, the titles conferred on him and his son passed by marriage into a younger branch of Fernihirst, which afterwards became head of that line on the death of Robert Lord Jedburgh in 1692. This dispute, not only generally for leadership, but for the offices of Warden of the Middle March and Provost of Jedburgh, and for the commendatorship of Kelso Abbey, led in its earlier stages to the murders of William Kerr, Commendator of Kelso in 1566, and of Robert Kerr of Ancrum in 1591 by the Cessford Kerrs.

In 1617 there is a remark in a letter that Lord Roxburghe will try to prove his complaint against "his unnatural kinsman," perhaps the Earl of Somerset, which seems to refer to the same feud. At a later period and in more peaceful times, the contest assumed a legal form, and the descendants of Border Chiefs who had fought and killed one another carried on a long struggle in Parliament for the right of precedence, turning upon nice points of Peerage law. We have already seen that the title of Lothian as well as that of Roxburghe was said to have been resigned into the hands of the King and re-granted with extended limitation and the original precedence. The resignation and re-grant in the case of Lothian, if ever contemplated, appear not to have been completed; the heir male, Sir William Kerr of Blackhope, certainly assumed the Earldom after his brother's death, and does not appear to have been challenged for doing so till 1631, when a new creation was made in favour of Sir William Kerr, husband of the Lothian heiress. We have no proof that the heiress or her guardians for her ever claimed it. On the contrary, in 1628, the Dowager Countess signs a submission as to teinds and other rights belonging to the church lands and held by them, "Annabel Countess of Lothian, curatrix to Anna Ker." This Anna being her eldest daughter, who, supposing the resignation and re-grant to have been carried out, was then Countess in her own right.

The second Earl of Lothian held both his title and estates under a destination to heirs male till 1621, when he executed a resignation and obtained a Charter of Novodamus 29 March, ratified by Parliament 4th August, conveying the estates composing the

* 'Herald and Genealogist,' vol. vii., p. 116.

Lordship of Newbotle to himself and the heirs male of his body, his eldest heir female without division, and his brother James, Robert Earl of Roxburghe, Sir Walter of Fawdonside, and their heirs male. It is to be remarked that only one of Lord Lothian's brothers—of whom at least four were then alive—is included in this destination; and farther, that if the daughter and heir female shall be married at the time of the decease of the preceding heir, she is absolutely excluded from the succession; but if she be unmarried, and thereafter marries a gentleman of the surname of Kerr of lawful blood and honourably descended, who shall assume and wear the Arms of the Earldom of Lothian and House of Newbotle, she shall succeed. This is the only charter or patent before the death of this earl on which any claim to his title can be grounded. The date of the Lothian patent was 1606, that of the Earldom of Roxburghe 1616; but while the resignation and re-grant of the latter carried it at once on the death of the first earl to a male successor, son of his lordship's daughter, who took his seat in Parliament, the Earl of Lothian's asserted re-grant was inoperative as regards the title.

The husband of the heiress was however created Earl of Lothian, and naturally took his place there as junior earl. It would almost appear as if there had been some irregularity in this creation; the patent dated 31 October 1631 was not recorded in the great seal Register of Scotland, and the king, in his letter of the same date mentioning the creation, only says that the late earl had intended to convey "his whole estate and honor as far as in him lay" to his heir female. On the 1st March 1634, another charter was granted to Lord Lothian of the Earldom of Lothian and Lordship of Newbotle, with all the honours and dignities of Earldom and Lordship competent according to the former diploma by which he was created Earl of Lothian and Lord Ker of Newbotle; the limitation is to himself and his heirs male, whom failing to his father Robert Earl of Ancrum and his heirs male, whom failing to the lawful and nearest heirs and assignees of the said William Earl of Lothian.

In 1661 a Patent passed the great seal conferring the office of Director of Chancery for life on Sir William Kerr, son of the Earl of Lothian, who is therein styled Lord Kerr of Newbotle, as he had previously been in the Patents and in several Acts of Parliament and other official documents. On this occasion, however, the Earl of Roxburghe protested that the giving of the title of Lord Kerr to the Earl of Lothian should not be prejudicial to his right to that title; but Lord Lothian lodged a counter protest that he and his son had as good a right to that title as could be given them in law, it being contained in the Patent of 1631. The Earl of Roxburghe contended that, as chief of the name and family, the title of Lord Kerr belonged to his eldest son; but to this Lord Lothian replied that the Earl of Roxburghe was not the chief, which was certainly true, as he was paternally a Drummond, and had inherited his title and estates under a special nomination, while Lord Lothian, although not chief, was at least a Kerr. Lord Lothian was, on account of his political principles, out of favour, and perhaps this had something to do with the decision of Parliament against him, to the effect that the Earl of Roxburghe's eldest son should be called Lord Kerr and the Earl of Lothian's eldest son "Lord Newbotle simpliciter without prefixing the surname or tytle of Ker to the tytle of Newbotle." No farther collision between the rival families took place till the meeting of Parliament at Edinburgh 26th June, 1678, when Robert Earl of Lothian protested that the calling of the Earls of Roxburghe, Kellie, Haddington, Galloway, and Seaforth before him do not prejudice him of the precedency before them. A Patent was granted by Charles II. in his favour dated 23rd October following, ordaining that he should take place and precedency, conform to the original Patent of Creation of 1606; but this seems to have been entirely disregarded and not ratified: this Patent refers to the resignation and confirms the re-grant as if they had really been complete.

In 1685, none of the five peers above named being present when Parliament met, Lord Lothian protests against the Earls of Strathmore and Lauderdale being called before him. A decret in favour of Lord Strathmore having been made, a protest was entered in the name of the Earl of Roxburghe, then a minor, and by the Earl of Lauderdale, that what had been done by Parliament in this case might not prejudice them and the other earls created after the patent creating Mark Lord Newbotle Earl of Lothian, and who were called in the rolls before the then Earl of Lothian. On the 15th of May the matter was, with the consent of both parties, remitted "entirely to the King's Majesty to be cognosced and determined as he, in his royal wisdom, shall find just." No decision having been given at the next meeting of Parliament April 1687, the Earl of Lothian again protested, as also in 1690; and on the 14th May of that year a decision was given in his favour and he took his place, and had his name inserted in the Rolls accordingly. None of the peers interested, although personally cited, appeared to oppose, and it may be noticed that the Earls of Roxburghe, Kellie, Haddington, and Galloway were minors. The Patents of 1606 and 1678 are mentioned, but there is no allusion to the resignation and re-grant. In 1693 a protest was made in the name of the Earl of Roxburghe, still a minor. In 1695 another protest was made in his name and by the Earl of Galloway against the calling of the Earl of Lothian in the Rolls of Parliament before them. They followed this up by presenting a petition, when a day was fixed for a hearing of the parties. Then the Earl of Haddington claimed to be heard for his interest, which was agreed to, and an order issued for the production of the patents and other writs on which the respective claims were based. The hearing was again delayed, and the Earl of Kellie added to the number of Lord Lothian's opponents. At last, on the 1st of July, no appearance being made by or for the Earl of Lothian, a decret was pronounced, ranking these four earls above him, and also Lord Lauderdale. Against this the Earl of Argyle, in the name of the Earl of Lothian, immediately lodged a protest. His lordship repeated his protest in 1696, 1698, 1700. He was, by Patent dated 3rd June, 1701, created Marquis of Lothian, etc., with remainder to the heirs male of his body, whom failing to his other heirs of entail. His representation of the families of Fernihirst and Ancrum, as well as of Lothian, is mentioned in the preamble. This gave him the victory for a time over the rival house; but in 1707 the contest was closed for ever by a Patent dated 25th April conferring a Dukedom on the Earl of Roxburghe, and the heirs male of his body, whom failing, to the other heirs of entail of the earldom. The Parliament of Scotland had adjourned for the last time a month previously, so that there is, besides the fact that he is a Kerr by paternal descent, one point of superiority still remaining to the head of the Lothian family, namely, that his Patent of the marquissate has been ratified by the legislature of his native country, while that of the dukedom of Roxburghe has not.

MARGARET, WIDOW OF RICHARD GREY, 3RD EARL OF KENT.*

THIS lady appears to have been a daughter of James Fynche, citizen and sherman of London, and to have been married three times—first to Olyver Curteys, afterwards to Alderman John Dawes, and last to Richard, Earl of Kent, who died in 1523. The subjoined notes from wills, etc., seem to substantiate this theory. The said Margaret in her will 1540 (20 “Alenger,” P.C.C.) makes bequests to her “cosen” Robert Brooke, serj^t at law, to her brother Nicholas Waryng, to John Thomworth, to the High aulter of Graye Thurrok, to the church of St. Anne, Aldersgate, “where my first husband lieth.”

James Fynche, will 1509 (16 “Bennett,” P.C.C.) mentions his daughters, Elizabeth wife unto Philip Carruge, Margarete, and Johane.

Olyver Curteys of London, gent., will 1504 (6 “Holgrave,” P.C.C.), directs to be buried in the church “of the seintes Anne and Agneys wthin Aldriche gate I wille and bequeth unto

* Neither Brooke, Vincent, Mill, Dugdale, or any of our subsequent Peerage authorities, appear to have identified Margaret Countess of Kent, the second wife of Richard Grey, third Earl, and the foundress of the almshouses for widows of poor Clothworkers, now at Islington. Dugdale merely mentions that he left Margaret his wife alive, who died 32 Henry VIII., and was buried under her husband's tombstone in Whitefriars. Richard Grey was sixth Baron Grey de Ruthin, third Earl of Kent of the Grey family, and Knight of the Garter. Burke, in his ‘Extinct Peerage,’ says, “This nobleman attended King Henry VIII. (was with the king, 4 Henry VIII., at the siege of Therouenne. Dugdale's ‘Baronage,’ i. 718.) at the siege of Therouenne; but becoming an inveterate gamester, he wasted the whole of his estate, and died in poverty at the sign of the George, in Lombard Street, within the City of London, anno 1523. He married Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Hussey, Knt., Chief Justice of the King's Bench, and sister of John, Lord Hussey, but having no issue, the honours devolved upon his half-brother, Sir Henry Grey of Wrest, co. Bedford.” He it appears was too poor to assume them, and they remained dormant till his grandson Reginald, “having by frugality much improved his fortune,” again took them in 1571; two years after this he sat as a peer on the trial of the Duke of Norfolk. In this work no mention is made of the Earl's second wife. The observation that he “died in poverty at the sign of the George” is probably not altogether correct. It looks much like a free rendering of the assertions of Brooke and Vincent. Dugdale quoting from Brooke says that he “wasted his estate by gaming.” Vincent (‘Discoverie of Errours,’ p. 288), that he “dyed (when he had greatly wasted his estate) at his house in Lumberdstreete in London.” Hotten says the ‘George’ in Lombard Street was once the town mansion of the Earl Ferrers. At the time the Earl of Kent died there it was an Inn where the nobility used to put up (Hotten's ‘History of Signboards,’ p. 288). It seems doubtful however whether the ‘George’ was the private house of the Earl or an Inn at the time he died there, but in either case it does not appear to be probable that he died in poverty. No doubt he had wasted his estate. His widow was evidently rich, and the fortune which we may assume she acquired by birth as the daughter of a citizen and clothworker, her marriage with Oliver Curteys, gent., under whose will she had lands in Thurrock Grey, and her second marriage with Alderman Dawes, may have supplied a good reason for a spendthrift Earl's marrying the widow of a London Alderman, and adding to her other attractions the dignity of Countess of Kent. With such a second wife it is scarcely probable that he died in poverty.—[ED. GENEALOGIST.]

Margaret my wife my tenement in the parisshe of Thurrock Grey Essex her heires and assignes and ij mesuages w^t lxx Acres of Londe . . . in Thurrock Grey . . . during lyfe naturall and after . . . decesse . . . to Elizabeth Carrugys the doughter of Philip Carrugys Doctour of Phisyk and . . . heires.”

Will 1536 (40 “Hogen,” P.C.C.) Elizabeth de Carywgis W^o of Phil. de Caruges whose will 1533, (11 “Hogen”) mentions her brother Nicholas Waryng, and John Tamworth son of Elizabeth her daughter.*

Will 1545 (35 “Pynnyng,” P.C.C.) Nich. Waryng, Citⁿ and Salter, mentions his son-in-law Robert Broke, gent.

Will 1533 (40 “Hogen,” P.C.C.) Hugh Vaughan, Kn^t, “my manor of Aslam . . . Middlesex which I purchased of one Margaret Dawes then widow, now Countess of Kent.”

Will 1514 (9 “Holder,” P.C.C.) Alderman John Dawis, to be buried in church of St. Mary at Bowe, “where as Katheryn late my wyff lyeth buried”—wife Margaret—son Rauff.

If this is the Margaret Dawes who became Countess of Kent she must have had, as suggested, a previous husband, for she mentions that her first husband was buried at St. Anne’s, Aldersgate, whereas this John Dawes was buried at St. Mary’s-le-Bow as is shewn by the will of his son Rauf Dawes, 1517. (63 “Holder,” P.C.C.)

In Feet of Fines, Michaelmas 8 Hen. VIII. it is shewn that two parts of the manor of Astelam,† Middlesex, passed from Philip de Caruge, citizen and draper, and Elizabeth his wife (one of the daughters and heirs of James Fynche) and Nich. Waryng, citizen and Salter and Joan his wife, another of the daughters and heirs of the said James Fynche.

Feet of Fines, Easter, 14 Hen. VIII., Margaret Dawes, widow, and others are shewn to have conveyed the said manor of Astelam to Charles, Earl of Worcester, and others.

J. C. C. SMITH.

* Married 1st Tho. Tamworth, gent., whose will 1532 (24 “Thower”) and afterwards — Musgrave.

† I have not found any reference to this manor of Astelam in Lysons’ ‘Middlesex Parishes,’ but Col. Chester has pointed out to me that it is marked on the map to Norden’s Survey between Littleton and Staines, and it is also indicated in the map which Lysons gives in his ‘Environs.’

† In the register proper the wife's name is invariably Mary, but in the additional (after 1726) she is called Margaret. I am inclined to think that Mary was her proper name, from the fact that a daughter Mary was bapt. in 1682, and I do not find one named Margaret.

‡ Samuel T. of this place was the youngest son of Peter T. (son of Moses T., Sheriff of Northants in 1621) of Harringworth, Northants, and Judith his wife, sister to Sir Abr. Cullen, of Sheen, co. TATHWELL FAMILY, p. 354.—In the extracts from the Register of Burford, Salop, is recorded the baptism of Cornewall, son of Mr. Burgh T. and Anne his wife, October 4, 1678. In All Saints' Church, Stamford, is a tablet to the memory of Cornewall Tathwell, M.D., sometime Fellow of St. John's College, Oxon, who practised physic for upwards of twenty-four years. He died February 27, 1773, aged forty-eight. On the shield at the bottom of the monument is—Quarterly 1 and 4, Arg., a fesse engr. betw. 6 ink-pots Sa.; 2 and 3, Arg., 3 fleurs-de-lis Or; Impaling, Or, a lion ramp. regardant Gu., armed Sa.. Crest, an arm coupé, supported in a sling. The Parish Register of All Saints' supplies the following notices of the family:—1759. Cornwall Tathwell, M.D., of All Saints', and Elizabeth Roberts, of St. Michael's, married per license. April 19, 1761. Sophia Tathwell, dau. of Dr. Cornwall and Elizabeth his wife, born December 30, 1760, and baptized January 5, 1761. 1773. Cornewall Tathwell, Doctor of Physick, buried February 29. The daughter and heir married Captain Benjamin Baker, of the South Lincoln Militia. She died January 31, 1803, aged forty-three. Her husband, designated as Benjamin Baker, Esq., of Stamford, second and surviving son and heir of the late Benjamin Baker, of Lyme, Dorsetshire, received the Royal permission to assume the surname and arms of Tathwell, out of respect to his late wife, who was the only child and heiress of Cornewall Tathwell, Esq., M.D., late of Stamford. Mrs. Tathwell, relict of the Doctor, died at Stamford December 19, 1804, aged eighty-one. She, says the 'Gentleman's Magazine' for that year, was the third daughter of the late Governor Roberts. Her death was caused by a poker falling out of the fire on the 16th, which set her dress on fire. She was so severely burnt that she lingered only three days. Captain Baker, her son-in-law, who lived in St. Martin's, Stamford, died in 182 . .

RICHARDSON OF WORCESTER AND WARWICK.—I should be deeply indebted to any of your correspondents or subscribers who would kindly assist me in uniting the two pedigrees given below, which I have every reason to believe are portions of one and the same family. Both are here reduced to their essential features, but I have them in a more extended form in each case. Any hints will be very gratefully received.

W. H. RICHARDSON.

I. ARMS.—Arg. on a chief Sa., 3 lions' heads erased of the field. CREST.—A cubit arm in armour, holding in the ungloved hand a broken sword.

Stephen Richardson of Chawston, in the parish of Salwarpe, co. Worcester, married a daughter of . . . Callowe. His will is dated 1599, and was proved at Worcester 19 January 1599. He had three sons, Stephen, Richard, and Thomas, and two daughters, Margaret and Anne. Of these Stephen married Isabella daughter of Geo. Dypole, or Diple, and had three sons, Stephen, John, and Richard, and three daughters, Mary, Christian, and Jane. His will, also proved at Worcester, is dated November 6, 1611. His son Stephen, born apparently in 1596, was one of the Procurators-General of the Consistory Court of the Lord Bishop of Worcester, and his will, proved at Worcester, is dated 8 October 1664. He had five sons, Robert, Stephen, William, John, and Samuel, and seven daughters, Katherine, Elizabeth, Anne, Dorothy, Jane, Helen, and Anne, all of whom, except the first two sons and the three last daughters, are mentioned in his will.—Coll. Arms, 2 D, 14.

II.—William Richardson, M.A., Christ Church, Oxon, 1645, was presented to the vicarage of Brailes, co. Warwick, in 1651, where he was buried October 11, 1695. His will, proved P.C.C., is dated 12 October 1694, with codicils in the succeeding year. He was the author, according to Wood, of a Protestant Catechism. In his will he mentions three sisters, Mary, Katherine, and Sarah, and his wife Lydya, a daughter of . . . Breedon, to whom he was married at Brailes April 23, 1655, and who was buried there April 5, 1720. Her brother, Zaccheus Breedon, was for some time Rector of Croughton, Northants, and she appears to have brought to her husband considerable property at Aspeley, co. Beds. They had a family of thirteen children, of whom Stephen, the eldest son, was baptized at Brailes, 7 January 1670, matriculated at Oxford December 24, 1691, and was connected with the University Press. His will, dated 1753, was proved in the Chancellor's Court of the University of Oxford, September 20, 1756, and bears a seal of arms precisely similar to that given in Pedigree I. His wife's name has not been ascertained, but he had four sons, Stephen, Zaccheus, John, and William, and four daughters, Deborah, Mary, Miriam, and Elizabeth. His eldest son, Stephen, was a graduate of Oxford, and John seems to have followed his father at the University Press, as did his grandson Thomas. The Christian name of Stephen has been maintained in the family up to the present time.
